Suit Against City

how the carports were constructed without a permit.

Steffes said he didn't think he needed a building permit to construct a carport and had originally planned underground parking, but with increased pressure for a lower density unity it was no longer feasible.

No Danger

When asked if there was any danger of the carport interfering with traffic, Bruce Conradson of the Michigan State Highway Department said his department recommended a single two-way driveway as far south on the property as possible.

"As far as we are concerned, Mr. Steffes has met all the requirements," he said.

Following a charge that both Councilmen Ray Wood and Ralph McRae had bid on the project, City Attorney Don Berlage said neither of the two local contractors were on the council at the time.

After further discussion on why Steffes had not secured a permit, Bruce McArthur asked what Steffes planned to do between the carport and sidewalk.

Professional Landscaper

Steffes, who said he was a professional landscape architect, indicated he would place large trees every 10 feet, in addition to building a burm of rocks and low ground cover plants and bushes.

Linda Morgan asked if other condominiums were being asked to maintain life-long agreements to maintain the grounds and if other condominium developers had variances for their carports.

Eliminate Ice

"We're not here to discuss the other condominiums," Mayor Hansen replied.

After further discussion, Gordon Freedman asked if the present carports could be cut back to eliminate water running onto the sidewalks and in the winter causing ice conditions.

Jim Corbin added that it would be better to cover the back of the carports completely to prevent car lights shining into the street and obstructing the vision of those driving past the condominium. He also asked about a guardrail.

Steffes agreed to constructing a guardrail, but Councilman McRae moved the request be denied.

Other Business

In other business, council:

–Awarded bids for paving, curb and gutters and driveways on Antrim Street between Grant and Street to Tri-City Cement for slightly under $20,500.

–Agreed to pay membership dues for another year to the Michigan Municipal Electric Association.

brought before the board for approval.

After a minor amendment, the policy which will allow an overnight band trip with the board's OK was approved.

The board is to make its decision regarding the band's trip to Marquette after it receives the details from the director, Gary Stutzman. The decision will be made at a breakfast meeting Wednesday.

In other action, the board:

--Voted to ratify the teachers' contract at its breakfast meeting.

–Revised the high school attendance policy at the suggestion of Principal Vane H. Smith and the high school faculty.

–Heard Supt. James A. McKimmy report on the Indian Education program which has received a grant of $4,400. An active parent advisory committee is to name a liaison person to work with the program.

--Heard Robert Bogart explain the special Kindergarten bus program whereby the bus driver will call at the home of all rural Kindergartner and show him the bus.

--Heard Supt. McKimmy announce that school for the teachers would open on Tuesday, Sept. 3, with a luncheon at 11:30 a.m.

Vandals Destroy Graves

Greensky Property Recently Raided

There are ghoulish vandals in Charlevoix County. Some time within the last two weeks they dug into a grave in the cemetery at Greensky Hill Methodist Church.

The church and the cemetery located west of Charlevoix on Old 31 Highway, are among the oldest Indian shrines in Northern Michigan. The church building was erected in 1833 and the cemetery started at that time. It is a designated National Shrine.

Jay Oliver of Charlevoix, a senior member of the congregation, said "During my lifetime I never witnessed a burial in the cemetery. My mother lived to be 100 and I don't think she ever witnessed a burial there."

The grave was opened about three-quarters of the way on an angle. It is not known if bones were taken from the grave, but according to Oliver, "whoever did it certainly worked hard."

This is not the first time the Greensky Hill church grounds have been vandalized. The church bell has been stolen several times. Since its last recovery it has been in protective custody in the Charlevoix County jail awaiting the time that it can be better secured, perhaps with iron bars.

"We don't dare put anything out there to beautify the graves or leave anything valuable in the church," Oliver said. The congregation hopes to build a house nearby so that a permanent resident will be there 24 hours a day to guard the property.

Oliver made a plea to the public, "Let the church and grounds alone. We welcome visitors, but if the vandalism doesn't stop we may have to close."

Services are held at the church every Sunday morning in the summer at 9:30, usually with standing room only.

The grave vandalism was discovered a week ago Saturday night during a dinner for the public hosted by the church.

According to Oliver, there is a new law under which anyone caught, molesting Indian graves may be fined $5,000.

Air Mail Deadline Soon

Deadlines for air mailing letters and parcels to be delivered in Israel in time for the Jewish New Year, September 17, were announced today by Postmaster Rex E. Davis.

Letters must be air mailed no later than September 8, Postmaster Davis said.

Parcels must be air mailed no later than September 6, he added.

Brown Completes Banking Course

Mrs. LoAnne Brown, Charlevoix County State Bank, Charlevoix, Michigan is among 1,652 students-bankers from 42 states, the District of Columbia, and several foreign nations who have just completed the annual two-week residence session of the 30th annual Graduate School of Banking at the University of Wisconsin in Madison Aug. 4-17.

The school, sponsored by the Central States Conference consisting of the banker's associations of 16 midwestern states, requires attendance for two weeks each year for three years for graduation.

A total of 495 seniors received their diplomas at the school's 1974 graduation exercises Friday night, Aug. 16. The Graduate School of Banking is one of the many schools, short courses, and conferences sponsored annually at the University of Wisconsin as educational services for all citizens.

Attendance at the 1974 Graduate School of Banking enabled its students at Wisconsin's University not only to meet a large number of bankers from all over the country, but they also had the opportunity of hearing the school's distinguished lecturers, over 140 experts from all parts of the nation, who are recognized authorities in banking, economics, government, law and industrial and agricultural and financial problems.

Obituary

DON LUEDKE of Charlevoix begins his first day on the job today as a full-time bus driver for Charlevoix Public Schools. Hopefully, Bus number 13 won't bring him bad luck.

Buses Hit The Road

School Starts Today

If Don Luedke's luck continues like it did Thursday, it could be a long school year for the Charlevoix bus driver.

As luck would have it, the new bus driver has been assigned bus number 13 and the unlucky number has already been serving its toll.

Thursday was suppose to be the day Charlevoix bus drivers cranked out their buses from a long summer's rest to greet new kindergarteners.

Each of the drivers were supposed to drive their route and stop at each of the kindergartener's home to acquaint him with the rules and procedures.

For mustachioed Luedke, it was a chance to familiarize himself with his route before taking on his normal load of school children.

Last year, Luedke was a substitute driver and liked it so much, he decided to do it on a full-time basis.

"This is always a big day for the little kids," said the former Coast Guard commander as he roared down Marion Center Road in his yellow school bus.

"This is the time for the little ones to become acquainted with the bus and bus driver."

Luedke continued to grip the thick steering wheel and peer out the window for his first stop.

"I love kids," he said.

In order to become a bus driver, Ludke said he had to go through a grueling training program that covered everything from handling mechanical problems to dealing with people.

Thursday was his trial run.

His first stop was at Michael Dohm's country farmhouse.

He wheeled his big shiny bus to the side of the road and opened the squeeky door.

"Hi, Mitchell, I'm going to be your bus driver this year," Luedke said proudly.

The boy just stood next to his grandmother and remained stone silent.

"Oh, it's okay son," the bus driver said reassuringly.

The boy still stood silent.

His grandmother then said the boy's name was Michael and not Mitchell.

"They must have made a mistake on the list," Luedke said, as his face turned slightly red.

Luedke proceeded to acquaint the small boy with the bus and then started to his next stop.

Everything was going smooth, as he continued to travel down the rural Charlevoix county road.

Luedke made one more stop until he realized he couldn't find one of the houses on his list.

"How did we get turned around Dad?" asked his inquisitive second grade son, Phillip, who decided to ride with his Dad.

"I think we missed some way or another," his Dad replied.

"Some have a number on a box instead of a name."

The bus driver continued to peer out his window and look for the house.

His bus roared up and down the country road to no avail. He couldn't find the house.

"Who was the first Luedke?" asked his boy as they continued looking for the house.

"I don't know," Luedke replied.

The bus continued to rattle down the road.

The patient father of three children began to look a little strained.

"That's for operating the heating system" his father said.

"Just leave it along, okay."

About that time, Luedke

Citizens Start Petitions To Save Railroads From Abandonment

In an effort to impress upon federal and state officials the necessity for continuing rail freight service thoughout Northwestern Lower Michigan, petitions asking for an extension of the Rail Reorganization Act timetable are being circulated in the area.

The petition notes that the nearly 200,000 year-round residents of this region are almost exclusively dependent upon overland transportation for their social and economic well being. It also notes that the energy crisis thretens the stability of transportation systems relying upon gasoline and diesel fuels.

Abandonment of all rail service to Northwestern Lower Michigan has been a threat since last winter, when Congress set up the United States Railway Association to reorganize bankrupt railroads into an "economically viable system" of passenger and freight service eligible for federal subsidies.

Over 2,200 miles of railroad track in lower Michigan was identified as "potentially excess" by the Railway Association. This included all the track in Northwestern Michigan.

Governor Milliken's recent announcement that Michigan will be able to retain some of the 2,200 miles of track previously marked for abandonment is good news. However, there is no guarantee that any of the track in this area will be retained.

Public hearings on the rail abandonment proposition have been held throughout the state during the last few months, and hundreds of business, government, and private persons have testified about the economic and social ill effects such abandonment would have.

Despite the pleas of the public, plans for rail abandonment have progressed according to the fast timetable set up last winter. The Railway Association is scheduled to produce a preliminary reorganization plan in November, and a final plan for congressional approval next March.

Circulators of the petition in the area hope that by securing the names of thousands of persons who object to rail abandonment, and presenting them to proper authorities, time will be gained to develop a local-regional transportation plan fitted to the needs of the area.

The petition was developed by the Northwest Michigan Regional Planning and Development Commission. In Charlevoix County, Bill Mercer, director of the County Planning Commission, and

School Uses Television To Explain Bond Issue

By FRAN MARTIN

Though the Charlevoix school district has distributed brochures to all voters in the Charlevoix school district regarding the proposed new high school, residents of the district continue to have questions regarding the issue.

In an effort to answer these questions a television broadcast over Channel 6 has been planned for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 10.

At that time, a trailer will be set at the base of Mt. McSauba to serve as a studio for the broadcast in which Bill Supernaw of Station WJML will serve as master of ceremonies.

Appearing as resource people will be William Kane, architect of the firm of Manson, Jackson & Kane of Lansing who has designed the school; Dr. George Richards, the firm's educational consultant; Max Novak and Mrs. Thomas Wieland, president and vice president, respectively of the Board of Education; John Lachman and Mrs. R. L. Hooper, co-chairmen of the Citizens Information Committee; Vane H. Smith, high school principal, and Mrs. Connie Ford and Don Carey of the faculty.

STATION WVOY

Edward Buday is in charge of coordinating the program and Robert White of Station WVOY is in charge of the technical production.

The program will come over Channel 6 which can be found on televisions of those with Cable TV. Charlevoix residents are being encouraged to invite persons who are not on the cable into their homes to hear the program.

All residents of the Charlevoix district are urged to call their question in on Sept. 10 to 547-4336 or 547-4331.

One of the questions asked most often has been "Who designed the building?" and "Can we see one similar to the one planned for Charlevoix?"

SEVERAL QUESTIONS

The answer to the first is that the engineering firm of Manson, Jackson and Kane of Lansing, a reputable firm and widely known as the designer of similar buildings, designed the proposed new school. Two representatives of the firm will be on hand the night of the broadcast to answer questions relating to it.

The answer to the second one is "Yes, you can see a building of comparable size and design". The building is the new high school located in the Gerrish-Higgins School District at Roscommon.

The members of the school board, representatives of the administration and faculty and other local residents have seen the building.

After seeing it, recommendation for changes to accommodate the community of Charlevoix have been incorporated into the design for the proposed school here.

VISIT ROSCOMMON

So that other residents of the school district may have an opportunity to see it before casting their votes on Sept. 12, a trip to Roscommon has been planned for Sept. 7.

Anyone wishing to make the trip is asked to be at the high school at 9 a.m. Saturday for the all-day trip. Transportation will be by school bus.

All those making the trip are asked to take a brown bag lunch since restaurant facilities near the school are not easily accessible. Anyone wishing to make the trip is asked to call Mr. Lachman, Mrs. Hooper or Mrs. David Fowler at her Dixon ave. address.

The trip is being planned to acquaint the residents of the school district with what they will be 'buying' for their money.

What will happen to the present Middle School?

The board has initiated a study with other governmental units...namely, the city and the county, to discuss alternative uses of the building.

Utilizing it as a recreation center in the gymnasium, senior citizens center in the cafeteria and shop areas, and the possibility of using part of it for board of education offices if it is retained by the school district are among suggested uses.

If it is not utilized for these purposes, it will likely be sold for private use.

Will Senior Citizen Property Tax Relief Cover this Bond Issue?

If a senior citizen or other qualified taxpayer participated in the property tax relief program in 1973, then they will have all tax increases returned by the State of Michigan. This rebate is limited to $500 by the current law.

It can clearly be said that most qualified senior citizen taxpayers will not have an increase in their property taxes to construct the new high school.

Who can Vote in the Sept. 12 election?

All registered voters who live within the Charlevoix Public School District are eligible to vote.

Why are special polls being set up at the City Hall instead of the usual voting place at the high school?

The main reason is because use of the voting machines will facilitate the counting of ballots. There will be only two questions, both of which can be answered with a simple 'yes' or 'no'.

For those who do not want to use the voting machines, paper ballots will be available so persons may vote in this manner.

Addes to that, school will be in session.

Absent voter's ballot applications will be available at the Superintendent's office on Garfield ave. You may either pick up an application there, write for an application or call 547-6573 and ask to have one sent to you at your home.

Absent voter's ballots will be available until 2 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 7.

Answers to other questions you may have can be found in the brochure distributed throughout the School District.

Chamber of Commerce Needs $8,000

"Keep the Chamber green – send money," is the plea of Vince Olach, executive director of the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce.

The Chamber was over $8,000 short of meeting this year's budget on August 1, and it was just as short on September 1.

Several factors have caused the shortage, Olach says. "We are $5,030 short on gross income from scheduled activities. For example, though we had record crowds at our Venetian Festival, we took in only $1,448. Normally this event brings in over $3,000 gross.

"Our other events have also failed to gross their expected income as they have in past years.

"Coupled with this, our investments are $4,025 short of last year - we have 102 delinquent members to date. Obviously, we cannot continue to operate with this large deficit. If each member would bring in one new member it would reduce the deficit to where we could remain solvent.

"The major portion of our budget is predicted upon income from scheduled activities and when these fail to produce the expected income there is no other source we can go to and make up the deficit."

According to Olach, Charlevoix C. of C. fees are the lowest in Northwestern Michigan and lower than most of the Chambers in the state. Fees are graduated, based on potential volume of business. They range from $60 minimum to $300, which is paid by the Medusa Cement Company. However, most business pay between $60 and $100 annually.

There are 253 potential Chamber members in the area, of which only 143 have paid their dues.

Reward

The City of Charlevoix is offering a $25.00 reward for information leading to the return of the surf board taken from Ferry Beach.

Anyone knowing the whereabouts of this board are requested to notify the Charlevoix Police Department at 547-6543. All information will be kept in strict confidence.

Bloodmobile Comes

Blood Drive Starts Soon

The Red Cross needs your help for its Bloodmobile which is coming to town Wednesday, September 18.

Donors will be needed for over 100 pints of blood, and workers within the Bloodmobile on donation day are also needed. So are persons who can supply transportation for donors to and from the Bloodmobile.

Also, before September 18, help is needed in telephoning and scheduling donors.

Everyone benefits from the donation of blood to the Red Cross. It is made available to all persons who live in the area no matter where they are when they need it.

Drugs and other medical supplies can be manufactured. Blood cannot. It must come from people who are willing to give a bit of themselves to help others.

Call Mrs. Vernon Mathews, Jr., 547-9896, and volunteer to help any way you can.

Sharkey is known to many of us in Northern Michigan; his weekly column in the News-Review keeps us interested and well informed about wild life in our area.

CMU Offering Biology Program

MT. PLEASANT–Pre-registrations are being taken for the Environmental Interpretation course to be given in Bellaire this fall by Central Michigan University's Off Campus Education. The course is scheduled to begin Saturday, Sept. 14 and will continue through the next consecutive Saturdays.

Biology 497 / 597 is designed as a field study course for the practicing general science teacher and is open to science teachers in grades three through 12. It is being taught by Dr. Robert Bailey and earns three semester hours graduate or undergraduate credit.

Prospective students who do not pre-register by contacting CMU's Off Campus Education office at Mt. Pleasant, may register the first day of the class on Sept. 14, at 9 a.m. in the biology room of Bellaire High School.

Class sessions each Saturday will be from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Emphasis will be on developing the students' skills in acquiring field samples and adapting methods to classroom facilities available to them in their regular teaching assignments.

The cost is $32 per credit hour.

Here's How To Get Tax Relief

By PEG OHLE

How senior citizens, 65 years of age and older, may receive homestead property tax relief is described by Joan Blanchard, Director of the County Equalization Department, as follows:

The senior citizens' property tax relief is that amount by which the property taxes, or 17 percent of rent paid for a homestead, exceeds a certain percentage of income computed from the following table:

Household Income	Percent Not Refundable
Not over $3,000	.0
Over $3,000 but not over $4,000	1.0
Over $4,000 but not over $5,000	2.0
Over $5,000 but not over $6,000	3.0
Over $6,000	3.5

Computation of the credit is illustrated by the following example: Household income amounted to $5,400 for 1974. They were billed $350 for property taxes. The credit is computed by multiplying the household income ($5,400) by 3 percent. The credit is the amount that the homestead property taxes exceed, in this case, 3 percent of the income. 3 percent of $5,400 is $162. $350 (taxes) minus $162 equals a credit of $188 on the income tax.

In other words, if a senior citizen has a household income of $5,400, it is presumed by the Property Tax Relief Act 20 of 1973 that they can pay 3 percent of their income for property taxes and the state will pay the balance or the $188 by a credit on their income tax.

A senior citizen who rents a homestead should substitute 17 percent of rent paid for property tax in the foregoing computation.

The homeowner or renter will receive his property tax relief as a credit against his state income tax by filing form Mi-1040CR with his state income tax form MI-1040. Property tax relief credit in excess of the income tax due will be refunded by the Michigan Department of Treasury.

Persons who are not required to file a state income tax form but are eligible for property tax relief should also complete and file form Mi-1040 as soon as possible after learning the amount of their 1974 homestead property taxes and household income.

Only one claimant per household for a tax year is entitled to the credit. A claim must be filed within six months after end of taxable year for which the credit is claimed. A credit will not be allowed with respect to any property taxes which are delinquent.

The property tax relief allowed to any claimant CANNOT exceed $500. No matter how much property taxes increase, the most that can be refunded on your state income tax is a maximum of $500.

More recent legislation has been enacted to provide homestead assistance for summer tax bills to senior citizens (also blind persons, servicemen, veterans, and eligible widows).

There may not be many advantages to becoming 65 years of age, but there are a few tax advantages.

Under the Property Tax Relief Act 20 of 1973, persons 65 years of age and older will receive relief on their 1974 Michigan income tax return filed in 1975 for property taxes actually paid on their homestead.

In the event there is no income tax due, or the property tax credit exceeds the income tax, they still must file a return in order to receive a refund.

More recent legislation provides homestead assistance for summer tax bills to persons 65 and older.

Both of these tax relief bills are explained further in an accompanying article.

Also at 65:

A retiree may collect, each month, the full amount of Social Security money due him. This income is not taxable by either the federal or state governments.

Personal exemption for state income tax increases from $1,500 to $3,000 per person, or $6,000 on a joint return if both persons are over 65.

Personal exemption for federal income tax increases from $750 per person to $1,500 per person, or $3,000 on a joint return if both persons are over 65.

A blind person receives an additional $750 exemption for personal income tax purposes.

Also, a new state law exempts all previously taxable pension income up to $7,500 on a single return and up to $10,000 on a joint return, for state income tax purposes.

Certain types of pensions are not taxable for federal income tax purposes.

A person over 65 who sells or exchanges his residence may exclude all or part of the capital gain, for federal income tax purposes, if he has owned and used the property as his primary residence for at least five years during the eight year period ending on date of sale or exchange. This may be done only once.

If the adjusted sale price is under $20,000, the entire gain may be excluded, and if over $20,000, part of the gain may be excluded.

There is also a method whereby persons over 65 may receive retirement income credit against the federal tax. This is computed on a separate income tax form, Schedule R.

Local Land Surveyors

Feindt's Are First Mother-Son Team

By FRAN MARTIN

History was made here recently when Lawrence R. (Larry) Feindt was informed that he has successfully passed the required state board examination to become a Registered Land Surveyor.

In reaching this goal, he will join his mother, Mrs. J. L. (Mory) Feindt in the operation of the Charlevoix Abstract & Engineering Co. to become the only mother-son team of Registered Land Surveyors in the state and possibly the nation.

Since she became a Registered Land Surveyor in 1942, Mrs. Feindt has held the distinction of being the only one in the state. Thus, it follows that they will be the only such family combination.

As Mrs. Feindt said as she beamed at her son, "It's highly possible that we're the only such combination in the country. Surveying is not an easy job and while there are women in engineering, there are few who go into surveying though I've heard of a few. The mother and son, combination, however, is unique. You can't know how happy I am to have a son with the same interests. It means a great deal to us."

Larry, it seems, hadn't planned it this way.

He'd grown up in the business and while he had a love for the engineering phase of the work, he didn't think he wanted any part of the business.

However, as a student at the University of Michigan School of Engineering, he came to realize that many of the things he had always taken for granted were things other students were going to school to learn and he took a renewed interest in the prospect of joining the business.

After graduating with a B.S. degree in Civil Engineering and taking the first of two examinations necessary to become a Registered Land Surveyor, he returned here to start applying the theory he'd learned as he worked in the field, the office, at the drawing board and the computor.

This summer he went to Lansing to write the two-day examination that, hopefully, would result in being able to write the coveted R.L.S. after his name, the goal of all engineers in this field.

As a registered land surveyor he can perform all types of land surveys. He plans to return to the University of Michigan during the winter session to begin work on his Master's degree.

It was almost with a sigh of relief that Mrs. Feindt heard the news that Larry had successfully completed the R.L.S. examination.

"When you've worked as hard as Lawrence (her husband) and I have to bring the business this far, it's gratifying to know that one of your own will carry on with it she added. It's worth all the tramping through the swamps, wading in the snow and all the hardships we experienced in the beginning. Larry's taking on more and more of the responsibility and this will allow him to assume even more.

"After 20 years I appreciate someone sharing the load with me."

Mrs. Feindt, the former Mary Bastian, was graduated from Albion College in 1937 with an A.B. degree in Math and Physics. The following year she received a B.S. degree in Geodesy and Survey from the University of Michigan and came to Charlevoix to begin her 'apprenticeship' under the guidance of the late Robert Sloan who then owned the Charlevoix Abstract & Engineering Co. which was established in 1916.

In 1972, she married J. Lawrence Feindt and became a Registered Land Surveyor. Two years later she purchased the business and received her Master's degree from the University of Michigan.

Besides being the only woman registered as a land surveyor, Mrs. Feindt also set a precedent when she became president in 1972 of the then 72-year-old-Michigan Land Title Association, a position she held for two years. She also is on the Board of Governors of the national association.

Larry is also a Second Lieutenant in the U.S. Army Reserve, receiving his commission following graduation after participating in the R.O.T.C. program at the University. He is married to the former Faye Whitley. They have a nine-month old daughter, Amy.

THE FEINDT family in Charlevoix are the first ones in the state to have both a mother and son registered as land surveyors.

Charlevoix Gets Elementary Principal

Ralph Raymer

The Charlevoix Elementary School is all set for opening today under the guidance of its new principal, Ralph W. Raymer.

Raymer is enthusiastic about the Charlevoix school system and the opportunities it offers students of the area.

"When you look at state assessments and compare this school system with others in the state, we certainly rank high," the new principal says.

The school building also impresses Raymer, who comments, "The community should really be praised for providing this environment."

There will be approximately 684 students in the Charlevoix Elementary School this year, including 134 kindergarten children.

For the first time, all fifth grade students will be housed in the elementary building, making it a K-5 school rather than the K-4 facility it has been in the past. Fifth graders will number about 125.

Raymer will oversee 24 grade teachers and four special teachers - physical education, learning center, music, and art. Clerical, custodial and other employees will bring the staff up to 37 people.

Raymer came to Charlevoix this summer from Olivet College, where he was Director of Placement and Professional Development and Acting Director of Education. For the past seven years he has been involved in preparing teachers for certification and working with elementary programs in various school systems.

Raymer's classroom experience includes teaching biological sciences and mathematics in Battle Creek.

The holder of bachelor's and master's degrees, Raymer is now finishing course work for a doctorate in elementary education at Michigan State University.

Raymer received his undergraduate degree with majors in both education and fisheries (one of the first in the state to graduate with this combination), and did advanced work in outdoor education.

The above tells much about Raymer the man. "Some form of outdoor activity has been my major motivation," he says, "and I couldn't have picked a better place than Charlevoix to follow those pursuits."

Fishing and golf are Raymer's favorite sports and he has participated in both since coming to Charlevoix. He has high praise for the Charlevoix Golf Course.

Although he is a native of Battle Creek Raymer lived in Ishpeming for three years prior to entering college. He says it is nice to get back to the small town attitude where everybody is friendly.

Raymer does not think the elementary school curriculum needs any changes, but he would like to stress programs that help children who need more concentration. He also wants to encourage all possible parental involvement in the school.

"I haven't been here long enough to know the public's concern about schools," Raymer says, "but I want to listen and learn."

Mr. and Mrs. Raymer reside at 206 Cherry Street. They have a daughter and three grandsons who live in Battle Creek and who are glad their grandparents moved to Charlevoix because "it's such a nice place to visit."

Editorials/Opinions

Schools Need Support From Local Residents

Charlevoix School District voters face a serious question on Sept. 12. They must decide whether or not the district should construct a new high school.

The decision is most difficult and should be weighed very carefully.

In a time of inflationary prices and a devaluating American dollar, it would be very easy to vote against the $6.99 million bond proposal.

It would even be easier to vote against the proposal when you examine the other taxes you must now pay to enjoy the Northern Michigan life.

School millages are practically the only recourse left to the local citizenry to fight higher taxes.

However, there's much more to probe before rushing to city hall on September 12.

Take a minute to look at the situation from the school board's point of view.

They say that the existing high school was constructed to enroll 472 students.

The 1974 enrollment will be 610 students.

The board feels that these overcrowded conditions will result in fewer programs being offered, as well as a lower standard of education unknown to Charlevoix until this time.

By constructing a new facility, the board says it will meet the projected enrollment through the next five years.

In addition to the actual plans, the board says the special facilities such as the auditorium, gymnasium, library, cafeteria have been planned to service a student population of approximately 1200 students.

The special facilities are badly needed.

Many residents have indicated in Courier interviews that the schools should trim their expenses and use existing facilities.

However, in the long run, it appears to us that the district may be paying more to keep up the existing facilities, in particular the middle school, than to build a new facility.

The existing middle school facility, completed in 1927, is requiring constant expensive maintenance to operate it as a classroom facility.

The board says to modify the structure would result in excessive renovation costs and the school would still be inadequate for the present student enrollment upon completion.

Rather than building a new middle school, as some have argued, it seems more logical to us to construct a new high school that will meet the community's projected growth pattern in enrollment.

The present high school would serve as an excellent middle school facility.

While the bond proposal calls for $6,990,000 to construct a new facility, it means only $2.97 per $1,000 SEV.

We feel the school board has been truthful in presenting the facts to the public.

Charlevoix can look forward to some problems if an affirmative action isn't taken.

One does not have to look too far to see what can happen if a school district isn't unified enough to provide adequate facilities for the district. Look at Twin Valley.

Despite all the rising costs and taxes exhibited throughout the area now, we hope residents will weigh their children's position and approve the bond proposal, for a new high school.

And if it comes down to the point where residents feel they can't financially support a new pool and high school, which are on separate ballots, we would urge them to at least approve the proposal for a new high school.

City Council Needs To Appoint Administrator

What has happened to Charlevoix's city manager?

The last one resigned almost a year ago and the council has still not come up with a new one.

We commend acting administrator Robert Wexstaff for stepping up as he did from the city assessor's position and taking over at the helm.

It has been a rough year for him, but he has done all that can be expected to be done in filling a position temporarily.

However, the council must move forward and make a decision.

Either make the present acting city administrator permanent or find a new one.

It isn't fair to either the present position holder or to the taxpayers of this community to be so undecisive. A year is long enough.

City government is big business and the city council has an obligation to its stockholders, the taxpayers, to insure residents that their holdings are properly being managed.

You wouldn't find General Motors Corporation operating a minute without a company president, and neither should we.

Operating the city under temporary management means that only immediate steps can be taken to resolve immediate problems. It does not provide an opportunity for long range planning.

Hayes Resents Coverage

HAYES TOWNSHIP
ZONING BOARD
HAYES TOWNSHIP
CHARLEVOIX COUNTY, MICHIGAN

Regarding Editorial
8-21-74

Dear Editor,

We are enclosing a copy of the Hayes Township Interim Zoning Ordinance enacted August 10, 1973.

Please note that Hodgkiss and Douma Property shows Industrial zoning. The only time said property was even referred to as A-1 was during the short period of time and now defunct Charlevoix County zoning ordinance was in effect.

The second point we feel should be clarified is your paper has stated on several occasions that there is NO BUFFER STRIP BETWEEN H&D AND MICHIGAN SHORES. This is incorrect. There is a fifty foot buffer strip. (Section 4.10-Paragraph B) (New Ordinance)

At a special hearing on May 13, 1974 attended by members of Michigan Shores and representatives, Hayes Township Zoning Board members, and Hayes Township Board members, a recommendation was made to the two concerned parties that they meet and try to resolve their differences. We were hopeful this would be done. At this same time full cooperation by both boards in trying to resolve the situation was pledged.

We also are concerned about the statement from the Health Department who originally approved the Michigan Shores Subdivision for residential use, knowing H & D owned the adjoining property, now citing "potential problems that mining operations could create for well water supplies and septic tanks systems in the subdivisions" (this quote taken from your editorial.) This appears to be a contradiction.

There appears to be a lack of proper information filtering into your newspaper. This board will be very happy to keep you properly informed.

Sincerely,
Hayes Township
Zoning Board

Clockwise

By Bob Clock

I was confident when the Clocks moved to Beaver Island last June that we would have time to do everything we wanted and still be able to enjoy the illusion of having time stand still. After all, isn't the pace of living on the island supposed to be so much slower than it is on the mainland?

That is what we were led to believe, but we soon learned differently. The past eight weeks have sped by so rapidly that it is hard to believe we will be residents of Charlevoix before this column appears in print.

And we have not done one-tenth of the things we had hoped to do.

For example, before we left the mainland I expected to spend every evening around the card table playing pinochle without the indale intrusion of television. This was before we knew that President Nixon was going to resign and that the old order in Washington would be overturned before the summer was over. Thanks to our TV, we have had a front row seat to all of those momentous happenings—even on Beaver Island.

But pinochle has gone by the board. I did get around to buying a pinochle deck after we had been here three weeks and then discovered to my dismay that I had forgotten how to play. I sent away to Chicago for a set of rules, but they didn't arrive for another two weeks and by then everyone had lost interest.

As of Aug. 28 we had not played our first game of pinochle on Beaver Island, which is sort of a disgrace when you consider that Beaver Islanders have a world-wide reputation for wearing out more decks of cards per capita than any other group of people on earth.

We also planned to visit other islands in the Beaver Group this summer—Hog, High and Garden. But we haven't because there simply hasn't been time.

Our days instead have been filled with such necessary activities as meeting the dawn every morning over coffee and small talk at the Castaways Restaurant with Mickey Malloy, Don Cole, Karl Kuebler, Stanley Floyd and other islanders. Sometimes I tear myself away to go down to the dock to wave goodbye to folks returning to Charlevoix on the South Shore. Then it is home to help fix breakfast for the kids.

The breakfast dishes are scarcely done when the Beaver Islander churns past the lighthouse and everyone in town tumbles down to the dock by foot, bike or pick-up truck to see who is aboard. The arrival is followed by a half-hour lull until copies of the Detroit Free Press are put up for sale at LaFreniere's and McDonough's stores, necessitating another trip downtown or uptown.

After the paper is digested it is time for lunch, which followed by a brief "work break" until the Beaver Islander backs away from the pier at 3 p.m. and heads for Charlevoix.

By this time the kids are eager to get down to the beach, so we swim until the South Shore returns at 4:15 p.m. with the day's mail. Tim Timsak unloads the big canvas mail bags even before the boat stops and trucks them up to the post office in his pick-up. Thirty minutes later Postmistress Mary Minor and Lillian Gregg have it all sorted and ready for distribution to the milling crowds.

By 5 p.m. it is time to start thinking about supper, which is followed by bike rides through the hemlock forests or along the harbor road out to the lighthouse to search for seashells. Sometimes we walk down to the yacht dock to talk with the visiting sailors. Other times we hop in the bus and head for Donegal Bay to see the sun set.

It would be a shame to have the sun go down with no one there to watch.

We always head back to St. James through the wilderness by-ways that intersect American Central subdivisions on the north end of the island. We have never failed to see a whitetail or two heading down to Lake Michigan for a drink.

It would be a shame to have whitetails go down to the shore to drink with no one there to watch.

When we return home it is time for the kids to go to bed. Judy and I watch the one-eyed monster in the corner until the 11 o'clock news is over, then we follow them.

We have been lucky that the summer weather has been so perfect. You can count on one hand the number of rainy days we have had—and still have a few fingers left over.

But the summer has not been without its eternal note of sadness. I won't soon forget that afternoon on the dock when I learned that Mickey Malloy had failed to recover from open-heart surgery in Milwaukee. We talked about the up-coming operation many mornings at the Castaways and Mickey was fairly confident that it would be successful—but there was always the unspoken question of whether this would be his last summer on Beaver Island.

On Saturday we'll pack the bus and head for Charlevoix I hope the boat makes it with all the Clocks, their two dogs, their luggage and their many memories of summer on Beaver Island.

Stumping the Woods

...With Ollie O. Stump jr.

Whereas the public relations of todays stenographer encompass only her office, forty years ago she came into contact with most of the local tradesmen while running errands pertinent to business. Working for a plumbing concern, for example, she was occasionally asked to make the rounds of related firms in search of a spool of pipe thread or a lefthanded stillson.

Each listener would direct her search elsewhere for the item, always borrowed a moment before her arrival, thus expanding her circle of acquaintances.

These helpful individuals, often total strangers to one another, formed an unchartered alliance which spanned international boundaries on occasion; as happened in 1943 in Ogdensburg, N.Y.

In this case, the search for a lefthand pipe wrench acquainted a petite lass with a voluble French barber, a sputtering Polish school custodian, a frenzied Italian hair stylist, a genial Irish road foreman, a dour Scotsman on the street department, an unintelligible Norwegian at the sewage plant and last, but far from least, twenty-eight visiting seafarers.

Proceedings as directed by the Sanitation Engineer, she found herself at the municipal dock where a Corps of Engineers tug rocked gently at its moorings. Being unfamiliar with nautical terms, she summoned attention from the foot of the gangway with a lilting "yoo-hoo."

The galvanized response of captain and crew to man the starboard rail in bug-eyed disbelief threatened momentarily to capsize the craft. When the vessel settled back on an even keel she was pipe aboard with wolf whistles attesting to that beauty of which only sailors are true connoisseurs.

Gallantly, the captain who hailed from Beaver Island escorted her to the galley for coffee after dispatching someone to fetch the engineer; a Finnlander from Kewaunee.

Again an apology substituted for the wayward wrench. She thanked the ships company, now swelled by watchstanders who abandoned their sacks when the unaccustomed fragrance of perfume drifted into the focsle. Assisting her ashore was an 'all hands' function consisting of a human chain which handled her as delicately as a Ming vase.

Following directions, she drove six miles through the boondocks to where the Meadcliff Hall, a freighter of Canadian registry, was discharging coal in a cloud of stifling dust which blotted out the horizon.

She stated her business to a grease stained Norwegian engineer and though his explanation was drowned out in the din of the conveyor its apologetic nature could be surmised from his embarrassed expression. His gesture of helpless futility indicated the fruitlessness of her quest.

Emptyhanded, she drove back to the office to report.

"A Mr. Swenson on a Canadian freighter," she explained, "was working on the fantail which is some kind of a machine. I guess. The wrench slipped and fell into the St. Lawrence. He said to bill the company for it.

"Thats too bad," acknowledged her employer ruefully, "but accidents do happen."

"Shall I bill them," she asked, dabbing at the anthracite makeup she had acquired.

"Well, it cost twelve dollars," he reflected aloud. "Better give it a try."

Judging by his chuckle he was not unduly concerned about the loss.

If it Fitz

Does this country really need a leader who makes his own breakfast?

For months we've all been told that Gerald Ford is somewhat of a dummy but not to worry. After Nixon, what this country needs in the White House is a dummy. So say the political pundits.

A political pundit is a "longtime observer of the national scene" whose savvy and experience qualify him to tell the rest of us what makes the Washington Monument sway. They are called pundits because, when you ask them what to do in the face of a national crisis, they advise you to punt.

I always figured the pundits were wrong about Ford. I thought he was being misjudged simply because he used to play football for the University of Michigan. It isn't true that you must be a husky dummy to make that team. Actually, the only intellectual requirement is that you be too dumb to gain admittance to Michigan State University. A lot of good men fall short of MSU's high standards and are forced to detour toward Ann Arbor. This is no disgrace and it is unfair to hint that the source of Gerald Ford's education might automatically disqualify him from holding high office. Even if he was a lineman.

As an MSU graduate myself, I consider it an indication of my more sophisticated education that I bristled when the pundits said Ford's lips move when he reads.

It is not only that I refused to believe my President was a dumbbell. I also refused to accept the theory that the reign of Nixon had made a dumb replacement desirable. No matter what Dan Rather hinted, I didn't think this nation needed the duh-duh fumbling of a Boob McNutt to help it forget the slickness of Richard Nixon.

The flip side of this theory is ridiculous. The pundits are saying Ford's dumbness is a refreshing change from Nixon's smartness. Well, I don't think Nixon was so smart. He bugged himself to death, which seems pretty dumb to me. He misjudged the intelligence of an entire nation and he surrounded himself with crumbumbs who could carry their scruples in their navels. He was the first U.S. President to leave Washington one step ahead of the posse.

I was sure Gerald Ford could never be that dumb.

Notice, I said "was". I just read that Gerald Ford does not require his wife to make his breakfast. Now I'm not so sure about his intelligence.

"But all he needs is a toaster," said Mrs. Ford in explaining why she stays in bed while Our Leader is in the kitchen, trying to find some soft butter.

I'm not looking for a battle with Women's Lib. If the wife is also a wage earner, then her husband should bear a fair share of the domestic tasks, including frying the morning eggs. But if the wife is strictly a homemaker, her duty is to make breakfast, just as it is her husband's duty to pay for it.

That's it. One of the big reasons I got married was so I could quit making my own breakfast. It isn't that I can't operate a toaster. It's that I don't want to. I want to read my newspaper and brood upon the cruel day ahead. The food should be supplied quickly, quietly, and as intravenously as possible without piercing my tender skin.

After a housewife has accomplished this for her husband, she can take her lazy bones back into her lousy bed. But not until. That's the way things should be and it is incredible that our President doesn't know it.

What a dummy.

Meet Charlevoix

Meet Pat Doan

Were you one of the many hundreds of area residents who got a parking ticket this summer? This Editor was. In fact, he was one of the last few persons to get one before meter man Pat Doan quit for the summer.

Pat, a 19-year-old sophomore at Western Michigan, took the job this summer to help pay college expenses. He plans to teach physical education after he graduates.

Here are his answers to some questions asked by this editor after getting nabbed in front of the Courier office only minutes before.

COURIER: How did you ever get into this kind of work?

DOAN: I just applied for the job. It's just a summer job and anyone can get it.

COURIER: Did you need any kind of training?

DOAN: No. No. I got all of my training in the third grade when I learned how to write.

COURIER: Would you recommend any kind of training for those who take this kind of job in the future?

DOAN: Well, about the only thing you need is a good set of legs and a lot of patience because you have to deal with people a lot. That's about it. A good sense of humor, maybe. I'm not saying I have all of that.

COURIER: What do you mean by a good sense of humor? Isn't this serious business?

DOAN: Oh, it's serious business. But you have to laugh at people because the people are always getting mad at you. You always see the bad side of them. No one enjoys getting a ticket.

COURIER: What kind of experiences have you gone through this summer?

DOAN: I know this has happened to some of the other guys who have had the job before and it's happened to me a couple of times this summer. This last week, this is crazy, I couldn't understand this lady. I was standing in front of Neff's, in front of this "no parking" zone and I was giving this car a ticket. I was about half way through the ticket and this lady comes running out of Neff's. She's got her arms full of groceries and she said, "'Officer, Officer, I just went in the store to get some change." But, the funny thing was that she was in a "no parking" zone. There wasn't even a meter there.

COURIER: What did you do?

DOAN: I put the ticket on her windshield. I told her to have a nice day.

COURIER: What did she tell you?

DOAN: She said "xhsjd-jruthfkgogldjdht."

COURIER: What else has happened this summer?

DOAN: I met a lot of people. I'm constantly talking to people and giving them information.

COURIER: What are you talking to them about?

DOAN: Anything you name. I'm talking to them about anything. I was just talking to a guy about the Detroit race riots. I don't know how we got into that. Sometimes I feel like I have a sign that says "information center" on my back.

COURIER: How do people react when they get a ticket from you?

DOAN: Some good, most bad.

COURIER: What do you mean?

DOAN: Well, like I've had a couple of strange ladies who wanted to pay me fifty cents instead of a quarter because they thought I was so nice.

COURIER: How do other people react?

DOAN: Some people get mad and really cuss me out. I had one guy who drove by me in a van. He drove real slow in a van on a side street and swore at me the whole way. I learned a lot of new words this summer.

COURIER: What has this job prepared you for?

DOAN: Well, probably just for dealing with people. Dealing with their bad side. Learning to get along with them.

COURIER: Do you hope to make a career out of this? Parking fines, we mean?

DOAN: No. I'm majoring in physical education at Western and plan to teach and coach some day. This is just a job helping me get through school.

Courier: How many tickets have you issued this summer?

DOAN: I don't know. I probably average about 550 a week.

COURIER: Do you get any kind of incentive for giving tickets?

DOAN: Incentive? You mean like everyone cussing me out. That's not a very good question.

COURIER: No. Do you get any kind of percentage or rake off?

DOAN: No, I get paid by the hour and not by the number of tickets I write.

COURIER: That's funny. People swear you do. What do you say about that?

DOAN: That's just because they're mad because I gave them a ticket. I'm not out to get anybody. I'm just out doing my job.

COURIER: Have you ever gotten a ticket?

DOAN: Yes, I have.

COURIER: How did you react?

DOAN: I paid the ticket just like I think everyone else should.

COURIER: You didn't even curse anyone out?

DOAN: There was nobody to curse out.

COURIER: After this long hot summer of giving tickets, how would you react to someone giving you a ticket?

DOAN: I'm almost afraid to say anything. (Pause) Oh. I'd probably do my civic duty and pay it.

COURIER: Have you nailed anyone important this summer? Like the governor or mayor?

DOAN: Oh, I've gotten the mayor a couple of times. I haven't gotten any governors lately. Nailed? I don't like the way you worded that question.

Letters to the editor

Residents Answer Clock

Dear Editor

Bob Clock's column in the 21 August edition of the Courier eloquently outlines, in understandable language, two great goods resulting from the "Watergate quagmire."

We suggest to Messors Peters and Ward they read the article referred to. The article should enable them to more readily understand the letter submitted by this correspondent, that appeared in your 14 August edition.

Messors Peters and Ward both submitted replies to this letter. The tone and body of their replies firmly confirms our identifying them as "perpetrators of negative thinking." BOTH of the major POLITICAL PARTIES in Charlevoix County urgently need reform in their attitudes, expansion in their membership and the adoption of a program of continuous service to their membership and the County they serve.

All positive rebuilding and renovation must begin at the base of the structure.

Township and City political bodies are the base that the County, State and National political bodies rest on. Reformation and continued progress begins with each individual member of our American society contributing their fair share of effort towards the betterment of that society, each in proportion to their ability and mental capacity.

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY State Bank
BRANCH OFFICE IN ELLSWORTH AND M-66 CHARLEVOIX

Children Raise Money For Sick Youngster

Today's headlines too often tell of sensationalism among kids and two seldom the story of their thoughtfulness and compassion for others.

This is a story of the latter, the story of a group of kids who heard of a child who needed their help and did something about it.

After reading of Boyd Honeysette, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dana Honeysette, who has been hospitalized for the major part of two years with an incurable illness, the youngsters got their heads together and decided on a fund-raising project.

They settled on a baked goods sale, made a good part of their baked goods and solicited others from among their friends to raise a total of $83.56 which they are pictured depositing in the Boyd Honeysette fund at the Charlevoix County State Bank.

The money and other funds donated to the fund will be used to aid the family to underwrite the mounting cost of the child's hospital bill which account is underwritten in part by other agencies.

The youngsters who participated in the project with the assistance of Mrs. William Kane are Penny Kane, Liz Williams, Todd Edger, David Herholsheiner, Danya Rothenberger, Karen Jackson, Francis and Lisa Pischner.

Two Big Programs

Charlevoix 4-H Prepares For Programs

Charlevoix County 4-H Club members are busy getting ready for two big events.

Next Saturday they will exhibit club projects at Whiting Park from ten o'clock in the morning until two o'clock in the afternoon.

There will be displays of food and nutrition projects, clothing projects, handicraft projects, garden projects, and many other tasks performed under 4-H Club guidance.

There will also be a showing of animals raised by 4-H Club members, including goats, sheep, dairy, chickens, ducks, and rabbits.

Two weeks from Saturday, September 21, the annual 4-H Club horse show will take place at Whiting Park. There will be entries in fitting and showing, western pleasure, and herdsmanship, with participants ranging from five to 18 years of age.

According to Cary Edson of the 4-H office, about 60 members will enter the horse show. She says there are some five and six-year old members who have won ribbons at other shows and are really worth seeing in action.

Because Charlevoix County does not have a fair, a sum of money is given to the county 4-H Club by the Board of Commissioners to provide prizes in the various contests. Trophies for winners in the horse show will be paid for with money collected by 4-H leaders.

Roger Manning of Alpena will judge the horse show, and Tusco Heath of Charlevoix and Harvey Crozier of Boyne City will help stage the show.

Mark Smith Publishes Third Book

A native Charlevoixan, Mark Smith, has had his third book, The Death of the Detective, published by Knopf.

Smith, son of Mrs. Nellie Miller of Cambridge, Mass., and the late Marcus Smith, will be remembered as the author of Toyland and The Middleman.

The locale of his most recent novel is Chicago where he was reared and where he lived until after his graduation from the University of Chicago.

Written in the form of a detective novel, the book tells the story of a madman, Helenowski, who escapes from an institution and is loose in Chicago. Convinced that he is Death himself, he is determined to murder all those people who have ruined his life.

Among these are the detective, Arnold Magnuson, the retired and widowed founder of Magnuson Men, a nationally famous organization of detectives; wealthy Frazer Farquarson, whom Magnuson had aided in putting his wife, Hope, away in a mental institution where Helenowski, a patient also, fathers her child; two hoods, Scarponi and Fiore; a punk Tanker, who kills Scarponi and other Chicagoans involved in the cycle of murder and revenge.

However, according to the reviews none of the characters seem real or believable; their reveries and fears read like literary exercises. His large and eccentric melodrama is marked by lavish skill at doing what novelists need to do--write scenes, weave narrative threads, hatch and construct characters, see, smell, feel and describe.

Good sentence piles upon good sentence until the novel sags and cracks. What it sorely needs is a blue pencil and an artistic point of view.

Another critic writes that the story is about the city of Chicago...a city and a civilization gone beserk, drenched in violence...There is a great novel to be written about Chicago, but Smith hasn't written it.

Smith is presently an assistant professor of English at the University of New Hampshire and the father of four daughters.

Sing A Song Of Summer

MARION TOWNSHIP HALL

Records Date Back To 1860's

Township Hall Houses Old Archives

> "All dogs shall be killed which are found not wearing tags issued by the Warden."

The Marion Township Hall is nestled quietly among tall cedar trees at the intersection of Marion Center and Ferry Roads.

There is no way for the passer-by to know that inside that building there is a wealth of local history dating back to the early 1860's when Marion Township was part of Emmet County. (Charlevoix County was formed in 1869.)

An antique cupboard and a safe dated 1888 contain books and records revealing much about the lives of the area residents through the years.

The population of Charlevoix County in 1870 was 1,724 - 941 males and 783 females; by 1874 the population had increased to 2,360 – 1,280 males and 1,080 females.

It was a young population. Only 12 residents in 1874 were over 75 years of age.

In 1886, births far exceeded deaths in Charlevoix County, 253 to 86. That year 41 marriages were performed in the county.

Also, in 1886, a parcel of 215 acres of land in Marion Township was valued at $1,250. Taxes on the land that year amounted to $37.04. The state tax was $1.67, county tax $7.50, township tax $3.12, road and bridge tax $3.12, and school tax $21.63.

In those days, Marion Township was paying persons to shovel snow, cut wood, inspect the school, keep the gate at elections, and attend township board meetings. Town board members received $2.00 a meeting.

The cupboard and safe are filled with warranty deeds, records of mortgages, town treasurer's notes, bonds and oaths of office, annual meeting reports, fire insurance policies, and volumes of Michigan laws enacted through the past 110 years.

A blank postcard dated "190-" reveals that one of today's problems was a problem at the turn of the century. It reads,

"Dear Sir: Understanding that you are the owner of one or more dogs, I take this means of calling you attention to Act No. 222, Public Acts of 1899, and of announcing that Mr. (place for name and address) has been appointed Dog Warden for this township, to where the tax can be paid. Tax is due May 1, and law provides that,

"ALL DOGS SHALL BE KILLED which are found not wearing tags issued by the Warden. All persons who do not intend to pay the tax are requested to kill their dogs on or before (date) thus saving the Warden's Fee to the School Fund. Your respectfully, Township Clerk."

There is a framed "Diploma of Honor for Excellence in Spelling", dated 1918. The champion spellers that year were all girls: Dorothy Black, 12, Marion Center School; Vida Black, 14, Marion Center School; Etta Daughterty, 14, Barnard School; Lottie Ager, 12, Barnard School; June Lewis, 12, Barnard School; and Bertha Smith, Johnson School.

School teachers that year were Mabel Dunlop, Madge Scroggie, and Florence Maddaugh. How may of these students and teachers are still around ?

A plat of the Barnard Cemetery shows the burial places of ancestors of such well known area residents as the Cunninghams, Potters, Meggisons, and Matchetts.

The interior of the Marion Township Hall has been partially remodeled. The old stage has been enclosed to make room for a furnace and storage space and a new ceiling has been added.

However, each month the Township Board meets in the hall to transact its business and residents of the township sit on the old bentwood chairs to listen and voice their opinions.

The hall is also the voting place for residents of Marion Township

Robert Potter, Marion Township supervisor, took time last week to open the building and show its contents. Tracy Curtis is township clerk, and Doris Johnson, township treasurer.

Mrs. Arthur Wexstaff of Charlevoix says that the property on which the hall is located was once owned by her grandparents, John and Lydia Ward. Ward was a surveyor for the Pere Marquette railroad and bought the right-of-way land from the railroad company.

It is Mrs. Wexstaff's understanding that her grandfather leased the property to the township for 99 years, and that the lease expired a few years ago. However, no record of the agreement can be found.

Fire

An estimated $30,000 in damages resulted from a fire Thursday afternoon at the Lexa-Lite Corp. plant on US-31 here.

The Charlevoix Fire Department was called at about 3:05 p.m. after sparks from a trash barrel apparently ignited a shipment of plastics being stored on a loading dock.

Firemen contained the blaze to the dock area. Only minor damage was reported to the roof of the building on the outside of the structure. Fire did not reach the inside of the building, authorities said.

It's Back To School

Teachers Ratify New Contract

The Charlevoix public schools will open Wednesday without the pressures involved in negotiations following the ratification of a two-year contract by the Charlevoix Education Association and the Charlevoix board of education.

Both groups gave their appproval of the contract on Aug. 28 after coming to a tentative agreement on Aug. 24.

The contract, as approved, assures the teachers of a three per cent increase over the 1973-74 salary scale and the payment of the employees contribution of five per cent to the Michigan Public School Employees Retirement System.

In the past this was paid by the employee. However, as the result of new legislation it must now be paid by the employer.

During the 1975-76 school year, the salary of each teacher will be increased in the amount equal to the per cent increase of the Consumer Price Index between March 1974 and March 1975 which is published in late April.

The increase will be limited to a maximum of eight per cent of current steps in the increment in addition to the increment benefit on the salary scale for those teachers in the first ten steps. The maximum increases at the final step in each track will be 10 per cent.

Money-wise, the salary schedule begins at $8,543 for a beginning teacher with a B.A. degree to $10,259 at the fifth step and $12,142 at the tenth step. The teacher with a B.A. degree plus 20 hours will receive $9,018, increase to $10,578 at the fifth step and $13,142 at the 11th or top step. The M.A. schedule begins at $9,212 and goes to $13,952 at the final or 11th step; the M.A. degree plus 15 hours at the third step with a salary of $10,471 and goes to $14,247; the Education Specialist degree starts at $10,471 at the sixth step and peaks at $14,488 and the Ph.D goes from $12,372 on the sixth step to $14,649.

The schedule for compensation for teachers performing other duties is as follows: Athletic director and head football and basketball coaches, 12 per cent of base salary; wrestling coach, nine per cent; assistant football coaches, J.V. basketball coach, junior high basketball coach (two teams) and head track coack, eight per cent; Freshman basketball, cross country, skiing, girls' volleyball, girls' track and field, tennis and girls' basketball, six per cent with an additional three per cent for the latter if she coaches both Varsity and J.V. teams; assistant track coach, 5.5 per cent; assistant athletic director and junior high basketball (one team), five per cent and golf, four per cent.

GAA sponsor will receive $250 per semester; cheerleading sponsor, five per cent; Home economics, yearbook, freshmen and sophomore class sponsors, $250; newspaper sponsor, $200; junior class sponsors, $300; senior class sponsors, $400 and Dramatics and forensics, Music-Marching band and Music-Concert band, $500. The compensation for class sponsors is to be shared by two sponsors.

Driver Education instructors will receive $7.00 per hour, an increase from $6.00 and summer band instructors, $7.50 per hour, for a maximum of 315 hours among them.

Department coordinators will receive a two per cent compensation.

Medical care protection for employees and their immediate families through MEA or Blue Cross-Blue Shield also is included in the contract.

Also included in the contract are additions and changes relating to the Association and teachers rights; teaching load and assignments; personal business days; reductions in personnel; professional compensation; professional grievance procedure and teacher evaluation. The above are partial additions, changes and or ommisions from the former contract.

The school calendar which is included in the contract was approved and appears in a separate story.

After announcing that the teachers had ratified the above contract, Vincent Chew, speaking for the CEA, said that "We are relieved (that the contract is signed) and eager to get started with the business of teaching. It is a two-year contract and this gives us a chance to be free of this concern and let us devote our efforts to teaching and the students".

Supt. James A. McKimmy speaking in behalf of the board, said much the same thing and added "More than a contract was signed."

"We came out of this experience with a good feeling toward each other and a determination to work in harmony together."

NEW COURSE DESCRIPTIONS

ART 111

A studio course designed for the beginner to explore the two-dimensional and three-dimensional arts, learning basic drawing techniques in charcoal, pastels, and oil crayon. Later, emphasis is placed on the development of watercolor painting, printmaking, plaster sculpture and additional units in new and different art media.

BISHOP SEWING 100, Sec. I and Sec. II

Students learn modern techniques for making quality clothing with the objective of the student becoming proficient enough to create an attractive wardrobe for a family. The unit construction method, which reduces to a minimum pinning and hand basting, and developes a maximum proficiency in the use of machines brings time and material cost in line with the busy homemaker's concept of efficiency.

BLUEPRINT READING 100

Students will cover basic principles of drafting and blueprint reading. Problem solving by sketching of working drawings and actual blueprint reading will be emphasized.

BUSINESS ORGANIZATION 290

Emphasis in this course is upon first-line supervisors or managers operating at the point of impact with nonmanagerial subordinates in an organizational setting. Regardless of the nature of the work involved, factors common to all supervisory positions are identified, studied, and discussed. Focus, primarily, is on supervisory management functions, leadership, motivation, and the coordination of people within an organization. The course is intended to serve supervisory personnel of all types and kinds, forepersons, sales managers, store managers, office managers, line and staff managers, and the like.

EMERGENCY CARE 100

This course is structured to provide an introduction to the occupation of Emergency Medical Technician, and follows the outline as prescribed by the American Academy of Orthopedic Surgeons. The course will apply towards the required Duntap Course. Red Cross First Aid Certificates can be earned.

FIRE FIGHTING 100, Sec. I and Sec. II

A course in basic fire fighting procedures and principles. It will include all elements of the Michigan Fire Fighters course for volunteer firemen. The course is the first in a series of courses being created by the Michigan Fire Fighting Council to upgrade the Fire Fighting service and qualify persons for officers positions.

INTERIOR DESIGN 100

A course designed for those interested in increasing their knowledge of interior design applicability and self use. Primarily, the class will center on residential interior design and decoration - both from a viewer and user point of view. Commercial design will progress by the interest of the class.

JEWELRY 121

The art of designing and creating fine quality jewelry using precious metals such as gold, sterling silver, and pewter. The lost wax casting technique will be stressed along with contemporary design.

KNITTING 100 (12 weeks)

The student is taught the basics of knitting, how to knit, purl, decrease, increase, bind off, cable, errors to avoid and pattern reading. Students will develop a proficiency by knitting small items of their own choice.

Artist Visits Detroit Art Fair

Charlevoix artist James Miller has been invited to participate in the Lafayette Park Art Fair, September 7 and 8. The Fair will be held in the Shopping Plaza, Lafayette and Orleans, in downtown Detroit.

The Lafayette Park Art Fair has gained recognition as one of the top quality art events in the State. More than 200 Michigan artists were juried by a panel of art experts, and of these only 85 were invited to show at the Fair.

In addition to Miller's fountains almost every variety of art form will be exhibited. There will be ink and pencil drawings, watercolors, paintings, prints, photography, ceramics, sculptures, glassware, jewelry, fibers, and toys.

Fair festivities will run from 10 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. both days. There will be an art auction at 3 p.m. on Saturday and 2 p.m. on Sunday.

For young art lovers "Your Heritage House" will sponsor painting and drawing activities and a puppet show at 1 p.m. both days. Throughout the Fair a number of artists and craftspeople will demonstrate the processes used in creating their work.

The Fair is sponsored and organized by the Layfayette Park Community Association, a volunteer group of residents of Lafayette Park and Elmwood Park. Chairperson for this year's Fair is Connie Margerum.

Tennis Talk

By CHUCK WRIGHT

The slice is an essential stroke in every player's arsenal of shots. Not only is it the principal defensive shot in tennis but also can be used for attack purposes.

Although the slice is secondary in importance to the forehand and backhand drives, many situations occur which require its use. Its primary use is to return shots hit with a great deal of speed. If an opponent hits a deep hard shot which puts you off balance, you can neutralize the shot with an effective deep slice.

Many shots catch a player off balance for one reason or another. If this happens it is very easy to adjust with a slice. A slice is easier to hit than a drive and therefore, it is wise to use the slice when off balance.

The slice can even be used to charge the net on certain occasions. If a short shot is hit and you want to take the net with your next shot, it is sometimes effective to hit a deep slice to the opponent's backhand. The sliced shot has a tendency to skid and stay very low on the bounce. This makes it very difficult for the opponent to hit a strong passing shot.

Probably the most important use of the slice is simply to very the tempo of the game. As I have mentioned in earlier articles, it is important to change the speed of your shots in order to throw off your opponent's rhythm.

It is just as important to change the spin of the ball to throw off that rhythm. Different spins come off the court differently. Mixing the slice in with your regular drives will prevent your opponent from getting to used to the shots. He will begin to wonder what type of shot is coming next.

The technique in hitting a slice is relatively easy. Using the backhand (Continental) grip, take the racquet backhigher than the flight of the approaching ball. The racquet is higher than the ball because you want to hit down through it.

The footwork is the same as in all the other ground strokes. With a proper back swing and good position, begin your stroke through the ball. Make sure you are hitting down through the ball.

As you make contact with the ball, leave the face of the racquet slightly open. Do not over do the opening of the racquet, however. This will result in popping the ball straight up in the air. With the slightly slanted racquet head, follow all the way through the ball.

A common tendency with the slice is to "sail" the ball. Where top spin makes the ball come down quickly, back spin makes the ball rise. Thus, you have to make sure you hit down on the shot and that you follow through properly.

A slice can even be effective when hitting a lob. This is the only time you should hit up on a slice. It is a trickly shot which often results in the ball landing beyond the baseline. Hit properly, it will hang in the air longer than a normal lob and force your opponent to swing too early.

Mastering the slice is not difficult. Even the intermediate player, once he has a good fundamental forehand and backhand, can learn to hit it in a matter of hours.

Kentucky Fried Clinches Season

Kentucky Fried Chicken became the Charlevoix Women's Slo-Pitch League champions by clinching the second half of the season with a 16-9 victory over Ski & Shore Properties. Kentucky Fried won both halves of the season.

Ski & Shore gave Kentucky Fried a real scare as they jumped out to an 8-0 lead. But Cheryl Pence and Tammy Penney each homered to lead the Kentucky Fried Chicken to a comeback. Pam Parsel was the winning pitcher while Sue Hogan took the loss.

In their second game of the night, Kentucky Fried bombed Hufford's 29-13. Terri Morris slammed two home runs and Cheryl Pence one to lead the attack. Cindy Kitely homered for the losers.

There was no rest for the new league champions as the post-season tournament got underway with all nine teams in the Charlevoix Women's League scheduled to play.

First round action matched County Deputies against Ski & Shore, Paul-Reed against County State Bank, Hufford's against Community Reformed Church and First State Bank against A & W. Kentucky Fried Chicken will play the winner of the Deputies and Ski & Shore game.

The Men's Slo-Pitch league still has two weeks left in its regular season First half champion, Topside, is still the team to beat. Only the Shed and American Mold Engineering have any hope of catching Topside in the second half.

Rayders Plan For New Season

The Charlevoix Rayders, who have been experiencing two practice sessions daily prior to the opening of the school year, will go to regular one-a-day sessions with the opening of school on Wednesday.

The team has seven days of practice remaining before going against Benzie Central on Friday, Sept. 13.

Coach Don Curey was reluctant to name a possible starting line-up adding that most positions are still available to the best candidates and that, at this point, he is not prepared to name his possible starters. In fact, he usually doesn't name his starting line-up until game time.

While Charlevoix has another week's grace before going into action, seven of the eight teams in the Michigan-Huron Shores league will launch their seasons this week. Friday will find Boyne City hosting Traverse City St. Francis, Gaylord entertaining Ogemaw, Rogers City traveling to Onaway, Grayling playing at Harrison and Petoskey taking on Ludington on the Northmen's field.

Two other teams will see action on Saturday afternoon with games scheduled for 3 p.m. St. Ignace, defending league champion, will be playing at Munising and Cheboygan at Manistee.

Citizens Start Rail Petitions

William H. Ohle, member of both Regional and County Planning Commissions, are spearheading distribution of the petition.

"In these days when gas transportation is expensive, and in the future when such transportation to Northwestern Michignn may even become impossible, we may once again have to depend on rail transportation," Ohle says. "That is why Is it important at this time to save and improve the railroads - equipment, rails and roadbeds."

Ohle also points out that the government subsidizes every other form of transportation and he sees no reason why railroads should not be subsidized If necessary to keep them in business.

"Penn Central says it would take $1,250,000 to recondition its roadbed and tracks from Cedar Springs to Mackinaw City, 199.5 miles, Ohle points out. "It would cost that much to build two miles of major highway, with the usual government subsidy."

Students of railroad history know that Congress, by various acts, gave to the State of Michigan in the years 1856 and 1864 certain alternate sections of public land to be devoted to the building of railroads.

It granted 1,160,382 acres of land to the old Grand Rapids and Indiona Railroad Company (now the Penn Central) "to be used in constructing a first class railroad from Ft. Wayne, Indiana to some point on Traverse Bay...333 miles."

The first railroad run through Northwestern Michigan was in 1882, from Traverse City to Petoskey and Mockinac City.

From that time through the enrly 1950's, as many as 14 trains a day brought resorters to the area and furnished inter-city transportation for local residents. Now, all the passenger service has been discontinue and freight service cut to the barest minimum.

However, the freight trains which do run carry much of the heavier freight which comes into the area, such as building materials, fertilizer, and coal. Shipment of such items by road would be much more costly, und some things, like telephone and electric poles, create serious transportation problems by anything but rail.

It is to keep the rail service presently provided, and to work for more service, that the petitions are being circulated.

An effort is being made to put them into the hands of all service organizations, farm hureaus, and business groups.

Anyone wanting one or more petitions for circulation may pick them up at the Planning Commission office in the County Building, at the Courier office, or at the home of William H. Ohle in Horton Bay. Ohle will also personally deliver petitions anywhere in the county.

Persons in these groups may request an advance poyment of $100 if they receive a bill for property taxes during the spring or summer of 1974. The advance payment is $100 no matter what the amount of the tax bill is. Request for the advance must be filed by September 15, 1974. A return must be filed at the end of the 1974 tax year, and the $100 subtracted from the 1974 eligible refund.

If the $100 is more than the 1974 total, repayment must be made to the state. It really consists of borrowing $100 from the state to pay your summer taxes and you must pay it back at the end of the year, or subtroct it from what the state might owe you when you file your 1974 income tax.

The form can be obtained from any of the Department of Treasury District offices, or from the Lansing office.

Bond Issue Goes to T.V.

If your question is not answered in the brochure, you will have an opportunity to ask it during the television broadcast on Chanel 6 between 7:30 and 9 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 9.

If you are not on Cable tv, make arrangements to call a friend who is so you can watch the telecast and have your questions answered.

And on Wednesday, Sept. 11, the Fathers' Walk under the direction of Richard Martin will bring a father direct to your door to discuss the issue and answer any other questions you might have.

The Fathers' Wolk will be held throughout the district during the evening of Sept. 11.

noticed a cluster of mailboxes along the side of the road.

"There must be 18 names," Luedke grumbled under his breath.

He and his son carefully scrutinized each of the boxes and looked for the name.

No luck.

The two Luedkes got back on the bus and continued down the road until they saw another school bus.

"I'm glad I stopped you," he said after flaging down the bus.

"I could have been driving all day."

Luedke learned that another wrong name had been put on the list.

"I thought that was kind of strange," he said.

"Well, we're all squared away now Phil, we know where we are."

The bus driver had finally finished his route and headed back to the garage wondering what number 13 will leave in store for him today.

Club Gives Recognition

The Garden Club of Charlevoix has awarded it's plaque for the north side to Ralph Wades of 308 Burns St.

The well kept lawn is beautifully edged with a wide variety of shrubs including evergreens and those berry producing types that attract birds to the backyard.

There is also an arrangement of white alysnum and dworf marigolds.

Another recent winner was the 'Ovor Menzies of 405 Mercer Blvd.

The Harold Dundquists of 133 Michigan Avenue received honorable mention.

North side judges were Hilda Alexander and Ethelyn Edwards.

CHARLEVOIX YOUNGSTERS recently completing basketball include Dave Tollas, Brian Williams, Bud Klooster, Matt Doan (back row,), Scott Boss and Mike Way.

Boys Attend Training Camp

Six area youngsters recently completed a week of intensified training in basketball fundamentals.

They included Dave Tollas, Brian Williams, Bud Klooster, Matt Doan, Scott Boss and Mike Way.

Guest coaches were Bob Calihan of University of Detroit; Gus Ganakus of M.S.U.; and Jim Wink of Ferris State, Big Rapids.

The setting of the school was in the Sturgeon River Valley in Wolverine, north of Gaylord.

The boys slept in dormitories, and enjoyed home-cooked meals.

The major portion of their time is spent in absorbing the fundamentals, with just an occasional break for canoeing, swimming, and enjoying the outdoors.

Wolverine Camps, Inc. conducts a boys and girls basketball school, a boys and girls gymnastics school, a wrestling school, a baseball school, a power volleyball, a girls riding school, and a cross country school during the summer. Unique Backpacking, canoeing, cycling and sailing trips are also part of the camps summer program.

Wolverine also conducts a vocal music school, an Orff music camp, and caters to marching bands during the summer.

During the rest of the year, they operote as an outdoor education center for fifth and sixth graders. On weekends during the winter, junior and senior high school ski clubs use Wolverine facilities, while skiing some of Northern Michigan's finest ski runs, including Boyne Highlands and Boyne Mountain.

Sundberg Gets Honors

Jim Sundberg of 1306 Bridge St., Charlevoix, has been selected to receive the Advanced Achievement Award in Drum Majoring from the Drum Major Division of the 1974 Northern Michigan University Summer Music Camp, it was announced today.

The Advanced Achievement Award is the camp's highest recognition of drum majoring excellence.

The award is granted on the basis of competative written, oral and performonce examinations in drum major history and theory, and both drum majoring and marching band techniques. Only second and third year campers are eligible to audition for the Advanced Achievement Awards.

Jim will be serving this Fall as drum mojor for the Charlevoix High School marching band.

SEPTEMBER 12, 1974
to meet the present and future classroom needs of our Charlevoix Students.

Charlevoix Public Schools are experiencing growth at this time at a more rapid rate than other school districts throughout the state. The Charlevoix Middle School (Grades 5 through 8) now enrolls 299 more students than the buildings were designed to accommodate. Moving the 5th grade to the K-4 building still leaves 169 students in the Middle & High School more than optimum capacity. By 1980, we anticipate an additional 239 enrollments over that of today.

OVER-CROWDING and OBSOLETE BUILDINGS do not allow quality educational programs for our children - our future.

Inflationary building costs of about 20% per year could cost us an additional $1,400,000 for the same benefits.

Everything's Set

Charlevoix Has Few Calendar Changes

The school calendar for the Charlevoix public school, as approved as part of the master contract and ratified by the Charlevoix board of education and the C.E.A., has only one major change over last year's schedule. The deer hunting vacation of the past two years has been deleted from the new calendar.

The calendar calls for school for teachers to open with a work day on Sept. 3 and school for students to begin the following day.

The remainder of the calendar is as follows: Nov. 6 and 7, Parent-teacher conferences; Nov. 28 and 29, Thanksgiving recess; Dec. 21-Jan. 1, Christmas recess; Feb. 26-27 Parent-teacher conferences; Mar. 22-30, Spring recess; May 26, Memorial Day recess : June 6, Students last day of school and June 9, Teachers last day.

The calendar contains 180 student attendance and 186 teacher work days.

Also included are arrangements for adding additional days should the student attendance days fall below the 175 day level.

Ralph Raymer has assumed the principalship at the Charlevoix Elementary school.

The faculty at the school will include the following: Kindergarten, Mrs. Dorothy McRae and Mrs. Katherine Smith with the half-day teacher to be named; First grade, Mrs. Sandra Cinnamon, Mrs. Carolyn DeMoor, Mrs. Sally Drost, Sue Smith; Second grade: Mary Helvig, Stanley Martin, Mrs. Barbara Berlage, Mrs. Jennifer Wright; Third grade: Joan Baumer, Barbara Christensen, Mrs. Elizabeth Hoffman, Mrs. Barbara Wilson: Fourth grade: Mrs. Mary Ann Chew, Karen Hinds, John Houting, Mrs. Jacqueline Meier; Fifth grade: Mrs. Lulla Brock, Mrs. Sally McNamara, Evelyn Peters, Mrs. Betty Potter, Mrs. Jeanne Seymour; Art, Mercedes Mathers; Music, Mrs. Marina LaBlance; Physical Education, Mrs. Geraldine Goss; Learning Center, Mrs. Patricia Carland.

Bike Outing Coming Soon

Charlevoix's Chamber of Commerce is gearing up for two big fall activities--Lakeside Bicycle Tour and Color Cruise.

The Lakeside Bicycle Tour is set for September 14, with the deadline for registration on Monday, September 9.

Registrants have their choice of either taking the 38-mile or 100-mile bicycle trips.

Single entry fee is $3, while the family rate is $7

Participants will get a riders patch, lunch and a free ride across Lake Charlevoix on the Ironton Ferry.

On Sunday, October 13, the chamber with cooperation of the Beaver Island Boat Company will again host it's annual color cruise.

The cruise is scheduled to leave downtown Charlevoix at 1 p.m. and cruises Lake Charlevoix's shoreline or Lake Michigan, weather permitting.

Aboard the boat will be a band, in addition to free snacks and beverages.

For further Information, contact the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce at 547-2101.

Charlevoix Goes To Polls Thursday

By FRAN MARTIN

When voters of the Charlevoix school district go to the polls Thursday to vote, they will be asked to vote on two issues or proposals.

The first relates to construction of a new high school and the remodeling of the present high school as a middle school and the second to the construction of a swimming pool.

Already many are saying that it is likely that the wording on the ballots will be so technical that one cannot understand either issue so why bother.

This, however, is not true in this case for the ballot clearly states what the issue is about.

Proposal I

Proposal 1 asks, in essence, that the Charlevoix Public Schools be allowed to borrow a sum not to exceed $6,990,000 and issue general obligation bonds for the purpose of erecting, furnishing and equipping a new high school and a new bus repair and storage facility; erecting, furnishing and equipping an addition to and remodeling and partially re-equipping the existing high school as a middle school; constructing and equipping an athletic field and other outdoor physical education facilities; for acquiring additional land for site purposes and for developing and improving the sites.

Proposal No. 2 asks if the Charlevoix Public Schools should be permitted to borrow $600,000 and sell general obligation bonds for the purpose of erecting, furnishing and equipping an indoor swimming pool facility either as a separate facility or as an addition to either an existing or a new high school and developing and improving a site.

Chief Reasons

The chief reason for Proposal 1 being brought to the vote of the people in the school district at this time is the continuing growth of the school population which has increased from 954 in September 1960 to 1755 at the end of the first week of the 1974-75 school year.

This growth has been a gradual one over the years. The point, however, is that it continues though there are those who said that it would end when the Medusa Corp. opened its plant in 1967.

Increased Pupils

This, however, has not been the case for while increasing from 954 in 1960 to 1236 in 1965, the enrollment jumped to 1568 in 1970 which resulted in an increase in 614 in 10 years.

The past four years shows the increase even more marked for the increase has been from 1568 in 1970 to 1596 in 1970; 1670 the following year and 1711 last year. The enrollment at the end of the first week this year shows 1755, an increase of 44 students. This figure is 14 above the projected enrollment which some people said was high.

Because of this continued enrollment since 1960, the Citizens' Study committee recommended a new high school and the conversion of the present high school to a middle school because it is in these areas that the major growth has shown itself.

As alternatives, the Citizens Study committee has suggested a year-around school schedule, split school days which put students in school from as early as 7 a.m. and as late as 5:30 or 6 p.m. or the cost of modifying the present school to meet enrollment needs.

In an effort to explain the issue further and to answer questions residents of the district might have on the issues involved, a telecast has been planned for 7:30 p.m. tonight (Tuesday) on Channel 6.

The program will be aired over Channel 6 for those people on Cable TV.

For those who are not on Cable TV, the Charlevoix Elementary school will be opened for people to see the program.

Father's March

A Fathers' March on Wednesday evening headed by Richard Martin will climax the efforts of the school board to acquaint the voting public with the issues.

The polls for this election will be at the city hall where the voting machines will be used to facilitate the counting of votes. For those who do not wish to use the voting machines, paper ballots will be available. The polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Absentee ballots may be obtained at the office of the Superintendent until 2 p.m. on Saturday.

With Charlevoix Township

City Creates Emergency Water

Concerned with future threats to Charlevoix's north side water supply, Charlevoix City Council agreed Monday to go ahead with a permanent emergency link to Charlevoix Township's water supply.

The move came only hours after north side water service was out because the Durocher Dock and Dredge of Cheboygan damaged a water main under the Pine River Channel while driving pilings for the new channel seawall.

The estimated $2,400 link-up on Taylor-blvd. would allow either the township or city to use each other's water supply in cases of emergency by merely turning on a value.

Councilmen quickly made the decision after having to hook up north side water lines with the Charlevoix Township water supply by means of two and one-half inch fire hoses.

The connection was made between the township hydrant in front of the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District office on Mercer-blvd. and a city hydrant on Mercer-blvd. just east of Taylor-blvd.

"The township supervisor said his board is willing to make the interconnection," Mayor Ed Hansen told council.

"Do you feel we can go ahead without permission of the state?" Councilwoman Jeannine Wallace questioned.

However, Mrs. Wallace found her objection overruled when she cast the only negative vote on making a permanent emergency tie with the township.

Permanent repairs to the north side water main under Pine River Channel may take two or three weeks, City Administrator Robert Wexstaff said earlier Monday.

The main was ruptured about 4:30 p.m. Friday when Durocher Dock and Dredge Co. of Cheboygan inadvertently either drove a seawall piling through the main or vibrations from the pile driver jarred loose an expansion joint.

Water pressure on both the north and south sides dropped alarmingly within minutes as contents of the water tank emptied into the channel.

The channel main was shut off, restoring full pressure to the south side. However, for 26 hours the entire north side was served by a single eight-inch main located near the C & O railroad bridge.

Faucets gave forth only a trickle of water and pressure-type toilets refused to function.

LOCAL RESIDENTS will decide on whether or not Charlevoix gets a new high school this week when they head for the polls on Thursday. The election will take place at Charlevoix City Hall.

Board Fields Questions About Bond Proposals

By FRAN MARTIN

An open information meeting regarding the $6.99 million bond issue for a new high school and $600,000 bond issue for a swimming pool was attended by more than 35 Charlevoix voters Monday.

Mrs. Ardith Wieland, vice president of the board of education which sponsored the meeting, served as chairperson and explained, at length, several issues and asked others to give information regarding various phases of the proposal.

Charles Elzinga of the board gave the background the Citizens' Study committee which made the recommendations regarding the bond issue after a thorough study of the problems facing the school district.

William Kane of the firm of Mansen Jackson and Kane of Lansing showed architect's sketches and floor plans of the proposed buildings and the rennovated high school and explained the structures.

The meeting was then thrown open for questions.

Among the first asked related to the site. Mrs. Wieland said that numerous sites were visited before it was decided to take an option on the Mathews property which offers all utilities except sewer which would cost $16 to $20 per foot to install for a distance of 1000 feet.

Other alternatives to solve the problem of overcrowding were among the issues questioned.

It was brought up that the Study Committee had considered year-around school, split sessions and remodeling of present facilities before recommending the new high school.

Those present were advised that it would cost an estimated $700,000 to enlarge the middle school to meet present needs and standards.

Since the plans for the proposed new high school are comparable for those used by Mansen Jackson and Kane for the Roscommon High School, someone present wanted to know if the firm's fees could be cut if the same plans were used. Kane said that fees could be cut as much as 50 percent if this was done.

However, he said that the architect is responsible for certain things during the construction and therefore would have to follow through on the job to see that these were done so could trim the fee only so much.

One question related to the overall cost of the proposed construction program including interest. Supt. James McKimmy said that there were too many variables to make a public statement regarding this.

He said that, like buying a house, the interest is added to the original cost of the house.

Another question brought up the school bond loan program offered by the state. It was explained that this program allows a school district to level out its millage rate over a longer period of time. Thus, if this were not a school bond issue, a total of 11.75 mills would have ta be levied.

But since it is, the millage necessary is leveled at 7.47 mills and averaged at seven mills over a langer period. The State loans the funds to the school district during what would normally be the peak years, interest-wise, and during the years when the interest costs taper off, the district repays the loan to the state.

Other questions related to particular phases of the proposed building program.

Historical Museum

Society Asks For Site

A home for Charlevoix's Historical Society may come shortly following a plea made to Charlevoix City Council Monday.

The council agreed to study possible building locations and discuss the alternatives in committee with the group.

The action came after both William Ohle and Vince Olach of the Charlevoix Historical Society for city property to erect a museum building on.

"It has everything going for it, except it needs a home," Ohle told the Council.

The two society group members said a local person will not only make a substantial contribution to a Society Building, but will lead a drive for construction of it.

However, they said the society needs some property to build it on.

The matter was referred to committee for further study.

In other business, council:

–Referred an advertising contract with the Charlevoix Courier to committee.

–Agreed to a consulting service contract with Charlevoix Abstract and Engineering.

–Announced parking meters on Bridge Street would remain up until the end of October, while side street meters would be taken down at the end of this month.

--Relieved the U.S. Air Force from damage responsibilities when they land a C1-30 Turbo prop plane at the city airport on September 29 for the Lion's Fly-in.

–Referred Greg Shadko's engineering bill to committee for further discussion.

–Instructed the city administrator to give the Dunes Condominium 10-days notice to take down its carport.

–Appointed Roy Bennett, John Schroeder and Erma Scheid to a committee to study the city charter.

What Happens When Your The Only Girl Football Player?

What happens when a 13-year-old girl discovers she's on an all-boy flag football team?

Eighth grader Danya Rothenberger is slowly finding out.

It started several weeks ago, when the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Rothenberger of Charlevoix received a phone call from her coach.

"You signed up for flag football," she recalled her coach, Gary Peterson, telling her on the telephone.

"I did ?"

Danya said Peterson, who thought Danya was a boy named "Dana," told her to show up Monday night at 4 p.m. for practice at the Lincoln Street field.

"There wasn't anyone out there hut a group of boys," she recalled. "For awhile, I just sat at the corner." Then finally, Danya said she got the courage to go up and tell the coach that he was about to have a girl on his team.

After recovering from the initial shock, Danya said her coach said she could play, hut that she wauld have to learn the rules.

Peterson told the Courier that she thought Danya was Daniel and never gave it a second thought when calling her on the phone to come to practice.

After learning that Daniel was Danya and that is was boy's and not girl's flag football, Peterson said he invited her to stay an the team.

The former Lansing resident said he was glad to have her on the team.

"The boys who were there thought it was all right," he said.

"I'm glad to see it."

Peterson said it should be interesting, especially the reaction from others.

Charlevoix Recreation Director Kurt Kipke said he'll probably be caught in the middle.

"I can see it and then I can't see it," he said.

He said that he called the recreation commissioners together and they said it would be all right.

"We're going to try to get a basketball program in for them," he said.

"If I had caught the name I would have told them it was a girl and not to call her."

He said it was going to happen sooner or later.

"She'll be required to have a helmet like the boys do," he continued.

Kipke said this wasn't the first time it has happened to him.

In Grand Rapids, he said a girl played a whole season in a city baseball program before they discovered she was a girl.

"The kids on the team didn't even know she was a girl," Kipke continued.

"It kinda baffled me, I couldn't figure out how they didn't know."

Kipke said apparently the girl's mother changed her daughter's name and put all her hair under her hat.

"Knowing the girl, I think she'll be good," Kipke said about his Charlevoix case.

"It will be interesting."

Danya's father thinks it's a great idea.

The one-time high school all-state running back for Boyne City said that if his daughter wants to play, it's all right with him.

"I want to play," Danya said.

"I just don't want to be the only girl."

Senior Citizens Plan Outing For Sept. 15

An Outing for Senior Citizens, to be held next Sunday, Sept.15, from one o'clock to five o'clock in the afternoon at Whiting Park, was discussed at length at the last meeting of the Charlevoix County Commission on Aging.

All persons in Charlevoix County 60 years of age and older are invited to attend the Outing, at which a free lunch will be served. There will also be entertainment by "The Drifters" and "The Barbershoppers," as well as by various Senior Citizens' groups. Service clubs throughout the area are paying for the food.

Persons needing rides to and from the Outing may contact Vern Whiteford in East Jordan, phone 536-2503; Cliff Holzhauer, Boyne City, phone 582-9390; or Ralph Hamilton, Charlevoix, phone 547-6471.

The possibility of setting up a Nutrition Program for Senior Citizens was also discussed. Jeanne Kytselka, Field Representative of the State Office of Services to the Aging, told how other counties were providing this service.

It is expected that enough federal money will be allotted the county to provide nutritionally balanced meals to about 37 Senior Citizens each day. Where and how these meals will be prepared and served is being studied. Miss Kytselka said that participants usually pay a "donation" of about 50 cents each for the meals.

The Nutrition Program is more than an eating experience for Senior Citizens.

It is an outreach program to contact senior citizens needing help; it calls for a transportation and escort service; it provides health and welfare counseling and information referral services; it sets up shopping assistance for groceries for other meals, medical supplies; and other necessities; it is a system of nutrition education; and it is recreation, plain fun.

If the Nutrition Program money comes through, and if ways and means of serving the meals can be worked out, the program could go into effect next month in Charlevoix County.

Another project of the Commission on Aging is a survey of persons 60 years of age and older. Information will soon be sought on such matters as transportation problems, health matters, living conditions, housing needs, nutrition questions, and financial situations.

The Commission hopes that all Senior Citizens who are asked to answer the questionnaires will do so promptly. The information derived from them will be helpful in meeting the needs of older persons in the community.

State Offers New Education Course

Michigan State University will offer ED 830A (3) Methods and Materials of Teaching Social Studies in Elementary Grades this fall term at Charlevoix Elementary School. The course is administered through the facilities of the MSU Continuing Education Center in Traverse City, Dr. Milton J. Hagelberg, Director.

The class will meet from 7-10 p.m., Wednesdays, September 25 through December 4 with registration from 3:30-4:30 p.m., Tuesday, September 17, in the Teachers' Lounge of the Charlevoix Elementary School. The course carries three term hours of graduate or advanced undergraduate credit which may be applied toward most Master's programs in Elementary Education. The instructor will be Dr. Dan MacFayden from the MSU campus in East Lansing.

An Education course will be offered at North Central Michigan College in Petoskey, ED 815B (3) Principles of Guidance and Personnel Services. Registration will be held in Room 44 of the Administration Building from 6-7 p.m. on Tuesday, September 17, or persons may register in Charlevoix according to the above schedule. The class in supervision scheduled for Petoskey has been closed due to a large preregistration.

The tuition fee for all credit courses is $26.00 per credit hour payable by check or money order only, made out to Michigan State University.

What's Happening to Our Lakeshore

To live in harmony with this environment and avoid continual losses, man must keep development out of the danger zone

By PEG OHLE

There is not much that can economically be done to control water levels in the Great Lakes and connecting inland lakes.

This is the conclusion reached by a commission formed nine years ago to study water levels and answer three fundamental questions.

The questions were:

1. What good or harm results from high or low water levels?

2. Can the range between high and low be reduced?

3. What can be done to regulate these levels for the greatest benefit to the public in terms that cover every aspect of living, from power requirements to shipping, to cottage ownership, to ecology, to every other consideration?

Not all Great Lakes water levels satisfy all the people all of the time.

Freighters need at least 27 feet in the channels to take on a full load. Hydro-electric plants need water high enough to maintain a flow at peak load times.

City water intakes need a good depth of water. Conservationists say if the water leaves the marshland, there is going to be a significant drop in wild fowl population, and fish spawning grounds will lose out as well.

Homeowners say they don't want the lake coming in their front doors. They want it just low enough to get a proper beach for the kids.

All of this is brought out in a Summary Report / 1974 by the International Great Lakes Levels Board.

The study is of particular interest to area residents, not only because Charlevoix is on Lake Michigan, but because both Round Lake and Lake Charlevoix are also part of the Great Lakes system.

Most persons who have homes or businesses on these lakes know that water levels vary considerably from decade to decade, but few understand the reasons for the variations.

The Great Lakes Levels Board points out that three major factors and many small ones affect the fluctuation of the lake levels. The major influences are precipitation, evaporation, and winds.

The whole cycle begins with rain and snow falling upon the lakes and the areas they drain. Records of average precipitation are gathered by the National Weather Service. Their records show that from 1900 to 1972, precipitation on the Lake Michigan basin varied from a maximum of 37.8 inches to a minimum of 22.2 inches. The average was 31.2 inches.

The second major influence of level changes is evaporation. A little or a lot of evaporation usually accompanies a lot or a little of precipitation. They reinforce each other in producing long-term variations in lake levels.

The third and most familiar cause of level change is wind. The wind can tilt the whole surface, raising the levels of the downwind end of the lake by as much as eight feet. The other end of the lake is lowered since wind has no effect on the volume of water in the lake.

There are three categories of fluctuations of water level: long-term, seasonal, and short-term.

Long-term variations are the result of persistent high or low precipitation. In the mid-1960's on Lakes Michigan-Huron there was low precipitation and low levels. In 1972-73 there was higher precipitation and extreme high levels on all lakes except Lake Superior.

A hundred years of record-keeping indicates no regular, predictable cycle of levels. Maximum recorded levels on Lakes Michigan-Huron have varied 6.6 feet.

Seasonal fluctuations reflect the normal hydrologic cycle, more input during spring and early summer than during the rest of the year, because of spring run-off and low evaporation. This kind of fluctuation is quite small, averaging about one foot on Lakes Michigan-Huron.

Short-term fluctuations are caused by meterological events and can last from a few hours to several days.

Wind, combined with barometric pressure differences, can cause unusual local water level changes. However, these short-period changes do not cause alteration in the total volume of the lakes.

The effects of winds and the waves they generate are the major cause of damage due to flooding and shore erosion. Even if the levels of the lakes were held to their long-term average, flood damage would still occur in periods of extremely high winds.

Armed with all these facts, the International Great Lakes Levels Board devised two plans, both of which would require nine or ten control structures in the St. Clair-Detroit rivers. They concluded that the cost of hundreds of millions of dollars for these control structures would be far more than could ever be recouped in benefits.

They also concluded that the construction and subsequent changes in flows and levels would cause harm to the environment.

A post script to the study, added during 1973 and part of 1974, states that in 1973 Lakes Michigan and Huron reached the highest levels since 1886, and suggests that an on-going study be made to include this latest information.

At the time the study was made, it was calculated that 80 percent of any expected

Planning Commission Discusses November State Building Code

The new state Building Code which goes into effect November 6 was discussed at length by members of the Charlevoix County Planning Commission at their monthly meeting last Thursday.

The question at this time is what governmental body or bodies in the county will administer the code. It was pointed out that even if certain townships or cities wanted to do the job themselves, it is the county's responsibility to see that the code is enforced.

County Planner Bill Mercer reported that to date five townships have expressed a desire for the county to administer the code. Under the new Building Code, all structural, mechanical, plumbing and electrical work in new construction must be inspected.

It is expected that before the next Planning Commission meeting on October 1, all local governmental units will have expressed their desires in this matter.

Henry Kennedy, director of the Port St. James Association, appeared before the commission to talk about what might be done with that development on Beaver Island.

Since the development was started about seven years ago by the American Central Company, there has been much erosion due to high lake levels, and high water tables make building on most of the small lots impossible.

Earlier in the day Kennedy appeared before the Plat Coordinating Committee and received some technical advice on drainage, well water and sewage disposal problems.

The planning Commission also considered changes in three township Zoning Ordinances:

They recommended that a parcel of land in Clarion, Melrose Township, be rezoned from Agricultural to Commercial for an automobile parts yard, with the provision that the property be cleaned up, that all old automobiles be moved out of sight and readied for hauling away, and that other automobiles be stripped to avoid danger to children and discourage thievery. This property is now being used as an automobile parts yard.

They suggested that the South Arm Township Zoning Ordinance keep the square footage requirements for residences that were originally set forth, that green belts be required along all lakes, that height limitations be put on buildings in the Agricultural zone, and that special airport zoning be considered around the East Jordan airport.

They recommended that the Hayes Township Zoning Board deny a request to rezone a parcel of land along Old U.S. 31 Highway from Agricultural to Residential, explaining that such a change represents a prime example of strip residential land use. The parcel is owned by Roger Weisner.

Mercer reported to the Planning Commission on his progress in developing a solid waste plan for the county. He has completed drafts on three sections of the plan - goals and objectives, analysis of population and resources, and inventory of existing facilities.

86 Bills Considered

Legislators Enact New Laws

During the first half of 1974, Michigan legislators passed 86 bills affecting local governmental units. To show the scope and variety of this legislation, some of the acts are summarized below:

NURSING HOME INSPECTIONS (Public Act 73): Provides that inspections, other than of financial records, shall be conducted without prior notice to nursing homes or homes for the aged.

PARKING VIOLATIONS (Public Act 78): Amends the Vehicle Code by adding a new section which creates, for the purpose of evidence, the presumption that the registered owner of a vehicle was the person who parked a vehicle in violation of a local ordinance or state statute.

VETERANS' BURIAL EXPENSES (Public Act 99): Provides for counties to pay $300 for burial expenses of an honorably discharged veteran or spouse if the deceased person's estate does not exceed $25,000 (previously $15,000).

COURT COSTS (Public Act 158): Increases the charge for transcripts prepared by circuit court stenographers. It also changes the minimum salary for district court recorders or stenographers from $6,500 to $8,000.

SEWER TAP-IN FEES (Public Act 38): Provides for the deferment of a sewer tap-in fee by reason of hardship. The local unit may enact ordinances to define hardship, permit deferred (or partial) payment of the tap-in fee, and may require mortgage security on the property.

MILEAGE COMPENSATION (Public Act 51): The mileage compensation of ten cents per mile for member of the county boards of commissioners has been changed by this act to permit the commissioners to determine the compensation.

AMBULANCES (Public Act 96): Requires that licensed ambulances be equipped with a fire extinguisher meeting specified standards.

PAYMENT OF WAGES (Public Act 218): Extends the definition of "wages" to include fringe benefits and contributions required to be made by an employer pursuant to a written contract. Employers, including local government units, are authorized to include these fringe benefits and contributions when paying wages owed to a deceased employee.

SOCIAL SERVICES (Public Act 241): The appropriation act for the Department of Social Services includes state funding for the following county programs: Direct relief, $56,050,000; child care, $11,286,817; County medical care facilities, $13,803,500.

This is Cystic Fibrosis Month

September is Cystic Fibrosis month. A fund raising campaign to support the research and care for children suffering from children's lung diseases will be conducted nationwide during the month.

Mrs. James Marshall and Mrs. Russell Lewis have been named co-chairman for the Charlevoix area and will lead local volunteers in raising funds.

Termed the "Breath of Life" Campaign, the funds collected will be used for research and care for those with not only Cystic Fibrosis, but with severe asthma, chronic bronchitis, and other related lung-damaging diseases.

Cystic Fibrosis, presently incurable, is inherited when both parents carry the recessive gene. It is believed that one in twenty persons carries the gene, usually without knowing it.

When Cystic Fibrosis research began in 1960, a child's life expectany was only two years. Today, it is eighteen years.

Vote For School Bonds

This Thursday will be the day of decision for Charlevoix School District residents.

They will be deciding on whether or not the district should construct a new high school.

As we stated in last week's editorial, we support the construction of a new school despite the adverse economic conditions now being experienced both locally and nationally.

Students at Charlevoix Middle School have a poor environment to learn in and most definitely need a new facility.

We, like the citizen's group, think the best way would be the building of a new high school and turning over the present high school facility into a middle school.

Before going to the polls, make sure you check over the alternatives very carefully.

Every year the district decides to wait means that much more it will cost to the same structure.

Charlevoix can look forward to some problems if an affirmative action is not taken.

We encourage you to exercise your rights on Thursday and hope you will see the issue the same way we do.

Support Your Bloodmobile

Every once in a while we have a chance to do something nice for somebody without it costing us a cent.

Next week we will have an opportunity to do something not only nice but something that may save a life. It will cost us only an hour's time and the giving of a bit of ourselves.

We refer to giving blood to the Red Cross. Their Bloodmobile will be at Lutheran Bethany Church in Charlevoix next Wednesday, September 18. Over 100 pints of blood are required at this time to meet the needs of Charlevoix area residents during the next few months.

Statistics show that every 17 seconds someone in the United States needs blood. Victims of automobile accidents, fires, persons in shock, infants or mothers, sufferers from leukemia or hemophilia, or patients undergoing surgery are all potential users of blood.

Everyone in the area has his blood needs completely met through the Red Cross blood program. There is never a need to pay for blood, or to send in donors to replace blood used.

Blood donated to the Red Cross is made available to all hospitals within the boundaries of the Flint Regional Area, of which Charlevoix County is a part. It is also made available to hospitals located outside the Region to replace any amount of blood used there by a Charlevoix County resident.

People of all ages, from 17 through 65, may give blood. Retirees as well as high school and college students can donate, providing they are in good health and weigh at least 110 pounds.

There is no more discomfort in giving a unit of blood than there is when a physician takes a blood sample for a test.

Less than a pint of blood is taken. The body manufactures new blood constantly and the volume you give will be replaced within a few hours. After donating, most people go about their usual activities.

Take time out now to make an appointment to do something nice for someone. And did you ever think that that someone might be you?

Phone Mrs. Vernon Mathews, Jr., 547-9896, and tell her you will donate a unit of blood to the Red Cross Bloodmobile.

Mrs. Mathews and her committee also need help in operating the Bloodmobile, and in doing several jobs between now and then. Persons who can drive donors to and from the Bloodmobile are also being recruited. These would be nice things to do, too.

Ford Makes Bad Move

We feel President Ford made a bad move in granting former President Nixon a "full, free and absolute pardon" Sunday for any federal crimes he may have committed during his 5½-years in the White House.

The President said he made the unprecedented step both as an "act of mercy" and in order to carry out his constitutional duty to "ensure domestic tranquility."

He said to prosecute the former president under these conditions would reawaken "ugly passions," divide the country and undermine America's credibility at home and abroad.

However, we feel the president could have at least waited until the former president had been brought to trial.

Our country has been based on the premise that there are no titles of nobility or class distinction. We feel this should especially hold true for even former Presidents of the United States.

There are too many unanswered questions about Watergate that should be answered. We think only former President Nixon can answer them.

While President Ford says someone should write an end to a story that could go on and on, we think the final chapter should be written in a court of law.

"The reason I'm late is because I was busy explaining to Mom the importance of getting out to vote on the school bonds Thursday."

Clockwise

By BOB CLOCK

I don't know why everyone is so excited about President Ford getting his own breakfast.

We have a two-year-old boy who has been getting his own breakfast all summer and we haven't given it a second thought.

However, we were happy to see that little bit of TV news film the other night showing President Ford toasting an English muffin for his breakfast in the White House.

For one thing, I have never seen a president toast an English muffin before. For another, I couldn't imagine ex-President Nixon ever being caught on film in such a mundane act. If he had, he would have felt obligated to attach some kind of historical significance to the act.

"My fellow Americans: This is the first time in the long and glorious history of my country, and your country as well, that an American president has toasted an English muffin in the White House."

Then he would announce that he was selling the entire Kansas wheat crop to the British for 10 cents a bushel.

Ingratiating smile. Fadeout.

Lastly, I am glad that the TV camera crew caught President Ford fixing his own breakfast because it only went to prove that Mrs. Ford doesn't know who fixes her husband's breakfast. Only week the First Lady said at her first press conference that Jerry had stopped fixing his own breakfast since they moved into the White House.

If Mrs. Ford is like many of the wives I know, she realizes the wisdom of letting her husband putter around in the kitchen by himself at the break of day.

Propbably more domestic quarrels start at breakfast than at any other time. If we could get every wife to sleep late, the divorce rate nation-wide would probably nosedive.

After all, none of us is on his best behavior early in the morning. You're cold and rumpled and still groggy with sleep. Minor annoyances loom larger than life. The coffee takes forever to perk. The toaster either burns your toast or sends it back a jaundiced yellow. There is no soft margarine in the cupboard, but there is a stick as hard as cement in the back of the refrigerator. The dog wants out but you can't find her leash. The kids left the hot water faucet dripping in the bathroom. Something has gone haywire with the furnace.

You know how it goes. These are not the times a man and wife should spend together. If at all possible, he should try to get out of the house before his better half rolls out of bed. He can always telephone her when he gets to work when the petty aggravations of the morning are behind him. He can make sure she's up-and-at-'em. He can also tell her what he'd like for dinner.

Now these are just some practical observations of my own, and I'm sort of happy to know that President and Mrs. Ford have reached the same conclusions.

In fact, that is why I have not discouraged Danny from fixing his own breakfast this summer on Beaver Island. At home he isn't tall enough to reach the toaster on the counter. But the toaster in St. James had a place of honor on a small TV table next to the kitchen table.

Danny learned how to plug it in, insert the bread and wait patiently until toast popped out. Just like President Ford.

But Danny still isn't as good as the president at spreading oleo on his toast or slathering the slices with jelly. I do that for him and then turn away. I can't stand to watch a kid eat toast jelly-side-down.

Dear Editor:

Charlevoix needs the support of the voters September 12 to help its schools provide modern programs and facilities.

It is very important to the future of our community that we plan and prepare rather than react from hindsight under crisis. The enrollment is growing in all grades kindergarten through 9th. The total enrollment has increased 43 students over 1973-74. It is important that we have our schools prepared for our children.

Your support for the building proposal on September 12 will help keep Charlevoix the kind of community that we are proud of and glad we live in.

Sincerely,
Harry R. Custer, M.D.

Senior Citizen Asks For Support

To Senior Citizens:

On September 12 you are being asked to vote to build a new high school for Charlevoix area students. The financing of this project will be through an increase of 2.975 mills of property tax.

The Senior Citizens' property tax relief will absorb this millge increase if you qualify for such refund. As an example of how this increase will be absorbed and the tax increase not affect you, let us suppose:

Mr. and Mrs. X own property valued at $20,000, with an assessed valuation of $10,000. Their taxes with a millage rate of 34.65 mills/$1,000 of valuation, would be $346.50.

Suppose their total household income is $7,000. With this income, they need pay only 3.5 percent of their income, or $245. in property taxes. This means they will receive a refund of $101.50.

With the proposed millage increase of 2.975/$1000, their taxes would be increased $29.75 for a total tax of $276.25. They still pay only $245. and the refund to them now will be $131.25.

Citizens who qualify for this property tax relief can vote to support the progress of their community without having to pay additional taxes from their fixed incomes. Citizens who helped their communities prosper can now can afford to continue to support progress for their children and families.

VOTE SEPTEMBER 12

Sincerely,
James Irwin
Senior Citizen

Parents Can Voice Opinions

We students have found that statement to be quite a standard line among parents; a catch-all phrase used primarily at dinner table discussions when we start to talk about school. No doubt it is the result of years of experience and wisdom.

The problem is that there has been no way for parents to really tell us how things were when they were in school. No medium has been available for parents to comment directly to students on what their opinions are on the present methods of running the high school, and/or how they could be improved.

Parents of the Charlevoix school system now have that opportunity. We on the staff of the Crimson Flash, the high school newsppaer, are beginning a column called, "In My Opinion," which provides for precisely that. It is a column designed for comments, opinions, complaints, praise, or just anything, students, faculty, or you the parents have to say about C.H.S. As many letters as possible will be printed, providing they are signed. Letters may be sent to: "In My Opinion", c/o Crimson Flash Staff, Charlevoix High School.

Donaldson Questions Need For School Bond Issue

To The Editor:

I have three children in the Charlevoix Schools. I am interested in them obtaining a good education. I served on the Charlevoix School Board from 1970-73, during which time I researched the operation of schools in general and Charlevoix's in particular. I spent many hours assembling information. I do not pretend to be an expert on schools, but I do think that I am better informed than the average person is on the subject of schools, and I would like to take this opportunity to pass on some facts:

1. The High School was constructed in 1959 and incorporated plans and structural designs for future expansion. We are presently paying for a bond issue on this building.

2. The middle school was re-modeled in 1970. A statement was made and reported by the press at that time that this building was good for another 20 years. We are presently paying for a bond issue on this building.

3. The K-4 building was built in 1970 with plans for possible future expansion. We are presently paying for this building on a bond issue.

4. There is virtually no growth in the K-4 grades. Here are some thoughts about the school board plans:

1. Projected growth indicates an increase of 239 students in the next 5 years. At 24 pupils to a room this would require 10 new classrooms (the $7 million bond proposal will construct 50 new rooms!)?

2. Present facilities are adequate at this time. Our biggest shortcoming could be solved with mere additions to the high school and K-4 buildings, at a cost which would be nominal instead of $7 million.

The national economy is not at a healthy sage right now. A "Free Press" story on 8-24-74 stated that housing starts are at 30 year low! Interest rates for business expansions are up to 15 percent. Most economists say..."This is not the time to build or expand."

It seems rather ridiculous to ask the taxpayers at this time to spend $7 million for 50 new rooms when we could crowd together and not spend anything or we could add 10 rooms to existing facilities for about $350,000.

I would like to present at this time some recommendatons which I gave to the school board during my retirement speech in June 1973:

1. Institute a year-a-round schedule for the present K-4 building, using the 45-15 plan. Each student would go to school for 9 weeks and then have 3 weeks off. All students would have the month of August off. This would make greater use of our facility and increase its capacity by 25 percent!

2. With the capacity gained in No. 1 above, the 5th grade could be totally transferred to the K-4. This would relieve the overcrowding in the middle school.

3. 2 to 4 rooms could be added to the K-4 (K-5) building at a later date when needed.

4. Expand the present high school cafeteria and library to a point where they would meet. This would more than double each in size.

5. Stagger the school starting times so that we could use the buses for two trips each day. This would cut down on the No. of buses which are getting to be expensive items. Example; K-5 starts at 8 a.m., out at 2:30 p.m. Middle school, start at 8:30 a.m. out at 3:00 p.m. High school, start at 9 a.m., out at 3:45 p.m.

These recommendations are all sound. They could be used in our system with little or no construction costs.

In summary I would like to see the voters turn down the ill-timed and currently un-necessary $7 million bond proposal.

The present school system is providing our children with a superior education. The educators are to be commended for this...but they must also exercise fiscal responsibility. They have to realize that property taxes cannot continue the crazy upward spiral that Charlevoix taxpayers have had to contend with for the past 5 years.

Vote NO on the Sept. 12th $6,990,000 proposal and then ask your school board to investigate the recommendations that I have made in this letter.

Sincerely,
Richard Donaldson

If it Fitz — A letter to daughter at college, II

By JIM FITZGERALD

Dear Christie:

As you know, this open letter is being written by popular demand. You demanded that I write it if I want to retain my popularity with you. I wrote one to your big sister when she went away to college and you have always demanded equal time with your siblings, except in the kitchen.

The idea is that Old Dad should wax wise and sentimental, thus sending his children out into the world laden down with good advice and warm memories, as well as 150 tons of blue jeans and stereo equipment.

Well, I can remember advising big sister Karen to cool it, to smell all the daisies, and to save marriage for dessert. That was only 7 years ago and she has already made me a grandfather 3 times.

I give you the same advice. But I must admit I never sniffed a daisy that smelled as good as a grandchild nuzzled just below either ear. There is something to be said for ignoring your Dad's advice, and I just said it.

You remember, the week before you left for college, how your mother kept complaining she would have no one to talk to after her last daughter was gone. She claims I never talk to her because I can't see her, what with a newspaper growing out of my nose. And Eddie can't talk to her because he's only 18 and hasn't learned how yet. So you are probably wondering if Mother's fears of silence came true. If she ever gets off the phone, I'll ask her.

Chris, I have often razzed you about being over-educated but under-informed. You got good marks in school but you were surprised to learn Abraham Lincoln was no longer President. You would be well advised to keep yourself more current these days. College students like to get involved in politics and social problems. They love to march in the streets and otherwise make their voices heard. I'm sure you'll want to join in these protests but it will be embarrassing if you suggest your classmates should boycott German products until Hitler gets out of Poland. Actually, my windy advice to an 18-year-old daughter could be boiled down into 2 words and you probably wish I'd start boiling. So here they are: Be Fair.

Do not judge a person by his complexion, his accent or his haircut. Remember that what is fair for you is fair for the poorest slob on the other side of the classroom, or on the other side of the world. Don't make hasty judgments and if you can't say something nice about someone, shut your trap.

Chris, a few weeks ago I was writing about you and almost unconsciously typed the words I would ask you to never forget. I was telling about the woman who came into the office and whispered to the girl at the counter that she wished she had nerve enough to ask me for my autograph. You were the girl at the counter and you fell down laughing. "He's only my father," you said. And I automatically wrote:

I'd rather be her father than anything else.

Dad

Meet Charlevoix

Meet Bill Grimm

Charlevoix's vanishing lakeshore is becoming everyone's concern, especially to those who own property along it. What can be done to save the lakeshore? The Charlevoix Courier asked Bill Grimm of the U.S. Soil Conservation Service what he thinks.

Grimm graduated from the University of Wisconsin with a bachelor of science degree in soils. He also did extensive graduate work at Michigan State University.

He joined the soil service in 1950, and came to Boyne City, where he has been for almost 25 years.

COURIER: What is the U.S. Soil Conservation Service?

GRIMM: It's an agency within the U.S. Department of Agriculture, whose main function is to provide technical and financial assistance to local soil conservation districts through a memorandum of understanding.

COURIER: What is a soil conservation district?

GRIMM: It's a local subdivision of state government which is charged with the soil and water conservation program within its jurisdiction. It consists of a board of directors, five elected officials, who govern this program. To accomplish their goals and programs they request various agencies to assist them. This is how we come into the picture.

COURIER: What are some of the activities the soil conservation district has been involved with, over the years, in Charlevoix County?

GRIMM: The prime function is to assist the local land owners in planning and applying soil and water conservation practices on their land. This assistance is given by a request from the land owner to the district for this assistance. When this request is approved by the board, then we assist the land owner, if he is interested in a complete conservation plan and/or individual practices. Over the years the basic conservation practices that have been applied in the area are strip cropping systems, waterways, diversions, tile drainage, grade stablization practices, critical area land use, stream bank and lakeshore protection practices, farm waste pollution abatement practices and other various erosion control practices. The district at the present time is one of the sponsors of the Northwest Michigan Resource Conservation District, which is a program designed to establish, through various agency funds, erosion control, recreation and natural resource stabilization measures.

At one time, land owners in Charlevoix County had over 7,000 acres of strip cropping and since I have been in the area in the last 25 years, at least 3 million trees have been planted through the district program.

COURIER: What is the soil erosion situation along our local lakeshores?

GRIMM: It's variable as far as degree because of the various components that induce erosion. High water marks of Lake Charlevoix and Lake Michigan have created extreme erosion hazards in some areas, and what makes it so complex is the laws, rule and regulations one must go through to establish a control measure and often times the control measure costs more than the property is worth. Sometimes temporary measures aggrevate the erosion problem. So, therefore, it is advisable to contact resource people that are knowledgable within this area of expertise.

COURIER: If a property owner has erosion problems, what should he do?

GRIMM: Often times he can solve the problem himself by using common sense. It doesn't take a professional to tell him to reshape or reseed an area. But, if the property owner would like consultation, he can contact our office, the cooperative extension service, Michigan Department of Natural Resources, agricultural stablization or the conservation service offices, all of which give some degree of service within this field.

COURIER: Lake property owners are particularly concerned about the high water levels!? Is there anything they can do?

GRIMM: Pray. Its taken Mother Nature a long time to reach the current levels. It is my opinion, it will take considerable time to go the other way. What it amounts to, I guess, if you have property on the lake is that you have to accept this problem. In most cases, they should contact the Michigan Department of Resources, Boyne City, and the U.S. Corps of Engineers to see if they need to obtain necessary permits to establish their erosion control measures.

COURIER: Are there any recommended practices your office has endorsed?

GRIMM: The practice has to fit the situation. It could be one practice or multi-concept to solve the problem. Some of the practices that have been installed around the lake and are designed to meet the problem have rock-rip-rap over a poly-x filter. This filter is perforated and is capable of handling rocks weighing up to four to five tons. This poly-x is laid over a six-inch gravel bed with the rock on top. This filter is perforated to allow the water to flow in and out, but at the same time it keeps the fines from washing out into the lake.

COURIER: What tips do you have for new landowners in terms of land use practices?

GRIMM: Basically, most requests we have for assistance is after the damage is done and this makes the solving of the problem more complex. I would suggest to landowners, should they contemplate any change in land use, to use common sense, and if they feel they need assistance, to contest those professional people who are familiar with land use. Be sure to check all zoning regulations, and should a practice involve the obtaining of necessary permits, these should be obtained first. These professional people should be obtained to get the proper design and practice, so that every dollar that is spent is a productive dollar.

Banker Asks For Support

September 6, 1974

Dear Editor,

I would like to encourage each voter in the Charlevoix School District to study the proposal for the new high school and addition to the present high school which will then be used as a middle school.

I have studied the proposal and the recommendations of the Citizens Committee which recommended this proposal. They represent the thinking and study of a large number of people. The program is the best overall plan to meet the needs of our community for both present and future.

Our school district is growing. The school enrolled 43 more students this year than were enrolled at the same time a year ago. Support of this bond proposal will permit our community to be prepared to take care of its current needs and the future growth that we can expect in Charlevoix.

The location of the proposed high school is very desirable for traffic access, site development and size. A high school at this site would be an asset to the orderly, planned growth of our community. Our community can continue to be proud of its beauty and character by supporting this kind of planning and construction.

Sincerely,
E. D. Hawley

Too Many Taxes

To the Editor

I believe that before we raise taxes and build more schools, that we should equalize the existing taxes. Instead of a percentage of the sale price of a home, it should be based on the insured valued of a home. This would represent more closely the current value of all the homes in the district.

Citizens' Information Committee Member Speaks Out

Dear Mr. Winter:

I have just returned from a meeting of the citizens Information Committee and an writing this letter to you as a means of conveying to Charlevoix citizens some of my feelings regarding the Charlevoix Public schools' bond issue.

I was one of some sixty persons who met as a citizens study committee during last winter. The sub-committee that I served on studied the Charlevoix High School curriculum. We found that we could not concern answers with studying the curriculum without being acutely aware of the limitations of our school facilities. The report of the study committees showed that the present middle school building is even more inadequate.

As a former school board member, I was not at all surprised that the committees concluded that the most reasonable solution to meeting the classroom needs for the Charlevoix Public Schools would be to construct a new high school and to make the necessary changes in the present high school for use as a middle school.

When I went on the Charlevoix School Board in 1963, our present high school was the "New" school but almost immediately it was apparent that further building would be necessary to keep up with the student enrollment. I remember how shocked many people were when this was first suggested. By the time I finished my second term in 1971, we had bult the new K-4 school. The school board was proud of that school and felt we had provided a fine faciltiy for grades K-4 for some years to come. But at the same time that the voters approved the bonding for the K-4 school, they defeated a request for funds to improve the high school facilites. So even then the board was aware of the need there, and the middle school situation rapidly became even worse. We had hoped that the money we spent on the "old elementary" school would provide us with a satisfactory middle school for some years to come. But it was all too obvious that the building was going to require that increasing sums of money be spent on it and it would still not meet the needs of the students.

While enrollment in schools around Charlevoix is dropping, our student body continues to grow. As of today we have 43 more students than were enrolled in 1973-74. Nobody likes to see taxes go up but we have to consider what we are getting for our money. Personally I am happy to vote to improve the educational facilites of the Charlevoix Public School at an additional cost to me per month of an amount thoroughly equivalent to the cost of 2 packs of coke and a few bags of potatoe chips.

I went to school during the "great depression" but some people taxed themseleves to provide me with the opportunity to obtain a good education. Others paid for the school my sons attended (right here in Charlevoix). I had my chance, my sons had theirs and now I feel a real obligation to see that the young people growing up in Charlevoix today have their chance.

Are you satisfied with crowded classes?

— We're NOT! —

Are you willing to prepare for the future?

- We Are!!

Enrollment figures show a definite growth pattern in the K-9 Grades. These enrollments will be with us even beyond the projections given.

The proposal we will be voting on Thursday represents the recommendations of the 60 member Citizens Committee.

OUR CHILDREN and the future students of Charlevoix Schools, need YOU!

We Urge You To Consider ALL the Options Available - then Vote "YES", September 12th

The First Day

Life can be pretty difficult, especially if you're a new first grader.

Just ask the newcomers in Miss Sue Smith's classroom in Charlevoix Elementary School.

It wasn't bad until it came time for mother to drop you off. Then it hit.

Try to fight back those tears that keep welling up in your eyes; it seems impossible.

It seems so different from last year.

What happened to the old kindergarten teacher? She's not here.

Am I going to like this lady? She doesn't seem the same.

And what about this room? What happened to all the building blocks and toys?

I'm not sure I'm going to like this.

The teacher says,we'll have a lot of fun. We even have to wear our names on our head bands. I hope it makes sense to someone because it doesn't to me. I know my name.

What's this? We have to stand up in front of the class and tell what we did last summer?

She's got to be crazy. I don't know anyone here..

Wait a minute ...there's Billy.

I remember him from last year.

Maybe things won't be so bad after all.

Sandy Hufford In Japan

Sandy Hufford of Charlevoix recently returned from Japan after spending eight weeks there under the Youth for Understanding program.

Sandy, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hufford, is a senior at Charlevoix High School. In Japan she was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Naboru Kakuta and their children, Keike, Naoko, and Haruo, in Sakai City, Osaka Prefecture.

Mr. Kakuta teaches in a boys' technical high school. The family are Buddhists, and Sandy visited many famous temples and shrines, both Buddhist and Shinto, with them. She says that Buddhists don't have regular religious services; they just go to temples and pray.

Sandy also went to school with her "brother." He studies 13 different subjects at once and has much home work to do.

Since Sakai City is not in the general tourist area, people there were surprised to see a visitor, according to Sandy. Those who spoke English were eager to engage her in conversation.

The Kakuta family also took Sandy to Shikehu Island, where she went mountain climbing and swimming.

Sandy says that everyone in Japan was friendly and went out of their way to be nice to her. She hopes she can go back to Japan some day. Already Sandy has received two letters from her "brother", who, she says writes English well.

Nuclear Monitoring Increased Locally

Monitoring activities in the areas surrounding nuclear plants in Michigan will be intensified in fiscal 1974-75.

Donald E. Van Farowe, Chief of the State Health Department's Division of Radiological Health, says he is using some of his new budget to gear up his staff to handle the expanded sampling and analyzing of nuclear plant effluents. He is adding two physicists, one nuclear engineer, and one nuclear technologist.

Van Farowe explained that while only two existing plants have an operating history-Big Rock Point near Charlevoix and Palisades near South Haven-several plants are in various stages of development.

The Donald Cook plant near Bridgmen is nearly ready to go on-line. Construction is underway on Detroit Edision's Enrico Fermi No. 2 plant near Monroe and the Midland plant of Consumers Power Company. A sixth nuclear facility, the Edison Greenwood plant, is planned for the Port Huron area.

Commenting on the necessity for the departments sampling activity, Van-Farowe said, "Sampling is a vital function of our surveillance of nuclear reactors from the time they are planned right on through their operating lifetime."

"It is most important," he continued, "that we begin monitoring in every plant's area long before it becomes operational. This allows us to determine the background levels of radioactivity and other airborne substances. We need this information to make comparisons with our sampling results after a plant is running."

Several kinds of radiological sampling are done by the State Health Department staff. At plants which are operating, holding tanks containing gaseous and liquid wastes are checked periodically, as are rainwater, lake water, milk, and soil in the area of a plant. In addition, the department maintains both on-site and off-site sampling stations which check the levels of particulates, radioactive materials, and other airborne substances at each reactor site. This activity is carried on when the plant is actually operating or merely in a planning phase.

At both South Haven and Monroe there are three sampling stations off-site and one on-site. At Bridgman and Charlevoix there are four off-site and one on-site stations, with at least one more off-site station to be added at Bridgman.

Possibly two on-site and as many as six off-site sampling stations will be installed at Midland, but none is presently planned for the Greenwood plant near Port Huron until the plant's development has progressed further.

A new type of sampling device was also installed recently at six on-site and nine off-site locations near Charlevoix.

In deciding on the number and location of sampling stntions, two conditions are given consideration. These are population density and the direction of prevailing winds. While stations are situated in all directions from a plant, a heavier concentration of station is generally located in a down-wind direction.

Van Garowe concluded, "Some of the sampling done by the Michigan Department of Public Health at and near nuclear facilities, and the followup laboratory isotopic analyses, are done by us under contract for the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission. However, most of our work is done so that we can meet our commitment to protect the health and welfare of Michigan residents who live near nuclear plants."

TEN NEW PEOPLE will be found in the classrooms or the vocational education areas of the Charlevoix Public Schools this fall. They are (front row 1. to r.) Mrs. Yvonne Wendt, sixth grade teacher; Jeanne Smith, CMU student teacher who will work with Mrs. Carolyn DeMoor in the first grade; JoAnne Kravatske who will teach Spanish and English; Mrs. Helen Stainbrook, Indian Education liaison person; Mrs. Gayle Kaczynski, girls' counselor; Mrs. Frances May, kindergarten half days. Back row: Ralph Raymer, Elementary school principal; Mike Herrington, Vocational Trades auto aide; David Anderson, Building Trades aide; Plas Plasnell, Special Education in the high school; Charles Bentley, High School boys' counselor; Andy Peters, Middle School math, a recent CMU graduate; Roger Gowell, High School Science and Math; Thomas Sothard, sixth grade Science; Mrs. Mary Seamon, High School English part-time.

PETOSKEY NEWS-REVIEW

CATHY WHITE, recipient of the Custer-Kerry scholarship, is pictured receiving the $1000 check from Dr. Harry Custer, one of the two doctors for whom it is named. Mrs. Katherine Boss, Superintendent of Nurses, was present for the occasion. Miss White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mark White, is a 1974 graduate of the Charlevoix High School and will enter Ferris State College later this month to take a course in court recording. The scholarship she received has been given annually since 1970 by the J. L. Shipman family of Ann Arbor in appreciation of the care given their son, J.L. Shipman, following an automobile accident while the family was summering at Torch Lake. The scholarship is available to employees, children or grandchildren of employees of the Charlevoix Area Hospital. The applicant must have applied for admittance to an accredited school of his choice for a minimum of two terms or nine months. The scholarship bears the name of Dr. Custer and Dr. Robert L. Kerry, surgeons who cared for J. L. Shipman at the time he was injured.

Tennis Talk

Chilly days followed by chillier nights are rapidly closing in on us. It will not be long before the outdoor tennis season will end. For the first time, however, it will not be necessary to hang up your racquet for five or six months as the cold weather sets in.

The Little Traverse Racquet Club is the first indoor tennis facility to be constructed in the Emmet, Antrim, and Charlevoix county area. Scheduled to open around the first of October (give or take a few days), the club is the tennis enthusiasts' answer to those cold winter days.

In addition to five championship indoor tennis courts, the club will also have locker rooms, whirlpool baths, an exercise room, a pro shop, and for the moms, an attended nursery. The membership rates and and court time rates are, I believe, extremely reasonable. It appears to me that the club's owners are more intent on offering a good service to the community than in huge profits.

The club is located just off M-f3f between Harbor Springs and Petoskey. It is about a half hour drive from downtown Charlevoix. If you are interested in the club, write Little Traverse Racquet Club, P.O. Box 170, Petoskey, Michigan 49770. The phone number is 347-5450.

It is much easier to improve tennis skills by playing all year long. This is why I am excited about an indoor tennis club fairly nearby. For the first time, anyone in the area seriously interested in improving his or her tennis game has the opportunity to do so. The club offers pure enjoyment, healthy exercise, and the opportunity to excel in tennis.

Whether you play for two months or the entire year, always be aware of a few tennis axioms. Without them, you cannot expect to improve your tennis game or even enjoy the game to the fullest.

The number one tennis axiom is to maintain good concentration at all times. Repeatedly, I mention how important it is to watch the ball all the way to the racquet. No shot is automatic. It is imperative that you concentrate on the ball and on what you are doing on every shot. If your concentration is good, then various distractions cannot upset you and your game.

Consistency is almost as important as concentration. Any player who is inconsistent will not be a winner. You must always remember that almost three quarters of all tennis points are decided by mistakes. If you keep the ball in play, you can only be defeated by a player who hits winners. Do not defeat yourself through mistakes. Be steady.

Once you feel you can keep the ball going indefinitely, work on your control. Practice hitting from side to side. Hit short shots to the forehand and then deep shots to the backhand. Solid control

Charlevoix Red Rayders Ready For Friday Nite

The Charlevoix Rayders, coached by Don Carey, will launch their 1974 football season Friday when they travel to Benzie county to take on Benzie Central.

The Rayders are opening one week later than other teams in the Michigan-Huron Shores league in which they finished in a second place tie with Petoskey last season.

Coach Carey said the team has shaped up well during its pre-season practice sessions during which the candidates displayed an unusually good attitude.

He has listed his tentative line-up for Friday's game. It will likely include Mike Streeter and Kevin Martin, Rayder speedsters, in the halfback positions, either Doug Smith, a junior, or Frank Muma as fullback and Bob Alger, a junior, as signal caller.

Line positions will go to Dave Martincheck and Dan Greene, ends; Kirk Lieberman and Phil Christ, tackles; Jim Sladek and Steve Bearss, guards and John Cinnamon, center.

He said that Jim Marsh and Steve Michael, both linemen, and Ed Russell, also will likely see action along with others.

The Rayders next game will be at Kipke field when they host Grayling.

Men Have 3-Way Tie

The men's softball league is in a turmoil. With just a few make-up games to go, Topside, American Mold, and Bourkes' Steak & Stein (formerly the Shed) are in a three way tie for first place. Each have just one loss.

Topside, who won the first round action, is already assured a spot in the play-offs. If Topside won the second round, a play-off would be unnecessary.

Early in the second round, Topside defeated American Mold, 14-5. Last week, Bourkes' nipped Topside 12-1f on a two run single by Dave Moyer in the bottom of the seventh. The very next night, however, American Mold defeated Bourkes' 6-4.

Each team has several make-up games to play but unless there is a major upset, the second round will end in the three way deadlock.

Bourkes' victory over the heavily favored Topside was a come-from-behind affair climaxed by Moyer's clutch two out, two run single. Down 10-5 in the bottom of the fifth, Bourkes' rallied for five runs.

Carlo DeAngelo singled, Pete Spieles was safe on an error, and Pat Kerr tripled them home. Gale Sheldon followed with a triple and scored when Glen Taylor was safe on another error. Jim Van Woerkom drove home the fifth run with a double.

Topside managed to take the lead again in the sixth when Ralph Doan was safe on an error and scored on a walk and two long fly balls.

Bourkes' came up in the bottom of the seventh trailing 10-9. Spieles was safe on an error. After Kerr flied out, Sheldon came through with a single.

A & W Beats Deputies

A&W won the post-season city tournament last week by bombing Charlevoix County Deputies 15-4.

After each team scored a run in the first, A & W exploded for five runs in the second and were never again threatened. Holly Garten and Connie Crain homered for A&W while Kathy Sladek collected three hits. Connie Shores contributed two hits to the offense and scored three runs.

Barb White was the winning ptcher allowing only seven hits. Tamie Mitchell was the loser for the Deputies.

A&W got to the finals by beating Community Reformed Church 2f-f3 and First State Bank 10-9. County Deputies reached the finals by defeating Paul Reed 10-9 and Ski & Shore 13-6.

League champions Kentucky Fried Chicken and Charlevoix County State Bank did not participate in the tournament.

COMMON COUNCIL

COUNCIL MINUTES AUGUST 26, 1974
8:00 p.m.

The Common Council of the City of Charlevoix met on the above date and time with Mayor Hansen presiding. Present: Aldermen Selph, Wallace, Wood, McRae, and Plumm. Absent: Alderman Timms.

The minutes of the August 12, 1974 Regular Meeting were approved as presented in writing and as recorded in the Council Minutes Book.

Council recessed to the Board of Appeals.

Roll call was again taken with all members present.

Alderman McRae offered the following Resolution and moved its adoption, supported by Alderman Selph.

RESOLUTION

RESOLVED THAT, Elmer and Norma Robinson be granted permission to split Lot 71 of Upright and Hurlbut's Addition to the Village (Now City) of Charlevoix, Michigan except the south f88' thereof, according to a certificate of survey dated June 8, 1974 by Nicholas B. DeYoung. The Resolution was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Aldermen Selph, Timms, Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen Wood, McRae, and Plumm. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Bids for bituminous paving, curb and gutter and driveways on Antrim Street between Grant and State Streets were opened and tabulated as follows:

Bidder: Tri-City Asphalt, Inc., Curb and Gutter, 1733 lineal ft. 5½ bag mix using local aggregates. Amount of Bid: 7.39 per ft. $12,814.50.

Bidder: Tri-City Asphalt, Inc. Curb and Gutter: 1733 lineal ft 5½ bag mix using frost free aggregate. Amount of Bid: 7.64 per ft. $13,247.75.

Bidder: Hodgkiss & Douma. Curb and Gutter: Removal of existing curb and gutter-replacement with new curb & gutter. Amount of Bid: $f3,930.00.

Bidder: Tri-City Asphalt, Inc., Bituminous paving: 860 lineal ft-33 ft. wide per spec., Amount of Bid: 352 Tons at $20.40, $7,180.80. Completion by last week in October.

Bidder: Hodgkiss & Douma, Inc., Bituminous paving: In accordance with specs including street preparation, adjusting structures, bond coat, skim coat for spalling & f½" surface course. Amount of Bid: $8,648.00.

Motion was made by Alderman Plumm and supported by Alderwoman Wallace that the City accept the bid of Tri-City for curb and gutter $13,247.75 and bituminous paving $7,f80.80 or a total of $20,428.55. The motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Aldermen Selph, Timms, Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen Wood, McRae, and Plumm. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Alderman Plumm offered the following Resolution and moved its adoption, supported by Alderwoman Wallace.

RESOLUTION

RESOLVED THAT Lot 3 (Three) of Grate Subdivision be approved for split into two parcels in accordance with survey drawing of Charlevoix Abstract and Engineering Company Job No. SB 6f11 as revised, dated May 6, 1974.

The Resolution was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Aldermen Selph, Timms, Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen Wood, McRae, and Plumm. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Motion was made by Alderman Plumm and supported by Alderman McRae that the City of Charlevoix pay the annual dues of f974-75 to the Michigan Municipal Electric Association in the amount of $468.00. The motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Aldermen Selph, Timms, Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen Wood, McRae, and Plumm. Nays: None. Absent: None.

A citizens' request was heard for the need of a light at Garfield and Bridge. The Acting Administrator informed Council that the State Highway Dept. had been approached in the matter and new traffic controls have been ordered for this area by the State of Michigan, which can be activated by the school crossing guard.

Alderman McRae reported he had discussed with Boyne City and East Jordan the possibility of the three Cities working together to accept the same building code and to use the same building inspector. He asked that the City publish the fees for building permits and asked that bids be gotten from the Courier and Northland Press for printing of the Council Minutes. He also asked that the Acting Administrator get a local insurance agent to explain to Council "Flood Insurance".

Alderman Timms asked that the Courier investigate the possibility of the City having a contract for printing of the minutes. Mr. Winters will report back to Mr. Timms.

Alderman Selph questioned the final bill of G & T Construction. It was felt that Mr. Boss should give Council a final written report of the work of G & T Construction.

Attorney Berlage was requested to finalize the settlement with G & T Construction and the Clerk was instructed to hold back $6,000 from the final bill at this time.

The engineering bill dated August 19, 1974 from Gregory Shadko for $1,000 for work done-Industrial Park, f969 was discussed. The Clerk was instructed to hold payment on this invoice until a thorough check is made of what had been paid when the work was done.

Alderwoman Wallace again asked that the sidewalk on Park Avenue along the Sand Castle property be replaced.

Alderman McRae offered the following Resolution and moved its adoption, supported by Alderman Plumm.

RESOLUTION

RESOLVED THAT, Certificates of Deposit No. f965 for $30,000 and No. 2728 for $10,000 belonging to the Electric Fund be cashed and that the $40,000 from the cashing of these Certificates of Deposit be loaned to the Water and Sanitation Special Assessment Fund.

The Resolution was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Aldermen Selph, Timms, Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen Wood, McRae, and Plumm. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Alderman Plumm offered the following Resolution and moved its adoption, supported by Alderwoman Wallace.

RESOLUTION

RESOLVED THAT, a loan of $230.00 be made from the Electric Fund to the Federal Revenue Sharing Fund.

The Resolution was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Aldermen Selph, Timms, Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen Wood, McRae, and Plumm. Nays: None. Absent: None.

The recommendations by the auditors, as outlined in their letter dated May 20, 1974 and reviewed by Council, were approved and the Clerk and Treasurer instructed to carry them out except the payment of the volunteer ambulance and fire fees. The Attorney and Clerk were requested to discuss this item further with John Fought, the auditor.

The Finance Committee having examined bills totaling $f67,029.44 find them correct and recommend they be allowed. Motion was made by Alderman Plumm and supported by Alderman McRae that the bills be allowed and orders drawn for their amounts. Motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Aldermen Selph, Timms, Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen Wood, McRae, and Plumm. Nays: None. Absent: None.

The Council adjourned.

Ida A. Heise, City Clerk

BOARD OF APPEALS AUGUST 26, f974
8:f0 p.m.

The Board of Appeals met on the above date and time with Mayor Hansen presiding. Aldermen present: Selph, Alderwoman Wallace, Wood, McRae, and Plumm. Absent: Alderman Timms.

The request of Ronald Steffes for a building permit dated August 21, 1974 to construct twenty carports at The Dunes Condominium on Michigan Avenue with variances included was presented to the Board of Appeals.

Enter Alderman Timms.

About 35 citizens were present, including Mr. Bruce Conradson of the Michigan State Highway Department.

Mr. Steffes was asked by the Mayor to explain his reasons for the late request for getting the permit. He stated he had not realized that he needed a permit for the carport, for which he apologized. He explained his first intent when he asked for his original permit was to put in underground parking, but because of changes necessary in building the Condominium found he needed more space for parking. Mr. Steffes explained his intent to lower the roof of the carport and to landscape the area, between the carport and sidewalk, with a green belt, using earth berm, trees, low shrubs and garden lighting. He further agreed to keeping the sidewalk free of snow and debris.

Mr. Conradson explained their work with Mr. Steffes for good access to the State Trunkline and that he had no quarrel with the developer. He explained that they would allow Mr. Steffes to put in a guard rail according to State specifications and that the State would maintain it.

After several "pro" and "con" comments regarding the issuance of the permit by interested citizens the question was put to Council regarding the issuance of the variance requested on building permit No. 181.

Motion was made by Alderman McRae and supported by Alderman Wood that the request of The Dunes Condominium to erect a carport within the 25 ft. front yard set-back requirements be denied. The motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Alderman Selph, Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen Wood, McRae, and Plumm. Nays: Alderman Timms. Absent: None.

The Board of Appeals adjourned to the regular Council meeting.

Ida A. Heise, City Clerk

Mr. and Mrs. George Belusar of Cleveland spent the past three weeks with her sister, Betty Taylor. Their brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Gerritsen and family of Greensburg, Pa., spent two weeks at Oyster Bay, returning home before the Labor Day weekend.

Guests of Fay Erdman were her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Erdman of Hamburg.

Bay Residents Ask For Zoning Recall

Residents of Bay Township have petitioned for a referendum vote on the Township Zoning Ordinance which was adopted last month.

There were 42 legitimate signatures on the petition returned to Township Clerk Paul E. Chamberlain. Circulators of the petition were Mrs. Betty Johnecheck, Mrs. Jennie Jodway, Mrs. Helen Bergmann, and Renold Wiflis.

Mrs. Johnecheck delivered the petition to Chamberlain, saying that she felt township residents should have an opportunity to vote on whether or not they wanted zoning.

No objections to the ordinance were raised at either public meeting.

The referendum will be on a special ballot at the November general election.

her uncle and aunt, the Lundteigens, rather than the Youth for Understanding program. However, there is an exchange involved while Elin is here, her cousin, Nine, is enrolled at the Hustell Skole at Dramman in the mountains midway between Oslo and Bergen. Here she will study cooking as well as weaving. She lives at the school.

Elin, 16, is a sophomore at the high school. In order that she might attend school here, it had to be approved by the immigration department. Mr. Lundteigen and Vane H. Smith, high school, worked on the project a major part of the summer.

A native of Norway, Mr. Lundteigen speaks Norwegian fluently as does his family after several summers spent in Norway. Until she went to school, she spoke little English though her cousin, Erik, speaks to her only in English.

Her father, Otto Lundteigen, operates a store in Oslo. Her mother, Astrid, a Dane, is a housewife. Elin has two younger sisters.

She said Norwegians eat much more fish than people here and that they always have potatoes every day. They eat a great deal of bread but it is dark bread.

All three speak English very well when one considers that until now they have, in most instances, spoken only classroom English. They all carry dictionaries and are quick to check them for translation to English from their native tongues.

They also compared American schools to schools they had been attending. They said they carried more subjects per day, attended school more hours perday and even attended school on Saturday.

They have all studied several languages, some for as much as five years.

Leena and Elin are typical northern European with blue eyes, fair complexions and very blonde hair. George, on the other hand, has brown eyes, an olive complexion and dark hair.

flood or erosion damage would occur to residential property. Some of this property was developed during the mid-sixties, when lake levels were at their lowest.

Because of the high value of lakeshore, the building was carried out down to the lowest possible level, even for that historically low period. Obviously, a return to even average levels for the lakes could only result in flood damage to these properties.

In conclusion, the report reads, "The lesson to be drawn from this example is that building should not follow the fluctuations of lake levels but should be maintained at a safe height above the lakes."

"Appropriate authorities should act to institute land use zoning and structural setback requirements to reduce future shoreline damage," the report continues.

"The Great Lakes are a dynamic natural system. Their water levels will fluctuate even with regulation. In periods of highwater, storm-driven waves will flood and erode vulnerable shorelands. To live in harmony with this environment and avoid continual losses, man must keep development out of the danger zone." The State of Michigan in 1970 passed the Shorelands Protection and Management Act to prevent building too close to the Great Lakes. It took three years to put the act into working form and it was to have gone into effect last April 1. However, the legislature passed an amendment to the act setting back implementation to July 1, 1975 to give local units an opportunity to set up operating rules.

The Shorelands Protection and Management Act is concerned only with shorelines on the Great Lakes.

Building on inland lakes such as Round Lake and Lake Charlevoix is governed by the Inland Lakes and Streams Act of 1972. Dredging of ponds within 500 feet of a lake, building a sea wall, and similar construction below the ordinary high water mark requires a permit from the Hydrological Survey Division of the Department of Natural Resources.

Construction of a residence or other building above the high water mark does not require a permit.

enables you to be in command of a point. Moving the ball around the court and mixing the speed of your shots are your primary objectives in the quest for good control.

After concentration, consistency, and control have been developed to a satisfactory level, then and only then work on power. It is disastrous to be in a hurry to develop power. For it is only necessary to have power at the highest level of tennis. There is a definite place for power, but concentration, consistency and control must come first.

COMMUNITY REFORMED CHURCH OF CHARLEVOIX

A.F. Mansen, Pastor
Corner of U.S. 31 and Meech St., Charlevoix

Twenty-five years after Columbus discovered America Martin Luther nailed his 95 theses on the door of the Wittenburg Chapel. This marked the beginning of that period known in Church History as the Reformation. Other men, including John Calvin, also espoused the cause of the Reformation. He set the intellectual pattern of the Reformed Church. This marks the beginning of the Reformed Church.

In the year 1628 the first Dutch Reformed Church was established in America in New Amsterdam, now New York. This is the oldest Protestant Church in America with an uninterrupted ministry.

After the Revolutionary War people of other ethnic backgrounds began to come into the Church and the use of the Dutch language disappeared.

In 1867 the name was changed from Reformed Dutch Church to the Reformed Church in America. At the present time the Reformed Church has over 900 congregations scattered throughout our nation. While originally ministering largely to people of Dutch extraction now many of the congregations are composed of many other ethnic groups including some of other races.

Our local Community Reformed Church had its beginning in 1904 in South Barnard. In 1940 it erected a new structure on Barnard Road. This building is still in use having been converted into a house. In 1962 our present structure was erected. Beginning in the Fall of 1973 and completed in the Spring of 1974 an educational unit was added.

We currently number about seventy families. We have two worship services every Sunday -- three during the summer months -- and Sunday School classes for all ages.

We have a Christian Fellowship Club which meets once a month; a woman's Guild which also meets once a month. A W.H.O. (We Help Others) circle and various Prayer Groups which meet in the different homes. We also have various activities for the young people. High School and Post Hi, groups. The government of the local congregation is in the hands of a group known as the Consistory. This group is composed of Elders and Deacons and is elected by the members of the Congregation. Anyone who wishes to serve and worship the Lord is welcome to meet with us.

Chx. High Hosts Three Visitors

By FRAN MARTIN

The Charlevoix High School has taken on a cosmopolitan air with the arrival of three students from abroad who will be spending the school year here.

They are George Papadourakis of Thessalonika, Greece and Leena Kaijala, of Tapiola, Finland, who are here under the Youth for Understanding program and Elin Ludteigen Oslo, Norway, niece of Gunnar Ludteigen who has arrived to spend a year with her uncle and aunt.

George is with the Ray Stone family and Leena with Mr. and Mrs. Max Hosmer.

All three have been here only two weeks and have had little time to learn much about the country.

However, all have mentioned the friendliness of all those they have met, especially the students at school.

They have been introduced to American food and already have developed a liking for American hamburgers.

George, 15, is the son of Lt. Col. Michael Papadourakis and Mrs. Papadourakis who are presently living in Thessalonika. His father is a career man in the Greek Army.

He has two brothers, one older and one younger.

Though only 15 years of age, he is a high school senior. He was born in Patras but, like children of all service people, has lived in various parts of his country, mostly for two year periods, much like American service families.

Until his father moved to his present assignment, the family lived in Cyprus for two years.

In answer to questions relating to the present situation there, he said the trouble has been brewing for many years.

The island was under English rule when the people demanded a referendum, in 1950.

He said 95 percent of the people voted for joining Greece and adopting a republican form of government. In 1955 it became a reality and the British began to leave. By 1965 the British had only two bases on the island.

In the early days of the republic, the Greeks who composed approximately 70 percent of the population and the Turks the remaining 30 percent of a population of 500,000 people.

However, the Turks began moving into the northern more fertile and industrialized northern part of the island where the olive, lemon and orange groves are grown and the garment factories, power plants and other industries were located.

As they moved north, they became more demanding and refused to pay water and electric bills while the Greeks were made to. Disharmony developed and the Greeks moved to the less desirable parts of the island.

Located along the Mediterranean sea, the country's temperature ranges from approximately 60 degrees in the winter and climbs toward 100 degrees in the summer.

Most of the fruit and eating olives are exported, mostly to England. Other olives are raised for their oil which is processed on the island.

When the trio was together, they talked about the trees native to their country. Both girls said many of the trees here were found in their country. Leena has seen a weeping willow, which is new to her, and has taken several pictures to be sent home.

In Greece, George said that the tall poplar tree was found and that the only place one sees evergreen trees is high in the mountains. Many flowers found here also are found in Norway and Finland though in Greece they are more tropical blooms.

Leena 16 and a senior arrived from her native Finland in time to accompany the Hosmer family on a vacation trip aboard their boat. They went from here to Beaver Island and on to Mackinac Island where they spent several days. She loved the place with all its historical landmarks and hopes to return before going home.

Her home in Tapiola is approximately 10 kilometers from the capital city of Finland, Helsinki.

She says they eat much more bread there than here but that it is dark bread. Her father, Erkki, is an engineer and her mother a nurse. She has a younger brother.

Elin is here as the guest of

...An Ole Fashion Sunday

Sunday was a grand ole day for Charlevoix County senior citizens.

Decked out in their Sunday best, the oldsters showed up several hundred strong at the Whiting Park Community Hall.

What was it all about?

Some said it was just to have a good time and be around some people their own age.

Others were just curiosity seekers trying to figure out what Charlevoix County's new Commission on Aging was all about.

Anyways, they were the ones who had sent out the invites for the Charlevoix County Senior Citizen Day and why not take them up on it.

And that's just what Charlevoix County's old timers did.

They packed the metal pole barn hall and weren't afraid to let anyone know they were having the time of their lives.

Several even kicked out the old soft shoes, when they heard a local combo play, "Tiny Bubbles", "Just Because", and "Behind Closed Doors."

If the music wasn't enjoyable the food and conversation was.

"We're just trying to get senior citizens together from the three towns," explained Vern Whiteford in the noise-filled room.

"It was just to acquaint them a little bit with what the Commission on Aging is doing."

For most, it didn't really matter who sponsored the free dinner, it was just an excuse to meet some other folks.

"I just came down with the group from Boyne City," said Robert Wilson of Boyne City.

"Curiosity," interjected his wife.

"We just wanted to find out what it's all about."

Sixty-seven-year-old Wilson said it was just one of the many things he and his wife are doing since his retirement several years ago.

"I'm just enjoying life," said the former Detroiter.

"There's a lot of freedom to do things I could never do before."

Mrs. Alma Martin of Advance said she came because she wanted to know more about the senior citizens and what's going on in and around the county.

"I came just for fun," said Gay Erber of Boyne City.

"I wanted to meet other people."

Mr. and Mrs. William Zitka of East Jordan said they came for about the same reason.

"We were invited to come," they quipped.

"We're seniors you know."

Being a senior citizen didn't seem to bother anyone. In fact, some were proud.

Mrs. Janet Barber said being a senior citizen was great.

"We have no responsibilities like we did when we were raising our families, so there's time to have fun."

Another area resident asked what else one could be when people got to be this age.

"You've got to be a senior citizen or be dead."

One Charlevoix couple said they like to associate with people their own age and that this was a great time to do it.

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY senior citizens were out in full force last Sunday for an old fashion Sunday dinner and get together sponsored by the Charlevoix County Commission on Aging.

Court Blocks City In Carport Row

Charlevoix Circuit Court Judge Martin Breighner ordered the City of Charlevoix Monday not to interfer with completion of the Dunes Condominium carports.

The temporary restraining order allows Developer Ron Steffes and the Charon Land Investment Corp. to complete construction of the 20-unit carport despite a Sept. 11 order from the city to demolish and abandon the project because they claim it is in violation of the city's zoning ordinance.

However, only hours after the city clerk received the court order, City Attorney Don Berlage said the city would ask the court Tuesday for a modification of its order and not permit completion of the project until they show cause hearing was held.

The hearing date has been set for 1 p.m., Sept. 24, in the Charlevoix County Courthouse.

City officials argue that the partially constructed carport has already existed for five to six weeks, and feel they could wait another six days until the case is heard by the court.

Under the present restraining order, Steffes is allowed to complete construction of the project because the court is satisfied with the developer's claim that severe deterioration could take place to carport structure if it is not finished.

Late last month, city council denied Steffes' request for a variance to construct the carport, which had already been partially built without a building permit, at the Dunes property on Michigan Avenue.

Council had called the special Board of Appeals meeting after Steffes learned that the carports he was constructing in front of his new condominiums did not have a building permit.

Earlier in August and at the appeals meeting, neighboring property owners voiced objections to the carports primarily for an alleged safety hazard it would cause to pedestrians walking less than three feet away on the public sidewalk.

In submitting application to allow the carports to remain at their present location instead of 25 feet further back, Steffes proposed to undertake several safety programs not presently done by the city.

Among his proposals were to maintain an open walk through the winter at his own expense, install and maintain low profile garden lighting for sidewalk illumination and to erect a guard rail between the walk and street.

In addition, the general contractor offered to lower the existing carport heighth.

However, city officials still refused to grant a variance and ordered the carport demolished.

In his court petition, Steffes

Abandonment Blocked?

Railroad Petitions Turned Over

Petitions bearing the signatures of several hundred area residents asking for a delay in plans for abandonment of rail service in Northwestern Michigan were delivered to the Northwest Regional Planning and Development Commission in Traverse City recently.

These signatures are a forerunner to the thousands being sought in an effort to extend the time limitation on abandonment of all rail service to the area, as now proposed by the United States Railway Association.

The Association was set up last winter by Congress to reorganize bankrupt railroads, and in their plans 2,200 miles of railroad track in the lower peninsula of Michigan were labeled "potentially excess". Trackage in Northwestern Michigan was included in this category.

Supporting the petitions are representatives from agriculture, business and government who see the proposed rail abandonment as a threat to the economic and social well being of the area.

Governor Milliken recently announced that perhaps not all of the 2,200 miles of track previously considered excess would be abandoned. However, it is the fear of local petitioners that that which is abandoned will be in Northwestern Michigan.

The petition asks that any plans for rail abandonment be held up until a local-regional transportation system suited to the area can be developed.

The impact of public opinion against rail abandonment was noted at last week's Regional Planning and Development Commission meeting when it was announced that through the intervention of the Regional Commission, the scheduled abandonment of a rail spur into Northport is to be delayed.

The Regional Commission contacted the Interstate Commerce Commission in Washington after learning about an assessment of rail abandonment impact made by the I.C.C.

The assessment stated that such abandonment would not significantly affect the environment of the county, the amount of traffic being handled on the spur was minimal, adequate alternative transportation was available over the surrounding highway system, and there is a lack of specific development planning in the area.

The Regional Commission answered that M-22 is the primary highway upon which transportation demand would fall in the event of rail service abandonment and that this highway is a scenic highway connecting Traverse City with the Sleeping Bear National Lakeshore Park.

The Regional Commission also noted that lack of rail service would kill fruit processing operations in the area and would put additional demands on the already short fuel supplies.

They also pointed out that the drop in use of rail service is the result of unacceptable customer service.

Could Build Soon

County Considers Shelter

Members of the Charlevoix County Commission's Building and Grounds committee agreed Monday night to set aside funds for construction of a county dog shelter.

Meeting with the Charlevoix County Human Society, the committee said they would request a building fund be established with hopes of constructing a new facility next year.

County officials are considering the building be placed on county property adjacent to the county jail in Charlevoix.

Early last summer it was learned that the Charlevoix County dog shelter in Boyne City might be shut down this fall because the shelter did not meet minimum state requirements for such facilities.

Dr. George Lombard, veterinarian with the state Department of Agriculture who is in charge of inspecting animal shelters in this part of the state, at that time cited several violations of the state law covering standards for buildings in which dogs are detained.

Most violations related to the lack of running water in the building, which makes proper cleaning and sanitizing of food pans and walls and floors impossible.

Another violation was a wooden door which would permit rats to enter the building and would not be secure enough to prevent break-ins and stealing of dogs.

Ventilation and lighting were also mentioned as not meeting state standards. There is no electricity in the building.

There was a scare in the county later in the summer when several dogs were released from the shelter by vandals. Two of the dogs were being held for observation as possible rabies victims.

However, these dogs were later recaptured without causing any known harm.

The Courier contacted Dr. Lombard again lst week to learn what the state's present stand on the county dog shelter is.

He said that as long as the Board of Commissioners and What's Happening to Charlevoix Schools?

Charlevoix School Supt. Jim McKimmy isn't sure what the fate of Charlevoix schools will be following defeat of last week's bond proposal for construction of a new high school.

A record number of Charlevoix School district voters went to the polls Thursday to veto two proposals.

The first, a $6.99 million bond proposal for the construction of a complete new high school complex and remodeling of the present high school as a middle school, was turned down 1,363 to 518.

The second, a $600,000 proposal to underwrite the cost of a swimming pool, was voted down 1403 to 481.

"I'm very ambivalent this morning," McKimmy told the Courier Friday.

He said he was faced with two groups of people, those who started with the building proposal project and those who defeated the proposal even after careful study.

As a result, McKimmy said the district will now be faced with making crisis decisions instead of the long range planned out ones it has been accustomed to.

The Charlevoix School superintendent said he read the negative vote as strictly an economic situation and not a rebellion against himself or philosophy of education.

"I think there were also some minor issues regarding the decision," he continued.

McKimmy said he thought some residents were upset with the board's choice for a site and the price they had to pay for it.

In addition, he said there seemed to still be a large number of people who think the present middle school is adequate despite the need for a service elevator and threats from the State Fire Marshall to close portions of the building because they are unsafe.

Another reason residents voted against the proposals, McKimmy said, was because the board did not choose the year-round school as its first alternative.

Also, McKimmy said that some residents think the present high school should be expanded even though last Thursday's election was the third time voters had turned down proposal expansion. It was also defeated in 1968 and 1972

Finally, he said many senior citizens were suspicious about the actual tax relief they would receive.

McKimmy says the board will now have to take a look at what they see as the conditions.

"Immediately, we will be taking a look at next year," he said, indicating they will probably have to split the fifth grade between the elementary and middle school.

For the next three years, McKimmy said the board will probably reconvene the citizen's committee and explore split-day sessions, repeating the bond issue and offering an alternative bond issue.

A Winner...

The Courier's first football contest of the year has turned up a winner who has set the pace early for all of the prognosticators in the area. Steve Berlage, 407 Michigan Avenue, Charlevoix, turned a perfect score, picking every winner, missing only on the tiebreaker total–which was not needed to win. Mrs. Jean Sutton, 103 W. Carpenter, Charlevoix, missed only one selection, letting a preference for the local team spoil her entry. A great start for the experts!

Bikers Take A Hike...

EVEN BOB CLOCK of Charlevoix gave a few extra grunts and made the trek around Lake Charlevoix on Saturday afternoon to maintain his traditional trip. (Photo by Sara Gay Dammann)

BY SANDRA GAY DAMMANN

There were two distinct styles of bicycling in Saturday's Lakeside Bicycle Tour around Lake Charlevoix.

As one 38 mile rider observed, "You'll recognize the Century Tourers, 100 milers, by their straight lines, steady pace and strained smile."

The 38 milers were unmistakable.

They rode in laughing chatting groups, stopping to have a drink from provisions they carried, pick up an interesting rock, stretch out on the grass at rest stops, tie a shoe lace, take off a sweater as the day warmed, and play tourist at various places around Lake Charlevoix.

The Century tourers were all business. Gary Hunter, 17, of Petoskey, epitomized the 100 milers. In order to qualify for the League of American Wheelmen (LAW) patch the 100 had to be completed in 12 hours.

Gary did it in 6 hours, 55 minutes, nearly an hour ahead of the second finisher. There is no reward for speed or being first.

He said he made it a personal race. "It's fun afterwards to know you did it, that you are able to."

Asked what he thought about as he pushed his unswerving steady course of a little more than 15 mph average, Gary laughed, "I wondered why I ever started."

The small group at Ferry Avenue beach when Gary finished were the few 38 milers that Gary hadn't passed twice in his solo race. Someone quipped, "You must wonder what makes you so competitive as to care."

Gary laughed and nodded in agreement.

Some 200 riders made the tour. Thirty-five did the Century Tour for the LAW patch. Both groups began from Ferry Avenue Beach, the Century trippers at 7:30 a.m., the 38 milers around 10 a.m. All went south along the south shore of Lake Charlevoix, the 100 milers going down M-66 to East Jordan and then back north up the peninsula to join the route of the 38 milers who crossed over at Ironton. Then down to Boyne City and back to town via the Boyne City Road. The 100 milers repeated the 38 mile trip.

The tour was founded in 1971, the brainchild of Bob Clock and the Chamber of Commerce, to encourage downtown merchants to bike to work hopefully solving a parking problem.

That first year the tour was 38 miles. The hundred mile tour was added later and in 1973 was sanctioned by L.A.W. The Chamber charges $3.00 per person and $7.00 for family groups. Three rest stops with free refreshments were set up, at Whiting Park, lunch at the waterfront park in Boyne City, and more juices and cokes at Millar's Studio on the Boyne City Road.

Organized bike touring groups like the Little Traverse Travellers of Petoskey; The Rapid Wheelmen, Grand Rapids; Grand Traverse Touring Club, Traverse City and many families participated.

The youngest rider, four month old Nicholas Pohlman from Kentwood, near Grand Rapids, slept the trip on his father Steve's back, in a backpack. Sonja Clason, 69, of Ellsworth, the oldest rider, and her friend Alice Richards led one group of 38 milers in the home stretch up the Boyne City Rd.

Bike styles were varied. Bob Clock, who said he felt obliged to continue in the tradition he helped spawn, rode a venerable ¾" not-so-thin tired, ungeared monster, whose

County Commissioners Invade Beaver Island

By PEG OHLE

Beaver Islanders were close to county government last Saturday, and they seemed to enjoy it.

Eleven members of the Board of Commissioners, accompanied by representatives from several county offices, went to the Island to hear about the special problems of that part of Charlevoix County.

They fielded questions about representation, police protection, taxes, road maintenance, solid waste disposal and building codes as they apply specifically to Beaver Island.

One speaker asked the Commissioners why the Island had to be represented by a commissioner who lived on the mainland, who does not go to the island, and who is not familiar with their problems. "We have lost representation," she said.

Another speaker jestingly suggested "another tea party."

The good news brought to the Islanders was an explanation of why their taxes will be lower this year. They did not ask for an allocation for operation of their school because they have enough money on hand to support it this year, hence lower taxes.

Beaver Island needs a tanker to supplement its fire engine and a truck for snow removal. They were promised both when they could be acquired.

Additional police protection was also requested, especially during the summer months when the influx of vacationers increases the population many fold. It was explained that the whole county has this problem.

New state laws are also of concern to residents of Beaver Island. The new Building Code, the Shorelands Protection Act, and the Soil Erosion and Sedimentation Act will require inspections and permits. One speaker inquired if a local resident could be deputized to handle enforcement on the Island. He was promised some kind of solution.

James Janda, St. James Township Supervisor, conducted the meeting. Several other officials from both St. James and Peaine Townships participated in both the sightseeing and tour and meeting.

The meeting ended with a feeling of mutual good will and hope for more such meetings.

The Islanders were good hosts. A group of them met the visitors at the dock and drove them around the countryside, pointing out places of interest and historical significance. Those seeing the Island for the first time expressed surprise at its rugged, natural beauty.

Commissioners who made the good will trip, at their own expense, were Delbert Ingalls, Joe Kullik, Thora Kotowich, Harry Griffen, Harry Tompkins, Clyde Cunningham, Ira Davis, Clayton Smith, Ralph Richardson, Kenneth Staley, and Don Meggison.

Also representing the county were Clarence Rabach, clerk; James McCallum, sheriff; Joan Blanchard, Equalization Department; Michael Coughlin, Social services; Alice Tunison, Civil Defense; Larry Levengood, Health Department; Don Graham, Road Commission; William Ohle, Planning Commission; and Ronald Geer, Drain Commissioner.

The visitors were offered Dramamine pills before boarding the boat for their return trip. The medication helped some, but not all, as they bounced toward Charlevoix on high seas.

State Coaches Honor Kipke

Ray Kipke

Ray L. "Stub" Kipke, retired Rayder coach, was inducted into the Michigan High School Coaches Hall of Fame recently thus becoming the first Charlevoix high school coach to be accorded such an honor.

He was among 15 high school coaches named over a three year period to be inducted at a formal ceremony at Central Michigan University in Mt. Pleasant recently. Two honorary members, former Michigan State football coach, Duffy Daugherty, and Hal Schram, Detroit Free Press sports writer, were inducted at the same time.

Kipke had coached both Junior Varsity and Varsity football and basketball teams here from September 1928 until his retirement in June 1950. Prior to that he had coached the first team the Boys' Vocational School in Lansing ever fielded and at Williamsburg.

After retiring as head coach, Kipke continued on the faculty as a math teacher until 1964.

Participants attended the Kent State CMU football game and a dinner at the University Center Ballroom where the formal program was held.

Among those attending the dinner was a former associate at the Boys Vocational School in Lansing at the time Kipke coached its first team, Sherman 'Red' Hicks.

Accompanying Coach Kipke were his wife and their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John (Amy) Gibson of Pinconning.

Others who attended were Mr. and Mrs. James Alger, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Loper and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wojan of Charlevoix and Norman Ketchman of Stevensville. Alger is president of the Charlevoix Sports Boosters and Mrs. Alger, the former Faye Meggison, is a former cheerleader. Loper, Wojan and Ketchman are former Rayder athletes.

Kipke is the third coach in the former Northern Michigan Class C league to be inducted into the Coaches' Hall of Fame. The others are Matt Jacobson of Mancelona who was present recently when Coach Kipke was inducted and Earl Brotherson of Boyne City.

Cystic Fibrosis Starts Campaign

Over 100,000 children in the state of Michigan suffer from cystic fibrosis, the lung disease which is the number one genetic killer of children.

An intensive campaign to raise funds for research in the field of cystic fibrosis is being conducted this month. The theme, "IT'S JUST A MATTER OF TIME" refers to the time that research will pay off and guarantee a full lifetime to all children who suffer from cystic fibrosis.

Community Chest Drive Needs Your Donations

The 1974 Charlevoix Community Chest fund campaign which is now under way deserves the support of everyone in the area.

Giving to the Chest is an easy way to help those who have helped us. Almost every family has a member who in some way has benefited from one of the 14 participating agencies.

Children are helped through the work of Boy Scouts and Girls Scouts, the Charlevoix-Emmet Association for Retarded Children, the Michigan Children's Aid Society, the Big Brothers, and Camp Daggett.

Everyone is helped through the work of the Salvation Army, the Red Cross, Charlevoix Hospital, Charlevoix Community Nurse, Planned Parenthood, and the recreation programs provided by Mt. McSauba and the City of Charlevoix.

Almost all the money collected in Charlevoix is allocated to Charlevoix agencies so it is really a matter of neighbor helping neighbor.

Last year the Chest did not meet is goal, so each agency had to cut its budget and reduce its services. Let's not permit this to happen this year. We need all the services these agencies can possibley give.

If you have not yet received a letter asking for a contribution, you will soon. Don't ignore it or lose it. Reply with a check as large or as small as your means and spirit will permit.

WHAT ARE you doing to help the Community Chest Drive. Harold Bliss (center), Barb Berlage (left) and Betty LaRouche have been donating their time to help campaign for badly needed funds.

School Board Should Not Give Up Building Plans

A record number of Charlevoix school district voters went to the polls Thursday to veto two proposals.

The first, a $6.99 million bond proposal for the construction of a complete new high school complex and addition to and remodeling of the present high school as a middle school, was turned down by a vote of 1363 to 518.

The second, a $600,000 proposal to underwrite the cost of a swimming pool, was voted down by a vote of 1403 to 481.

The question now is what happens to the Charlevoix School District?

Does the school board attempt to go back for another bond issue or do they try to survive with the present conditions?

We feel that school district should try for another bond issue, except this time take into consideration what the residents say they do not want.

Perhaps, the board should just consider construction of a new middle school or look seriously into expanding the present high school.

Commenting on the vote, Supt. James A. McKimmy said he felt it reflected the concern of the people regarding the unstable condition of the economy.

He went on to say that many people who had supported school issues in the past told him they could not afford to support this one as much as they realized the additional space was needed.

He said that the board of education would be discussing alternatives at its next meeting and would likely be sampling the community for an indication on what route to take to handle the problems created by the growing enrollment.

This year's enrollment is presently at 1760, an increase from 1701 on 'count day' in 1973.

The high school, built to house 472 students, has 580 enrolled; the middle school with a capacity of 452 students now houses 473 after 128 fifth grade students were moved to the elementary school which now has an enrollment of 698 which is near its capacity.

A study of enrollment figures reveals the need for more space, especially in the middle and high schools.

The board of education will be faced with finding an alternative to a new school to care for the increase in enrollment.

Year-around school (45-15) and split sessions are presently the alternatives open to the board. However, they will not be initiated during the present school year.

However, before resorting to those two alternatives, we think the board should go back to the voters with another school construction proposal.

The longer construction is held up, the more taxpayers will have to pay.

Clockwise

By BOB CLOCK

There's only one totally acceptable solution to the myriad problems created by President Ford's untimely pardon of his ill-starred predecessor, Richard M. Nixon.

That would be to have Mr. Nixon reject the pardon and request Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski to proceed with all possible vigor in his investigation of the Watergate cover-up and associated White House scandals.

Such a move not only would serve to quiet the hysterical uproar touched off by the pardon but would raise Nixon's stock by no small margin in the eyes of the American people.

Questions remain whether Nixon is man enough, or well enough, to take such a bold step and face the consequences — one of which could be a few months in the scandals.

If Nixon does not reject the pardon, there are rough days ahead for the Ford presidency, the courts and the American people.

Although President Ford says he won't issue a blanket pardon to the Watergate culprits, he may be forced into just such a move.

How, for example, could a jury ever honestly weigh the evidence against H.R. Haldeman and John Ehrlichman when they come to trail, knowing full-well that the real culprit in the whole Watergate mess is home free on an unconditional pardon by the president of the United States?

The pardon even turns the job of jury selection into a well-nigh impossible task. Would you like to sit with the Haldeman-Ehrlichman jury?

President Ford is said to believe that because Richard Nixon accepted his pardon, he assumed guilt in the Watergate cover-up Yet is it morally right for one man to go free and others to languish in prision for the same offense?

We hope not.

The easiest out, of course, for Mr. Ford, the courts and the American people would be to have Richard Nixon refuse the pardon and take his chances with the rest of the Watergate defendants.

But it is not like Mr. Nixon to do what is best for the country. He has defended himself, his position and his presidency for so long now that little else matters. Not even his friends.

Reader Doesn't Like Court

September 10, 1974

Charlevoix Courier

Charlevoix, Michigan 49720

To Whom It May Concern:

In reference to 'Friend of Court Has Tough Image' of August 28, 1974. I apologize for waiting until now to write but I only now have finished reading the article. I would appreciate you publishing this response anonymously.

I have no use for pompus old men, who use their chronological maturity as credentials for wisdom, although it often accompanies the aging process, it does not always coincide with a persons age or their ability to learn or have learned by their experiences.

When the man came to "his" office there may have been nothing. Now is there really anything more than two conscientious, hardworking women. Without them, I'm afraid an old man's ego filling escapades would be creating more problems than he could hope to solve. There are, through him with his ineptness and misjudgements, many injustices done; including many children not getting their support.

I feel the attempt in the August article to show the shiny side of a previously tarnished coin will not be sufficient to prevent the public from eventually seeing the bottom side of the coin which, in the present hands, has increased in deterioration. Even presently my sentiments are shared by more thun just a few.

Dear Mr. Welke,

Please forgive the delay in writing and expressing my sincere appreciation for the flight to Harbor Springs while vacationing at my mother-in-law's home on the Island.

My recovery from the ordeal has been much slower than anticipated, and it's only been this week that I was able to return full time to work.

Major surgery was averted only by your timely flight to the mainland. My doctor here has advised me, that had we waited only a few more hours, permanent damage would have been done to the cardiac valve (the opening from the esophagus into the stomach). While the attention given to me on the Island was outstanding, the absence of a gastro-intestinal specialist, familiar with this problem plus the absence of a fluoroscopy machine, made your flight imperative!

Please accept my sincere gratitude for your "mercy flight" on my behalf!

Enclosed is a small token of my appreciation for the services provided by the Beaver Island Evacuation Service. A most worthwhile community undertaking!

Very Sincerely,
Thomas H. Bussell

Board Says Thanks

To the Editor:

The members of the Charlevoix Board of Education wish to express our appreciation to the Charlevoix Education Association and it's team of teachers who so ably represented them in the recent contract negotiations.

To Bill Murray, Vince Chew, Barbara Beriage, Connie Drury, Barbara Wilson, Karen Hinds, Nelson Green and Barry Anderson, we say a special thank you for their many hours of thoughtful deliberations.

In the spirit of understanding that concluded the sessions, we will be looking forward to many enjoyable, shared experiences in the months to come.

Respectfully,

Stumping the Woods

...With Ollie O. Stump jr.

Then there was the jim-dandy camouflage job during the potato 'surplus'. Remember how they were dyed to render them unfit for human consumption? Millions of spuds colored like Easter eggs at a time when both potatoes and eggs were a luxury along Tobacco Road.

The brass ring must go to the coverup of the plight of our gassed, crippled and shellshocked veterans of World War I. These bonus marchers were driven out of Washington at gunpoint by Lt. MacArthur with the approval of irate citizens who were discounting Liberty bonds 25 percent. It was the cries of these misguided doughboys who pried open the gates to present day protestors, free to rally against blackout of NFL football or other major catastrophes.

One hard fact emerged from these initial bunglings. To escape the unwelcome spotlight of public indignation, shift its focus to some other shenanigan for which the opposition can be blamed. One diversion available today is, would you believe it, dog food!

A sterilzing ingredient has been perfected to control our canine population but must be banned due to its unknown effect on humans. We thus reluctantly admit, in our usual roundabout way, that pet food has become a staple to thousand of retirees on a fixed income. Yet we deplore the plight of people in a distant land who are starving while sacred cattle roam the countryside unharmed.

We fret unduly about one coverup while millions engage in individual coverups which are the most scandalous of all. They are those who, ostrich like, bury their heads in the sand to escape their nagging conscience.

Enough moralizing, Ollie has to call his stock broker. Pet food climbed three points and he believes in picking up a few honest bucks the good old free enterprise American way.

Judging by the mountains of newsprint and the river of ink being devoted to the opinions, allegations and implications of 'coverup' one is led to believe that this is some notorious new arrival on the American scene. Lily pure probers point an accusing finger at the opposition and chortle,

"My! My! What a scandal."

Shucks, this is childish hide-and-seek compared to far more gallant whitewash jobs recalled by elder citizens, past boners that drew nary a line of print. A bit of crudeness must be forgiven in these early hoodwinking attempts but to give credit where due these bygone conspirators laid the ground rules which have been refined to meet modern needs.

Imagine, if you can, novices covering up their mischief with, of all things, a bulldozer which is as difficult to 'allege' as it is to keep secret. It must be admitted that these blundering neophites assured silence by employing, and thus implicating, cohorts on the Federal payroll.

Ollie was such an employee, nigh onto forty years ago, and since the Statute of Implications has now run out feels it safe to reveal the nefarious details. In CCC camp 1688, a wide trench the length of West Dixon was bulldozed as the final resting place of hundreds of pairs of nearly new shoes, pants, shirts, socks, topcoats and jerseys.

These 'surplus' goods, taxpayer purchased, were prohibited from competing with private enterprise at a time when thousands of penniless refugees fled barefoot from the dust bowl of our prairie states. Additional thousands shivered in sub-zero weather cutting cordwood at seventy-five cents a cord to provide the barest necessities for their undernourished families.

Appreciates Help

Sir:

Grandvue Medical Care Facility Auxillary is pleased to announce that they had a very successful Tag Day, and would like to extend thanks to all those who helped to make it such a success by serving as volunteer solicitors and also to those who gave so generously.

We are very happy to report that a total amount of $2,233.92 was taken in, and a new whirlpool for the Physical Therapy Department at the Facility will be purchased.

Many thanks, again, to all of you who helped to make this year's Tag Day such a success.

Criminals Should Be Tunneled

By JIM FITZGERALD

There is a Simple Solution to the complex problem of crime. It was unwittingly discovered in a neighboring county where they built a tunnel which could be the light at the end of the tunnel, if you follow me.

Mother and Aunt Madeline will remember I am always interested in finding Simple solutions to complex problems. In 1967, for instance, I proposed the perfect solution to the population explosion. It occurred to me after that massive power failure blacked out much of the east coast–9 months after. That's when hospitals noticed unusually big business in their maternity wards. Even Doris Day could figure out what most people like to do in the dark. So there was the Simple Solution to the population problem. Turn on the lights all over the world and leave them on.

Get the idea? Like it? You'll love the tunnel.

It was recently built in genesee County for $156,450. The tunnel connects the jail to the court house and its purpose is to prevent prisoners from escaping. Some people call it a bridge because it's built several floors above the ground. But I call it a tunnel because it is completely enclosed with not even a peephole through which a crook might sneak one last look at a Coca-Cola billboard. Besides, if I didn't call it a tunnel, I couldn't have made that clever remark about seeing the light at the end of it. It is not easy being a columnist.

The tunnel provides the "maximum security" needed to protect the public from muggers and welfare cheats. "It's a wonder we haven't had an incident in the parking lot as we escort prisoners from the jail to the court house," said Sheriff John O'Brien. "We have been completely exposed to the public."

The only lawbreakers who can be safely exposed to the public are Presidential aides and other lawyers. They are taken to court in open convertibles, slowly moving, so the prisoners can easily explain to TV cameras how they are sorry they sinned and are going to become priests after they serve their sentences–15 days in a Howard Johnson's motel.

The tunnel contains lockers so prisoners can change clothes. There is also an area where they can visit with their families. So here comes the Simple Simple Solution...

All we have to do is make the tunnel longer and add some coin machines that dispense food and Kool-Aid. Whenever an arrest is made, it should be immediately determined if the crook went to law school with the President. If not, he should be nudged through the tunnel entrance with instructions to keep moving until he finds justice.

The delicious gimmick is that the tunnel doesn't really lead to a court house. It doesn't exit anywhere. It is so long no prisoner can live long enough to reach the end. Several times a poor slob might think he sees the light at the end of the tunnel but it turns out to be just another neon sign advertising grain ground exceedingly slow.

And soon, presto! The streets are free of crime. The cheap crooks are all tunneled. If an innocent citizen is slugged, he can crumple secure in the knowledge it wasn't a lousy mugger, it was the CIA.

This Simple Solution is so great I'm surprised no one ever thought of it before.

Did they?

Meet Charlevoix

Meet Duane Bolduc

Science can be fun. It just takes a little imagination and some new instructional material. Charlevoix Middle School teacher Duane Bolduc is using that formula in this year's middle school program.

He taught in Charlevoix for eight years and holds a bachelor of science degree from Northern Michigan University.

He is married and has four children.

Today the Charlevoix Courier asks Bolduc to discuss his new program.

COURIER: What is ISCS?

BOLDUC: The intermediate science curriculum study is an innovative new teaching system which lets students in the 11 to 14 age group work independently while their teachers serve in an advisory or consulting capacity.

COURIER: How is the program different from other middle or junior high school programs?

BOLDUC: ISCS is individualized and self pacing, so that the student travels through the activities at his own speed and ability.

COURIER: What are the main differences that you would see in an ISCS classroom from a conventional one?

BOLDUC: In an ISCS classroom there is constant activity. Students are picking up equipment and supplies, performing experiments, discussing results with fellow students, writing in their student record books and checking problem areas with their teacher. In conventional classrooms students usually remain quietly seated at their own desks, listening to a lecture or watching a demonstration and responding only when called upon. No longer do all students work at the same pace, using identical materials.

COURIER: Who were the people who developed the ISCS program?

BOLDUC: ISCS in the brainchild of a group of scientists and educators who developed the federally-funded project at Florida State University in Tallahassee.

COURIER: Has the ISCS program been proven?

BOLDUC: Some 500,000 intermediate students in 1,600 schools throughout the country are enrolled in ISCS classes.

COURIER: What is studied in ISCS?

BOLDUC: 7th grade Physics. 8th grade Chemistry. 9th grade Biology and independent study.

COURIER: Why has physics and chemistry been chosen in that sequence for the Middle School?

BOLDUC: In general, Physics is more fundamental to Chemistry and both of these are more fundamental to Biology and Earth Science than the reverse. It therefore seems more logical to begin with Physics concepts, leading to chemical ideas and then to Biology.

COURIER: How much opportunity does the student have for investigation?

BOLDUC: ISCS is laboratory centered. The student begins to investigate with the first actvity in grade seven. As soon as he develops the skills and processes and that are necessary, he is given more and more opportunity to design and carry out independent investigations.

COURIER: Can parents see the program?

Duane Bolduc

BOLDUC: Yes. Parents can come in, observe and participate in the ISCS program. All of us concerned with the improvement of learning and instruction in science education welcome conferences with parents. We are more than happy and always ready to discuss any suggestions you wish to bring to our attention. Please be encouraged to contact your child's teacher, your building principal, or the superintendent classroom visitations by parents can be arranged with the principal.

Moerland Represents County In Manpower Commission

County Commissioner Lee Moerland has been appointed to represent Charlevoix County in the formation of a consortium of ten Northwestern Michigan counties which will administer manpower programs amounting to over $1 million dollars.

The funds, made available under the Comprehensive Employment Training Act, will be used for classroom training, on-the-job training, public service employment, and work experience.

Speaking before the Board of Commissioners last week, Darwin Bluhm of the State Department of Labor, Bureau of Manpower, explained that the consortium is needed because under the Act no county under 100,000 population is permitted to administer the program.

The consortium will allow for the involvement of local officials from all ten counties and insure that the program is spread over the whole area. This is important because the allotted funds reflect special revenue sharing money.

County representatives will be responsible for the apportionment of funds to the various programs, and for hiring a director and putting together an advisory council.

A breakdown of the $1,039,400 shows that it is to be spent in the following manner: classroom training, $192,500; on-the-job training, $114,800; public service employment, $262,000; adult work experience, $261,100; youth work experience, $180,000; and summer work experience, $27,900.

The above figures include administrative allowances, wages on work projects, fringe benefits, training, and services to clients.

Intermediate School Districts were responsible for the old Neighborhood Youth Program, and it is anticipated they will assume the same responsibility for classroom training under this new program.

When asked how the money was allotted to each area, Bluhm explained to the Commissioners that it was done under a complicated formula involving unemployment and financial need.

The programs will make it possible for those in need to receive training in various fields of employment, and will supply help to qualified local institutions at minimum cost.

Burns Clinic

Local Physicians Hold Conference

PETOSKEY-- About 100 physicians from around the state are expected to attend the second annual medical meeting, sponsored by the medical staff of The Burns Clinic Medical Center and Little Traverse Hospital, at the Holiday Inn here Saturday, September 21.

The principal guest speaker, according to Dr. H.M. Hilal, Chairman of the day-long session, will be Robert Fekety, M.D., Professor of Internal Medicine and Chief of Infectious Diseases Section, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor.

Dr. Fekety will discuss the "Choice of Antibiotics in the Management of Infectious Diseases."

At 9 a.m., Dr. Hilal will officially welcome the guests. The program to follow includes: A discussion of "Hypertension, Office Evaluation and Management," by Dr. H. Allan Rankin; "Management of Cardiac Arrhymthmias," by Dr. Philip E. Hill; "Hypercalcemia, Causes and Management," by Dr. Lee Brunner; "Neonatal Intensive Care," by Dr. Joanne Mertz; "Nosebleed--Simple or Otherwise," by Dr. Dean C. Elliot; "A New Look at the Cervic," by Dr. Richard A. Kutcipal; "Five Year Experience with Homosnobilius," by Dr. Allen D. Damschroder; "Advances in Early Detection of Carcinoma of the Colon," by Dr. Gustav Uhlich; and "Management of Carcinoma of the Colon," by Dr. H. Burt Etienne.

Following Dr. Fekety's talk, the afternoon is set aside for sailing, fishing, golfing and tennis, hosted by members of the medical staff.

A tour of Burns Clinic and Little Traverse Hospital is also arranged.

An evening dinner for guests and wives will be featured by a noted humorist, Dr. Richard Bates, an internist from Lansing, who will discuss "How to Get to be 100."

Invitations have been sent to MD's and DO's in the northern lower Peninsula and eastern Upper Peninsula, Dr. Hilul says.

Judge Asks For Support

Circuit Court Judge Martin Breighner spoke to the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners at their regular meeting last week. It was the judge's first appearance before the group since his recent appointment to the post.

Judge Breighner discussed the work of Circuit Court with particular reference to division of work load and expenses paid for operation of the court by the three counties he serves.

His figures showed that approximately 40 percent of his cases are heard in Charlevoix County, 40 percent in Emmet County, and 20 percent in Mackinac County.

In line with these figures Judge Breighner asked thut Charlevoix County budget $6,000 for the Circuit Court Reporter in 1975, $3,200 for the legal secretary, and $500 for expenses, including supplies, for the court reporter.

Judge Breighner also asked for $4,000 from the county during 1975 to supplement his state salary of $24,000. A similar amount from Emmet County and $3,000 from Mackinac County would bring his total annual salary up to $35,000.

Charlevoix Hospital

Now that we have a breather after a busy summer and the kids are back in school the Guild would like to remind you that it is nearing the time for their Annual Thrift Sale.

We sell anything that is useable. All appliances must be in workable condition and all clothing must be clean. The dates of the sale are October 18 and 19 so it is not too early to get your items ready.

We do have a place to store articles and if you will call 547-2270 we will arrange to pick up your things or if you can deliver them yourself someone will meet you at the place of storage. Our sales have always been most successful and the money from the sale is either given to the hospital or we buy specific things which they need.

Start collecting now and know you are helping a worthy cause.

MRS. EDITH GILBERT (with film) looks over film with Mrs. Michael Gibbons, Mrs. Arla Staublin and Mrs. Joyce Duke that will start showing at the Charlevoix Library in October.

New Film Series

'Civilization' Visits Area

"Civilization", the popular film series produced by Kenneth Clark, will be shown at the Charlevoix Public Library on 13 consecutive Thursdays beginning October 10.

The film series is a project of the National Gallery of Art and Time-Life Films. It is an extensive collection of information on history, art, people, places and music.

Laurie Lesser of Charlevoix will serve as discussion leader following each film showing. Study of the subject matter could be approached from the point of view of history of ideas and their expression in literature as well as in the visual arts. It also could provide an opportunity for understanding contributions of the greatest minds of the West.

Subjects included in the film series are The Frozen World, October 10; The Great Thaw, October 17; Romance and Reality, October 24; Man–the Measure of All Things, October 31; The Hero as Artist, November 7; Protest and Communication, November 14; Grandeur and Obedience, November 21; The Light of Experience, November 28; The Pursuit of Happiness, December 5, The Smile of Reason, December 12; The Worship of Nature; December 19; The Fallacies of Hope; December 26; and Heroic Materialism, January 2.

Anyone with questions about the series may receive more information by calling the library or Mrs. Julius Gilbert at 547-6443. Other committee members are Mrs. George Duke, Mrs. Michael Gibbons, Mrs. John Haggard, and Mrs. Gerald Staublin.

Following the October 10 film showing there will be a special "Charlevoix Afterglow" at Tres Bon restaurant featuring Chef Dominique's special crepes and coffee.

Twenty-three local residents joined Mr. Harold Kruse and walked the Big Mac Bridge Labor Day.

Mable and Elliot Bird have returned to their home in Flint after spending several weeks in their local home.

Nancies Fancies Antique Shop has closed for the season. Our summer friends and neighbors have returned to their homes. Our community extends them their best wishes and will look forward to seeing them all again next season.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Alexander and daughter Diane and Mr. and Mrs. Ross Alexander returned home Saturday evening after spending a week in Montreal, Canada going by way of Port Huron to Sarnia and London to Kingston where they took the shore drive up the St. Lawrence Seaway and the Thousand Islands. While there they visited the Botanical Gardens that are in the eastern part of the city and covers a hundred and eighty acres and includes a section for every kind of flower that grows and also vegetables, fruit trees, Medicinal plants and childrens gardens that provide the city children the opportunity to learn about growing things and put into practice what they have learned with supervision.

The Rock Garden displays many formal stone beds with many showy varieties of plants and everything with name plates. The Conservatory includes tropical plants from the world over. This alone is worth ones trip there.

They also toured Old Montreal and the Notre Dame Cathedral that is the most beautiful church in North America and rivals most of the Great Cathedrals of Europe.

St. Josephs Oratory on Mount Royal overlooks the entire city and the Interior is almost breathtaking with its beauty and history and gives one the feeling of being in another world.

Going from the old to the new Eattons Shopping Center recently opened includes one hundred stores with a beautiful landscaped walking maule.

Due to a transportation strike the subways and busses were idle which was keeping the private cab drivers busy and happy so could not visit their underground shopping city. They have their problems there also.

They returned home over the northern route to Ottawa and Sudberry to the Canadian Soo which made the entire trip a complete variety of scenery.

Community Chest Drive Now Underway

Twenty thousand dollars is the goal of the 1974 Charlevoix Community Chest campaign which was launched last week.

All funds raised will be allotted to 14 local agencies which in one way or another serve the community. They are Mt. McSauba Recreation Program; Charlevoix City Recreation Program; Charlevoix-Emmet Association for Retarded Children; Crooked Tree Council of Girl Scouts, and Scenic Trails Council of Boy Scouts.

Also, Michigan Children's Aid, Northwest Branch; Salvation Army, West Michigan Division; American Red Cross, Charlevoix City Chapter; Charlevoix Hospital; Charlevoix Community Nurse, Emergency Fund; Charlevoix City Big Brothers; Michigan United Fund; Northern Michigan Planned Parenthood; and Camp Daggett.

The fund-raising campaign is being conducted by mail, with 2,000 letters already sent out.

Officers and board members of the Charlevoix Community Chest who are working on the campaign are Gordon Wellman, chairman; Harold Bliss, vice-chairman; Mrs. Don Brown, secretary; Mrs. Virginia Hoffman, treasurer; Harold Bliss; Howard Horton; Elbert Kaiser; Robert Bogart; and Mrs. Michael Raecke.

They hope that the goal can be reached so that each participating agency will be able to carry on its activities in the community. Many of them could not operate at all without help from the Community Chest.

All donations to the Chest are tax deductible.

Defeated 14 to 7

Rayders Lose To Benzie Central

The first game of the season caught the Red Rayders off balance as they dropped a 14-7 contest to Benzie Central.

Action in the first half was ragged as the two squads battled up and down the field with neither able to get on the board for a score.

Both Charlevoix and Benzie mounted fair drives but a fumble, interception, or penalty seemed to kill their momentum at a crucial moment.

Second half action still showed signs of the first game jitters, however, the Benzie eleven found holes in the Rayder defense and punched in for two scores. The scoreboard showed Benzie 14, Charlevoix 0 at the end of this period.

The Rayders gained coordination in the fourth quarter as they finally crossed the goal on a 10 yard run by Mike Streeter. The Bob Alger kick made the score 14-7 where it remained at the final gun.

Penalty yardage, fumbles and pass interceptions were the downfall of the Red Rayders. A total of 155 yards was lost to penalties, while they committed six turnovers.

This week the Red Rayders take on the Grayling eleven in their first home appearance. The home field should help the squad shake off their first game nerves.

CHARLEVOIX GIRLS' Basketball team is getting in shape for another season. Kay Currey (foreground), and Denise Boss all go after the ball during one of their recent practice games.

Rayder Girls Ready For Basketball Season

The Charlevoix Rayder girls' basketball team, defending champions in the Michigan Huron Shores conference, will open its current schedule Thursday when Ellsworth plays here in a non-league game.

The local team, coached by Mrs. Toni Felter, will entertain Cheboygan Catholic in a second non-loop game here Oct. 1 and open its league season at Cheboygan Oct. 3.

Coach Felter has six regulars from last season returning as a nucleus of this year's team. The list includes four seniors, Cheryl Pence, 5'8", Leeanna Steelman, 5-8 and Beth Egler, 5-6, all forwards and Tammy Penney, a guard. Other returnees are Heidi Dove, a versatile player who can fill any of the three positions, and Denise Boss, a 5'7" center, both juniors.

Junior Barb Meadows, a 6'1" forward or center who saw limited action last season, and Leena Kaijala, a senior guard and exhange student will also be on the roster.

Others will be Sandra Hodge, sophomore guard, who was injured before the season got underway last year, Laura Corbin, a forward and Dona Bellows, a guard, both juniors, and Maurine Cudd, sophomore guard, have been brought up from the JV's will complete the roster.

The Charlevoix team had a 16-0 record in league play and an 18-1 overall record for the season.

Free Tennis Clinic

A free tennis clinic will be held in Charlevoix on Thursday, Sept. 19.

The instruction will be given by Mike Rahaley, the head tennis professional at the Little Traverse Racquet Club, from 5 p.m. to 7 p.m. at the municipal courts.

Also participating in the clinic will be Chuck Wright, the Charlevoix tennis coach, and local tennis professional.

The event is being sponsored by The Little Traverse Racquet Club, who invites all interested persons to come and learn what they know and don't know about tennis. Mike Rahaley will present the basic strokes, plus many advanced tips to improve your game.

Beginners as well as advanced players will enjoy this clinic. Have fun and learn about America's fastest growing sport.

The Little Traverse Racquet Club is Northern Michigan's newest indoor tennis facility. Located in Petoskey, on the Harbor-Petoskey Road, it features five championship courts enclosed for winter play.

Along The Sidelines

By LARRY LINEBACKER

Football – the perennial flower of the Fall Television Season, has returned. Time once again for strained eyeballs and tired haunches that accompany televised football games on Saturday and Sunday afternoons, and Monday nights.

With this in mind, the Courier has asked that I, Larry Linebacker, present a view of football rarely taken by the likes of Howard Cosell, Don Meredith, or Frank Gifford. In the following weeks, this column, "Sidelines", will present for the readers a different look at the game of football. We hope you enjoy it.

THE GAME

The game of football started in Scotland and evolved from the game of soccer. The American version of football is played by a different set of rules than that found in other countries.

Our game of football involves two teams composed of eleven players competing on a field one hundred yards long by one hundred and sixty feet in width. End Zone areas at each end of the field add an additional ten yards to the playing area.

The basic idea of the game is to advance the football across the opponent's end line or goal line. This can be done by running, passing or by kicking the football.

Over the years the professional football teams have developed exotic and complicated plays which are intended to confuse and bewilder the defensive team and help them advance the ball to score points. As counter to this, the defenses that have been developed are just as exotic and complicated.

The eleven men on the offensive team are divided into three basic categories. The linemen are those persons that are involved in providing a path for a runner to carry the ball, providing protection for a back field man to pass the ball, or maintaining a position long enough for a person to kick the football.

The backfield men are positioned in a number of different combinations to assist them in running or passing the ball. These players are eligible to either run with the ball or receive passes. The final category offensive players are receivers. These are commonly known as ends or wide receivers, and are in a position to receive passes, or in some cases to run with the football.

The defensive squad is also divided into three categories of players. The linemen on the defensive side attempt to penetrate the advancing forces of the linemen on the offensive side to tackle the ball carrier, prevent a pass being thrown, or to block a kick.

The second category of defensive players is commonly called the linebacker.

The linebackers are usually three in number, however, certain defensive alignments call for more or less of these players. These players generally are in a position to correct mistakes made by the linemen on the defensive side, to prevent certain types of passes, and to generally raise havoc with the plays being attempted by the offense.

A final defensive classification is the defensive backfield men.

These persons, commonly called quarterbacks, defensive halfbacks, and safetys, are in a position to form a third line of defensive in case of breakdown of the linemen and linebackers for running plays, as well as to prevent passes from being caught by the receivers of the offensive squad.

Next week we will look at some basic offensive movements in an attempt to help all of you understand why all of those men out on the field are running into each other and what they are trying to achieve.

If any of these columns create a particular question which is not answered, please drop a line to Larry Linebacker, Charlevoix Courier, Charlevoix, Michigan.

Topside Takes 2nd Slo-Pitch Title

Topside Cocktail Lounge won its second consecutive Charlevoix Men's Slo-Pitch League

Championship last Saturday night by clobbering American Mold Engineering 16-1 in the second round championship game. Topside won both rounds.

Bobby Crain led the way for Topside in the one-sided contest. While pitching a beautiful three-hitter, he also went four for four at the plate and scored three runs.

The rout was a big letdown after the dramatics that led up to the game. Three teams, Topside, American Mold, and Bourkes' Steak and Stein (otherwise know as the Shed), were tied for first at the end of regulation play in the second round. A three team play-off was necessary.

The names were drawn out of a hat. American Mold and Bourkes' played in the first game with Topside meeting the winner. The American Mold-Bourkes' game was a tense, low scoring affair in the 20 to 30 mile an hour winds. American Mold squeaked by 5-3.

With the strong winds prevailing, both teams expected the championship game to be another low scoring contest. It did not turn out that way as Topside began the rout in the very first inning scoring five runs. Since it was virtually impossible to hit home runs into the strong winds, Topside was content to hit line drive singles.

The only extra base hits of the game were two doubles by Bernie DeVries.

American Mold, usually an excellent singles hitting team, simply could not get untracked. The combination of Crain's pitching and a solid Topside defense choked off any potential American Mold rally.

With two outs and nobody on in the bottom of the first, Crain got things started with a single, DeVries followed with a double and Art Curry, Terry Blissett and Dan McKenzie all singled.

The rest of the game was anti-climatic. Topside scored four more runs in the second aided by four American Mold errors. Topside only got one hit in the second inning. In the third Topside scored five more runs making the score 13-0 after three innings.

Several of the Topside players commented after the game, "This was a game in which we could do nothing wrong and American Mold could do nothing right."

In the first play-off game, however, American Mold played a beautiful game upsetting Bourkes'. League batting champion Ed Holm, and Roger Crain had two hits, while Don Wells pitched a six hitter.

American Mold went ahead 5-2 in the sixth by scoring two runs. Mike Crain singled. After Gary Crain forced his brother at second, Albert Sharrow tripled. Don Wells singled Sharrow home.

Bourkes' staged a dramatic rally in the seventh. Jim Van Woerkom doubled and scored on losing pitcher Norm Probert's single. Frank Muma followed with a single. That brought the winning run up to the plate with only one out, but the last two men flied to Roger Crain to end the threat and the game.

argues that an economic hardship will result in the presently uncovered roof materials that are exposed to severe weather conditions.

He also says the present uncompleted structure is unsightly and should be allowed to be completed until the matter is resolved.

In the event the court rules against him, Steffes said he agrees to take down the structure.

Steffes says the accessory carport structure was constructed in the honest belief that he could legally proceed under the building permit previously issued by the city for the main condominium because of similar setbacks utilized by other neighboring condominiums.

However, the city has already been quick to point out that those condominiums were granted variances for construction.

Shelter

the Humane Society are working on plans for a suitable shelter, the state would "lean over backwards" to cooperate with them.

Officers of the Charlevoix County Humane Society appeared before the Board of Commissioners last week to explain how the Emmet County Society operates, and how that operation might be adapted to an animal shelter in Charlevoix County.

Their report showed that the Emmet County Society is operating on a budget of $19,000 this year, with funds coming from the county, Petoskey, Harbor Springs, and private donations.

Most of the county and city funds are derived from dog licenses and fines accessed against persons violating dog care ordinances.

The Emmet County Humane Society also charges fees to those bringing in animals for adoption, and to those adopting animals. The fee for leaving a dog at the shelter for adoption is $6.00, for a puppy, $3.00, for a cat, $2.00, and for a kitten $1.00.

For adopting dogs the fee is $6.00 plus $6.00 for rabies shots and $3.00 for license. For adopting cats the fee is $2.00.

chain screeched and jumped in rebellion on the first hill out of Ferry Avenue Beach. Gary Hunter, the speedy 100 miler zipped twice around the lake in an ultra-light 10 speed model, which he rebuilt using the best parts of several 10 speed models.

The 100 milers carried no extra weight, wore shorts and some biking helmets. The 38 milers, on the other hand, wore layers of clothes which they peeled as the sun came out and they worked up hills. The Alton Roth family, of Grand Rapids, parents pulled sulky-like carts behind their bikes, in which daughters Kathy, 3, and Margie, 5, rested.

Finishing through Charlevoix around 3 p.m. The 38 milers became an even more dispersed group as many stopped at un-scheduled refreshment stands and out-of-town tourers looked around the town, as the Chamber had hoped they would.

And the devout 100 milers continued on, feet locked into the automatic rythm established miles before, as they raced the 12 hour deadline and unspoken private Mt. Everests.

The Charlevoix United Methodist Church is located at 104 State St. a place which it has held for 100 yr. It is part of a circuit which includes the Greensky Hill Indian Church. The charge is pastored by Elmer Faust, who has held this appointment for the past 5 yr. It is in the Grand Traverse District of which the superintendent is Dr. Donald Scranton, Traverse City. The area bishop is Bishop Dwight Loder of Detroit.

We believe that the church exists for the maintenance of worship, the edification of believers, and the redemption of the world. We believe The Bible is God's Word. We practice 'open communion'. We practice the several modes of baptism. We preach Christ, crucified, risen, and coming again, as the one hope of salvation for our race and for our society. We believe that the world is our parish and that our task is to bring to its suffering and sin the promise of new life in Jesus Christ.

Regular Sunday services at the church include: Sunday School for persons of all ages, at 9:45 a.m.) Sunday worship at 11 a.m.) Youth Fellowship at 6 p.m.) Several small groups (for prayer and discussion) meet weekly at various homes, Meeting places are announced from week to week. Spencer Risks Life in Action

By FRAN MARTIN

Staff Sergeant Michael R. Spencer was among four airman who distinguished themselves by heroism involving voluntary risk of life at Eielson Air Force Base, Alaska, on May 1, 1974.

On that date the four men entered an area where an F-4E aircraft had crashed during landing approach.

During their response to the crash site, which was a wooded area inaccessible to crash fire fighting equipment, it was learned by them that one crew member had ejected from the aircraft and that one was still in the aircraft.

Weapons load on the downed aircraft was 200 rounds of 20MM HEI ammunition and two practice bombs.

Heavy black smoke and flames could be seen coming from the main wreckage.

However, with complete disregard for their own safety and without protection of firefighting equipment, the personnel entered the crash area despite the hazards of exploding ammunition and burning aircraft debris.

Upon their approach to the cockpit area, it was observed that neither the pilot nor his seat were in the aircraft. A search revealed that he was forward and slightly to the left of the nose of the aircraft.

They found the pilots clothing and life support equipment were on fire and retaining straps holding his life support equipment were in place.

They immediately started removing the burning straps and extinguished his burning clothing by removing what they could and covering him with a firefighting bunker coat.

After a check for excessive bleeding and compound fractures, the pilot was lifted on to the bunker coat and carried a safe distance away from the danger of fire and explosion.

Upon arrival of medical personnel, they assisted in carrying the injured man to a waiting helicopter for evacuation to a hospital. After the safe evacuation operation, they returned to the crash scene to help in control and extinguishment of the fire.

In presenting the commendation, Col. Vernon L. Allgood, who presented the Airman's Medal to the four men, and that exemplary courage and heroism displayed by S/Sgt. Spencer and the others reflects great credit upon themselves and the United States Air Force.

The other men receiving the Airman's Medal for their efforts were M/Sgt. William R. Judge, T/Sgt. Jimmie E. Brown and S/Sgt. William M. Bagley.

S/Sgt. Spencer is married to the former JoAnn Phelps, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hudson Phelps. They have a son, Benjamin, four. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Spencer of Oceana, Calif.

STAFF SERGEANT Michael R. Spencer, U.S. Air Force, was among four airmen stationed at Eielson Air Base, Alaska, who was presented with the Airman's Medal.

Col. Vernon L. Allgood, base commander, made the presentation in the presence of S/Sgt. Spencer's wife, the former JoAnn Phelps, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hudson Phelps of Charlevoix, and their son, Benjamin.

Local Cattle Poisoned?

DOUG WARNER and his wife, Mary Jo, are not sure what will happen to their herd of dairy cattle after a recent mix-up in packaging an animal food.

By PEG OHLE

A Charlevoix County farmer is facing the total loss of his large herd of dairy cattle because of a mix-up in packaging an animal food.

Doug Warner, who, with his wife and mother, Mrs. Harrison Warner, operates a farm in Norwood Township, has learned that some of his cattle have been contaminated with poly-brominated bi-phenyl (P.B.P.), a fire retardant which was mistaken for magnesium oxide, a product used by dairymen to increase milk production.

The contaminated feed, which was distributed by the Michigan Farm Bureau, has already caused the death of hundreds of heads of cattle throughout the state.

Lost 45 Calves

Warner has 198 cows and calves. He has already lost 45 calves and eight cows, apparently because of the contamination. Although his milk is testing below the one part in a million base set as a danger point in P.B.P. contamination, autopsies of deceased cattle have shown they were contaminated. Other cows are losing weight and their milk production has significantly decreased.

The calves he has lost were born either weak or dead. "The calves are born weak because the mother cows are weak," Warner explained.

The Warner farm is a large operation. Their gross milk sales amount to between $80,000 and $90,000 a year, and they have their own 350 acres and 800 rented acres in hay and corn for feed.

Herd Destroyed

If the Warner herd must be destroyed, all barns and other wooden structures on the farm will have to be replaced because of possible contamination. Their newly-seeded fields will have to be plowed under because of possible contamination from the manure.

"I hope to know soon if the herd has to go," Warner said, "the strain of waiting is too much."

"We're sick of the whole business," his wife, Marty Jo, added.

However, they are resigned to the ultimate fate.

"We expect the cows to be destroyed next (this) week," Warner sighed.

P.B.P. Problem

The problem of P.B.P. contamination came to general public attention only recently when the manner of disposing of contaminated animals became a controversial subject.

After many objections, they are now being buried in Kalkaska county.

Arlo Wasson of the Michigan Farm Bureau Lansing office gave the Courier some background information on P.B.P. contamination. He said that early last fall they began to receive complaints from a few dairy people about loss of dairy production. It was first thought that toxic corn was to blame, but after the trouble persisted and following further research, the contamination was traced to one line of dairy feed.

They started to recall the feed last January, and between January and April the Farm Bureau research laboratories and the United States Department of Agriculture did extensive research on the problem. It was through this research that the poly-brominated bi-phenyl was identified in the feed.

Bureau Mystified

The Bureau was mystified because they could not understand where the contamment came from. Then it was learned that a fire retardant was packaged in bags similar to that of the food supplement. The two products are also similar in appearance, as similar as sugar and salt, and the names are also similar--Nutro Master and Fire Master.

Usually Fire Master is packaged in bags bearing a red warning stripe, but for some reason the stripe was not on the bags that caused the contamination.

With this knowledge, there was further testing of dairy animals. Then it became known that there were similar problems with beef cattle, swine and poultry.

Bi-phenyl has an affinity for fat, so when it comes into contact with a product like soy bean meal the meal is quickly contaminated. When—beef cattle, swine or poultry are fed the soy bean meal, or even come in contact with it, a residual contamination apparently results.

Animals Affected

Other animals can also be affected. Warner said that his dog tested 24/100 parts of P.B.P. per million.

Wasson said that the Farm Bureau is working with all farmers troubled with P.B.P. contamination.

"Our field personnel will offer assistance in insurance claims, not only for loss of animals, but loss of income," he stated.

Warner is critical of the Farm Bureau for not letting him and others know of their findings earlier.

"They knew of my possible problem June 1st," he said, "but I wasn't notified of the full facts until two months later."

Dr. C.R. Leupnitz of Jensen's Animal Hospital was taking biopsies from two of Warner's cows when the Courier talked to him last week. He explained that the symptoms of P.B.P. contamination vary, but the most common are lack of response, drop in body weight even though the animals eat well, and reduced milk production.

P.B.P. is stored in body fat and milk fat. Also, the calves don't mature properly and develop pneumonia easily.

Effects Unknown

Because P.B.P. contamination of animal feed has not occurred before, the full effects are not known.

"If we destroy this herd, ten years from now we may find it would not have been necessary," Leupnitz pointed out.

The Michigan Department of Agriculture has been involved in the P.B.P. problem since last May.

According to Dr. Charles Cole of the Animal Health division of the Department, they are monitoring all feed, milk, and meat samples, working overtime to do so.

"There have not been many recent cases," he said. "Most of the contaminated feed was purchased and used last fall."

It's All Over

Warner said that after it's all over he will "clean up and take a look. It all depends on when I receive payment from the Farm Bureau. Some settlements take four or five months."

Even if the rest of his herd is not destroyed, Warner said that he will, if necessary, sue the Farm Bureau for loss of milk, replacement of herd, steam cleaning, and wood removal.

The problems that Warner and other owners of contaminated animals face are monumental, due to a mistake that Wasson called a "tragic, unfortunate thing."

The Farm Bureau is paying the cost of transporting condemned animals to Kalkaska County for burial.

No figures are available on how many have already been buried or estimates made of how many more will be buried in the future. Warner said that "hundreds a day" are being destroyed.

THESE FIVE LOVELIES, all seniors at the Charlevoix High School, have been nominated by their fellow classmates as candidates for 1974 Homecoming Queen. They are (l to r) Kim Blanchard, Gay Kimble, Sue Fowler, Debby Wood and (in front) Gayle Boss. The entire student body of the high school will vote during the week and the results of the election will be made known during the homecoming festivities Oct. 3 and 4. The 1974 Homecoming Queen will be crowned Oct. 3 and reign over the homecoming game with St. Ignace Oct. 4.

Historical Group Looks At Museum Site

The City of Charlevoix has offered the Charlevoix Historical Society a plot of land on which to built a proposed museum.

The land is located between Stover Road and U.S. 31 and M 66.

After viewing the property last week, Vince Olach, president of the Historical Society, said that it was a "great space."

"It is ideally located, with room for plenty of parking, near the branch bank and motels, which would minimize the danger of vandalism. It is also not too far away for residents who might want to walk or bike to the museum."

Olach will discuss the proposed site with members of the Society's board of directors but feels they will gratefully accept the city's "generous offer."

After final arrangements are made for acquiring the property, the Society will launch a campaign for building funds, some of which have already been promised. They hope to start building next spring.

The Charlevoix Historical Society owns many valuable relics which have been donated to them and which are now stored in various home attics and in the County building.

City Council Abandons Widening of Park Ave.

Plans to widen Park Avenue were abandoned Monday night after Charlevoix City Councilmen received a petition signed by some 20 residents opposing the move.

Petitioners claimed the proposed project would increase traffic volume and therefore increase the potential of accidents to both drivers and pedestrians. The petition came in the wake of announced intentions to widen Park Avenue on the city's north side several weeks ago.

The residents also claimed the work would kill existing trees, as well as reduce property values.

Petitioner Alfred Aerne told city council that residents were already conerned about speed limits not being enforced and that widening the street would add to the problem.

"If they were controlled better, I think it would end the major problem," he said.

He said widening the road would only cause problems for those wanting to construct homes and finding themselves without enough property to have the proper setbacks.

Aerne said if the present speeding problem can't be resolved, he suggested the council consider making it one-way.

The petition drew support from Councilwoman Jeannine Wallace, who moved the city only replace existing curbs and not widen the street. She also asked the street direction request be placed in committee for further study.

She said the street was part of an old residential section and should not be changed.

"All progress is not good," she told the council, who adopted her resolution.

The street widening project drew Mrs. Wallace's criticism at a council meeting two weeks ago because she claimed she had only heard about the project from a resident who had heard it from a construction worker.

At that meeting, Mrs. Wallace had charged that the Mayor was going behind her back and not informing her of everything.

Why are You Going to Nursery School, Mommy?

BY SARA GAY DAMMANN

"I'm going to nursery school today, F.L."

"Why, mommy?"

"I have to go to find out what I'll be doing. Mommies and daddies help at school. You'll go Wednesday."

"Why?"

"Dad and I will help your teacher, Mrs. Miller. Isn't that nice?"

"Why?"

With a shrug and smile I gave up, deposited F.L. with a friend and took off for my first day at nursery school.

The Charlevoix Co-op Nursery School is that way. Parents get involved. I already knew we would be working on committees, spending a morning every few weeks assisting. Becoming involved as much as possible.

Involvement began when Tom and I sat with the other dozen or so parents one August evening, in the Charlevoix Public Library basement – the classroom. After a short organizational meeting presided over by co-op President, Donna Smith, and a meeting with our son's new teacher, we were confronted with a "finger game." Two dozen moms and dads, singing and gesturing a simple rhyme-strained and hilarious.

But that first morning going to meet with teacher Dorothy Miller and the other parents, I was a bit anxious, wondering just what this was all to be.

The class meets, for these nursery school freshmen, twice a week, Mondays and Wednesdays, from 9 to 11.15. The older children, four years old, met in one of two sessions: Tuesday and Thursday mornings and a three-day a week group Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons.

Mrs. Miller got to basic quickly as we sat at kid-sized tables with cups of coffee. Like college students at a pre-exam lecture, we listened intently.

"We are not going to teach children the ABCs or prepare them for kindergarten," Dorothy began. "We are not going to teach them to tie their shoes. If they know all that, fine; but those things aren't important to us, now. Most will learn the alphabet from Sesame Street anyway.

"Play is important. A child's work is play. This will be a social experience."

Heads nodded in agreement. We began to sit back, relax, listen and smile as she talked of the fun and problems of nursery school.

"On the day you work you'll wish you didn't know your child. They'll cling to you. They won't want to share you with the other children; but by the time you've worked a few times, things will smooth out."

You could almost hear the relief going around the room – we all knew that incredible three year old possessiveness.

"A social experience," I thought to myself. "Getting along, sharing, learning he's not the center of the universe. . . ."

My reverie was interrupted.

"Discipline," Mrs. Miller was saying. "We try to use a positive approach to discipline. Instead of saying, for instance, 'Don't stand on that chair, we say 'Chairs are to sit on.' "

I felt a pang of inner guilt. I could see that several others were thinking the same thing. "I could certainly impove on that score. I'm going to do some learning by doing myself."

Then Mrs. Miller got us

Brown Covers Area

Prentiss Brown, Jr., who is running for the state senate in the 37th District, will cover the entire district on foot or by bicycle talking to the voters and meeting with groups wherever meetings can be scheduled.

Brown revealed his plans to Charlevoix County Democrats when he appeared before them last week with his campaign manager, Mitchell Irvin.

Local Democrats are planning a fund-raising dinner at The Shed in Charlevoix on Saturday, October 5. Several candidates will be present at the dinner, including Paul Brown of Petoskey, candidate for lieutenant governor, Francis Brouillette, congressional candidate in the 11th district, and Prentiss Brown.

Hospital Gets New Officers

Four new directors were named to the Charlevoix Area Hospital board of directors for terms of three years each at the annual meeting of the Charlevoix Area Hospital Association recently.

They are E.D. Hawley, Mrs. Jeffrey Porter, Mrs. Byron Wright and Mrs. John Cross, Jr., who were named to succeed Mrs. Elinore Schultz, William Peck, Gerald Staublin and Julius Gilbert, respectively. Mrs. Schultz had served one term, Peck and Staublin two each and Gilbert three terms. None of the four were candidates for re-election.

Other members of the board are Jack Grubaugh, Max Novak, Glenn Kenney, Thomas Carey, Thomas Smith of Boyne City, Jack Zouiek of East Jordan and Dr. David Roebuck as chief of the Medical Staff.

A treasurer's report given to the record crowd or more than 100 by Mr. Peck revealed that the hospital had operated in the black with an end-of-the year balance of $22,189 as compared to $21,027 in 1973.

In his report, Richard Krueger, Hospital Administrator, said that the weekend Emergency Room coverage the hospital had initiated in March had proven successful and would be continued. During the summer months there was an around-the-clock coverage which resulted in a 38 per cent increase in the number of emergency room patients over a year ago.

He added that the service was not without cost but said most of the expense had been recovered. The program from March until June had cost approximately $8,000 and from June through Labor Day $10,000. The weekend coverage is now in effect.

Additional equipment for the x-ray department and semi-automated equipment for the laboratory which has been purchased at the cost of $16,000 and other equipment that has been leased had increased the efficiency of these departments, Krueger said. Two doctors, Dr. Dennis Joy who is located in the Professional Building and Dr. John Fochtman of Petoskey, have joined the staff of the hospital; another new doctor is moving to Charlevoix shortly and two internists from the Detroit area have said they will come to Charlevoix when they have completed obligations elsewhere, Krueger reported. He added that two doctors coming to Petoskey will be invited to join the staff.

The $375,000 ventilation project is presently underway, Krueger reported.

Statistics given on the hospital show that the number of in-patients was down 24 over a year ago but that the days care to in-patients was up 4.5 per cent and that bed occupancy was up four percent to an average of 56 per cent.

The number of outpatients was up 24 per cent to 5,646 and the number for emergency care and other tests up 8.5 per cent. Other departments that showed an increase were the x-ray department which was up 12 per cent; therapy department, 51 per cent and the number of patients admitted to the Coronary Care Unit, 66 percent.

Showing a decrease were the number of babies born which was down 4 per cent following the national trend; laboratory procedures, six per cent and EKG tests, four per cent.

The medical staff now has 10 members, up two over a year ago. The staff is headed by Dr. David Roebuck.

Why Did Miss Stanko Leave?

> "I don't think I was surprised, I imagine the bond issue had been a disappointment."
> --Max Novak

> "As principal of the Middle School, I have felt the support of Mr. McKimmy, but never felt the support of the entire board..."
> --Geri Stanko

> "There's never been an issue that has been a test of support."
> --Ardeth Wieland

Miss Geric Stanko's 14-month ordeal as Charlevoix Middle School principal came to an end last week with her surprise resignation.

However, the effect the former Jackson Catholic Middle School principal had on Charlevoix education may not be known for some time.

Some claim her intentions to become administrative assistant for teacher training at Eaton Rapids was a victory for them.

Others say her brisk departure will be a loss to Charlevoix Public

TRUE TEST

The true test of her effectiveness will be determined during the ensuing months when Charlevoix works with the Middle School philosophy she introduced and developed.

In her resignation letter to the board, Miss Stanko said she had made every effort to provide Charlevoix students with the best possible Middle School program.

"As principal of the Middle School, I have felt the support of Mr. McKimmy but have never felt the support of the entire board and on occasion have witnessed outright opposition not only to myself, but to the programs in the school," she wrote.

NO MATERIALS

"At the present time, the facility, number of staff members and availability of materials are extremely inadequate to develop a sound education program without support of the board of education."

In an interview with the Courier last week, Miss Stanko said she solidified her decision to leave with the defeat of a bond issue that would have provided a new Middle School.

"There are a lot of board people who are extremely supportive, yet the total support is not evident," she said.

"The lack of support has been demonstrated by the board individually interpreting school issue without administrative or teacher interpretation."

"They take one little rumor and capitalize on it without indepth research of the problem."

LEAVE NOW

Miss Stanko said she decided to leave now because she felt the program is secure given existing conditions to develop the direction towards the solid Middle School program.

At this point, she said she feels the district needs a Middle School principal who will be able to compromise the philosophy of the board and teaching staff regarding the Middle School approach.

Her boss, Supt. James McKimmy, said Miss Stanko had said she was leaving for several reasons – primarily lack of board support and the failure of the bond issue.

"My personal feelings about it are that the Middle School plan and the faculty with her leadership had shown significant improvement this year," he said.

SMOOTH OPENING

"We had a very smooth opening at the Middle School and the faculty of that unit was developing very fast in serving the needs of that age group."

The superintendent said he felt she was a strong curriculum leader and that her decision to leave was strictly voluntary with no board pressure.

He said the district will not expect her replacement to stay with the Middle School program entirely, but that they will expect the person to provide an adequate program for that age group.

School Board President Max Novak, who cast the only vote against her contract renewal, said he felt that the board couldn't stand in the way of any of its employees improving themselves.

AN ADVANCEMENT

"I think it is an advancement for her," said the former Middle School principal.

Although he had not visited any of the schools this year, Novak said he had thought everything was going well.

"Last year, there seemed to be a lack of communication, but I thought things at the end of the year went well," he continued.

"But, here again, I can't speak for the whole board, but it is how I felt."

As far as his feelings about Miss Stanko's work, he said he had been keeping an open mind and felt any young person has a hard time.

He said he didn't see anything wrong with people changing jobs because people should be happy with their work.

NOT SURPRISED

"I don't think I was surprised, I imagine the bond issue had been a disappointment," he said.

He said it would be up to the superintendent whether or not the Middle School philosophy is continued, with the board considering his recommendations.

Board member Charles Elzinga blamed Novak partially for Miss Stanko's resignation.

"I don't think Geri has had full cooperation of the board, particularly Max," he said.

"The first thing that bothered me was Max leaving the system and then being on the board."

GOOD JOB

Elzinga said he thought Miss Stanko had done a good job and had a difficult task introducing the Middle School concept.

"I think Geri has completed the task we have given her," he said.

"I believe that in my heart."

He said the board should look for someone that is well-rounded and can deal with the public relations of the school.

Elzinga said it will be necessary to find someone who can explain to parents what Middle School is all about.

"We need to be progressive," he said.

"Charlevoix is an ideal system; we've got it all together and Geri helped."

GOOD HANDS

Mrs. Ardeth Wieland, board member, said she thought the failure of the bond issue had definite effect on her leaving.

"I think she feels like you can only go so far with improving the program with the kind of building they are in," she said.

"I think it did affect her choice."

Mrs. Wieland said she thought Miss Stanko felt she was leaving the program in good hands.

The board member said the opportunity for a three-year contract and fellowship at the University of Florida was a good opportunity.

Mrs. Wieland said she wasn't sure what was meant by the lack of board support.

"There's never been an issue that has been a test of support," she said.

"We honestly never discussed it as a board."

Mrs. Wieland said she hoped the board would not revert back to the old junior high program.

OSCAR WARD (left) who owns property contiguous with Medusa Co. property, Gerald Devine, assistant forester, Robert Borak of Regional DNR office at Roscommon who conducted the meeting, and William Mittig, DNR forester, study the area map following the DNR-sponsored hearing to obtain the sentiment of area residents regarding the proposed land swap.

DNR Says Medusa Cement Co. Should Swap Land For Access

By FRAN MARTIN

Medusa Cement will have to swap property with adjacent property owners if they want access to their Bell's Bay property, says the Department of Natural Resources after a lengthy hearing last week.

Medusa's problem is an access road to approximately 600 acres of limestone-rich property owned by the company.

Medusa has offered to trade 30 acres located on the northwest corner of its property bordering the Bell's Bay road on the east which would give the company a road past the Oscar Ward property.

Alvin Marrow who owns property on US 31 south which backs on the Medusa tract spoke at length against the swap because, he said, any access from US 31 or through the land acquired by the swap would allow the company to open a quarry on its property.

His contention was that it would leave nothing but a huge pit in years to come and diminish the land values in the area.

He was asked if he would object to a man-made lake in the pit.

He replied, "No, but what about the years we'd have to look at the pit before it was abandoned and made a lake?".

When Oscar Ward, who attended the meeting, learned that he, as the surface owner, had first option to the mineral rights on his property, he asked how one negotiated for the rights.

He said he had not known this so had not initiated a move to acquire them.

Ken Staley, Charlevoix county commissioner, said that just because a person owns a piece of land, it shouldn't give them the right to tear it up.

He also asked what transportation of limestone by large carriers over present roads would do to the roads and what impact the quarrying of the land would have on Bell's Bay State Park.

He said noise and dirt from the operation would ruin the park and asked why the company couldn't mine where it wouldn't bother anyone. In conclusion, he said he was against disposing of property piece-meal, adding that no one gained by this type of swapping.

Elbert Kaiser, Superintendent of Medusa's operation here and one of three persons representing the company at the meeting, said the company did not want to utilize a US 31 access to its property because it would create a hazardous situation with the trucks on a major highway.

Mrs. Edward LeWand said that she felt Medusa was getting a lot for the 30 acres it was offering to swap, adding that the ante should be upped to at least double that amount.

Oscar Stroud, Charlevoix township supervisor, made several remarks regarding the type of land.

North Woods Call Newspaper May Never Be Printed Again

The North Woods Call, Charlevoix's largest circulation weekly newspaper, may have to go out of business because of inflationary production costs.

Glen Shappard, publisher of the environmentalist paper, said last week that there is probably no way to make it pay.

"It costs me more than the $7.00 subscription price to put the paper out. If I could raise the subscription list 30,000 (it is now about 10,000), I might break even, but that kind of promotion would be too expensive," Sheppard added.

"If I have enough money to print next week, I'll do it. If I don't, I won't," was his final statement.

Sheppard started the North Woods Call about six years ago after serving as editor of the Charlevoix Courier. Through it he has been instrumental in uncovering many environmental problems and in bringing about environmental controls.

Recently, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency cited the Call for its work in that field.

Most of the Call's circulation is in downstate Michigan and adjoining states.

It does not have many readers up north because "the people here have not come to grips" with environmental issues, according to Sheppard.

The Call's readers are not only outdoorsmen and environmentalists but journalists and state employees from the governor down.

They have depended upon it for information about the outdoors, which accounts for Michigan's tourist business, its second largest.

Chamber of Commerce Needs Your Help

Those who expect to reap the profits of progress must undergo the responsibility of supporting it.

Today, more than at any other time, the Chamber of Commerce is caught in a squeezing, increasing economic crunch, which is hitting all of us.

We are months behind in paying business bills and salaries.

At the present level of low support we shall have to curtail operations.

Do you want the only organization in Charlevoix that is devoted exclusively to advancing the commercial, industrial, civic and general interests and welfare of the city to stop?

Do you realize that less than 60 percent of 253 businesses who derive a profit from the endeavors of the Chamber of Commerce have contributed to our financial support?

We hope that you are not taking for granted that we do not need your help.

We urgently need your aid in solving our financial crisis now.

If every one of our delinquent members will put a check in the mail to us right now, we will be assured of being able "to carry the torch" for Charlevoix on all matters relative to making our city a better place to live and to work and help your business or service increase its profit.

Vince Olach

A Big Success

The Outing for Senior Citizens of Charlevoix County was a great success because many persons and organizations contributed to it. They should all be thanked and congratulated.

Service clubs of Charlevoix, Boyne City and East Jordan helped underwrite the cost of the buffet dinner, as did the Northwestern State Bank and East Jordan Iron Works.

Participating clubs were the Lions Clubs of Charlevoix, Boyne City and East Jordan; Kiwanis Club of Charlevoix; Rotary Clubs of Boyne City and East Jordan; Boyne City Jaycees; and American Legion of East Jordan.

Charlevoix Kiwanians also furnished transportation for several residents of Grandvue Medical Facility.

Two musical groups, The Drifters and Boyne City Barbershoppers, donated their time to entertain during the afternoon, and the senior citizens clubs presented skits.

The Outing was sponsored by the newly-formed Charlevoix Commission on Aging, who worked hard to coordinate the event. They hope that it will become an annual affair and so do the 300 senior citizens who enjoyed the afternoon.

Congratulations and thank you to all for a happy "first."

New Animal Shelter Long Overdue

It is good news that the County Board of Commissioners and the Charlevoix County Humane Society are getting together on the construction of an animal shelter.

A new animal shelter is long overdue. We need it not only for proper detention of lost and strayed animals, but for the safe-keeping of animals suspected of harboring a contagious disease such as rabies.

The present facility in Boyne City has been vandalized several times and dogs under observation released. So far released dogs have not caused any trouble, but another time they could.

For a long time the facility has not met minimum state requirements. Water for the animals has to be brought in in containers because there is no running water. Also, because there is no way to heat the water, all washing and "sterilizing" of food pans, floors and walls is done with cold water.

Neighbors in the vicinity of the animal shelter have complained about the constant barking and moaning of the animals, probably caused by the cramped quarters and cold, dark unventilated surroundings.

In fact, the facility is so inadequate that the State Department of Agriculture, which has jurisdiction over animal shelters, threatened to close it up earlier this year.

The newly-formed Humane Society is struggling to raise funds for the project, and it is planned that they will provide volunteer help in operating the new shelter.

All contributions to the Humane Society are gratefully accepted. Recently several hundred letters were mailed to residents, asking for their financial support. Such contributions may be made through the treasurer of the Society, Mrs. Patricia Sturm, High Street, Horton Bay, Boyne City.

Disappointed About Rockefeller

September 16, 1974

The Editor
Charlevoix Courier
Charlevoix, Mi. 49720

Dear Editor:

I am very disappointed that President Ford has chosen Nelson Rockefeller as Vice-Presidential nominee. I agree with the President that expensive government spending is the chief problem facing our country, especially in the battle against inflation. I find it totally inconsistent, therefore, that Mr. Ford chose a man who, throughout his entire political career, has used his energy and prestige to do exactly the opposite–that is to always increase spending by giant steps and increase taxes on the already overtaxed and over burdened American.

I know of no person who can identify less with the problems of us average tax-paying Americans than Nelson Rockefeller. I am sure no one can less identify with the elderly living on fixed incomes, or for that matter, the housewife with her budget problems, the average worker trying to keep his head above water, or the small businessman meeting a payroll than former Governor Nelson Rockefeller.

While President Ford professes and is generally regarded as a conservative, it is unfortunate that he did not choose a better man from among so many leading Republicans that are available, but instead the President chose a man who has continually been rejected nationwide by the overwhelming majority of the Republican Party. Rocky now got indirectly what he has never been abe to achieve directly, when an accidental, conservative President named a foreign alder-Russian trader-one worlder-super liberal spender, and moth of the Russian candle to be number-two man. In my opinion, this is a very bad dream.

I have very little doubt that Nelson Rockefeller (DFR) member will be confirmed as Vice President. However, I am absolutely sure that Mr. Rockefeller does not have the support of most Americans. The New York Times or Washington Post may be pleased, but I bet that the average American is not.

How long will it be before Mr. Rockefeller will push President Ford out, as I believe he did Nixon, and assume the presidency without being elected by the people? This is something to think about. I urge all readers of this letter to write their congressman and senator immediately and voice their opinion on this matter.

Sincerely,
Richard Friske

Clockwise

By BOB CLOCK

There were many long faces among Charlevoix School Board members after the results of the $7 million school building election were posted.

As you know, the proposal was soundly defeated by a vote of almost three to one.

While the school board is debating which way to turn, Mrs. Ebner (Hilda) Gibson of Lincoln-st. has come up with what she believes is a solution to overcrowding in Charlevoix schools.

"Put a teacher on every school bus and just let the buses roam around the country all day," she proposed. "When the school day's over, the buses could drop them off again and the kids wouldn't have to see the inside of a schoolhouse."

Mrs. Gibson says so many travel on school buses every day as it is that they might as well learn in transit. Furthermore, they would reap the benefits of a daily geography lesson touring through beautiful northern Michigan.

Although Mrs. Gibson's comments must be taken with a grain of salt and a handful of aspirin tablets, the problem of what to do with all of our students with our existing facilities remains.

There are answers, of course. Answers that don't cost $7 million.

For example, Boyne City school kids are on split-day sessions this year. High schoolers report for school at 7 a.m. and are turned loose shortly after noon. Junior high kids arrive at 12:15 p.m. and are through about 5.

The new schedule caused some teacher scheduling problems, particularly among teachers who have both junior and senior high school classes, but the difficulties have not been insurmountable.

Kids like it because they are not jammed into classrooms the way they were last year. Furthermore, many of the high school students have been able to pick up afternoon jobs that they wouldn't have been able to hold down with a regular school schedule.

The only people who are really opposed to split days are mothers who have to get up at 5 a.m. to fix breakfast for their high schoolers.

Another alternative to a big school building in Charlevoix would be year-'round school. In some Michigan districts, students attend classes for nine weeks and are off three, with classes held right up through July.

A third alternative would be increased use of TV teaching. Under this system, a teacher tapes his lectures once and the same tape is used year after year. TV lecture classes can be two or three times as large as regular classes.

The teacher, meanwhile, is freed from the classroom pulpit to give youngsters more individual assistance.

It seems it would also be possible to put our upper classmen, particularly those on a college track, into independent study programs and shoo them off to the Charlevoix Library—or the Argonne Laboratory—to do their research projects.

Such a move certainly would free a few valuable desks at Charlevoix High School for other students.

The big question is how many students Charlevoix must plan on five years hence or ten years hence.

The influx of new residents to the area certainly is going to be slowed down by the uncertain economy we now face. You can count on one hand the number of new single-family homes now under construction in the Charlevoix School District, with mortgage money so hard to come by.

Furthermore, we are not reproducing ourselves at a rate that would require $7 million dollars worth of new classrooms. Only 77 babies were born in Charlevoix County last year–which translates into about one section of kindergarten in 1978 for Charlevoix, Boyne City and East Jordan.

Of course, some of our babies were born in Petoskey, but many Ellsworth, Central Lake and Bellaire babies bowed in at Charlevoix Hospital.

The Charlevoix School Board has many avenues to explore in providing classroom space for Charlevoix students. But perhaps the wisest course in 1974 is to "wait and see."

Blood Mobile Committee Says Thanks For Help

September 21, 1974

To the Editor:

On behalf of the committee for the Charlevoix Blood Mobile, I wish to express sincere appreciation to the following: Lutheran Bethany Church, Edward's I.G.A., Oleson's, Neff's, Essenbergs Gro., Staley's Gro., The Village Milkhouse, The Lodge, Radio stations WVOY and WJML for their cooperation and coverage, The Charlevoix Courier, Northland Press, Petoskey News-Review, for their coverage.

Also to the many, many individuals of the community that made the Blood Mobile visit a success. Included in the list are members of the Lions Club, loading and unloading, members of Kappa Sigma of Betta Sigma Phi, for the staffing of the canteen, ladies on the telephone staff, registration staff, typists, ladies that pre-labeled bags, blood center aides, staff that dispatched bags & escorted donors, those that assisted and escorted donors from Blood units to canteen, those that dispatched blood from units to Red Cross dispatcher, the local doctors and nurses, and the many individuals that gave a pint of precious life giving blood and those individuals that received the "I Tried" sticker for various reasons were unable to give blood. Also appreciation to the many merchants that supported the Blood Mobile with window space for posters.

Sincerely,

Mrs. Vernon Mathews, Jr.

Learning Centers Help Children With Disabilities

A disorder that may affect as many as 15 percent of elementary school age children is still unfamiliar to many parents.

It is a hidden handicap that affects children from poor families as well as from well-to-do families.

These children are unable to learn to read and they may have great difficulty in writing, may be over active or easily distracted, may seem inattentive and at times may appear to be awkward. They may bump into chairs, tables or other children which frequently can lead to fights with school mates.

He thinks of himself as stupid and many other kids in the class may consider him retarded and adults may think he is lazy.

These children are not stupid or retarded or lazy. As a matter of fact, their I.Q. is usually average or above average. The child with a learning disabibty has a block to his learning process for some reason or other and therefore this condition is classed generally as "Learning Disability."

It is vital to detect this condition early in the life of the child so that the child can become a self-sufficient adult. If the youngsters problem is not identified and cared for at an early time, this frustration will turn to bitter disappointment, then behavior problems and then to disciplinary problems. Many of the children that are now classed as juvenile delinquents have been discovered to have learning problems.

The child with a learning disability has a relatively limited problem which, with the appropriate educational, psychological and medical approach, may be overcome or compensated for.

Many people with learning disabilities have been gifted in other ways. Edison, for example, was always at the bottom of his class and people actually thought him stupid. One day he left school and never returned. Winston Churchill was always at the bottom of his class and Albert Einstien was very late in learning to talk.

Without help these children will fail in school, and become "dropouts."

There is help in this area for these children. An organized group called "Association for Children with Learning Disabilities" (ACLD) is a non-

If it Fitz — That wasn't a burp, Mr. Ford

By JIM FITZGERALD

Would you believe that President Ford, the great pardoner, reminds me of little Michele and an old William Holden movie?

Michele is my 5-year-old granddaughter. We visited her the other day and she insisted upon showing us that she now knows how to ride a 2-wheel bike.

There are no sidewalks around Michele's home, so she had to stage her demonstration in the street, usually forbidden territory. Several adults watched nervously, at first, but Michele soon proved she had indeed graduated out of the training-wheel class.

She went back and forth, back and forth, a little wobbly but increasingly steady as she grinned greatly and her grandmother once again loudly asked the world if this little girl was not indeed the most marvelous child you ever saw.

But slowly it began to dawn on the adults that a large gap was growing between a large gap was growing between a forth and a back. Michele had extended the last forth over a slight rise in the road. She was out of sight for a minute but we all knew she would soon reappear. But she didn't.

And didn't.

Michele's mother, who is not nearly as star-struck as Grandmother, finally went chugging down the road with elbows flying and steam hissing from her ears. You could almost hear the cymbals crash.

It seemed like an hour before mother and daughter returned, with daughter sobbing a bit and mother frowning mightily, perhaps pondering the unalterable fact that she has 2 more children younger than Michele.

The capture had been made as Michele was about to sit down to lunch at a chum's home on the other side of town. Her parents had forbidden her to ride her bike so far but...well..it seemed like a good idea at the time. She had to show Grandma and Grandpa how she could ride her bike, didn't she?

And I thought about "Stalag 17," the fine World War II movie in which William Holden and buddies continually tried to escape from a German prisoner-of-war camp.

One ingenious plot involved a few prisoners painting the traditional white line down the middle of the road leading out of camp. The German guards watched calmly as they slowly painted their way through the front gate and down the street, innocent and industrious workmen. The prisoners had painted well over the horizon before the guards finally realized they intended to paint their way to New York.

It was a scheme worthy of the most marvelous child you ever saw. Classy.

That's where President Ford fell short. No class.

Ford thought he had firmly established his innocence and good intentions in the eyes of his admiring countrymen. He thought he could pardon Nixon, a suspected felon, as if his alleged crime were burping at dinner, and we would all cheer his good manners. Ford was wrong. He was overcome by the euphoria of the honeymoon and he didn't smell the toast burning. He took our love and abused it; he didn't realize we'd care, tra la la.

President Ford didn't paint slowly enough. He didn't go back and forth long enough. He could learn a lot from Michele.

Meet Charlevoix

Meet Mari Marshall

Millions of American children suffer from lung disease. Seventy-five percent of illnesses treated by pediatricians involve respiratory problems.

To help combat the second largest cause of death, local residents will be out today until Sunday collecting for Cystic Fibrosis. Heading up this year's campaign in Charlevoix are co-chairman Mari Marshall and Lois Lewis.

Today, the Charlevoix Courier asks Mrs. Marshall about the lung disease, Cystic Fibrosis, that strikes Children.

COURIER: What is Cystic Fibrosis?

MARSHALL: C F, a genetic (inherited) disease, is a leading cause of death in children. In C F a thick, sticky mucus clogs the lungs and airways, creating breathing difficulties, high susceptibility to infection and lung damage. The mucus may also interfere with digestion by preventing the flow of enzymes from the pancreas into the small intestine, causing malabsorption of food.

COURIER: When does Cystic Fibrosis occur?

MARSHALL: C/F happens approximately once in every 1,500 births, when both parents have the recessive gene which can cause C/F. In each pregnancy, a child born to parents with the C F gene will have a one-in-four chance of having the disease, two-in-four chance of being a symptomless carrier, and one-in-four chance of escaping both the carrier gene and the disease. When only one parent has the C F gene, none of the children will have the disease itself, but some may be carriers.

COURIER: Is there any way of predicting C/F?

MARSHALL: Not yet. New research developments may soon make it possible to test people as C F gene carriers. Recent research has defined characteristics in the cells and blood of both C F patients and their families that could be isolated to provide accurate testing. When such a test is perfected for practical screening, prospective parents could learn if they are among the 10 million suspected C/F carriers in the U.S.

COURIER: How is C F diagnosed?

MARSHALL: A "sweat test" for measuring salt content in the sweat simplifies the diagnosis of C/F, which causes sweat with an abnormally high salt content, while other lung-damaging disease do not. The earlier a child is diagnosed and treated, the better his chances for improved health, stable lung condition and prolonged life. Diagnosis in infancy, whenever possible, is strongly recommended.

COURIER: What is the recommended treatment?

MARSHALL: Treatment for C F children varies with each individual child as is determined by the attending physician. Treatment often includes postural drainage, a type of therapy which helps the patient cough up mucus from the lungs and bronchial tubes; inhalation of aerosols to loosen thick mucus; the utilization of a mist tent in which the patient sleeps; and special medications and diet supplements such as antibiotics, pancreatic enzymes and vitamins. Some children with C F take up to 44 pills a day. Children with other lung-damaging diseases benefit greatly from some of the same treatment as those with C F, and for many of these patients without C F a cure is possible.

COURIER: What is the outlook for C F patients?

MARSHALL: Little more than a decade ago, most C F babies died in pre-school age. Thanks to improved therapy and expanded research, increasing numbers of individuals with C/F are surviving into adolescence and adulthood with the ability to lead more normal active lives than ever before. The National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation conducts a C/F Adult Program to help those 15 years and older with physical, emotional and career development.

COURIER: What do C/F centers offer lung-damaged patients?

MARSHALL: More than 100 C/F Centers associated with the National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation offer the services of respiratory specialists and the latest therapeutic equipment and medication. C/F Centers screen and evaluate children with lung-damaging diseases, offering diagnosis, patient referral and care. Precise diagnosis of lung-damaging diseases requires specialized knowledge as the symptoms of C/F and other lung-damaging diseases are often similar and can be misleading.

Center personnel train parents in administering the home care therapy and medication needs of lung-damaged children.

COURIER: What are other lung-damaging disease affecting children?

MARSHALL: Asthma with Lung Damage: An allergic condition, common in childhood. Can occur seasonally or throughout the year. Associated infection creates accumulation of mucus in the bronchial tubes, capable of resulting in death by choking or heart failure. May be outgrown by at least half of allergic children; is controllable in over 90 percent before irreversible lung damage occurs.

Chronic Bronchitis: Prolonged irritation and infection of bronchial tubes with progressively severe attacks of coughing, production of mucus and lack of weight. Can be very serious if of long duration.

Bronchiectasis: Caused by long term bronchitis, asthma, pneumonia, whooping cough, cystic fibrosis or lung collapse. Involves breakdown of bronchial walls and even cartilage. Children may have fever, are underweight. Very serious.

Childhood Emphysema: Name given to overinflation and destruction of lung tissue resulting from chronic respiratory disease, with obstruction and hyperaeration. Can result from inadequately treated lung disease.

Disorders of Lung Development: Many children are born with abnormal size or placement of one or both lungs. In addition, the breathing tubes or blood supply to the lungs may not have developed properly before the baby was born, leading to respiration difficulties throughout life.

Recurrent or Persistent Pneumonia: Some children, because of abnormal structure of their lungs, or because of malfunctioning system of immunity to infection, suffer repeated episodes of pneumonia. If not properly treated, permanent damage to the lung develops.

COURIER: What are the signs of lung-damaging diseases in children?

MARSHALL: Recurrent wheezing; persistent coughing excessive mucus; pneumonia more than once; excessive appetite poor weight gain; clubbing (enlargement of fingertips).

Additionally, signs of cystic fibrosis may include: salty taste of the skin and persistent, bulky diarrhea.

Any child with one or more of these signs should be examined by his physician or at a C F Center.

COURIER: Why is this information important to you?

MARSHALL: Because someone you know—perhaps YOU—may be one of the estimated 10 million C F gene carriers in the U.S. You may have or know a child with a chronic respiratory problem who could greatly benefit from prompt diagnosis and expert treatment. It is important because there are millions of children struggling for the breath of life, and they need you.

COURIER: What is the National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation?

MARSHALL: The Foundation, established in 1955, is dedicated to the research and medical care which is essential for children with lung-damaging diseases. NCFRF grants to scientists and researchers are bringing us closer to the primary objective of the organization—finding a cure or control for cystic fibrosis. It is also leading to better understanding of the causes and controls for all diseases which affect the lungs of children. NCFRF support, through funding or training in C/F Centers, is continually improving the quality of care-indeed, the quality of life-for children with respiratory problems. The Foundation also conducts public and professional education programs, sponsors medical and scientific symposiums, and acts as a source of assistance and guidance to its Chapters. NCFRF cooperates in a worldwide effort toward better understanding of genetic problems and pediatric pulmonary illnesses.

COURIER: How do C/F chapters operate?

MARSHALL: There are more than 300 local Chapters and Branches of the NCFRF, manned by volunteers and professional staff to serve their communities. Local Chapters conduct the annual Breath of Life Campaign to provide funds for Chapter activities and the National Foundation's programs. Chapters provide informational assistance to families of lung-damaged children and can make referrals to various local agencies for financial aid. (Many states include cystic fibrosis under the Crippled Children's programs.) The care of a C F patient can cost more than $1,200 yearly in drugs and equipment alone, exclusive of hospitalization. Chapters are a source of information on available C/F Center care and conduct year-round public information activities on the problems on lung disease in children.

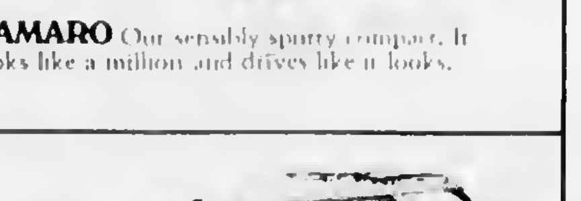
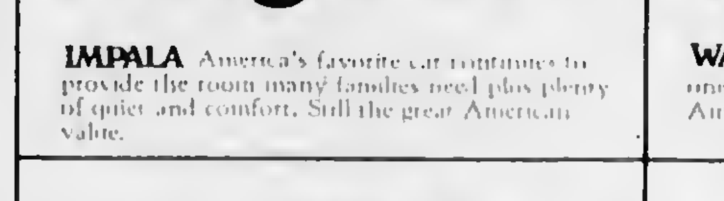
MONZA 2+2 The small car of tomorrow will probably be a little more powerful, handy and comfortable than ever. The 1975 Monza 2+2, shown above, offers this today. It has advances like rectangular headlights set in a soft front end, fold-down rear seat, and a new 4.3-litre V8 engine available.

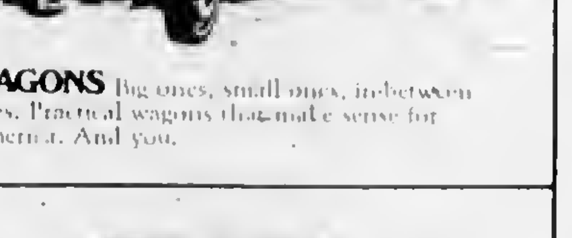
NOVA In the background above, our new Nova LN Sedan. A luxurious Nova with thick carpeting and wide-back reclining front seats. For 1975, all Novas have been emphatically refined along the lines of elegant European sedans. Nova's always been good. Now it's beautiful.



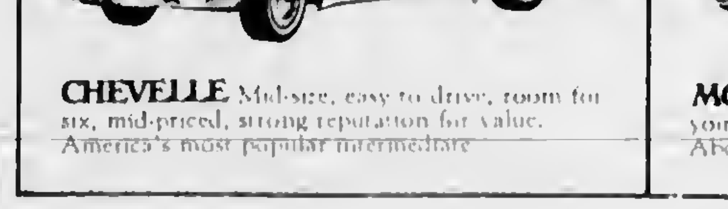
CAMARO Our sensibly sporty compact. It looks like a million and drives like it looks.



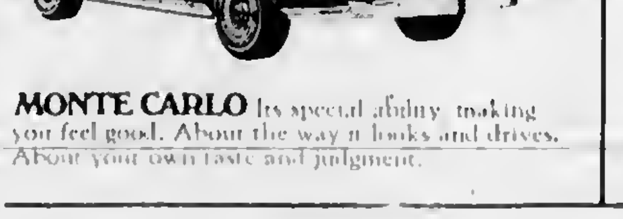
IMPALA America's favorite car continues to provide the room many families need plus plenty of quiet and comfort. Still the great American value.



WAGONS Big ones, small ones, in-between ones. Practical wagons that make sense for America. And you.



CHEVELLE Mid-size, easy to drive, room for six, mid-priced, strong reputation for value. America's most popular intermediate.



MONTE CARLO Its special ability: making you feel good. About the way it looks and drives. About your own taste and judgment.

CHEVROLET'S NEW EFFICIENCY SYSTEM FOR 1975 It's the key part of a program aimed at helping our new cars run leaner (more economically), run cleaner and save you money every mile.

The Efficiency System is standard on all 1975 Chevrolets with V8 or 6-cylinder engines. It's a series of significant engineering improvements working together for the very first time.

Components include High Energy Ignition, catalytic converter, Early Fuel Evaporation and steel-belted radial ply tires. In sum, the System is designed to heighten the pleasure and lower the cost of driving a 1975 Chevrolet to bring you a better running car in many ways, along with improved fuel economy, more miles between recommended maintenance and an engine that stays cleaner internally because of no-lead fuel.

Your Chevrolet dealer will gladly give you the details and answer your questions. See him and the sensible 1975 Chevrolets starting September 27.

Counselors Out To Help Kids

It's not easy being a kid.

Maybe you remember the times when you were one and found it tough to talk to your parents.

Times haven't changed much, according to Charlevoix High School counselors, and they're going all out this year to keep the communication link open.

Charlie Bentley and Gayle Kaczinski were hired this year by the Charlevoix School District to expand counseling services available to high school students.

"Personally, I'm very much an advocate of students," said Bentley, the new head counselor.

He says he sees his role as being a help to the student when it looks as if the student might get the short end and doesn't have to.

"I think we have to put our necks out on the chopping block for students," he continued.

The head counselor said he hopes they can confront students with a more realistic approach in planning their futures.

For example, he said too many students who are pushed into going to college should be considering a vocational education.

"We're going to try to do some things that have not been done in the past," he said.

This year, Bentley said his department will be emphasizing counseling and de-emphasizing guidance.

By this, Bentley said the department will be working with parents in helping them direct students by showing them the alternatives and having the students make the final decision.

"I want to get away from guidance," added Gayle Kaczynski.

"I want to get close to the kids and you can't do that with testing."

She said she will be making a point of being out where the students can see her and talk with her as between classes.

Bentley said too many counselors have a tendency to sit behind their desks and wait for the students to come to them.

"I think you have to be part kid to be a counselor," he said.

While both counselors still have their programs in planning stages, they said several programs are planned for the near future.

They plan to have a mini-course program in October where people will be able to learn about financial aid and college programs, as well as those programs available in vocational skills fields.

CHARLEVOIX BLOOD Drive members collected enough blood to surpass their goal last week.

Blood Drive-- A Big Success

The Charlevoix county Red Cross Blood Bank over subscribed its quota by 29 pints Mrs. Vernon Mathews Jr., general chairman of the event, has announced.

A total of 129 pints of blood were given by area residents and another 23 offered but were not acceptable for various reasons, Mrs. Mathews said.

Of the number of donors, 26 were new to the program.

Among the 129 residents who did donate blood was one who gave his twenty-fourth pint of blood through the Red Cross Blood Bank during an 11-year period. He is Ted Browe, Jr., retired U.S. Air Force man who has returned here to make his home. He had given his first pint of blood on Aug. 26, 1963, at Roanoke Rapids, n.c. He was presented with a "Three Gallon" pin for his contribution to the Blood Bank.

Miss Shumsky Married

A great grand-daughter of old time Beaver Island residents was married in Ludington last month.

Miss Margaret Shumsky, great grand-daughter of Mr. and Mrs James Gallagher Sr., became the bride of Dennis Grant on August 16 in St. Simon Catholic Church.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Martin Shumsky, and her maternal grandparents Mr. and Mrs. Fred Zalusky, also natives of Beaver Island. Mrs. Shumsky is the former Freda Zalusky.

The double-ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Bernard Scheid of Chicago and the Rev. Msgr. Victor Gallagher of Traverse City, both cousins of the bride.

With her wedding dress, the bride wore a pearl necklace which her grandmother, Martha Zalusky, wore at her wedding fifty years ago. Another heirloom was the ring bearer's pillow, which was made by the bride's paternal grandmother, Mrs. Otto Bentz.

Several persons from the Charlevoix area attended the wedding. The newlyweds are at home at 107 West Melendy Street, Ludington.

Charlevoix's Cement Maker

Medusa Cement crushes more than a million tons of limestone a year just outside of Charlevoix to produce one of the most widely used building materials in the world.

It's part of a long involved process that will turn the limestone into building cement. In a single year, almost twice as much cement is used as all the wood, structural steel, brick and other structural materials combined.

Medusa's $25-million plant, located just south of Charlevoix, produces four million barrels (¾ ton) of gray cement a year, which involves well over 100 people.

Medusa makes Portland cement, the key ingredient in concrete.

Portland cement is named after the Isle of Portland in England because the concrete made from it resembles the fine building stone quarried there.

At the Charlevoix plant's quarry, located near the property's southern boundary, limestone is blasted and trucked to the primary crusher.

Dumped in a large steel cone, the crusher presses it against the outside steel walls, reducing it to particles no larger than a softball.

The material is then moved along a conveyar belt to a secondary crusher, where it's further reduced in size and passed through a screening station.

The crushed limestone and shale are carried to a large A-frame structure, longer than two football fields, where it is stored with other basic ingredients-sand, iran ore, and gypsum. All the raw materials are blended together in the proper proportions and carried by another belt conveyor to the grinding house.

Water is added during the grinding to produce a thin mud, called "slurry." the slurry is then discharged and pumped to either of two large tanks for blending and storage.

After this preparation, the ingredients are ready for burning in the kiln, which is longer than a 45-story building is tall.

The kiln, which is made of steel and lined with firebrick, rotates at the rate of about one turn a minute.

The slurry is fed into the high end of the kiln, which slopes gradually from its intake to discharge ends, and is exposed to more and more heat.

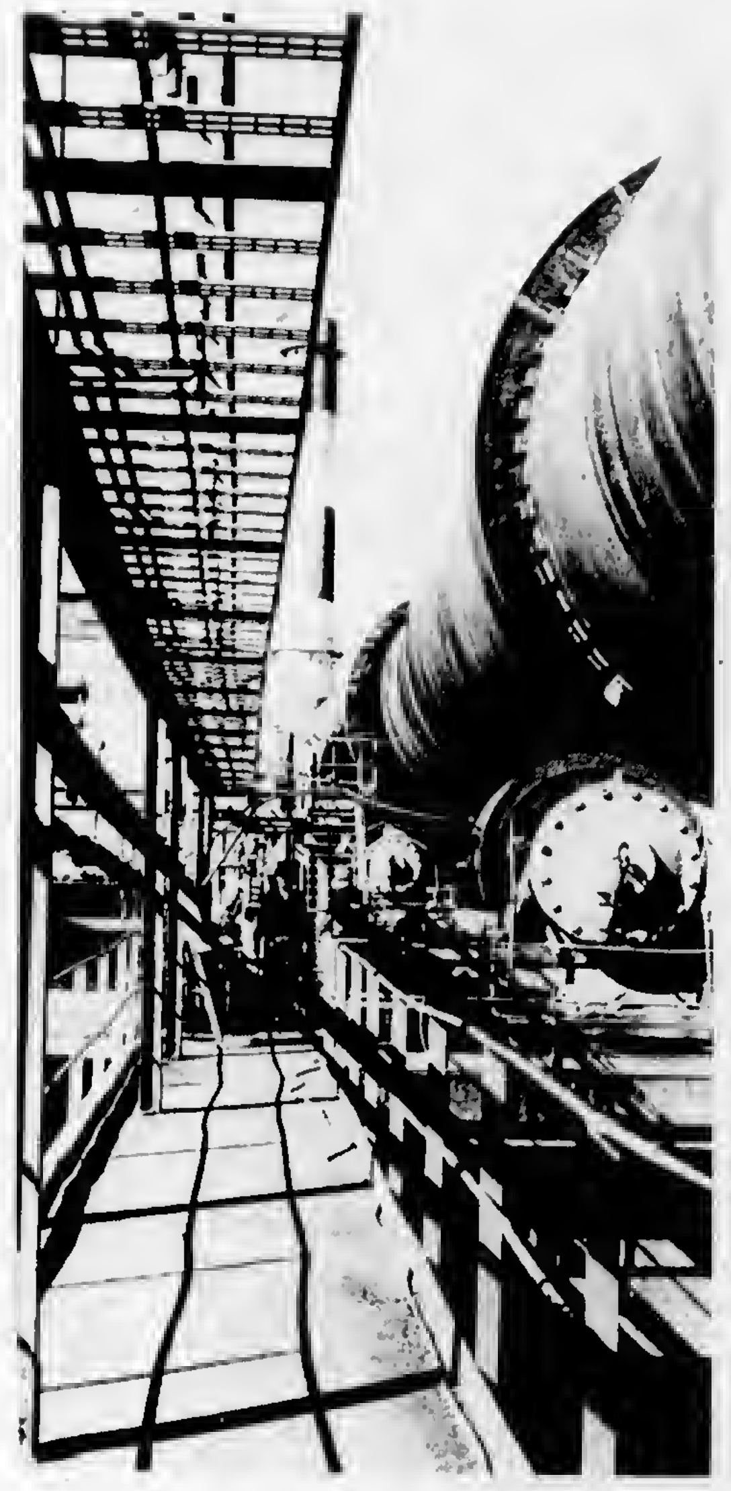
After 14 hours, the materials are dried, then heated and finally chemically combined to produce "clinker." The temperature in the kiln approaches 3,000 degrees F.

The clinker appears in the form of round, hard, marble-sized balls, harder than the rock from which it was formed.

A small amount of gypsum is added to the cooled clinker to regulate the hardening time.

Then the clinker goes through another grinding mill, where it is ground to a small powder and becomes the final product.

Trucks and trains then ship the cement into local markets.



HUGE KILNS heat the quarried rock which is eventually made into a fine powder knawn as cement.

LOCATED JUST south of Charlevaix, Medusa Cement produces cement for use in Wiscansin and Michigan.

LIMESTONE is quarried at the plant site.

Charlevoix Middle Schoolers Find Science Lots of Fun

Iggy has been in Charlevoix for almost a month now.

But, you probably don't even know who he is.

That's, of course, unless you're one of many Charlevoix Middle School students taking this year's new science program.

Iggy is the fictitious cartoon character in the student's science material who is making the program more active to younger minds.

The program is called Intermediate Science Curriculum Study, an innovative new teaching program which lets students work independently while their teachers serve in an advisory or consulting capacity.

The program has become so popular that some students would rather skip lunch and head for an extra session in the science room.

What's the secret?

Most Charlevoix Middle School students say it's because most of them are allowed to work at their own pace.

"We just follow the book," says Anita Heffelfinger.

"You do what it says and go at your own pace."

The former Ohio youngster said that before she used to have to do everything in a group. She thinks this program is better because she is working to stay ahead of others instead of relying on the group to do her work.

The teacher, she continued, is also freer to walk around and check on the student's progress.

"We get to do more experiments than last year," added Mark Price.

"It's just a better program than last year."

Mark says he's worried about getting his work done because if he doesn't his teacher will give him a bad mark.

Wendy Wright also liked being able to do more experiments, but more important, she says the program material is more interesting.

"Last year all we studied was human anatomy, this year we are doing more experiments and working with electricity," she said.

She said when students worked in groups last year, some of the faster workers would get bored waiting for others to finish.

"This year we are working at our own pace and always have something to work on," she said.

"I work better on my own."

While students were busy trying to make batteries, Vince Brodin was being asked a dozen questions about materials needed for the experiment.

Vince is a student aide and has the responsibility of handing out materials for each experiment to students.

He said the best thing about the program was that every student gets materials to do an experiment, unlike previous years where there was only enough material for two or three students to do something at a time.

"This year we have everything for the class," he said.

A COMPLETELY new science program being offered at the Charlevoix Middle Schaal has made science papular with local yaungsters.

Winter Is Near

How To Care For Plants

If your vegetable garden was not entirely satisfactory this year, now is the time to plan next year's garden.

Make a layout of this year's garden so you will know how many feet of the various vegetables you planted, and where. Also note whether you had too much of one vegetable and not enough of another, and whether everything seemed to ripen at once, creating a surplus problem.

If you neglected to plant something you wish you had, note that, too.

This is the advice of the Michigan State Extension Service.

"Part of the surplus problem can be solved by staggering plantings and using early, midseason and late varieties so that everything isn't ripe at the same time," they suggest.

A check list of expected yields will also be useful in determining how much produce you can handle. Then plant accordingly.

A drawing of this year's garden will make it possible for you to rotate your crops. Many common plant diseases and some insect pests live in the soil from one growing season to the next.

Closely related crops, like melons and cucumbers or tomatoes, potatoes, peppers and eggplant should not succeed each other because they are usually susceptible to the same pests.

"Disappointing yields and poor plant growth can be due to over watering or too little water, not enough or too much fertilizer, poor drainage, insufficient sunlight, planting at the wrong time, using poor varieties, or failing to control weeds," a Michigan State horticulturist states.

The garden should be watered once a week during dry periods so the soil is thoroughly wet to a depth of six inches.

Too much fertilizer at the wrong time can be as bad as not enough. Tomatoes, for instance, should be sidedressed with a nitrogen fertilizer after the first or second fruit cluster has started to form. Fertilizing before the fruit start to form will give huge plants but the flowers will tend to fall off.

The location of the garden may be at the root of any problems. Good drainage and full sunlight are necessary for best growth and yield. Plant lettuce and other leafy vegetables in the shaded areas of a garden. Plants that produce fruit need full sunlight.

If disease or low yield was a problem this year, perhaps the varieties were not the best. Some varieties of vegetables are more disease resistant and produce higher yields than others.

A poor return from sweet corn could be a problem of row length. Corn is wind-pollinated, so it should be planted in short, side-by-side rows rather than in one long one.

Streeter Piles Up 250 Yards

Rayders Defeat Grayling

Mike Streeter led an awesome Charlevoix running attack as the Rayders defeated the Grayling Vikings 27-14 at Kipke Field.

Streeter scored all four touchdowns and rushed for more than 250 yards.

The Rayders who had been dumped by Benzie Central 14-7 in their season opener are now 1-0 in the Michigan Huron Shores Conference.

In last week's game with Grayling, there were comparatively few fumbles, despite the fact that the first half of the game was played in a torrential rain.

In the game, the visitors scored first on a 22 yard run by Wright in the first period. Cliff Bonamie, the Vikings' veteran fullback and chief ground gainer for the game, added the conversion on a run to give the visitors an 8-0 advantage. On the next series of plays, however, the Ruyders countered with a scoring play on a 34 yard run by Mike Streeter with Streeter running the ball over for two points to tie the score as the first period ended.

Early in the second period, Phil Christ recovered a Grayling fumble on the 26 yard line to keep the ball in Charlevoix's possession in the march for a second touchdown scored from the eight yard line by Streeter. Bob Alger booted the conversion with 7:30 remaining on the clock in the second period.

Charlevoix kicked off to the Vikings who gave up the ball on the Rayder 45 after failing to pick up enough yardage.

With Kevin Martin and Streeter carrying the ball, the Rayders moved it to the 33 yard line where a personal foul on the visitors gave them a first down on the 18. Alger moved the team in a series of plays to the two yard line where Grayling took over on downs in a driving rain.

Grayling kicked off to open and made it to the 26 when Christ snatched the ball from the arms of a Grayling player to give his team possession as the half ended with a 15-8 score in the Rayders' favor.

Grayling was on the move the second half. Martin took the ball on the 21 yard line but slipped on the 23 where the officials downed the ball and the series began.

On the next play the Rayders were hit with an illegal procedure penalty to move the ball to the 18 yard line. Martin returned the ball to the 23 where the Rayders were again penalized. Grayling, however, refused the penalty. With a third down 10 situation existing, Streeter broke away and romped 77 yards to score and get the Rayders out of a bad position. The conversion kick was wide and the score stood at 21-8 with 10:45 remaining in the third period.

The Rayders kicked off the the Vikings who took over on their own 35. In an effort to gain ground, Grayling took the the air but the pass was short and, after moving the ball only five yards on the ground, were forced to punt. Doug Smith took the ball and returned it to the Rayders 48.

In a series of plays, the Rayders marched to the five where a major penalty found Charlevoix fumbling and Grayling recovering the ball in the end zone for a touchback which put the ball on to the 20 where Grayling took possession.

A pass play moved the ball to the 30 and a series of ground plays and a major penalty on Charlevoix moved the ball to the Charlevoix 46. Two plays the Vikings fumbled and Jim Sladek recovered for the Rayders on their 40 yard line.

The Rayders, however, were forced to punt with Mark Hansen of Grayling blocking the punt to set up a scoring play by Bonaimie from the five with 10:03 remaining in the final period. The conversion attempt was cut short with the score at 21-14.

Grayling kicked off with Terry Drew taking the ball on the Viking 42 and returning it to midfield. Two plays later Grayling recovered a Rayder Fumble and started a march that took them to the 45 yard line. A major penalty, however, set Grayling back to their own 30 when the Vikings went to the air to move themselves out of the hole.

On the first play from scrimmage, Ed Russell intercepted a Grayling pass to give Charlevoix possession on the 42 yard line. With Martin, Frank Muma and Streeter carrying the ball, the Rayders moved inside the Grayling 10. After two tries by the Rayders, Streeter went in from the eight to score with 6:02 on the clock.

The Rayders kicked off but a stubborn Rayder line and a major penalty on Grayling gave Charlevoix the ball on downs. A Rayder fumble on their own 35 recovered by Grayling gave the Vikings renewed hope as Bonamie moved the ball to the Charlevoix 35 where time ran out.

The Rayder defensive squad held Grayling to 126 yards passing and rushing while Charlevoix had 336 yards with Streeter accounting for 253 yards.

Along The Sidelines

A victory for the Rayders! Way to go fellows.

This week we will take a look at the offensive side of a football game. Using the Rayder backfield as an example, we can begin to see how the game is played from one side of the line.

Basically, the Charlevoix eleven is deployed in a "wishbone" backfield set. This means that the players behind the line are arranged in a form resembling a wishbone, or a Y.

This arrangement was originated by Darrell Royale at Texas in the late 1960's, and has been copied by a number of teams since then.

Running the wishbone for Charlevoix is Bob Alger, Quarterback. It is his responsibility to find holes in the opposition's defense. He does this by calling on Mike Streeter, Doug Smith, and Kevin Martin.

These fellows run plays known as "dives", "slants", "counters", "draws", and "sweeps". The wishbone gives the quarterback a number of options based on this backfield.

Unsung heroes of this offensive set, or for that matter, any offense, are the linemen. It is this group of players who take a lot of the punishment necessary to open avenues of escape for the fleet footed Rayders backs.

Playing the line for the Charlevoix squad we have:

Tackles–Kirk Lieberman, Phil Christ

Guards–Jim Sladek, Steve Bearss

Center–John Cinnamon

Linemen must learn to execute a number of blocks and blocking assignments. The success of the backfield depends on the ability of the line players to carry out their assignments.

Capping off the offensive unit are the ends. Playing end for Charlevoix this year are Dan Green and Dave Martincheck. Ends are responsible for blocking on running plays, and for getting free of defenders to catch the ball on passing plays.

That's a brief look at the Rayder offensive set. Next week we will look at the defense and talk a little about how this group will be countering the opposing teams offensive.

$356,000.00

CHARLEVOIX PUBLIC SCHOOLS
COUNTIES OF CHARLEVOIX AND ANTRIM
STATE OF MICHIGAN
TAX ANTICIPATION NOTES

Sealed bids for the purchase of tax anticipation notes of Charlevoix Public Schools, Counties of Charlevoix and Antrim, Michigan, of the par value of $356,000.00 will be received by the undersigned at the Superintendent's Office, E. Garfield Street, Charlevoix, Michigan, until 12 o'clock, p.m., Eastern Daylight Time, on the 3rd day of October 1974, at which time and place they will be publicly opened and read.

The notes will be dated October 1, 1974, will mature April 1, 1975 and will bear interest at a rate or rates not exceeding 8 percent per annum. Both principal and interest will be payable at a bank or trust company located in the State of Michigan to be designated by the original purchaser of the notes which paying agent qualifies as such under the Statutes of the State of Michigan or of the Federal Government, subject to the approval of the Charlevoix Public Schools. Denominations and form of notes to be at the option of the purchaser. Accrued interest to date of delivery of such notes must be paid by the purchaser at the time of delivery.

The notes shall not be subject to redemption prior to maturity.

For the purpose of awarding the notes the interest cost of each bid will be computed by determining, at the rate or rates specified therein, the total dollar value of all interest on the notes from October 3, 1974, to their maturity and deducting therefrom any premium. The notes will be awarded to the bidder whose bid on the above computation produces the lowest dollar interest cost to the municipality. No proposal for the purchase of less than all of the notes or at a price less than their par value will be considered.

The loan is in anticipation of the Operating portion of the School Tax for the fiscal year commencing July 1, 1974 which tax is due and payable December 1, 1974.

A certified or cashier's check in the amount of 2 percent of the par value of the notes, drawn upon an incorporated bank or trust company and payable to the order of the Treasurer must accompany each bid as a guarantee of good faith on the part of the bidder to be forfeited as liquidated damages if such bid be accepted and the bidder fails to take up and pay for the notes. Checks of unsuccessful bidders will be promptly returned.

Bids shall be conditioned upon the unqualified opinion of the purchaser's attorney approving the legality of the notes, to be secured at the purchaser's expense. The purchaser shall furnish notes ready for execution at his expense. Notes will be delivered at a place to be agreed upon with the purchaser. The right is reserved to reject any and all bids. Envelopes containing the bids should be plainly marked "Proposal for Notes".

Rains Delay Tourney

Heavy rains and even a little snow has forced a delay in the men's post season slo-pitch tournament. The tournament is in the semi-finals.

The semis were originally scheduled to be played last Thursday. Heavy rains forced the first postponement and the inclement weather continued throughout the weekend making it impossible to continue the tournament.

Recreation director, Curt Kipke, has announced that the tournament is suspended until there is a decent break in the weather.

The four teams anxiously waiting to play again are Andy's Tire World, Village Insurance, American Mold Engineering, and league champions, Topside Cocktail Lounge.

In the first round action Airport defeated Paul Reed 11-7, Portside downed the Townhouse 10-5, Medusa outslugged the Coast Guard 17-12, and Village Insurance clobbered Hospital 11-1.

In the second round, Topside clipped Airport 7-2, American Mold mauled Portside 13-0, Andy's nipped Medusa 7-5, and Village Insurance won by forfeit over Bourkes' Steak and Stein (the Shed).

Methodists Hold Retreat

The Charlevoix United Methodist Church is inviting all local residents to join in their weekend retreat which starts with a 24-hour prayer vigil Thursday evening at 5:30.

On Friday evening there will be a potluck supper at 6:30 and church services at 7:30. On Saturday the men will gather for breakfast at 7:00, followed by a coffee for the women at 9:30. At 11:05 they will listen to Jim Daniel, the national champion blind golfer who will be a guest on WJML's Sound-Off program.

Daniel will exhibit his golfing ability at the Charlevoix Municipal Golf Course Saturday afternoon at 2:00. He is 40 years old and lost his sight ten years ago.

Since that time Daniel has served as president of his local Lions Club and other organizations, including the Retarded Children's Olympic committee. He is also a deacon in the Presbyterian Church in Summerville, Georgia, where he makes his home.

Larry Levine of Munith will also give his testimony at the retreat. Since becoming a Christian Levine has been a youth counselor and evangelism chairman in the West Michigan Conference of the Methodist Church. He has been involved in various evangelistic services throughout Kentucky and Michigan.

Saturday evening services will begin at 7:00, with the young people taking over at approximately 8:30.

Both Daniel and Levine will attend Sunday School and worship services Sunday. A potluck dinner will follow the services.

COMMON COUNCIL

September 9, 1974
8:00 p.m.

The Common Council of the City of Charlevoix met on the above date and time with Mayor Hansen presiding. Present: Aldermen Plumm, Selph, Timms, Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen Wood and McRae. Absent: None.

The minutes of the August 26, 1974 regular meeting and the Board of Appeals meeting of August 26, 1974 were approved as presented in writing and as recorded in the Council Minutes Book.

Mr. William Ohle addressed Council in behalf of the Historical Society; stating the need of a building to house their artifacts. He asked the possibility of leasing land from the City and suggested the lot on Park Avenue next to the water tower where they might erect a building. The matter was referred to Public Relations Committee for their further discussion.

The contract between the City of Charlevoix and Northern Design & Construction Engineers for revetment wall on Round Lake between Clinton Street and the Commercial Dock was presented for post-approval.

Motion was made by Alderman Timms that post-approval be given of the contract between the City of Charlevoix and Northern Design & Construction Engineers. Because of a lack of information, Council requested that complete copies of the contract be mailed early to each Council member for study before a committee of the whole meeting set for September 11, 1974. Alderman Timms withdrew his motion.

Advertising Contract and bids between the City and the Charlevoix Courier and the Northland Press were discussed briefly. It was felt that since legal questions for Northland Press should be cleared with the State Attorney that the subject should be referred to the Finance Committee for consideration.

The proposal from Charlevoix Abstract and Engineering Company for a consulting service contract was discussed briefly with Mary Feindt present. It was referred to the committee as a whole for further study on September 11, 1974.

Vincent Olach asked the Council's opinion on having a C1-130 aircraft for the Fly-In at the airport for viewing and asked that a letter be sent to the Air Force releasing them from any responsibility of damage to the run-way or airport on September 29, 1974.

Alderwoman Wallace offered a motion supported by Alderman Wood that the Acting Administrator be instructed to write the letter to the Air Force. The motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Aldermen Plumm, Selph, Timms, Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen Wood and McRae. Nays: None. Absent: None. Attorney Berlage asked Mr. Wexstaff to phone him and get the proper language for the letter.

Mr. Gregg Shadko was present to explain his reason for sending his bill for $1000 for engineering services for work done in 1969. The matter was put into committee as a whole for further discussion on September 11, 1974.

Mr. DeWitt Peters questioned what could be done to avoid a possible emergency due to trouble with the water supply to the North side of the City, such as the recent break of a water main.

Council was advised by Mayor Hansen that it is felt that the water main was broken due to the Durocher Dock & Dredge, Inc. installing revetment on the South wall of Pine River Channel. He announced that the cracked pipe north of the bridge was repaired today. He also stated pipe has been layed to connect the City and Township mains, and that the State Health Department will be in Charlevoix September 10, 1974 to inspect what is being done. The Township contractor, Wilson and Mayhew, are in the area and will probably hook up the two systems on September 10, 1974. The connection is for emergency purposes for either the City or Township to use.

Alderwoman Wallace said she felt that if this is an emergency hook-up, the City and Township should have proper authority from the State Health Department before the hook-up is completed.

Alderman McRae offered the following Resolution, supported by Alderman Selph.

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, it has become evident that it will be to the best interest of the people of the City of Charlevoix, to connect the water systems of the City to the water system of the Township of Charlevoix, such connection to be made for emergency supply, from one to the other by connecting the Taylor Avenue water main at Mercer Blvd. to the Township main which is 40 ft. North of the Charlevoix main, the estimated cost of which is $2400.

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the City enter with the Township and connect the two mains forthwith, for Emergency Interconnection, with valve between.

The Resolution was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Aldermen Plumm, Selph, Timms, Wood, and McRae. Nays: Alderwoman Wallace. Absent: None.

Motion was offered by Alderwoman Wallace and supported by Alderman McRae to express the City's gratitude to the Township for their fine co-operation and assistance in the City's emergency of water supply on September 7, 1974.

The motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Aldermen Plumm, Selph, Timms, Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen Wood, and McRae. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Mayor Hansen thanked Mr. Shadko for his work and co-operation in this emergency.

Alderwoman Wallace explained that the softball program has not been self-supporting this year and that they need financial assistance to pay the umpires. Curt Kipke, Recreational Director, is concerned that the revenue is down from last year. It was decided that the problem would be reviewed at the September 11, 1974 Committee Meeting.

Alderman McRae announced that he had talked with Mr. Roy Bennett, Mrs. Irma Scheid and Mr. John Schroeder about being on a Committee to study Home Rule City Government and a new Charter and to make their recommendation to the City Council. He asked the Mayor to make the appointment of these people to a Committee. Mayor Hansen appointed Mr. Bennett, Mrs. Scheid and Mr. Schroeder to a Committee to study Home Rule Government and a Charter and to make their recommendation.

Alderman McRae explained he had discussed with Boyne City and East Jordan the possibility of their working with Charlevoix and using the same building code and to share in the expense of hiring a building inspector to work the three Cities and found them very interested in the plan.

Attorney Berlage reported that complete settlement was made with G & T Construction Company. The Acting Administrator was asked to prepare a report of the actual cost of the May Street Sewer Project by the next meeting, September 23, 1974.

The Acting Administrator was instructed to write Ronald Steffes, owner of The Dunes, to remove the carport roof structure by a certain date.

Alderman Wood again asked that a sign be put up on Michigan Avenue at the public access to Lake Michigan Beach. The Acting Administrator was instructed to take care of it.

Alderwoman Wallace stated her concern about LaHarve Condominium parking spaces wondering if they could carry through their promise of two parking spaces per unit. She mentioned the hazardous condition of Allee Street by the LaHarve and asked Mr. Wexstaff to check it out. She asked if the City is planning to widen Park Avenue and stated the residents are very opposed to it. Mr. Wexstaff told her this is the City's plan when new curb is put in.

Alderwoman Wallace stated that she felt Council members are being by-passed many times in decisions and pointed out the Shadko bill for $1000 being put with the bills without any explanation or notice of it being unusual. She feels that anything that requires spending of the City finances should be brought before Council before decisions are made, and felt disturbed when she had to learn about the emergency caused by the broken water main from citizens' complaints.

The Finance Committee having examined bills totaling $142,871.25 find them correct and recommend that the bills be allowed. Motion was made by Alderman Plumm and supported by Alderman Selph that the bills be allowed and orders drawn for their amounts. The motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Aldermen Plumm, Selph, Timms, Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen Wood and McRae. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Council adjourned.

grown was used for local consumption and the only way they could get any was to purchase it through their maid or through the cook at Guest House, a sort of club for GE employees maintained by the company for use by the employees and for the convenience of company people visiting the site.

Most of their entertaining was also done at Guest House, they said.

Both had attended company-sponsored classes in Japanese before going overseas and knew a smattering of the language. Upon arrival, however, Gary found that the Japanese workmen wanted him to speak to them in English to give them an opportunity to practice the language they had either learned in school or by working with Americans.

Gary also found that the best way to get your message across was draw a picture. He said he went to a gas station to borrow a small gas can and had no trouble when he drew a picture.

A friend went to the same station and tried to ask, in Japanese, for the same thing.

They brought out everything in the station before he finally got his message across.

Japan, Gary said, was the hardest hit by the energy crisis earlier this year. The houses there are heated with fuel oil and, at the most critical part of the crisis, they didn't turn their furnace on for two weeks, even when the temperature dropped to 20 degrees at night.

They would set around low tables with heat lamps under them in order to keep warm.

There was little fresh fruit available there and enroute home, during a stopover in Hawaii, Gary bought $10 worth of fresh fruit and ate it all in one day.

There were apples available and they were as large as cantaloupes here but they cost $5.00 each. They explained that Japanese orchardists had come to the state of Washington to learn about growing apples. They returned with trees to start orchards, improved on American methods and raised the large apples.

They soon found that if you become lost in Tokyo or wanted to make yourself understood, you asked a student the way by writing your message.

moving. First to the "large muscle area," or "active area," where a jungle gymn stood on a rug, a bouncing rocking horse in another section, and well marked roads, lanes and intersections for the truck and car crew.

An endless variety of activities are available across the double sized room. For the first hour our children would be free to choose their activities. Teachers and assistants will station themselves at key points to direct children and to keep the running down —someone will always help at the easel, and by the climbing tower. . They can paint, ride trucks, pump gas at the gas station–which might be a store or restaurant next week, and so on.

I was awed by the props, most made by parents over the last two years.

Mrs. Miller stopped in the midst of pointing out the costumes. "Nursery school is an unisex experince. Boys can play housekeeping and girls can ride trucks as happily as visa and versa."

"Which reminds me," she added. "We keep talking about mothers coming to school. I should say 'parents.' We want fathers involved too. It looks like more fathers will be working with us this year, and that's good."

profit federated organization with over 200 state and local affiliates. It was incorporated in 1964 for the purpose of advancing the education and general well-being of children with learning disabilities.

ACLD aims to increase public understanding and awareness of the nature of learning disabilities; to insure early intervention and identification of learning disabilities for all school children and to insure that local educational systems provide the necessary services so that each child may reach his or her fullest potential.

Educational programs are available for some learning disabled children within the Charlevoix-Emmet County area.

There are presently fifteen "Learning Center" programs in local school districts. Learning Disabled children who attend "Learning Center" programs receive not only the diagnostic help needed to identify their specific needs, but also, an appropriate education program is panned and taught program is planned and taught toward meeting those needs.

Petoskey, Twin Valley, Harbor Springs, Charlevoix, Pellston and Central Lake School Districts have established Learning Center special education programs.

Psychological services to aid in the identification of learning disabled children are available through the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District. The Intermediate District also employes two staff members to work with learning center teachers, local building staff and parents.

Twin Valley, Harbor Springs and Pellston have also initiated a Kindergarten screening program which will keep parents and teachers not only identify but to plan appropriate educational programs for all children in those early school years.

If you know a child that can't learn, tell his parents about MACLD. The Petoskey-Charlevoix Chapter of the Michigan ACLD President is Mrs. Maxine Bergman, Rte. 3, Box 38, Charlevoix, Michigan.

Sunday Services
7:30 a.m. and 11 p.m.

Services for Episcopalians in Charlevoix began in the summer of 1883 and Christ Church was organized formally as a Mission in 1887. The cornerstone of the present building was laid July 30, 1894 and by 1903 the Church was equipped to hold services both winter and summer. For the greater part of Christ Church's history it has been served by clergy from Petoskey or Traverse City. The first full-time Priest arrived in the summer of 1953, although much work has been accomplished by the devotion of the part-time Vicars. Since 1953 the Mission has been served by resident clergy, although the present Vicar, The Rev'd Hewitt V. Johnston, is also in charge of St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Elk Rapids.

Sunday services are at 7:30 and 11:00 A.M. and are usually Holy Communion. The Prayer Book is always used at the early service and the New Liturgies are used at the later service. A mid-week service of Holy Communion is held on Wednesday at 12 noon, and services are held on Saint's Days and Holy Days as announced. There is an active Episcopal Church Women chapter and a full range of Church activities: Church School, study groups and other functions.

Visitors are welcomed at all of the services of Christ Episcopal Church and are urged to stay for the fellowship of the coffee hour which is held every Sunday right after the late service. Fr. Johnston can usually be reached mornings in his office at the Vicarage where the phone number is 547-9406.

Local Residents Return

Couple Finds Japan Tough

By FRAN MARTIN

Mr and Mrs Gary Chew say they'd go again after recently returning to this country from Japan.

Chew, a native of Charlevoix and the son of Mrs. Emerald Chew is an engineer with the General Electric Co. and had been in Japan for two years while his company was installing equipment in three Nuclear Power Plants.

The plants will supply up to 800 mega-watts for the city of Tokyo and environs. Mrs. Chew, the former Carol Bullock, a native of the west coast, had accompanied him to Japan.

While there they lived in houses built along western lines for the use of Americans while working on the project.

The community where they lived was near the site of the power plants they were building but 3½ hours via train from the city of Tokyo.

It was in the country where anything but main highways were so narrow, one might have to back up for miles if one met a car. The closest store was an hour away so shopping trips were limited.

They said that most people who go to Japan live on U.S. Army or Navy bases where they can buy American products without difficulty and life is much as it is in a small town at home.

However, when you're a civilian living as a Japanese civilian it's a lot different, they both agreed.

Finding foods to which they were accustomed and clothes that would fit were among the problems they faced.

Both agreed that you wouldn't starve if you could acquire a taste for fish, squid, which are served whole and is like tasteless bubble gum when you eat it, crickets which are a delicacy but which neither could eat.

Gary said he did learn to eat raw fish dipped in sauces but wouldn't want it for a regular diet. Carol, however, couldn't bring herself to eat the regular Japanese fare.

Bread was available, she said, but we didn't like it. It wasn't like our bread back home so I learned to make bread.

Then she found if she wanted something she had to make it so she learned to cook many things she'd never prepared before.

Luckily, she said, Gary liked casserole dishes because she could stretch the meat that way.

With hamburger at $2.50 per pound it wasn't often that you could splurge and have just hamburgers for a meal. Then she found she couldn't buy pickles....and what's a hamburger without pickles....so she learned to prepare them. Pork and chicken were the most plentiful and economic meats, she said.

Everything, she said, was made from scratch....cookies, bread...pasties...for there were no prepared goods on the shelves there.

They both recalled how, on a special occasion, they went out for dinner to celebrate, splurged and ordered steak which turned out to be miniatures of what you'd get at home and a small bottle of wine. When the check came it was $60.00 so they never did that again.

Even steak purchased at the store was $20.00 per pound.

The amount of sugar one could purchase was limited to bags of two pounds each.

At one time flour was unavailable for a time but Carol had laid in a supply when she started baking bread so she managed to get through that crisis.

Clothes were another problem. There were plenty of them in the stores but they were made for the Japanese figure which, Carol said, would be a women's size three or five in the States.

She had taken a good supply of clothing with her but when the need arose she found it necessary to make her own though she wears only a size 12 herself. Gary had equally as much trouble. Shoulders were too small, sleeves were too short...nothing seemed to fit.

Rice, was everyone knows, is a staple of Japan. However, in their area most of that Condominiums--Boom or Bust?

Brian Seymour isn't exactly what you'd call a slick, slippery, super salesman out to steal your buck.

He's just out to sell what he believes is a good product–condominiums. He is one of many salesmen handling Charlevoix's seven condominium developments.

From anywhere from $13,900 to $78,500, the Charlevoix real estate salesman can find a condo unit to fit both a person's pocketbook and tastes.

Units vary anywhere from a one-room studio apartment to a luxurious fully-carpeted and furnished three bedroom penthouse with a roof-top garden.

"We have a complete rental management," said the lifelong Charlevoix resident, who says a person may buy a unit and his company will rent it out when the owner is gone.

Sitting back in a comfortable, over-stuffed chair, the neatly dressed salesman explained how the five condominiums his firm handles vary in costs and styles.

He was giving his low-key sales pitch about why one should buy a condominium as a second home instead of buying the traditional cottage on the lake along with all the worries of being an absentee landowner.

"It's what people used to have as a cottage," he said.

"It's getting harder and harder for people to take care of a cottage."

On the other hand, Seymour says a condominium buyer through his monthly maintenance fee, may have a man turn the heat and lights on before the owner arrives on the scene Friday night from the city.

Seymour, like others, is optimistic about the future of condominium sales in the area.

"I wouldn't say sales are fantastic," he continued.

"Volume-wise, there probably has been more sold in condos than in real estate this summer."

Seymour claims most of the projects his firm handles are 50 percent sold.

"If the economy breaks by spring or summer, I would look to see them all sold," he said.

"We're looking for October to be good."

Seymour said he knows a lot of people who would move on a condominium purchase if the stock market went up.

"Our picture here looks better than in the city," he said.

"We have all the traffic we can handle."

Having just returned from a condominium sales seminar in Lansing he said downstate condominium projects are in serious trouble. He said people won't even tour urban project sites.

It's difficult to get an accurate picture of the condominium sales picture in Charlevoix.

Some developers refuse to discuss how many units they have actually sold and it is difficult to determine how many people have registered their deed with the Charlevoix Register of Deeds after purchasing a unit.

According to Register of Deeds office, there are 181 units available in Charlevoix with only 21 units sold.

However, developers indicate they have sold many more.

Condominiums are of prime interest to city fathers, primarily because they represent 12.1 percent of the city's tax income and will represent a far greater share when they are completed and sold.

Charlevoix can expect to collect nearly $973,752 in tax dollars, and this is based only on an assessment taken when most units were still under construction.

Total cash value of Charlevoix's seven condominiums when the assessments were made was only $3,684,410.

Developer Ralph Hess of LaCroft, a 64-unit development, says he has sold 11 and has deposits from 14 other persons who have made substantial interior investments and alterations.

In addition, he says, there are others who have made application for mortgages.

"If this all jells, we will be at 35 units," he said.

Looking at the situation realistically and looking at the bad side of the economy, he said he has 35 locked-up.

Hess said the minute there is an indication the economy will ease and stay that way for a month, things will probably even look brighter.

"Bankers feel we are in an easing trend," Hess said.

He added that several major banks are already lowering their interest rates to between 10 and 10¾ percent.

The major problem, Hess says, is the availability of mortgage money.

But oddly enough, Hess said banks look favorably at the Charlevoix area because of the potential growth and stability of the people coming to the area for second homes.

Hess says he's a little bit behind what they had anticipated to be in sales, but they're not off by much.

One factor he hadn't expected was the energy crunch last winter.

"They were afraid they weren't going to be able to get up here," Hess said.

Local or County?

Area Considers Building Code

Adoption of building codes to meet state requirements and plans for administering them are taking up much time of local government officials.

Charlevoix adopted a code at the last City Council meeting, Boyne City has adopted a code, and East Jordan plans to do so at the next Council meeting.

However, the manner in which the codes will be administered and regulations enforced is a matter of concern to all three cities.

Alderman Ralph McRae of Charlevoix says that he has talked with the city managers of Boyne City and East Jordan in an attempt to encourage joint administration of the building code.

Forbes Tompkins of Boyne City says that they will have to get together with someone because the cost of hiring a qualified administrator and inspectors would be prohibitive for one city.

Dennis Stepke of East Jordan says that they want to keep the administration "as local as possible" but concedes that a joint working arrangement with the other cities may be the answer.

On the county level, the Planning Commission was assigned the task of working out a suggested means of administering the code. The suggestions will be presented to the County Board of Commissioners at their meeting next week.

If the three cities in the county decide on joint administration of the building codes, the county would still be responsible for administration in townships which do not want to take the responsibility themselves. To date, four of five townships have asked for county administration.

According to the law, however, it is the county's responsibility to see that the code is enforced throughout the county even if certain cities or townships decide to do the jobs themselves.

The state building code, which was adopted in 1972 and which becomes effective next November 6, makes mandatory inspection of all structural, mechanical, plumbing and electrical work in new construction.

The law states that the building official in charge of inspection must have five years' building experience, be a licensed professional engineer or architect, building inspector, licensed contractor, or superintendent of building inspection. He must also have three years experience in a responsible administrative position.

Inspectors themselves must have three years practical technical experience in plumbing, electrical, mechanical or structural work.

Local officials have been wondering where they can find such qualified people and how they can pay them if found. Because there can be

Queen To Be Named

It's Homecoming Weekend

By FRAN MARTIN

The Charlevoix high school students choice of a homecoming queen will highlight the opening festivities of the annual homecoming this weekend.

This week the student body at the school will vote for their favorite candidate among the five who were nominated by the senior class.

The name of the ruling royalty will be announced at a brief program at Kipke field following the traditional snake dance and bonfire scheduled to begin at 7 p.m. Thursday.

Peggy Carey, 1973 Homecoming Queen and a student at the University of Michigan, will return to crown her successor during the halftime program of the homecoming game with St. Ignace at 8 p.m. Friday.

The homecoming parade featuring decorated floats entered by all the classes will precede the game.

The snake dance on Thursday night will begin at 7 p.m. from the Middle School on Grant st. Students from the sixth grade up are invited to gather at 6:45 p.m. to participate in the dance to be led by the Charlevoix high school marching band. The parade route will take the marchers to Kipke field via State st.

After the bonfire at the south end of Kipke field, the students and guests will assemble at the bleachers for the program at which Tim Moore of Station WVOY will serve as master of ceremonies and Claire C. Martin, of the Board of Education and a sports enthusiast will be the guest speaker.

The Queen's court will be introduced and the Homecoming Queen named. The new queen will then 'dub' Rayder Co-Captains, Dan Greene and Kevin Martin. The cheerleaders will be in action and the marching band, directed by Gary Stutzman, will play for the event.

On Friday the homecoming queen parade featuring decorated floats, the 1974 Homecoming Queen and her court and other entries will begin at the Middle School at 7 p.m. behind the Marching Band and make its way to Kipke field via State st. and Garfield ave.

At halftime, the Homecoming Queen will receive her crown from 1973 Homecoming Queen Peggy Carey and flowers and the game ball from Co-Captains Green and Martin.

A special halftime program during the Rayder-St. Ignace game will be dedicated to the Queen. Prior to the formal

County Budget Expected To Climb 18 Per Cent

By PEG OHLE

The skyrocketing prices of everyday living are reflected in the proposed county budget now being readied for a public hearing next week.

It will cost $1,282,856 to run Charlevoix County next year if the figures now proposed stand. This is an increase of more than 18 percent over last year's budget.

As in the average individual's budget, county cost increases seem to come from all sides, from all departments in varying amounts.

County Clerk Clarence Rabach cited the increase in cost of court operations as one reason for the higher budget. District Court will receive an increase of $13,500; Probate Court $7,000; Circuit Court $2,000; and Friend of the Court $6,000.

Public Safety also accounts for a large part of the increased cost of running the county. Their tentative budget calls for an expenditures of $240,000 compared to last year's $175,600. This includes an increase in every department - Civil Defense, Dog Warden, Jail and Sheriff. It also includes over $8,000 for Region 10 detectives, which was previously operated on a grant basis.

The county now must pay unemployment compensation to its employees. That amounts to about $6,000. The new Commission on Aging will cost $6,433.

The county also now has to carry 100 percent of the Ironton Ferry deficit which formerly was shared with the Road Commission. That's a increase from $5,000 to $11,000 in the county budget.

Under "General County Government," such departments as Equalization, Agricultural Extension, County Clerk, Courthouse and Grounds, Planning Commission, Prosecuting Attorney, Register of Deeds, Treasurer and others will all need more money to operate.

It will cost more to operate the Health Department, too. Many of the departments which are partly funded through state and federal funds will need more money. So will the Library Board.

Ira Davis, chairman of the Board of Commissioners, points out that "gasoline and everything else you buy have gone up out of sight."

On the other side of the ledger, the county will receive $9,500 more Revenue Sharing money this year, and property and other tax receipts are up considerably.

Members of the county Finance Committee are still working on refining the budget figures preparatory to the public hearing next Wednesday.

The hearing, at 2 p.m. in the Court House Annex, is part of the annual two-day meeting of the Commission. Purpose of the hearing is to explain to interested citizens how their dollars are spent.

Fochtman Blasts Council

A former Charlevoix mayor blasted Charlevoix City Council Monday night for calling a special meeting to purchase a truck for the cemetery and not taking any action.

"First of all, I'm astounded at you gentlemen," Bill Fochtman told city council.

The Charlevoix automotive and truck dealer said he had submitted a bid on the vehicle on Aug. 12, and had not heard about it since.

He said he couldn't believe they weren't ready Monday to consider the bids.

"I'm flabbergasted," he said.

"I just can't believe it.

"I'm astounded in the matter you're handling business."

One other resident defended the council for referring the matter back to committee since they apparently were not prepared to make a decision.

"I don't think this is bad," he said.

Mayor Ed Hansen defended the council position, by saying they were acting in good faith not to move on a matter that had so many unanswered questions. He said the council had planned to meet anyways.

Charlevoix Residents Aren't Sure

What Do You Say to A Naked Lady?

What do you say to a naked lady?

Or worse yet, what do you do when she tells you on the telephone she's completely nude?

If you're one of many in Charlevoix County, you listen to the recorded message to see what the Lucy Orchid from Green Orchid Studios has to offer.

In a somewhat soft, tantalizing voice, Lucy tells the listener that many have told her she is a piece of class and invites her long distance admirer to find out.

"Come up and I'll model for you completely nude in a private chamber," she whispers quietly.

Her price is $15 and she's available from 11 a.m. to midnight.

"If you would like a sample through the mail, I would love to send you a photograph of my body," she continues and tells the listener her address in Kansas City, Missouri.

For three bucks, you can get both a photograph and catalog of the pictures.

"Since this isn't a restaurant, I'm going to pay you back with a free vibrator massage," she continues.

"Lie back and relax, because I'm going to turn your phone into a vibrator.

"Let it tingle over your body."

The message ends with a loud hum.

According to Michigan Bell Telephone, Lucy Orchid has caused havoc across the nation.

In Missouri, for example, residents living outside of Kansas City found long distance phone charges on their bills for calls they never made.

Apparently, some high school students got hold of Miss Orchid's telephone number and started dialing it, but charged the call to another number.

"It's a nation-wide, not just in Missouri," says Pic Wagner, Ma Bell's Public Relations Manager in Detroit.

The state of Kentucky found itself holding the bag for $1,500 after its state employees got hold of the number and started calling it from their office telephones.

Wagner says he's not sure how the number has traveled so far across the United States.

No one has ever seen an ad for it, so, he like others, assumes it has gotten around by word mouth.

"It's apparently one of those promotional things," the Bell representative said.

"Whether she is nude or not, I don't know, I have never taken advantage of it."

While Ma Bell is disgruntled that some of her customers are unhappy about these kinds of things taking place, Wagner says there's not too much that can be done.

"There's no false advertising," he said.

"There's no profanity or obscene words.

"It's suggestive, but there's no obscenity involved."

Wagner says no one is forced to call the number and it is not forced on the public.

"If people are offended by it, they can hang up," he said.

Wagner says they don't like their customers being offended, but they can't be a legal censor.

He said the customer is paying for the number and unless he breaks either federal or state regulations, which apparently he hasn't, there isn't much he can do.

The U.S. Postal Service says they're in about the same boat as Bell Telephone.

Fred Johnson of the Mailing Requirements Section in Saginaw says they can't do a thing unless the package arrives in the mail unmarked.

Since February, 1971, residents have been able to take advantage of a law that protects them from receiving sexually oriented

FIRST CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH
(United Church of Christ)
101 State Street, Charlevoix
R.H. Giftin, Minister

We are a Pilgrim people by heritage as well as by intent, embarked upon an ongoing journey of faith to discover God's will for our lives.

Founded by the Pilgrims of Plymouth Colony and the Puritans of Massachusetts Bay Colony in the 1620's, the Congregational Church united with the Christian Church in 1931. The resulting denomination merged with the Evangelical and Reformed church in 1957 to become the United Church of Christ in order to more fully express our oneness in Christ, to make more effective our common witness to Him and to serve His kingdom in the world through agricultural, educational, medical, urban and evangelistic projects in 50 some countries.

The United Church of Christ recognizes the inherent autonomy of the local church under the leadership of the "laos", the whole people of God, minister and laity alike. The First Congregational Church of Charlevoix was founded in 1882 after meeting as a Sunday School and Society for many years in the old Dixon home. The latest addition to the original structure was dedicated in 1970. Outstanding in the line of 25 ministers is Dr. Harold E. Kohn, well known counselor, artist and writer now Pastor Emeritus.

The present active and associate membership numbers about 425. Sunday worship is held at 11:00 a.m. September through May with adult classes at 8:00 and 9:45 and Church School classes at 9:45 for all ages through 9th grade. A Women's Fellowship, four circles and a Men's breakfast group meet monthly. A youth group is being reorganized at the present time. Family nights, adult forums, leadership training and an ongoing ministry of music highlight the year.

We are a free church, a responsible church, a church of the people, gathered for work, witness and worship, dispersed to be the church in the community as members assume positions of leadership and responsibility and we invite all of like spirit to worship with us.

Charlevoix Township Approves PUD Code

The Charlevoix Township Board approved a Planned Unit Development addition to their Zoning Ordinance last week.

The new zoning category will make it possible to approve combined cluster housing and commercial enterprises on the same piece of land.

However, according to Mrs. Rose Bergmann, Township Treasurer, it is the intention of the Township to consider each request for P.U.D. development separately, and to require specific plans for each proposed development.

The Planned Unit Development category was added to the Zoning Ordinance after Dr. Walter F. Hoffman of Charlevoix submitted plans for a combined residential and commercial complex on a parcel of land in the Township.

Mrs. Bergmann says that approval of the P.U.D. category does not automatically approve the Hoffman development. Further, definite plans will have to be submitted before that can be approved.

Oscar Stroud, Charlevoix Township Supervisor, says he questioned approving the new category because he wanted to be sure township people would be protected and their wishes heard about any such development.

In August, the Charlevoix County Planning Commission, objected to the P.U.D. plans on the grounds that it would take business from Charlevoix's downtown area and could be the beginning of a commercial strip (along Highway 31) from Charlevoix to Petoskey.

The Commission agreed that such development is all right for urban and surburban areas, but if applied to Charlevoix County, it should be done in a very limited way.

Water Main Broke...

SEVERAL SOUTH SIDE businesses on Bridge Street were again without water on Thursday afternoon when Charlevoix's water main near the channel came apart.

Was Repaired...

THE WATER came gushing out only for a few seconds as crewmen shut off the valve from the city's water supply. The main has been broken several weeks before by a dredging company which has been working on the Pine River Channel.

Ended Up Here...

JUST WHEN the city thought everything was all right, the entire pipe housing slid into the water Friday noon.

ONE OF CHARLEVOIX'S many mute swans grabbed for the wrong thing recently and ended up with a fish hook in his mouth. (PHOTO BY TOM DAMMANN)

A Mistake?

By TOM DAMMANN

An ignominious accident befell one of the senior citizens of Michigan's renowned mute swan flock recently. He mistook a lead fishing sinker for a water plant seed and swallowed it line and all–that is except for the fish hook, which lodged in the outside of his neck, thereby holding the sinker dangling somewhere down inside his long throat.

His predicament was noticed by Mrs. Barbara Douglas Dixon, on whose Oyster Bay property the swan and his mate have nested for as long as can be remembered.

She was on the point of leaving for her winter home in Cedar Rapids, Iowa and so called David McKelvey, Director of the Humane Society of Emmet County, for help.

McKelvey, reputed as the area swans' Florence Nightingale, agreed to come to the Douglas place at 4:30 p.m. when, Mrs. Dixon assured him, the swans always come to her boat dock for an evening meal of crackers and corn.

But when he arrived at the appointed hour, Mrs. Dixon had already departed for Cedar Rapids and the swan was nowhere to be seen.

Eventually, John Adams, 25, of Jackson, a family friend arrived, saying Mrs. Dixon had asked him to substitute for her.

Another friend, Lee Fernstrum, 27, Camp Charlevoix Caretaker, soon arrived in a sturdy motor launch and offered to take McKelvey on a search for the swans, which he had passed on his way over from Charlevoix.

McKelvey excused himself on the urging of his wife who argued that a lamb roast would burn up in the oven if they stayed any longer.

McKelvey gave the men detailed instructions of how to care for the swan with a description of how the swan would react, complete with sound effects.

He said the swan had probably swallowed the sinker, thinking it to be a leaden colored seed of the plant called "Arrowhead dock," or sometimes "Duck potatoes." He told them to first get the swan in a firm grip, grabbing it from behind, then to grasp the fish line and pull the sinker up the throat and out its mouth.

The next step, he directed, was to cut the head from the fish hook and then force the hook's point out through the skin so that it could be pulled out.

"Don't pull it back against the barb in any case," he warned.

Adams and Fernstrum soon found the swan and his lone signet. The sinker and hook were exactly as McKelvey had described. They removed them as if they had performed the act a dozen times and set the bird free.

This was the latest of a series of misfortunes that beset the old bird who, it is said, is as mean as his ancestor Pericles.

According to Mrs. Dixon, he and his mate hatched three signets early this summer. One was smothered in the nest. Another disappeared mysteriously. Finally, the mother herself was found dead in the reeds, near the nest.

"We couldn't figure the cause of her death, maybe it was just old age," say Bud and Jessie Lee, caretakers for Mrs. Dixon.

Mute swans live to be about 50, and are monogamous.

When one of a pair dies the survivor takes care of the offspring until it is time for them to go off to start life on their own, usually in November of the year they are born.

The widow or widower sometimes dies of a broken heart, but more often, if it is young enough, finds a new mate.

"Swans have nothing against incest, so if the lone signet is female, maybe they will mate," says McKelvey about Mrs. Dixon's bird.

"Or maybe he'll find one of our widows," suggests Mrs. Doris Huckle of East Jordan, pointing out that three swans have been killed this year when they crashed into power lines hung above the Christopher Taylor Memorial Bridge there.

Mrs. Dixon's bird, like all of Michigan's approximately 700 swans, is a direct descendant, maybe in this case a son, of a pair, Pericles and Aspasia, brought to the chicago Club by her father George Douglas in about 1920.

Originally Douglas had imported them from England to decorate his Cedar Rapids Estate, but Pericles was mean and chased Mrs. Dixon and her sisters so the swans were banished to Charlevoix.

Pericles' meanness immortalized in a sonnet by Charlevoix Photographer Bob Miles was apparently inherited by Mrs. Dixon's swan.

"But something has happened since the death of his mate," the Lees say. "We never could get near him before, now he is as gentle as can be," which may be why Adams and Fernstrum found it so easy to remove the fish hook from his neck.

Regional Planning Members Endorse Utility Authority

A preliminary draft of Articles of Incorporation for a Charlevoix Area Sewage Disposal and Water Supply Authority was presented to members of the Regional Planning Commission last Friday.

The draft calls for the creating of such an authority by the City of Charlevoix and the Township of Charlevoix. Purpose of the authority would be to "acquire, own, improve, enlarge, extend and operate a sewage disposal system or any part thereof in accordance with the enabling act."

Another purpose would be to "acquire, own, improve, enlarge, extend, and operate a water supply system or any part thereof in accordance with the enabling act."

The governing body of the authority would be a seven-member Board of Trustees, four residents of the City of Charlevoix appointed by the Township Board.

Formation of a joint sewer and water authority for the two political units has been under consideration for some time and is a controversial subject.

Oscar Stroud, Charlevoix Township Supervisor, is not in favor of a joint authority for both sewer and water. "One at a time," he says. "They're not going to sell us on anything like this. The Township Board knows what they want." However, Stroud is willing to listen to the proposal.

At the present time, the Township has no sewage collection facilities except for a few hook-ups to the City system. They do have their own water supply for the north side of the Township and having been trying to work out an agreement with the City for water on the south side. The water system is a source of income for the township.

Bill Mercer, member of the Regional Planning Commission, says the Commission feels that "cooperation between the City and Township could lead to a less costly and better coordinated system for water distribution and sewage collection and treatment."

"The City needs an additional sewage collection system and needs work done on the storm and sanitary sewer separation. They also need more work on the water system."

About the Township, Mercer says, "The Township has no sewers so they would benefit by having a vehicle to build a collection system. Their water system could be augmented by being included in the authority, not only to share costs, but to have a vehicle to secure systems."

Mercer pointed out that the State and Federal governments would rather work with a joint authority in making grants for municipal improvements.

Mayor Ed Hansen of Charlevoix thinks the joint authority would be a good starting point to satisfy the Environmental Protection Agency on cost recovery of sewage plant, both construction and operation.

The E.P.A. is one of the funding agencies for sewage plant construction, and under their rules people who use the sewage facilities must pay a fair share of the cost. "People in Charlevoix Township have paid no taxes toward a sewage plant," he points out.

Some time ago, the Courier asked Dr. Alvin Ranger, local engineer, what the cost would be for each participating unit in a joint authority.

He said that experience of the Harbor Springs Area Sewer authority has shown that the cost to the individual goes down as the service area goes up. The larger the number of individuals involved, the lower the cost per individual user on the system.

Ranger also pointed out that the City of Charlevoix would not be assuming all the burden for what they have put into their present facility.

"This would all be worked out at the time the authority is created," he said. The City of Charlevoix, its residents, the people who have invested in the system that already exists, would be reimbursed on an equitable basis for the tax dollars they have already invested."

The next step for the proposed joint sewage and water authority is a meeting called for Wednesday, October 16, at 8:00 in the Charlevoix City Hall. At that time the draft copy of the Articles of Incorporation will be presented to the City Council and Township Board. Following discussion, a joint meeting of the two political bodies and the Regional Planning Commission will be held to consider the matter further.

New Appointment

The newly appointed Charlevoix County March of Dimes Chapter chairwoman is Mrs. Michael Ready. Mrs. Ready will lead the traditional January campaign for the prevention of birth defects.

The Charlevoix County Chapter offers local patient aid services as well as professional and public health education.

City Lauded For Building Code

It's hard to imagine that the City of Charlevoix has gone these many years without a building code, but never-the-less it has.

We are certainly glad to see the council taking affirmative action in striving for both a building code and inspector.

With so much development taking place in Charlevoix we feel more than ever it is necessary to have a watch dog eyeing construction.

This move will not only protect the city from situations that have recently occurred with the Dunes Condominiums and its carport, but will be a relief to local developers.

Until this time, the developer has had to rely on himself to make sure his work was done in an acceptable manner.

Now he will have a set of standards and a judge to view his work.

With the council considering the code and system they want to adopt, may we warn them of a few dangers.

First, when considering which building code it wants to adopt, the council should consider which code will be the most workable in this Northern Michigan community.

Some of the codes require very elaborate methods of review, some of which may be almost impossible for Charlevoix to undertake.

Secondly, we would like to encourage the city to examine closely which enforcement system would be the least expensive and most practical for them to assume.

At present, it looks like the city has the choice of either joining with Boyne City and East Jordan in jointly hiring an inspector or going under a county wide program.

We favor the county-wide program. It would allow for one central office and a larger staff than the three cities could afford.

Besides, it would allow for the same building code to be used in the entire county, making it both easier for the developer and enforcer.

City Shouldn't Pay Bill

Charlevoix City Council's decision to pay a five-year-old engineering bill was a poor one.

The decision followed a request from engineer Greg Shadko to pay him $1,000 for work he did on a water line extension in 1969.

The plans included not only the design 800-feet, but drawings for another extension proposed for future development.

At that time, he turned in a bill for $100 and was paid for his work.

However, now he demands more money for use of the plans by former city administrator Tom Hanna in developing the sewer extension and he gets it.

Even though some have said Shadko's original bill of $100 was a token fee, we feel it should have been considered his final bill.

The council should not have agreed to use taxpayers' dollars five years later to pay another $1,000.

This type of action only leaves the door open for others to come and ask the council for more money because they feel they did not get enough the first time.

Judge Handles Case Efficiently

Judge Martin Breighner should be commended for his handling of the Dunes carport hearing held last week in Charlevoix Circuit Court.

The case had ended up in court after the city refused to grant Developer Ron Steffes a variance to construct the carport, which now stands in violation of the city zoning ordinance.

The judge has decided to retain jurisdiction over the matter and has sent it back to the Charlevoix Board of Appeals for another hearing on October 7.

This time he has asked the board to keep a more detailed account of their action and specifically cile reasons of fact they have for either granting or denying the developer's request.

Rather than holding a long and laborious courtroom session Breighner was able to request detailed briefs before the court date and review the arguments presented.

After his review, he met with each of the parties involved and came out with a mutually-acceptable decision.

Our only hope, now, is that the Board of Appeals remembers to keep an accurate account of their proceedings.

We also ask the board to consider the impact their decision will have on the growth of Charlevoix's Zoning Ordinance.

Annual Career Night Planned For Oct. 9

Dear Parents:

Thoughtful, cooperative planning on the part of students, parents and counselors is an essential part of the college selection process. The student who carefully investigates the colleges to which he is applying need not expect any surprises in regards to admissions.

As parents you are faced with the choice of college or advanced training for your child. How do you choose the "right" college? What are the facts about scholarships? What is the average annual cost at the particular college or technical school?

On Wednesday, October 9, 1974 at 7:30 p.m. you are invited to attend the annual Career Night at Petoskey High School. There will be three (3) thirty (30) minutes periods during which time you will have an opportunity to visit with various representatives. You will be invited to select three from more than forty (40) colleges, nursing schools, business and vocational schools.

Please report to your first session at 7:30 p.m. using the student's last name for the following program plan:

7:30-8:00 1st session - A-G - 1st choice, H-O - 2nd choice, P-Z - 1st choice,

8:10-8:40 2nd session: A-G - 2nd choice, H-O - 3rd choice, P-Z - 1st choice.

8:50-9:20 - 3rd session: A-G - 3rd choice, H-O - 1st choice, P-Z - 2nd choice.

The representatives have always been pleased by the large number of parents attending the career night programs in Petoskey. We hope you will plan to attend with your daughter or son.

Following the October 9 program, we plan to offer a series of mini-courses to seniors and interested juniors dealing with the topics of career selection, college admissions and financial aid. The courses are planned for the school day, but an evening program could be arranged if there is sufficient interest on the part of the parents. If you would be interested in such a program, please call the counseling center at 547-2811.

Please feel free to call us at anytime. See you in Petoskey on October 9th.

Sincerely,
Gayle Kaczynski, Counselor

Should Get Off Nixon

Dear Sir:

An unknown source in Washington says that Mister Richard Nixon has indicated his desire to jump over the Potomac River on a motorcycle.

Some have considered and wrongfully accused this man at an attempt of being a lessor of two evils. But others, more thoughtful, perhaps, would allow that this is an engineering feat which is entirely possible. And all politicians be they whig, torry or incidental, are interested in the science of the possible.

As everybody knows, once, long ago, a really elder politician decided to cross the Rubicon River in an old country in Europe, but the wheely he might have done with his chariot was caused by the bucking of horses which he himself was responsible for, and a bike wasn't around at that time.

The jump for Mr. Nixon could mean many paying spectators and goodness only knows how many politicians, whigs, torrys, or incidentials are sorely tempted in that area. Yon Richard could hardly be held for that alone.

Whither Richard Nixon on a motorcycle? Jimmy-the-Greek Snyder might have heard about it, but it is said that Jimmy isn't a betting man.

Yours,
Tolliferro

"How did you like Beaver Island?"

If we have been asked that question once we've been asked it a hundred times since we returned home after two months on America's fabled "Emerald Isle."

And, truthfully, I don't know how to answer.

It's like trying to explain how much you enjoy breathing air or drinking water.

After one week as residents of downtown St. James (we lived in the old Malloy house next door to the King Strang hotel), Beaver Island was as much "home" to us as Charlevoix.

We liked to talk with our neighbors in the evening, or a few at the Shamrock or the Beachcomber.

It was fun shopping at LaFreniere's and McDonough's general stores and we were surprised that prices are quite reasonable, considering the extra miles every can of beans must be transported over choppy waters.

In fact, we ended up "exporting" quite a few cans of water chestnuts from McDonough's, since the price was better than we could do on the mainland.

I suppose we learned that islanders live much the same as people elsewhere in Michigan. They eat three meals a day, pay their bills and go to bed when they're tired.

But there is a difference, living on an island.

Charlevoix, for example, has more or less turned its back on Lake Michigan. It's pleasant little business places look out on Round Lake and unless you look quickly to the east while crossing the bridge you wouldn't even know that Lake Michigan is even close.

But life in St. James ebbs and flows with the arrivals and departures of the Beaver Islander and the South Shore which ply the waters between Charlevoix and the Island.

Islanders spend a good deal of time scanning the horizon across Lake Michigan, because that is their main connection with the outside world.

One evening, after returning from one of our frequent bicycle trips to the lighthouse, Judy commented that living in St. James is like living in a postcard. I thought that over a few minutes and had to agree. The village certainly is as picturesque as a postcard. Furthermore, there is a completeness to the village of St. James, hugging Paradise Bay, that is lacking in most communities.

Stand anywhere on the shore, and you can take in the rest of the town with one sweeping glance.

But there is another quality to the island that is difficult to describe, an extra dimension that other communities have sacrificed in the name of progress.

That dimension is Time.

On the island, the 1850's and the 1870's and the 1920's and the 1970's seem to blend into one. Ancient log farmhouses still stand in the hinterlands appearing much as they must have looked more than a century ago. Most of them are unoccupied, but apples grow in the orchard outside the back door and robins have built a nest in the big maple in the front yard. It is hard to believe that the last occupants are now permanent residents of Holy Cross Cemetery and will never return.

In the village, every building has a story to tell; every rock is a landmark. Ghosts of yesteryear walk the quiet streets, haunting the spot where King Strang was murdered and lurking in the shadows of his ancient printing plant.

That extra dimension—Time—gives a mystical, illusive quality to life on the island that cannot be described, or even understood very well, but a lowly mainlander.

Nixon Still Around?

Charlevoix Courier
Charlevoix, Michigan

Gentlemen:

Inclosed please find my check for $9.00 for a year's subscription to the Charlevoix Courier for the purposes stated.

However, as a former resident of Charlevoix, a graduate of Charlevoix H.S. many years ago, and a property owner in Charlevoix, I, too, enjoy reading the Courier, although many names living there are unknown to me. I am glad to get the paper for my sister, Mamie Gregory, age 96, who has been a resident there for all of her life, but now usually resides at my home in Detroit.

The only complaint I have is based upon the fact that your journalist, Bob Clock, cannot seem to get Richard Nixon out of his mind. I would appreciate a copy of the paper wherein Mr. Nixon is forgotten. Why revive the Civil War.

But, still enjoy the paper.

Very truly yours,

O.B. Weed

What's Been Happening To Our Milk?

The Editor
Charlevoix Courier
111 Bridge Street

Dear Sir;

What ever happened to natural buttermilk in the dairy case at any local grocer? I've looked far and wide for this nutritious and satisfying elixor, only to find it replaced by some almost bland substance known as "cultured" buttermilk.

Though I realize that it is eminently less costly for milk producers simply to make up large vats of the cultured, and possibly cease to manufacture butter and its buttermilk by-products, I wonder if this is altogether in the interests of purist buttermilk buffs, and possibly others as well. How I long for a cooling glass of the viscous liquid pouring evenly from the lip of a pitcher interrupted only occasionally by a light fleck of golden butter, and added to the glass just a dash of salt and pepper, at the end of a summer day.

But I must blame someone or thing for the fact that I cannot find my favorite beverage in any store. Why not light upon the feather merchants of advertising.

They would convince you if they could that soft drinks having less than a single calorie are what you need to stay slim and trim, and whole flocks of nubile and attractive ladies dance across the TV screen to tell you about such products which taste more like a belch than anything else. Fluoride excepted, our very drinking water itself seems to exist in gradents and dosages of chlorine and additives seemingly for their own sake.

Perhaps the issue gets down to taste itself, for natural butter milk certainly has an unmistakable flabor, like it or not.

Yet the other influence on butter or buttermilk are the propounder of oleo margarine, that false but sometimes useful imitator of butter. Though oleo certainly "has arrived", I'd deplore the day when such milk producers who add flecks of butter to their cultured product entirely gave up the ghost, and introduced, heaven forbid, flecks of oleo into cultured B-milk.

Other than own your own milch cow, though, I have discovered that there is a cooler which will work with B-milk natural or otherwise, and that is: take a dollup a lime lemon sherbert, vigorously mix, and....

By JIM FITZGERALD

As a United States citizen, I can't understand why I don't feel better.

What I mean is, public-spirited officials are continually doing things for the good of the country. I am a part of the country, truly an average citizen (1.5 T.V.'s 1.2 cars and 2.5 children). I should feel fine. So how come I break out in a nervous sweat every time Eric Sevaried clenches his teeth?

Spiro Agnew was innocent and he could have proved it. He only admitted he was a crook to spare me the humiliation of watching my Vice President explain the virtues of graft to a dumb jury.

Richard Nixon didn't have to resign. In a Senate trial, he could have proven himself innocent of an impeachable offense. But he quit the highest position in the land simply so I could have a full-time President to keep an eye on the Middle East for me. He wanted to spare me the uncertainties of being led by a President who was continually summoned from summit conferences to answer burglary charges.

Gerald Ford didn't have to pardon Richard Nixon. He knew the liberals would crucify him. But Ford did it anyway, simply so I could put Watergate behind me and devote all my time to worrying about inflation. Also, he wanted to spare me the terrible trauma of possibly seeing a former President go to the pokey.

It was a good thing I had these fine men looking out for my welfare.

Fool that I was, I didn't think it would bother me to see Agnew on trial. Fact is, I was anxious to hear him explnin those envelopes full of cash that people kept handing him. And I was curious to see if all nattering nabobs would be automatically excused from his jury.

Likewise, I wasn't worried about being bombed by Cambodia while President Nixon was tied up in court. I fugured General Haig could handle things and, if he needed help, he could call on his brother. I was silly enough to think this country might experience a spiritual uplift under the influence of Haig & Haig. (Forgive me, but this has been a tough year.)

I was even dumber about the pardon. I didn't want Watergate behind me, any more than I wanted Dan Rather out of the White House. The 6 o'clock news is dull without Ron Zielger explaining to Rather that Nixon couldn't have lied to the American people on April 21, 1973, because all of 1973 has been declared inoperative. (Except for Christmas and the day Julie awas hired by The Saturdny Evening Post.)

Even worse, I must admit I wasn't terribly concerned about the possibility of an ex-President going to jail if he were found guilty of a felony. Nixon always said the guilty should be punished, didn't he? They'd lock up your Uncle Jake, wouldn't they? And besides, it would have been interesting to see if the warden could fit Nixon's throne through the cell door.

But I was wrong. I didn't know what was good for me – and the entire country – Agnew, Nixon and Ford did. In my own best interests, despite my ignorance, they generously spared me all those traumatic experiences. They took the divisiveness out of my future. Now I can move forward and concern myself with more important problems. For instance, how long has it been since you asked yourself whatever happened to Eddie Fisher? Think about it.

I should be grateful. I should feel good. But I feel lousy.

I guess I'm just an ingrate. The trouble is, I keep thinking of your Uncle Jake.

Meet Charlevoix

Meet Vince Chew

Vince Chew, former language arts and social studies teacher, has stepped into Charlevoix's Middle School principalship.

This week the Charlevoix Courier decided to ask him how things were going after a week on the job.

Chew is a native of Flint and a graduate of the University of Michigan's Flint campus.

Before moving to Charlevoix in 1965, he taught 6th grade language arts and 7th grade social studies in Flint for two years.

COURIER: Why did you take the position?

CHEW: Well, of course, I have been preparing for administration and been hoping for an opportunity like this. And then, of course, I have a vested interest in this school. I have been here for nine years and I care what happens here. I care very much. I've tried to have a lot input into decision making. I have always been vocal and take part in group decision making. And I think I have something to offer.

COURIER: What is your view of Middle School?

CHEW: It is probably easiest to talk about it by comparison with a high school. We are concerned about present needs of the student. We are not future oriented. The high school is interested in preparation for college and job. We're concerned about right-now needs of the students, getting them through adolescence, which occurs during these years. As a result, we are not as subject oriented as the high school. We try to make it easy for a student to explore a lot of different possibilities and change. If the student finds a class or program is not working out, we try to make it easy for him to switch and get him into something else. We try not to lock him in for a whole semester or year.

COURIER: How is the Middle School approach different from Junior High?

CHEW: The old Junior High, as the name implied, modeled itself after the high school. There was intense competition in athletics resulting in athletic elitism. There was a constant push socially into high school type activities, the school dance, the prom, cheerleading, interscholastic competition. In the middle school, of course, we try to give recognition to all students who participate in an activity rather than just the elete. As an example, an intramural team might get more points for participation rather pure skill. Another thing we have tried to do, is de-emphasize punishments as a method of controlling behavior. We rely on counseling, working with parents, other social agencies, and providing positive alternatives with acceptable behavior. We try to give a kid a reason to behavior, a positive reason.

COURIER: What is the situation at the Middle School?

CHEW: Staff enthusiasm. They're willing to experiment and adapt. All of us have made a lot of changes in our teaching strategy. We are getting away from lectures. We discuss and test and adopt other stragedies more suited to this age level. Experimentation, inquiry, individual and group projects and use of audio-visual are key methods. Kids like it. There is much more individualization. We are setting up learning stations where there are several activities going on in a room at one time. Some teachers are using individual contacts with students, where the student signs an actual legal contract with the teacher and finishes the assignment.

COURIER: Do you feel there is unity among the faculty and community on the Middle School concept?

CHEW: I can't really say. What contact we have had this year with parents, I feel has been 90 percent supportive. Of course, the year isn't over with and we have a long way to go. This is one of my concerns, interpreting program to community and parents. I think we have a job to do here. think the press has been helpful. I think there has been a real positive contribution from the program. My push also is to get parents into the school for more things. I hope that they have a lot of chances to see their youngsters perform in drama, band, athletics. The intramural program will provide some opportunities for parents in coaching nnd refereeing and assisting.

COURIER: What are your major concerns with the Middle School?

CHEW: The building and grounds is a very limiting factor. The students here at the middle school are caught in those compulsary attendance years. They're forced to attend; they don't have any choice in the matter. So, I think we owe them something. We owe them at a minimum and attractive environment. I think our recreation facilities are very inadequate for the number of students, their age level, energy level. I think a school grounds should be a park and I think ours tends to look more like a prison yard. We should be on 30 or 40 acres of lands with some room for outdoor activities to range out. There's no place to play out of range of a window. It's not my place to tell the board community to build a new school, but I think if we remain in this building it will have to be upgrnded. We have to start making some improvements.

Charlevoix Area Farmers Can Get A Tax Break

Farmers who plan to keep their land in agricultural use for at least ten years, and who make a contractural agreement with the state land use agency of the Department of Natural Resources to do so, will be eligible for a tax rebate under a law which became effective July 1.

Public Act 116 (House Bill 4244), makes it possible for such land owners to receive this tax break.

However, rules and procedures for administering the act have not yet been set up in Charlevoix County. The Department of Natural Resources will hold a meeting with local government officials on October 16 to discuss these problems.

Under the act, a farm, including buildings, would be taxed not to exceed seven percent of the household income.

For example, a farm in Norwood Township with an S.E.V. evaluation of $100,000 on which a tax of 33.65 mills is levied (the present rate) would normally be taxed at $3,365. Suppose the household income of that farm is $15,000. Seven percent of that amount is $1,050, the total tax the farmer would have to pay.

The saving to him would be $2,315.

The act defines "agricultural use" as "substantially undeveloped land devoted to the production of plants and animals useful to man, including forages and sod crops; grains and feed crops; dairy and dairy products; livestock, including breeding and grazing; fruits; vegetables; and other similar uses and activities."

Purpose of the act is to keep land in agricultural use. The program is entirely voluntary; it is up to the individual land owner to decide whether or not he wants to apply for benefits under the act.

Farmland covered by the act is listed in four different categories:

(1) A farm of 40 or more acres, in one ownership, which has been devoted primarily to an agricultural use.

(2) A farm of five acres or more in one ownership, but less than 40 acres, devoted primarily to an agricultural use, which has produced a gross annual income from agriculture of $200 per year or more per acre of cleared and tillable land.

(3) A farm designated by the department of agriculture as a specialty farm in one ownership which has produced a gross annual income from an agricultural use of $2,000 or more.

(4) Parcels of land in one ownership which are not contiguous but which constitute an integral part of farming operation being conducted on land otherwise qualifying as farmland.

The agreement is called a "farmland development rights agreement". A land owner desiring such an agreement may apply by filing an application with the local governing body having jurisdiction under the act, usually the township.

Upon receipt of the application, the local governing body must notify the county or regional planning commission and the soil conservation district agency. If the land is within three miles of the boundary of a city or within one mile of the boundary of a village, the county or township governing body having jurisdiction must notify the governing body of the city or village.

The agencies notified have 30 days to review and comment. After considering the comments and recommendations of the reviewing agencies and local governing bodies, the governing body receiving the application must approve or reject the application within 45 days from time of receipt.

When the application is approved locally, it is forwarded to the state land use agency, who must act upon it within 60 days. If they approve the application, they then prepare a farmland development rights agreement which must include certain specific provisions.

The state land use agency may not reject an application approved by local agencies except on the ground that the applicant's land does not meet the definition of farmland.

Under a development rights agreement, the value of the development rights are assessed to the owner of the land as part of the value of the land. Since the land continues to be valued at its fair market value, there is no loss of property tax revenue to the local unit.

The owner of the farmland is eligible to receive a credit for his property tax either against his income tax claim or as a direct payment from the state.

If the land owner decides to relinquish the development rights agreement, he makes such an application. If and when the application is approved, the state land use agency prepares a lien against the property for the total amount of state income tax credit received by the owner. The lien provides for a six percent per annum compounded interest rate from the time the credit was received until it is paid.

Library notes

A new book by James Michner is received almost with reverence in any Library. Many of us feel that he is one of the most dependable and satisfying authors in America today. We get our "money's worth" time and time again with each of his novels, and "Centennial" is no exception.

Like its eminent predecessors "Hawaii" and "The Source" this new book deals with its scene – this time the North American west, especially Colorado, from prehistory to the present.

The novel, based solidly on the facts of history is an illuminating account of the development of this country and of the immigrants who came to the west and drove the Indians out. The first main character is Arapaho, Lame Beaver, born in 1747, whose tribe has never seen a man with white skin.

From then on, the reader meets more than 70 chief characters, most of them, in some way, related to Paul Garret, rancher and ecologist, who loves the granddaughter of the Mexican sugar-beet worker Tranquilino Marquez.

As the novel comes to an end, Garrett and other thoughtful men are trying to find ways to repair the damage done to their land by the headlong industriousness of their predecessors. This fine book belongs at the top of the list of your fall reading.

Of "Winter Kills" the New Yorker magazine says: "This author's books do not need to be reviewed: they should simply be quoted, without comment, in their entirety."

In this, his most important novel in twenty years, Richard Condon probes the most significant event in America's 20th century–the assassination of a president.

It is, in one way, a first-rate detective story, with the reader pursuing real and contrived evidence until he looks at last into the face of the assassin.

Readers of Elizabeth Goudge will be delighted to know that, at long last, her autobiography has been published. She tells us charmingly that: "Old age is a time when you start doing all the things that in earlier years you reporbated in older people and were quite certain you would never do yourself, and if there was one thing more than another that I was determined not to do, it was to write an autobiography."

We're grateful that she changed her mind. To all of those who have come to regard this extraordinary woman as a friend, "The Joy of the Snow" comes as her greatest gift.

There are lovely intimate photographs included in this totally absorbing work written by a greatly loved artist.

On the dust jacket of the new book "Toro! Toro! Toro!" we read: "A novel by William Hjortsberg. An entertainment by William Hjortsberg. A Romance by William Hjortsberg."

We can't prnounce his name, but we agree that this is most certainly an entertaining, romantic novel. It is also a very silly fantasy about bull fighting, and just about everything that could not possibly happen, does happen.

It's a thin little book. Light reading at its best.

Elementary School

Brigade Charges Ahead

You've heard of the Bucket Brigade and the Mother's March for polio, but have you heard of the Book Brigade in the Charlevoix Elementary School?

Encouraged by Ralph Raymer, principal of the school, Mrs. Marie Webb, elementary materials center aide, decided to gather a group of mothers to help man the very busy materials center which suffered a loss of an adult aide because of a budget cut.

The leader of the Book Brigade is Mrs. Carolyn Klooster.

She has scheduled a group of mothers in two hour shifts per day on a monthly basis. Enthusiastic helpers thus far include Mrs. Elain Drury, Mrs. Jackie Staley, Mrs. Nancy Porter, Mrs. Marian Bales, Mrs. Sally Geer, Mrs. Naomi Heckendorn, Mrs. Sharon Oestrike, Mrs. Dorothy Porter, Mrs. Mary Lou Supernaw, Mrs. LuAnn McKimmy, Mrs. Ann Hufford, Mrs. Maxine Drenth, and Mrs. Arla Staublin.

These mothers are helping to circulate and shelve books, take care of audio visual equipment and help students find materials.

Mrs. Webb is encouraged by the help and commented, "Even students are helping; we now have fourth and fifth graders learning to shelve materials and eager to help.

The Mother's Book Brigade and student assistants are an immense help."

New Agent Named

Tom Carter

Tom Carter has opened an office in Charlevoix to sell and service State Farm Mutual Insurance.

Carter is a graduate of Ithaca High School and Northwood Institute. He spent three years working for the Ithaca Insurance Agency, which is owned by his father.

Mrs. Carter will join her husband in the agency. She is a graduate of Central Michigan University and taught second grade in Mt. Pleasant for three years.

The State Farm office is in the Corbin Realty office on U.S. 31 south, next to the license bureau.

Newly retired teachers are invited to join the group. Mrs. Kit Carson will present a book review.

Wanted To Take Trip

Youngsters Start A Newspaper

TERESA RUSSEL (background) and Ron Stevens crank out their first issue of the class newspaper with teacher aide Barb Wolgamott supervising.

What do you do if you're in fifth grade without any money and want to take a trip?

If you're a Charlevoix Elementary School student involved with the Learning Center, you make a newspaper and sell it.

"We're making a newspaper to sell," says Teresa Russell.

"It costs a nickel to buy."

The first issue, of "The Friday Press", hit the Charlevoix Elementary School news racks this week.

And if the youngsters make any kind of profit, they said they hope to be able to go on a trip. They're not sure where–alot will depend on the success of their business venture.

Teresa said she liked the project because it gave her something interesting to do.

Her big assignment was to go and interview the new elementary principal, Ralph Raymer.

"I had to ask him questions and all that," she said.

Teresa asked him if he liked being principal and how he lost his arm.

"He was hunting and he got shot in the arm by a gun," she said.

The newspaper, which is under the supervision of Mrs. Pat Carland, was inititated by fifth grader Todd Anderson.

"We were thinking of ideas to raise money," he said.

"I just said well why don't we make a newspaper."

"Teresa said we should use the money to go on a trip."

Todd said they planned to make 200 and that if they needed more they would make more.

He said this was his first venture into newspapering and that he was a little nervous.

"I think I'm going to do everything wrong," he said.

"I haven't done it before and I'm just nervous."

He said they plan on just trying it this one time and if all goes well they'll do it again.

The first issue includes puzzles, jokes and a variety of teacher interviews.

They even have a recipe for finger jello.

Local 4-H'ers Learn About Horses

By Sara Gay Dammann

The judge summoned a group forward. The seven boys and girls led their horses to form a new line in front of the some 20 others standing with their horses behind. A drizzle was beginning. It was cold. But the judge and young people were all business.

The new line was the outstanding group of 4-H horse showers in a "Fitting and Showing" class at a recent Achievement Day Show.

Before the awards were presented the judge picked up a microphone. Talking to specific youngsters, the judge explained reasons for the prizes, advising each boy or girl how to improve:

"Pull that tail to a more natural look--If you'd trim those fetlocks you would have done better--Always make your horse stand with his feet under him, see there how that front foot is out of place--That mane could use, some brushing."

The young show people were having a difficult time, their horses were restless in the rain, it was hard to look your best.

Tusco Heath, President of the Charlevoix county 4-H Commission explained to an observer, "You see, our kids aren't judged for how expensive their horse is, but how well they make their horse look and perform."

A typical 4-H show includes classes broken into age grouping such as the "Fitting and Showing," where the participants lead their horses (not riding), show them off and exhibit their hard work in preparing them. Other classes judge the children for horsemanship "what you can make your horse do with the least visible effort," as Alice Heath explained: and Pleasure Classes, where the rider's job is to show that his horse is fun to ride. The riding classes are divided between Western and English styles.

The shows are the most visible part of the 4-H horse projects.

Maggie Clute of Boyne City, President of Horse Development for 4-H Clubs of Charlevoix explains:

"The purpose of the horse projects is for a child to have a horse, which he either owns or takes care of, which he breaks and trains himself. He takes care of everything to do with the horse. Whatever he does with that horse is his own accomplishment. He learns to love animals and learns responsbility.

"We have had a $100 horse beat out a $1,000 horse, because the young person did such a good job of training and showing the horse," Mrs. Clute adds with emphasis.

Involvement with the horse project is total. The young riders do everything from cleaning stalls to cleaning the horse and tack. And for showing, the rider too must look presentable, wearing simple but appropriate clothing for his style riding.

Doug Crozier, 13, of Boyne City, a consistant winner at shows has put lots of work into his two year old Palomino Quarter Horse.

"Getting her ready for a show is really hard," Doug said, "because she is so white, the dirt really shows. I have to do extra work to get her clean."

But cleaning his horse is nothing compared to the time he has put in gaining his horse's trust. When he first got her no one could touch her head, the Crozier's speculate something happened when she was young that frightened her.

"I just monkeyed around with her until she now trusts me," Doug says.

Parents talk in terms of the horse project keeping their children busy, preventing boredom and fostering responsibility.

None of the young people interviewed talked of the hard work in complaining terms. They talked of love and fun.

Patricia Puroll, 6, East Jordan, sometimes gets mad at her ten year old hackney pony, who "bucked me off once." Yet she quickly adds, "I still love him."

The four Puroll sisters, Susan, 14, Sherry, 12, Michell, 8 and Patsy, do all the work with the 12 horses on the family farm.

Mrs. Puroll praised the program, "It gives them something to do and they've learned courtesy and responsibility."

Sherry who does all the farrier work except actual shoeing, says, "It's the best thing we can do. It keeps us out of trouble, out of other people's way. And its fun."

"It's even sort of fun cleaning out the stalls," Linda Burkell, 9, of Villa de Charlevoix laughed. Linda who doesn't own her own horse, borrowed one of Tusco Heath's ponies for the season. Still, she had complete charge of that pony when she was using him.

There are the goals and awards at local shows, regional and even state-wide competitions. The work is total and the training of horse and rider sometimes long and arduous.

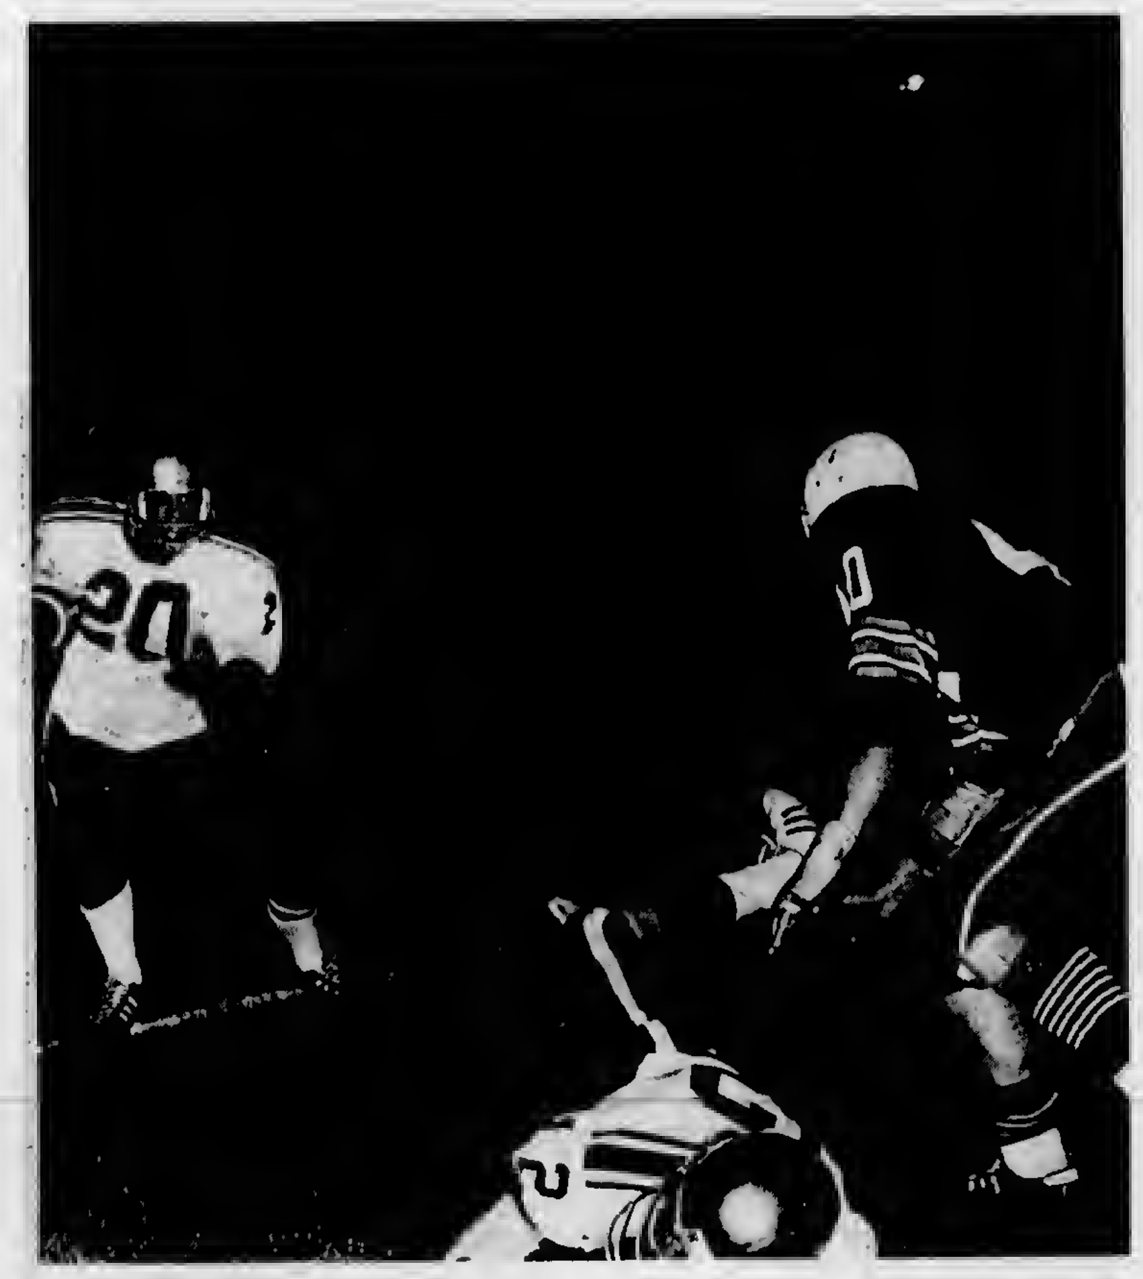
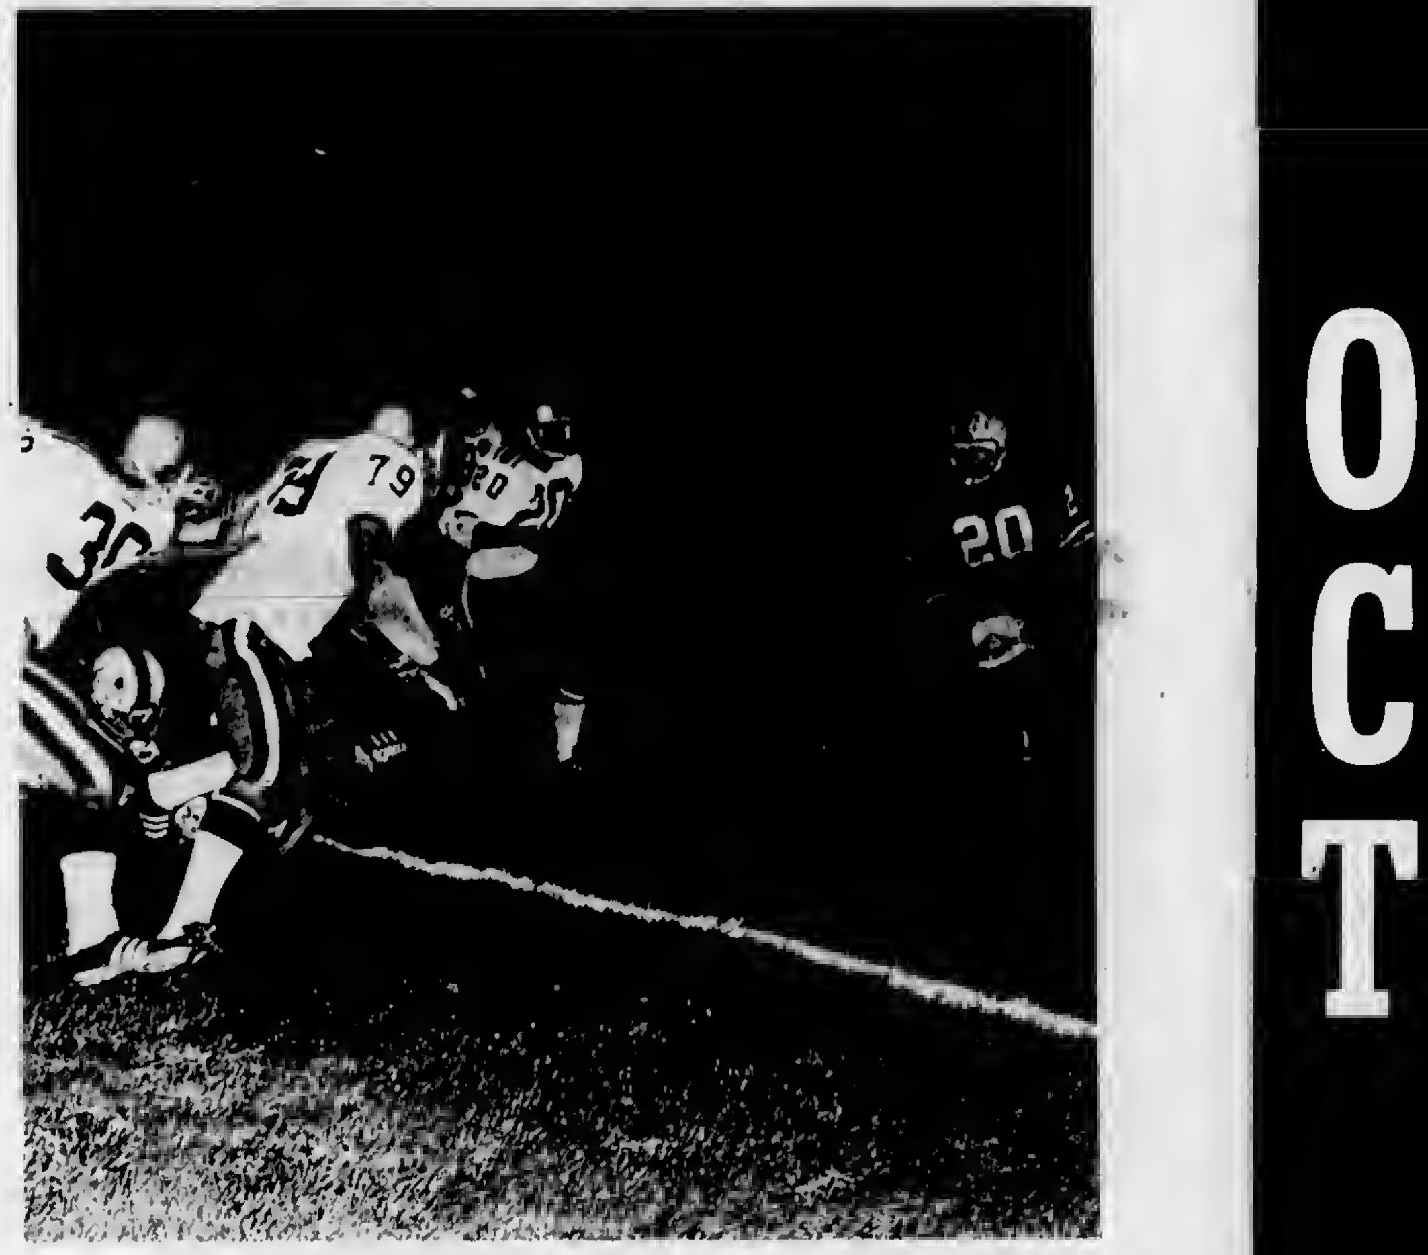
HALF BACK Ed Russell (30) takes down a Huron runner in one of great defensive plays Friday night.

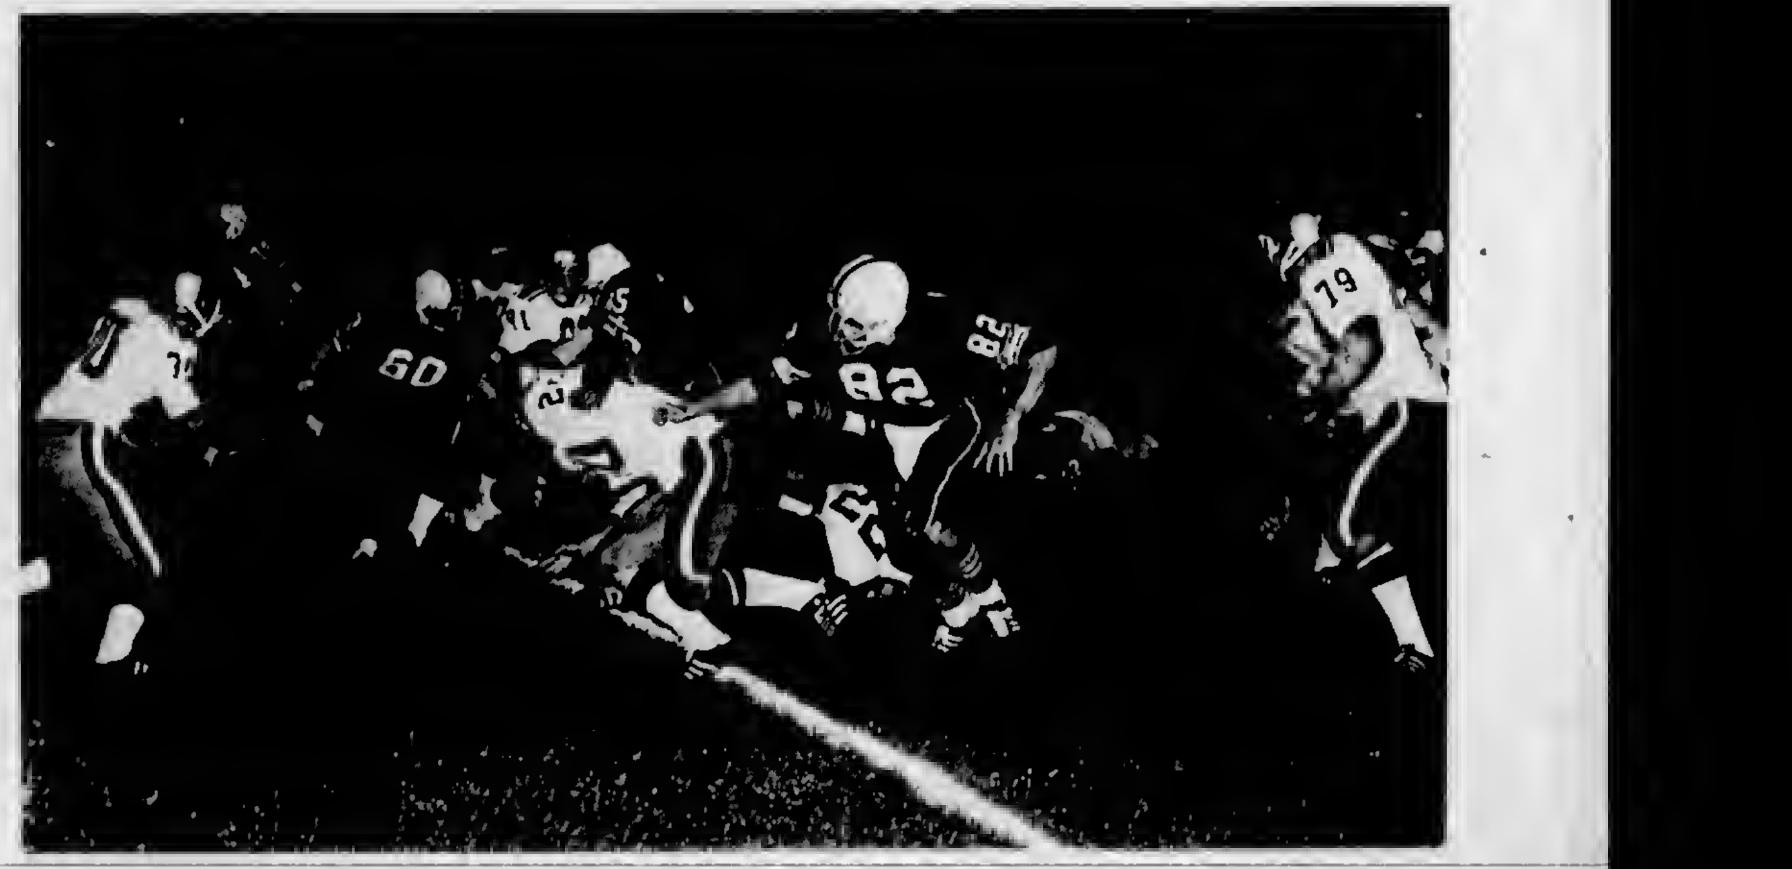


CHARLEVOIX RUNNING Back Mike Streeter (20) finds some daylight against Rogers City Friday night as a Huron defender shakes off the block of Frank Muma (12).



CHARLEVOIX'S DEFENSIVE showed great strength Friday night as they shut out the Rogers' City Hurons, 22-0.

CHARLEVOIX RAYDERS scramble with Rogers City in a near fumble during the game.



CHARLEVOIX Rayders played a great game Friday night in Rogers City as they downed them.

It's Another Great Week

Charlevoix Rayders Win Again; 22-0

A thrilling run of 66 yards by Kevin Martin on the third play of the game set the tone for the Charlevoix-Rogers City battle Friday evening. Martin's touchdown was the first of three, as the Rayder eleven notched their second straight victory, 22-0.

Charlevoix received the kickoff, and after two short gainers, Quarterback Bob Alger pitched to Martin on an around end sweep. The fleet halfback used good blocking and personal speed to streak down the sideline for the score. Alger's kick for extra point was good and the Charlevoix squad led 7-0.

Following the kickoff, Rogers City ran three plays and fumbled to Charlevoix. The Rayders began to march again.

After picking up two first downs, the Charlevoix squad lost the ball on downs and Rogers City took over.

The defense held the Hurons, and they were forced to punt. With time running out in the first quarter Charlevoix took over on their own 38 yard line.

Quarterback Alger led the Rayder eleven down the field to the Rogers City seven where Mike Streeter scored the second Charlevoix touchdown. Alger's kick for the point after was good, and with 10:12 left in the first half, Charlevoix led 14-0.

Alan Dagner returned the kickoff to the Rogers City 30 yard line where the Huron squad took over.

Good defensive play by Dan Green, Jim Marsh and Steve Michael held the Rogers City team and they punted to the Rayders. Charlevoix took over on their own 48 yard line.

After three plays Charlevoix was forced to punt. Rogers City player, Larry Wisniewski received the ball on the 14 yard line and returned it to the Rogers City 23 yard line.

With 5:29 to play in the first half Charlevoix recovered the second Rogers City fumble.

The Rayders drove the ball to the six yard line and were preparing to score their third touchdown of the evening when they lost the ball on a fumble.

Dan Martincheck, Kirk Lieberman, Jim Sladek and Phil Christ played good defense, and after one first down, the Hurons punted. Charlevoix took over on the 50 yard line with 26 seconds remaining.

The half ended with Charlevoix holding a 14-0 lead.

Throughout the first half, fine defensive play by the entire Rayder squad kept the Rogers City squad from advancing the ball past the 50 yard line stripe.

The second half kickoff was taken by Dagner on the eleven, and after eluding some of the Rayder tackiers, he advanced the ball to the Rogers City 31 yard line.

After picking up two first downs, the Hurons gave up the ball to Charlevoix on the Rayder 35 yard line.

Alger again turned to Martin for electrifying runs of 34 and 10 yards, and the Red Rayders were threatening the Rogers City goal line again.

With 6:01 remaining in the third quarter, Alger used a quarterback sneak to carry the ball the final one yard into the end zone.

A Charlevoix penalty on the point after touchdown attempt changed Quarterback Alger's plan to kick for the extra point. A pass play to Dan Green was good for a two point conversion. The score stood at 22-0.

The kickoff was returned by Terry Kowalski of Rogers City to the Huron's 30 yard line. The Rogers City squad advanced to the Charlevoix 47 yard line before the Charlevoix defense held.

Mike Streeter received the punt and returned the ball to the Charlevoix 26 yard line.

On the first play of the series Martin again took the pitch from Alger and scampered 74 yards for what looked like a touchdown. This was nullified by a clipping penalty.

Following another penalty against Charlevoix, the ball rested on the Rayder 14 yard line. Streeter then added his own thrill to the Charlevoix fans by cracking for a 21 yard gain.

The Red Rayders advanced the ball to the Rogers City 35 yard line before Casey Culbertson came in to punt. A bad pass from center gave the Hurons the ball on their own 47 yard line.

With 8:18 remaining in the game, Charlevoix took a Mike Henry punt on their own 15 yard line.

After one 1st down, Culbertson punted to the Rogers City 48 yard line.

Rogers City chose to punt after the Red Rayder defense held, and Charlevoix took possession of the ball on their own 14 yard line.

Frank Muma came into quarterback the Charlevoix eleven, and after one series the Rayders punted to their own 40 yard line.

After another fine display of defense by the Rayder defensive line, the Charlevoix squad took over on downs at their own 37 yard line.

With 39 seconds to go, Rogers City intercepted a Red Rayder pass and returned the ball to the Charlevoix 29 yard line. A penalty against Charlevoix advanced the ball to the 13 yard line. This was the deepest Huron penetration of the evening.

On the final play, Alger intercepted for Charlevoix and ran the ball back to the 30 yard line.

The game ended with Charlevoix leading 22-0.

Outstanding defense and the speed of Martin and Streeter marked this victory for Charlevoix. With rare exception, the Rayder defense completely frustrated the Huron attack.

J.V. Team Beats Rogers City

The Charlevoix high school JV's racked up their first victory of the season Thursday with an 8-0 win over Rogers City.

This week the JV's are scheduled to travel to St. Ignace to take on the young Saints.

In a real defensive battle played at Kipke field, the young Rayders managed to score on an eight yard run by Lee Begrow that climaxed a 66 yard drive. A pass from Mike Way to Bud Klooster gave the JV's the slim margin that they spent the remainder of the game protecting.

Later in the game, Charlevoix scored again but the play was called back because of a penalty.

Rogers City never was a threat throughout the game in which Begrow picked up a total of 129 yards rushing.

Coach Norm Probert named Matt Doan, Dave Tollas and Scott Boss as the outstanding defensive players on the team.

Along The Sidelines

Last week this column discussed the Red Rayders' offensive alignment, but this week it is all defense.

In the 22-0 win over Rogers City, the Charlevoix defensive squad completely frustrated the attempts by Huron eleven.

While it would be easy to mention a number of stars for the Charlevoix defense, we feel it was a complete team effort by the defense. The defensive line harassed the Rogers City quarterback and backfield players throughout the entire evening, while the defensive linebackers and deep backs played havoc with the pass pattern of the Huron squad.

Making up the fine Rayder defense is:

Defensive End - Dave Martincheck, 82
Defensive Tackle - Jim Sladek, 64
Defensive Middle Guard - Jim Marsh, 78
Defensive Tackle - Phil Christ, 69
Defensive End - Kirk Lieberman, 79
Linebacker - Steve Michael, 81
Linebacker - Kevin Martin, 10
Linebacker - Frank Muma, 12
Defensive Backfield - Mike Streeter, 20
Defensive Backfield - Dan Green, 80
Defensive Backfield - Bob Alger, 22

Throughout the evening, each of the players were involved with a fine individual effort, as well as many team tackles.

Of course, we cannot leave out mention of the fine running exhibited by Kevin Martin. Martin thrilled the Charlevoix fans on hand in Rogers City by scampering 66 yards on the third play of the game for a touchdown. Later on in the evening, he had a touchdown run of 74 yards called back by a clipping penalty. His backfield mates Doug Smith and Mike Streeter also showed impressive credentials by continually finding the holes opened by the offensive line and baffling the Rogers City tacklers with their quick moves.

Mention should also be made of the fine effort displayed by quarterback Bob Alger. Alger was responsible for scoring one touchdown, kicking two extra points, and passing to Dan Green for a two point conversion. He also

Harriers Take Dual Victory

Charlevoix Rayder harriers posted a double dual victory recently when they topped Gaylord 15-32 and Grayling 25-33.

Grayling then defeated Gaylord 23-32.

Charlevoix's Jim Sundberg posted the best time in the meet with a 17:39 while Wally Drenth, also of the Rayder squad, came in second with a time of 17:47.

Jim Marshall placed fourth with a time of 18:27.

Other members of the Charlevoix team coached by Dennis Carr are Ken Paul, Jim Berlage, Chris Begrow, Joe Kaufman, Dan Mort, Darrell Clark, Jim Donaldson and George Mielke.

Brown Visits Island

Democratic candidate Prentice Brown of the 37th State Senatorial District will be visiting Beaver Island today (Wednesday).

He plans to meet informally with local residents to discuss their concerns.

Topside Captures Title

Topside Cocktail Lounge climaxed its season-long dominance of the Charlevoix Men's Slo-Pitch League by slaughtering Village Insurance 29-11 to win the city tournament. The game finally marked the end of a long four month season.

After waiting ten days to play the semi-finals and finals, the four teams involved were finally able to play Saturday night. Village Insurance, Andy's Tire World and American Mold Engineering found out that even long delays cannot stop the Topside offensive machine.

The finals was no contest as Topside scored five runs in each of the first three innings to lead Village Insurance 15-2. Eight home runs helped the Topside cause considerably.

If there was any single batting star in the game, it had to be Ralph Doan. In addition to hitting two home runs, Doan was an incredible 7 for 7. He also was 4 for 5 in the semi-finals game against American Mold making him 11 for 12. Not a bad night's He's only 30 and he just bought a $50,000 life policy.

Sure, a $50,000 life policy could cost a lot of money...but it doesn't when it's "altogether"! When we say "altogether" we mean Perma-Term—permanent and term insurance combined to avoid those big premiums, but still deliver the big protection young family men need. It means you could have a $50,000 policy which lets you build up a retirement income at the same time! Yes, Perma-Term's easier on the budget, but please remember that costs go up as you grow older. PUBLIC NOTICE
Michigan Water Resources Commission
Stevens T. Mason Building
Lansing, Michigan 48926
517-373-8088
Permit No. MI 0001431

NOTICE: Application for National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System (Public Law 92-500) Permit by Consumers Power Company, Big Rock Plant Charlevoix, Michigan to discharge condenser cooling and process water.

The Big Rock Plant has applied for a National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System (NPDES) Permit to discharge condenser cooling and process water into the waters of the State of Michigan. The permit will be issued by the Michigan Water Resources Commission.

The applicant is engaged in the manufacture of electrical power. The company discharges its effluent to Lake Michigan.

Proposed effluent guidelines for the steam electric power generating industry published for public comment March 4, 1974, require closed cycle cooling systems to be installed and operational at this facility by July 1, 1980, unless the discharger can demonstrate as per Section 316 (a) of Public Law 92-500 to the Michigan Water Resources Commission that the above effluent limitation is more stringent than necessary to assure the protection and propagation of a balanced, indigenous population of shellfish, fish and wildlife in and on the body of water into which the discharge is to be made.

The Consumers Power Company has requested and proposes to demonstrate to the Michigan Water Resources Commission as per Section 316(a) of Public Law 92-500 that less stringent thermal effluent limitations on the above discharges will assure the protection and propagation of a balanced, indigenous population of shellfish, fish and wildlife in and on the body of water into which the discharge is to be made.

On the basis of preliminary staff review and application of applicable standards and regulations, the Michigan Water Resources Commission proposes to issue a permit for the discharge requiring closed cycle cooling unless the permittee can make a satisfactory demonstration as per Section 316(a) of Public Law 92-500 by July 1, 1976 for the existing discharge.

The proposed determination to issue an NPDES Permit is tentative. Persons wishing to comment upon, or object to, the proposed determination are invited to submit the same in writing to:

Mr. James N. Howell, Chief Permit Section
Michigan Water Resources Commission
Stevens T. Mason Building
Lansing, Michigan 48926

The permit application number should appear next to the above address on the envelope and the first page of any submitted comments. All comments received within the thirty (30) days of the date of issuance of this public notice will be considered in the formulation of the final determinations. If no written objections are received, the Michigan Water Resources Commission will issue its final determinations no later than sixty (60) days following the date of this notice.

Local Women's Club Starts New Year

Ellice Kulick, head weaver at the Henry Ford Museum in Dearborn, will speak before the Charlevoix Woman's Club next Monday evening at the Weathervane Inn.

Her talk is entitled "Pot Pourri", and will cover such subjects as weaving, gardening, drying flowers, and restoring historical homes.

Ms. Kulick recently restored a centennial home in Plymouth and opened a full craft studio.

She teaches all the old crafts, including spinning, weaving, rug hooking, natural dyeing, bobbin lace, and many more.

Reservations for the talk and the crepes dinner preceding may be made with Mrs. Robert A. Barnum, phone 547-4145. Those who are not free for dinner may join the group at 8:00. Guests are most welcome.

The 1974-1975 program of the Charlevoix Woman's Club will feature many facets of the country's rich, culturally divergent heritage. Mrs. J. Leedy Baer is this year's president and welcomes new members.

The club is affiliated with the Michigan State Federation of Women's Clubs, and through them receives many ideas for programs and projects.

showed fine form in leading the squad against the Rogers City eleven. Alger's fine play calling took advantage of the defensive weaknesses found within the Rogers City squad and provided a fine evening of football entertainment for all the fans on hand.

Next week the Charlevoix Red Rayders are playing at home against St. Ignace for another Michigan-Huron Shores Conference clash. With two conference wins under their belts following a first game defeat to non-conference rival Benzie Central, the Charlevoix squad is in the thick of things. Support by all the fans will help to cheer the squad on too, we hope, another vistory against the St. Ignace Saints.

advertisements in the mails.

All you have to do is list your name with the Postal Service, stating that you do not wish to receive any sexually oriented advertising through the mails.

The law prohibits any commercial solicitation of names on the Reference Lists.

After 30 days from the date your name is added to the reference list, any mailer who sends you a sexually oriented advertisement subjects himself to both civil and criminal legal action by the U.S. Government.

"It must say sexually-oriented on the envelope," Johnson added.

"If you get something and don't want it, send it to your local post office."

The sectional office employee says there's not much they can do about Miss Orchid's picture, as long as the envelope is clearly marked and people have requested it.

"The law is just to protect people who are getting stuff without asking for it," he said.

Doan had a lot of help, however. Terry Blissett had five hits and a home run, Bernie DeVries had four hits and two home runs, Stu Coleman had three hits and two home runs, Bill Joy had two hits and a home run, Mike Bade had three hits, and Mike Webb had four hits.

Village Insurance managed twenty hits themselves but it simply was not enough. Beano Archey, Don Blalock, and Mike Rienhart had three hits.

Ernie Mindel was the winning pitcher while Gary Balch was the loser.

Village Insurance played a fine game nipping Andy's Tire World 10-8. Andy's took a 7-5 lead at the end of three innings on the strength of Joe Beaudoin's home run. Jim Moore's three run homer wiped out that lead in the top of the fourth.

After Blalock hit a home run in the top of the seventh, Andy's made a bid to take the game. With the score 10-7, Andy's loaded the bases with only one out. Two long fly balls ended the threat and the game. Balch was the winning pitcher while Don Smith took the loss.

In the other semi-final game Topside clobbered American Mold 20-5. Leading 6-4 going into the bottom of the third, Topside exploded for five runs to break the game wide open.

DeVries smashed two homers, while Blissett and Mindel each added one home run. Gary Crain had one for the losers. Mindel was the winning pitcher and Don Wells the loser.

"no conflict of interest", they cannot be part time builders, plumbers, electricians or similar tradesmen.

There is one ray of hope in the immediate problem, however. Bill Mercer, Charlevoix County planner, says he has learned that the November 6 deadline will be concerned only with inspection of structural work. Regulations for other inspections will come in the near future. This is contrary to earlier information.

The Construction Code Commission of the Department of Labor held a meeting last Saturday in Mt. Pleasant to acquaint local officials and others with provisions of the new law. There was not enough room in the meeting hall for all who wanted to attend, so another meeting has been set for next Monday, October 7.

program, the winning floats will be paraded around the playing field headed by the Homecoming Queen and her court.

The Homecoming Dance, with music by the Oracles of Cadillac, will climax the Homecoming festivities. The dance will be held at the Elementary school on Division ave. following the game.

Candidates for homecoming queen are Kim Blanchard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Blanchard; Gayle Boss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Boss, Sue Fowler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Fowler; Gay Kimble, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Kimble, and Debbie Wood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Wood. All are 17 years of age but Gay Kimble who is 16. All but Gay have plans to continue their education in various fields of endeavor.

Lawyer Starts Practice

Michael A. Gibbons has announced the opening of his office at 115 Antrim Street, Charlevoix, for the general practice of law.

Gibbons, 36, is a 1956 graduate from of Charlevoix High School.

A veteran of the U.S. Army, he graduated from the Army Finance School, and served two years in Germany.

In 1962 he graduated from Aquinas College, Grand Rapids, with a B.A. Degree. He earned a Juris Doctor from Wayne State University, Detroit, in 1965. He was admitted and licensed to practice law in January of 1966.

Gibbons was Chief Administrative Assistant Prosecutor for Ingham County for three years, and has extensive trial experience in criminal law in the former justice courts, district and circuit courts.

He is a former member of the Michigan License Appeals Board in Lansing.

Since 1970 he has been the Hearings Officer for the Financial Institutions Bureau, Michigan Department of Commerce, conducting hearings regarding state regulated banking matters.

Gibbons has attended numerous seminars on both criminal and banking matters, and has conducted a number of legal seminars. He is a member of the Michigan Bar Association, and the Ingham County Bar Association.

He is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Gerald Gibbons, former local residents, and is married to C. Marilyn Neff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Neft.

They have recently moved with their four young sons from Mason to Charlevoix. While living in Mason, he also served on the Zoning Board of Appeals for the City of Mason.

Condominiums

From a developer's standpoint, Hess said he thought the condominiums were good for the community.

"I really, really feel the need is here," he said.

Unlike those renting a place for a week or two, Hess said those buying condominiums will be coming up to relax and spend money,.

"I think they will bring a lot of good money into the community," he said.

Birth

Mr. and Mrs. Terry Blissett of Charlevoix are the parents of a month-old baby boy, Travis Wayne.

Mrs. Blissett (former Arlene Supernaw) had the child on August 25 in Little Traverse Hospital in Petoskey.

He was born 8 pounds and 2 ounces.

SEE OLDSMOBILE '75

Introducing Starfire–the little Olds you didn't expect. It's a sporty little four-seater that's smaller than a compact, easy on gas, but a bonafide Supercoupe in looks, features and spirit on the road!

Delta 88–our full-size family car never looked better–but it's more than just another pretty car. It's really built for the long miles. 7 models, including a convertible, with room and comfort for a growing family.

Meet Omega Salon–our luxurious compact for drivers who like the looks and comforts of imported touring cars. It's got the touches you like–but at an Olds price. Choice of three models.

Toronado–America's first contemporary personal luxury car with front wheel drive. It pulls you around turns and along straightaways with outstanding traction. Toronado and Toronado Brougham models.

Cutlass Supreme–now our "little limousine" is big on luxuries, yet it offers improved operating economy. One of eleven mid sized Cutlass models–including wagons–that are right for the times.

98 Regency (below)–The most comfortable, most thoroughly luxurious Oldsmobile ever built. Magnificent "loose-cushion" look interiors, and a distinctive new look in both six-window sedan and coupe models.

IT'S A GOOD FEELING TO HAVE AN OLDS AROUND YOU.

We raised the gas mileage in every 1975 Olds model.

Every '75 Olds has a new Maximum Mileage System that helps make it a better car in several ways: Our best mileage in years. Smooth-running engines. Fewer tune-ups and less routine maintenance.

And–better exhaust emission control.

The System represents the most advanced engineering and technology we can built into a '75 Olds. It includes a new catalytic converter (see below)–and a lot more.

There's a new high-energy ignition, for a hotter spark and improved ignition performance.

Also, Olds engineers adjusted shift points in transmissions. Installed low-ratio economy axles. And made GM-spec steel-belted radial tires standard.

As you can see, we've done a lot to improve the gas mileage capability of every 1975 Oldsmobile.

GM

New Catalytic Converter–designed for long life.

This "pod" full of platinum-palladium coated beads provides a new way to reduce most emissions–after combustion, in the exhaust. It does a more effective job–and it eliminates some of the gas-robbing, combustion-stage controls of the past. Best of all, it allowed Olds engineers to re-tune the engines to run smoother and give better MPG than last year.

GET THAT GOOD FEELING AT YOUR OLDS DEALER'S NOW.

DOWNTOWN CHARLEVOIX, CADILLAC AND TWO LOCATIONS IN TRAVERSE CITY

Should Charlevoix Consider New Zoning Laws?

You're about to read something boring and should probably quit now, while you're ahead.

It's that same old story about the same old thing–zoning.

If you're like most people, you could probably care less.

It seems like that's all city councils and planning commissions ever talk about.

And the newspapers are just as deadly because that's about all they ever print.

It wouldn't be so bad if people spoke English and quit talking in terms of R-2, C-1 and I-2.

Who Cares

But, who really cares anyways? Let the politicians keep their zoning and let the people do what they want with their land.

Besides, if a person buys property he should be able to do what he wants with it.

Then all of a sudden, someone decides to put in a dump next to your home or put up a metal pole barn to block your view.

Or maybe you finished building a $30,000 home to discover that your next door neighbor is going to move a trailer on to his property.

Charlevoix is presently operating under a zoning ordinance that has been in effect since Oct. 6, 1941.

Since that time several efforts have been made to change the present ordinance.

Revised Ordinance

In 1969, the Charlevoix Regional Planning Commission along with Williams and Works Consulting Engineers of Grand Rapids came up with a revised zoning ordinance.

However, the document was left on a shelf until July 31, 1972 when a proposal came before city council asking the mayor to appoint a committee to review the ordinance and master plan.

Named as chairman of the citizens' committee was Tom Duke. Also appointed were William Cockfield, George Richardson and Robert Winchester.

On October 9, the committee recommended that council enact the ordinance and set up a public hearing. The matter was tabled and has been since that time

Now, four years later, Charlevoix Regional Planning Commission members are again going to sharpen their pencils and review the situation.

More Clear

As it stands now, Charlevoix would gain a more clearly defined ordinance than the one they are presently operating under if they chose to approve the proposed ordinance.

In zoned districts, for example, the new ordinance is much more restrictive in what would be allowed under each classification.

Under the existing ordinance in residential-1, it is possible to build duplexes next to single-family homes, which some say devalues property.

Planning experts also claim it is bad to mix higher density housing with lower density housing.

Lot size requirements, as well as dwelling size units, are also increased.

Similar trends also occur in other residential and commercial classifications in the revised ordinance.

Under the commercial categories, the new ordinance specifically lays out what businesses are allowed in each district.

Present Ordinances

Even residential units are allowed in commercial zones under the present ordinance.

In addition to more specific zoned districts, the proposed ordinance lays out more detailed general provisions in the area of off-street parking, solid waste disposal, mobile homes and buffer strips.

Many of these areas are not even handled in the present zoning ordinance.

Revitalized interest in the revised ordinance has brought a variety of reactions.

Tom Duke praised the commission and council for taking up the ordinance.

"I'm glad to see they are taking it off the table," he said.

Good Work

"It will be good if they have the new one on the books."

Duke said that he was pleased to see that Charlevoix residents had already put so much work into revising the present ordinance and amending it to include a section on multiple housing, now he just wants to see the balance completed.

He cautioned people that even if the revised ordinance is approved, people shouldn't get the impression it is complete.

It will always have to be amended and updated.

"We don't claim to be perfect," he said.

Mayor Ed Hansen said sooner or later a new ordinance will probably be passed.

However, he said he would like people to first get together and see what they already have in operation.

Improvement?

"A change, more often than not, is not an improvement," he said.

"A change for change's sake is not always good."

Hansen said he didn't see where the city had any great problems. He said the primary motivation for changing it before was–the lack of a condominium multiple housing section.

The Charlevoix mayor expressed concern over becoming too overburdered with "big city controls" and ending up having to pay out a lot of money.

"Really, legally, if a man has a piece of property he has the right to use it," the mayor said.

Hansen said if the city's government and zoning ordinance is so bad, why then do people from the city keep trying to move up to Charlevoix"

"They want to make Charlevoix the asphalt jungle they came here to get away from," he said.

Hansen said he's not against going over the old ordinance, he just doesn't want to change for change's sake.

He said the reason council tabled the last move was because they felt it would be too laborious to administer.

Councilman Ralph McRae looked optimistically toward the adoption of a revised city ordinance at the Regional Planning Commission meeting.

"I think if they're convinced it is a good deal, they'll pass it in one night," he said.

New $1 Million State Park To Be Built In Charlevoix

A $1,000,000 state park complex in Charlevoix County may soon become a reality.

After almost six years of planning, the Department of Natural Resources has announced a public hearing on a propossed park 3,300 acre park reserve in Norwood and Charlevoix Townships, including Fisherman's Island and Bell's Bay State Park.

The hearing, to be held October 23 at 7:30 p.m. in the county courtroom, will bring to light what the D.N.R. has planned for the area.

Jim Hane of the Parks Planning Division told the Courier that the project would be a low density camping area with camp sites for backpackers and those who like rustic surroundings.

"There will be rustic hiking trails and plenty of room along the lake shore for driftwood hunters and rock hounds," he said. An area 1,000 feet wide along the shoreline will be free from camp sites for maximum public use and pleasure.

There are now 40 camp sites in the Bell's Bay area. The new enlarged park would provide about 200 camp sites, which is considered low density for 3,300 acres.

"The park is in the preliminary planning state at this time, and the Department of Natural Resources wishes to have citizen input during the planning process," Bill Mercer of the County Planning Commission said.

"The D.N.R. met with the Planning Commission recently to talk about this project and we asked them to put it before the public as soon as possible," he added.

There was very little definite reaction from the Planning Commission at the meeting, according to Mercer.

"They want to review the more detailed plans before making a statement," he said.

Hane told the Courier that the D.N.R. has a $1,000,000 appropriation for the park project, fifty per cent of which is a grant from the Federal government.

According to Hane, Senator Robert Davis was most helpful in getting appropriation through the legislature.

JOHN AND AGNES Klooster will be leaving their Ellsworth restaurant and drugstore business after more than 25 years. Mrs. Klooster's homemade pies and soup attracted hundreds of customers.

After 25 Years

The Kloosters Say Good-Bye

ELLSWORTH – It's just going to be too hard to say good-bye to a business that has become a part of their life.

So, Agnes and John Klooster of John's Health Center probably won't.

How can you say good-bye to something that you've been with since 1949? Agnes and John can't.

"I'm going to miss this place," said Mrs. Klooster in a quivering voice.

"I have sure loved every minute I have had."

The gray-haired woman was making some of her homemade pies and rolls for one of the last times.

As she bent over her kitchen counter working on the pie plates, she began to recall some of the incidents that have taken place during her long career as a restaurant owner and cook.

"People sure have been wonderful to us," she said.

Mrs. Klooster said the family business began in 1949, when she and her husband bought the corner drugstore in Ellsworth. The drugstore is where the hardware store is located now.

"It was just patient medicines at that time...and a soda bar," she said.

"There wasn't even a restaurant open at that time in town."

She said all they had was a tiny soup kitchen, in addition to the rolls and coffee they served in the morning.

"Then there were a few men working nights at Morwell Steel who wanted supper," her husband interjected.

So, Klooster said his wife began cooking dinners for them.

"They didn't even know what they were getting," Klooster said jokingly.

"That was the start of our restaurant business."

The Ellsworth couple continued operating the drugstore and lunch counter business until 1954, when they moved across the street to their present location.

It was a time when large supermarkets were beginning to handle drugs and the Kloosters were finding they couldn't even buy drugs wholesale for the price the larger stores were selling for retail.

"The restaurant business was growing about then so we went along with that," Klooster said.

For both Kloosters, the restaurant has been rugged, but something they would never have traded for anything else in the world.

While John managed the books and selling, Agnes has done all the baking and cooking.

Last year alone, Mrs. Klooster baked over 3,874 pies.

"We've had a lot of fun at the counter," Mrs. Klooster said.

"I always said I wish I had a tape recorder at the

Hold Two Hour Hearing

Charlevoix Board Allows Carports

Charlevoix's two-month battle over the Dunes Condominium carports ended Monday night when the city granted a variance that will allow the structure to remain.

The case had ended up in court after the city refused to grant Developer Ron Steffes a variance to construct the carport, which had stood in violation of the city zoning ordinance.

However, Circuit Judge Martin Breighner had decided two weeks ago to retain jurisdiction over the matter and sent it back to the Charlevoix Board of Appeals for another hearing.

This time, the court asked the board to keep a more detailed account of their action and specifically cite reasons of fact they have for either granting or denying the developer's request.

Council, acting as the Board of Appeals, granted the variance on the condition that the developer lower the pitch of the existing carport by 2 feet 7 inches and move the roof 8 feet, four inches from the property line. The structure is presently 2 feet, 6 inches from the line.

The developer also agreed to put up a 3½-foot hedge and install guard rails along Michigan Avenue, in front of his carports.

The board's affirmative action came after nearly two-hours of discussion.

Council's primary concern appeared to be with the visual impact of the carport and the roof elevation.

Developer Ron Steffes told council it would be a practical difficulty at this point to move the existing carport structure.

He said it would be impossible to provide 20 adequate covered parking spaces anywhere else on the property without causing some type of problem.

Council also seemed satisfied that earlier concerns of pedestrian safety was eliminated with both a guardrail and construction of a birm along the carport.

Charlevoix resident Bill Supernaw told council that he was concerned about the light this would be putting the city in and said he would liked to have seen it gone back to court for a decision.

Other residents indicated they would rather see a carport in front of the condominium unit rather than just an open parking lot.

In other action, council:

–Referred the request for a variance to allow construction of a small addition to the Airport Motel to the planning commission and set up a special hearing for October 21.

–Agreed to send Norman Empey and Ida Heise to the Michigan Municipal Employee's Retirement annual meeting in Traverse City.

–Sent a recommendation from Councilman Ralph McRae to lower the utility rates for those living on Social Security to committee for study.

–Agreed to meet on October 16 with Charlevoix Township and Charlevoix Regional Planning Commission to discuss a proposed water and sewer authority.

–Approved bids on a ¾-ton truck from Charlevoix Oil for $3,866 and a 1-ton truck for $4,002.

Senior Citizens May Get Meals Delivered at Home

Charlevoix County Senior Citizens will soon have an opportunity to partake of nutritional balanced meals one or two days a week through the "meals on wheels" program being set up by the Commission on Aging.

Preliminary plans for the program were announced at the monthly meeting of the Commission last week.

The meals will be served on alternating days in Charlevoix, East Jordan and Boyne City, which would average out to two meals a week in each city three weeks out of every four. During the fourth week meals would be served only one day in each locality.

Where the meals will be served and where they will be cooked is still not definite. However, there are two or three possible locations in Charlevoix.

The Commission on Aging has a grant of $12,000 under the Older Americans Act to provide the meals. It is expected that another $4,000 will come from voluntary contributions from those participating in the program.

The grant and expected contributions will be enough to furnish approximately 40 meals a day. All persons 60 years of age and older will be eligible to enjoy the low cost meals.

Under the Act, ten percent, or four, meals a day may be delivered to shut-ins or invalids who are not able to go to the central eating place.

Margarete Sorenson, secretary of the Commission on Aging, says that "hopefully, we can start the program the first part of November."

Mrs. Sorenson also said that the 40 meals a day, or 200 a week, is just a beginning.

"This program will balloon," she added. "We look forward to serving many, many more meals each day."

Mayor's Group Holds Meeting

Charlevoix residents interested in finding out more about the differences between a Fourth Class City and Charter City are encouraged to attend a public meeting on Thursday, Oct. 10, at 8 p.m. in the City Council Room.

The meeting, organized, by the mayor's study committee, will include James Tinnin of the Michigan Municipal League and Dr. W. Bromage, a University of Michigan political scientist.

John Schroeder, chairman of the mayor's study group, said he along with Roy Bennett and Irma Scheld will also present their findings from visits to other communities.

Farm Bureau Holds Annual Conference

Members of the Charlevoix County Farm Bureau spoke their minds on many subjects at their annual meeting, held last Wednesday evening in Whiting Park.

In grass roots tradition, they approved several resolutions which reflect the concerns of their everyday personal and business lives.

Among the resolutions passed were:

Trespass. Support Department of Natural Resources in arresting trespassers in the presence of the land owner without requiring a complaint or warrant, and other workable laws to stop unwanted trespassers.

Protect game. Exempt farmers on their own property from game laws, or pay for protected animal damage.

Credit union. Develop credit unions for Farm Bureau members.

Conservation of machinery. Encourage all manufacturers to reduce their number of models so it will be possible and practical to furnish parts immediately on demand for the life of the machine involved.

Retirement age. Require all public officials and government employees to retire at age 65, or at a uniform age, as does industry.

Tax law 4244 (Farmland and Open Space Preservation Act). Set up meetings on a local basis with knowledgeable people to enable farmers to know whether they may be included under act.

Schools and colleges. Eliminate all smoking rooms for both students and faculty in schools and colleges funded by the public.

Inheritance taxes. Increase tax free inheritance from $60,000 to $300,000, because of inflation.

Tax reform. Substitute valued added tax for income and property taxes to support local government and schools. Restrict property taxes to a maximum of 15 mills.

Inflation. Voters should know how congressmen vote on foreign aid and legislation requiring deficit spending, to enable them to remove from office congressmen voting for such programs.

Ecology. Since Federal land use laws are unjust and unworkable, their power should be limited to Federal lands and water. Each state and county should work together for the best interests of all.

Gasoline taxes. Oppose further increases in gasoline taxes.

Educational. Sponsor movies and T.V. programs to let the consumer know farming is not all profit. Costs and a reasonable profit must be paid by the consumer for food to insure a good and adequate food supply in the future.

Tax sale requirements. In the event of a (delinquent) tax sale, the last bid on the property in question must be in the amount of the cash price used in assessemnt, or more. If the bid is less than the cash price used in the assessment, the State cannot sell and must forgive taxes due and reassess at one-half of the highest bid.

In the event it is agricultural land, it must be offered as such with a restriction to that effect for a period of 25 years following date of transfer to successful bidder.

If the last bid is equal to, or greater than, the cash price used in assessment, then the State may sell the property and deduct taxes plus five per cent fee for selling the property. Balance must go in cash immediately, day of sale, to the owner of the property, income tax free because of the forced sale.

Use Zip Codes

Postmaster Rex E. Davis sends along a note to remind mail users that the end of summer means that the Christmas Season will be upon us before we know it. . .And Christmas is the season of the year that the Post Office needs every mailers cooperation.

One of the most important things is Zip Code. Every year there are hundreds of Christmas Cards and Packages that are delayed simply because they do not have the Zip Code.

Zip Codes are a part of the address, and if you do not know the correct Zip Code for the address that you are writing to, call the Post Office. They are more than happy to supply you with the correct Zip Code.

Be sure to include your own Zip Code as a part of your return address. The Zip Code for Charlevoix, Mi. is 49720.

There's Just Not Enough Oil

Charlevoix Could End Up Like The Old Days

Charlevoix may revert to the kind of resort town it was 40 or 50 years ago if the predictions of former Secretary of Interior Stewart Udall come true.

Speaking last Thursday at Boyne Highlands before the Michigan Society of Planning Officials, Udall said that because of the severe energy shortage which the country faces gasoline will have to be rationed "next year or no later than after the 1976 elections."

Shortage of gasoline could mean all kinds of changes in Northern Michigan, including the re-birth of railroad transportation to bring vacationers to the area.

"People won't spend their two or three weeks' vacation time driving around," Udall predicted. "They will go to one spot and stay there, be it for a week or two, or for the season."

Local residents who remember the days of the railroad in Charlevoix also remember how vacationers came with their trunks, were met at the train by "drivers" from local lodges, and were more than content to spend their time enjoying activities in the immediate vicinity.

They played tennis, golf, shuffle-board and bridge. They sailed on Lakes Charlevoix and Michigan and walked up and down Bridge Street buying clothes, mementoes and fudge. They went to the movies and the band concerts and attended church.

Persons who now have second homes in the area won't be able to drive 200 or 300 miles to them every weekend because of the oil shortage, according to Udall.

"Home builders of new units must assure buyers there is public transportation," he said.

"We must bring the railroads back, there is no question that we can – given national priority and money," Udall replied to a question about the feasibility of doing so.

"We have all the highways we'll ever need. Tourism and the travel industry in the United States are overbuilt with highways and motels," he added.

Udall also indicated that funds now being used for road building could be diverted to railroad building, and that Detroit could switch much of its production to buses and railroad cars.

The energy crisis is not a temporary one, Udall warned. "It is not in the cards for us to be self-reliant on oil. We have only a six year proven oil reserve. The Alaska field is largest in the world, but has a capacity to take care of us for only two years. The only thing that has saved us to date is that five or six per cent less oil is now being used because of higher costs and lower speed limits."

Udall said that we must immediately cut consumption of oil by 20 per cent to prevent disaster. This would also help with the nation's balance of payments and take away our reliance on the Middle East, a situation which is affecting our already worsening economic situation. We can get all the oil we need from Canada and Venezuela, he added.

The second crisis facing us in this decade, Udall said, is world famine. "We must keep farm land in production. It must not be cut up into subdivisions and shopping centers."

Towns and cities must be developed in a compact

County Expects 18 Per Cent Budget Hike

The Finance Committee of the County Board of Commissioners has submitted a budget for 1975 totaling $1,282,856 for consideration of the Board at its annual meeting this week.

Budget figures are up $219,473, or more than 18 percent above last year's.

Property taxes, which provide the greatest share of total revenue, are based on a tax rate of 4.8 mills, for a total of $826,994. Last year the property tax rate was 4.3 mills and provided $661,492 for county operation.

Budgeted revenue and expenditures by departments for 1975 compared with 1974 are listed below:

Charlevoix Health Department Looks At Sewer Authority

By PEG OHLE

Further comments on the proposed Charlevoix Area Sewage Disposal and Water Supply Authority were received by the Courier last week.

In an attempt to learn the need for sewage collection facilities in both Charlevoix Township and the City of Charlevoix, District 3 Health Department was contacted.

Larry Levengood, Department Sanitarian, pointed out that there are three critical areas in the Township where sewers are needed to abate existing public health problems. Low and failing septic tanks are causing water pollution.

The first area cited is the Stover Road-M 66 area where a multiple dwelling complex is experiencing problems, and not far away where three-quarters of a mile of developed Lake Charlevoix shoreline property is poorly drained wet land.

Water sampling in this area shows a high coliform count.

The 30-unit mobile home park on Highway 31 north has been experiencing sewage problems for eight years.

Levengood said that all possible effort should be made to extend sewers to the parts of the City of Charlevoix that are not covered by the present system, especially in the south end of town.

Charlevoix Township applied in September, 1973 to the Department of Natural Resources for a grant to build a sewage collection facility and inspectors to the city treatment plant.

In a sense, the request was made jointly with the City of Charlevoix because the plans as presented would permit the City to use a certain percentage of the grant within the City to cover the cost of any special construction problems in connection with extension of sewer lines to the Township.

Total grant requested was $750,000. Oscar Stroud, Township Supervisor, says that this would also cover 75 percent of the cost of supplying sewer lines to individual users in the Township, reducing any special assessment to about 25 percent of the total cost.

The D.N.R. advised the Courier last week that rules and regulations for making such grants have just recently passed the legislature, and that applicants should know by the end of the month what priority their requests have been given.

District 3 Health Department has written a letter to the D.N.R. to support the grant request, citing the above-mentioned problem areas.

Since the need for extended sewage collection facilities in both the Township and City is a matter of record, the question is whether the job should be undertaken by the Township and City individually, or whether they should form a joint authority for the purpose.

It has been pointed out that in other communities the cost for sewage service for the individual user usually goes down as the service area becomes larger. This could be the case in the Charlevoix area.

The fact that the City has already invested a large sum of money in its existing system bothers some, who say that Township residents did not pay any tax money toward building the system but would benefit from it if a joint authority is set up. However, since Federal funds were used to build the system, Township residents paid a portion of the cost through their federal taxes.

One City official said he thinks the joint authority is a long way from becoming implemented, and believes the real solution is to combine the

Correction

Last week's story in the Courier about Public Act 116 (House Bill 4244), the "farmland and open space preservation" act, was correct as far as it went.

However, we left out an important provision of the act which says, "Upon natural termination of the development rights agreement...the state land use agency shall cause to be prepared and recorded a lien against the property formerly subject to the development rights agreement for the total amount of the credit in the state income tax of the last seven years received by the owner."

Residents Should Examine New Zoning Carefully

Charlevoix City Council faces a tough decision during the months ahead.

They will have to decide whether or not the city should update its present zoning ordinance.

The decision will not be an easy one to make.

Talk of revising the city's ordinance started back in 1969, when Charlevoix Regional Planning Commission along with a Grand Rapids Engineering Firm came up with a revised zoning ordinance.

However, not too much was done with it until July, 1973 when the proposal came before city council with a request asking the mayor to appoint a committee to review the ordinance and master plan.

On October 9, the committee recommended that council enact the ordinance and set up a public hearing. The matter was tabled and has been since that time.

Now, four years later, Charlevoix Regional Planning Commissioners are setting the wheels in motion for more affirmative action.

We encourage their efforts and at the same time ask them to also take the advice of Mayor Ed Hansen, who wants people to also realize what the city already has.

As the revised ordinance stands now, the city would stand to gain a more clearly defined ordinance.

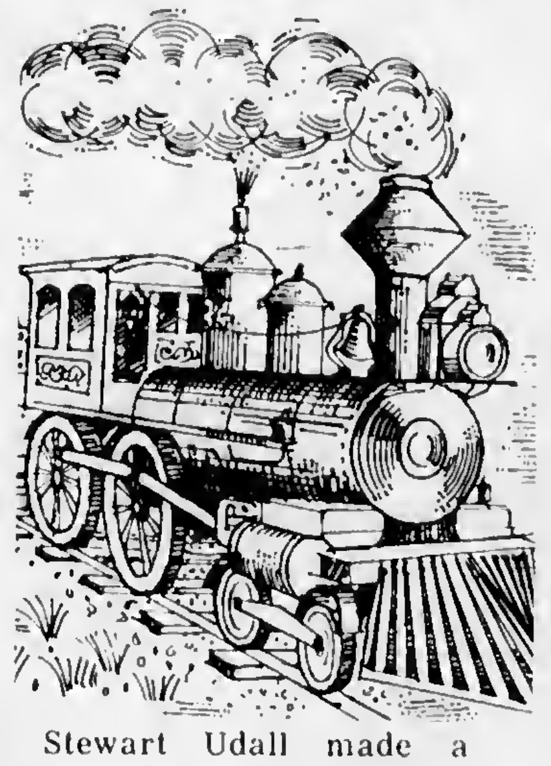
In zoned districts, for example, the new revised ordinance would be much more restrictive in what would be allowed under each classification.

Lot size requirements, as well as dwelling size units, would also be increased.

Under the commercial categories, the new ordinance specially lays out what businesses are allowed in each district.

We feel these clarifications are healthy and should be considered very strongly by both the Regional Planning Commission and City Council when evaluating the city zoning ordinance.

Time For Railroads With Oil Shortages



Stewart Udall made a doomesday prediction last week for the nation.

He predicted that the country will go to gas rationing within the next two years and will be out of oil within six years.

Speaking at the Michigan Society of Planning Officials annual fall conference at Boyne Highlands, the former Interior Secretary said we will have to change our way of thinking.

For Northern Michigan this is going to be difficult.

Unlike many other areas of the nation, Northern Michigan is dependent upon the automobile for transportation.

In the city, residents can take a bus or walk to many near-by stores, however this is not necessarily the case here.

So, what are our alternatives?

First, we can do what Udall recommends--change our way of thinking.

Instead of building more developments and homes outside the community, we can encourage planners and developers to look towards higher density units within city limits.

This may allow for people to walk to locations they now have to drive to because of the distance.

Secondly, we should start taking more time in planning trips to town in automobiles to avoid unnecessary travel.

And finally, Northern Michigan along with the rest of the nation should really push for railroads.

Passenger train service to the north would definitely cut down on the amount of gasoline consumption.

The Department of State Highways has earmarked four Northern Michigan rail corridors for improvement if voters approve the $1.1 billion transportation bonding proposal Nov. 5.

One of the two routes in the Lower Peninsula would run from Grand Rapids through Cadillac to Mackinaw City with side spur to Traverse City. Another would run from Bay City through Alpena to Mackinaw City.

Current plans call for $362 million of the $1.1 billion to be used for rail service.

This money would help convince the United States Railway Association to keep lines in Michigan open.

We hope local residents will, as Udall asks, change their way of thinking and vote for the transportation bond issue.

Letters to the editor

Let's Stop High Taxes

Editor
Charlevoix Courier
111 Bridge St.
Charlevoix, Michigan 49720
Dear Mr. Winter,

This letter is about something that everyone in Charlevoix and surrounding areas can do right now to fight higher taxes and inflation. If enough signatures from registered voters can be obtained during this month of October, a proposed amendment to the Michigan Constitution, called the Tax Limitation Ammendment, will be placed on the November 1976 general election ballot, to be voted upon by Michigan voters.

This amendment is designed to produce the following results: (1) It will limit all taxes and revenues of the state to the present percentage of personal income of the citizens of the state, allowing government to grow only as the people's income grow. The limit is set at current state tax revenue levels. (2) Any excess revenues shall be refunded to the people. (3) State expenditures may not exceed revenues. In other words, no deficit financing. (4) The state may not pass laws which increase costs for local government without picking up the tab. (5) The state may not cut back on the proportion of its revenues which it currently passes through to local government. (6) Local governments, including school districts, may not impose new kinds of taxes, nor increase tax rates, without a vote of the local citizens.

This proposal has broad backing throughout Michigan. It is supported by 55 members of the Michigan Legislature, Republicans and Democrats alike, in both the House and the Senate, including Representatives Charles Varnum and Ralph Ostling. It is supported by over 80 different Michigan organizations, including taxpayer and homeowner associations, League of Independent Voters, Michigan Real Estate Real Estate Association, Michigan State Chamber of Commerce, Business and Professional Women's Clubs, National Federation of Independent Business, Friends of Michigan Schools, Michigan Association of Countries, Michigan Townships Association, Michigan Farm Bureau, Michigan State Grange, League of Men Voters, and many other organizations.

In recent years, State taxes have taken an ever increasing share of personal income. 4.8 percent of total State taxes were derived from personal income in 1954, compared with 8.3 percent in 1974. At present growth rates, it is estimated that our total State budget will inflate from 5 billion dollars, which is what it is right now, to 30 billion by 1988. Just think how that will skyrocket your taxes! The increasing burden of State taxes is due, of course, to growth rates of State expenditures and State employment.

In all, Michigan has 45 State taxes such as the property tax, sales tax, gasoline tax, intangibles tax, and many others that are hidden in other forms of revenue collection. Unless a limit is established on taxes, State government can be expected to take a continually larger share of the average citizens income to fund State programs and services. But on the other hand, passage of the Tax Limitation Amendment could result in a tax savings nest egg of $28,000 over the next 15 years for an average Michigan family, according to William H. Shaker of Midland, Chairman of Taxpayers United.

Michigan has a chance to make history. If this amendment qualifies and is adopted by the people, Michigan will be the first state in the Union to constitutionally limit the taxing powers of state and local governments.

At the last report, about 150,000 signatures have been obtained so far. An additional 116,000 signatures are needed, although more than this number are being sought. A massive statewide petition campaign is now underway. Your help is urgently needed, either sign a petition when it is presented to you, or better yet, to circulate one or more petitions among your friends, neighbors, and customers. Petitions can be obtained at 204 State Street in Petoskey, or by phoning 347-8980, or by writing Taxpayers United, P. O. Box 40, Lansing, Michigan 48901. The deadline for turning in petitions is November 4th.

Complaining about taxes and inflation, which everyone does, has absolutely no merit unless it leads to positive worthwhile action. Circulating or signing a petition will prove to be far more satisfying, rewarding, and effective than any amount of complaining. So roll up your sleeves and let's get to work, NOW!

Clockwise

By BOB CLOCK

Some days I'd like to run right down to Washington and crack a few skulls.

Like Friday, for example.

A story came in on the UPI wire crowing about a federal grant of $34.8 million which is supposed to come into Michigan to create new public service jobs.

On the surface it's good news. Michigan can use more fresh dollars along with fresh jobs.

But why must they be "public service jobs"?

If there is one thing we don't need in the autumn 1974 it is more people on public payrolls. Such jobs, as you well know, don't add one penny to the Gross National Product but they do place a never-ending drain on the revenue-producing segments of the economy.

Don't get me wrong. Some public service jobs are necessary. We couldn't live without the stout fellows who plow our streets in the dead of winter, or the crews who keep electricity flowing into our homes or the accountants and file clerks who keep us on the straight and narrow in the billing department.

But why must we hire more and more public servants at a time when jobs are so sorely needed in the private sector of the economy—jobs that would contribute to the national wealth rather than jobs that siphon off precious tax dollars?

These new public service jobs, mind you, aren't intended to be temporary.

"Once hired, the workers will have the same job protection and fringe benefits as other city employes and will be considered for eventual transfer to regular city payrolls," according to the UPI report.

This means that when the federal funds run out, the new job holders will feed off local tax dollars.

How much wiser it would have been to put the $34.8 million into a business loan fund available to small Michigan businessmen at interest rates they can afford – a nice, liveable rate like five or six percent.

Such money literally could "save" hundreds of small businesses which are on the verge of bankruptcy, enabling them not only to keep their present employes but add new ones.

And eventually the money will be repaid, forming the basis of a revolving fund which could benefit the small businessmen of Michigan indefiniently.

As things stand now, the money will be gone in a few short months and municipalities across the state will be saddled with hundreds of new employes that they don't need. If they really needed them, they would have hired them long ago.

Another federal government scheme that warrants a few cracked skulls is the lame-brained idea to slap on additional tax—ranging from 10 to 30 cents a gallon—on the gasoline we use to drive to work.

As a commuter who drives a grand total of 34 miles a day to and from my place of employment, I object. Oh, how I object.

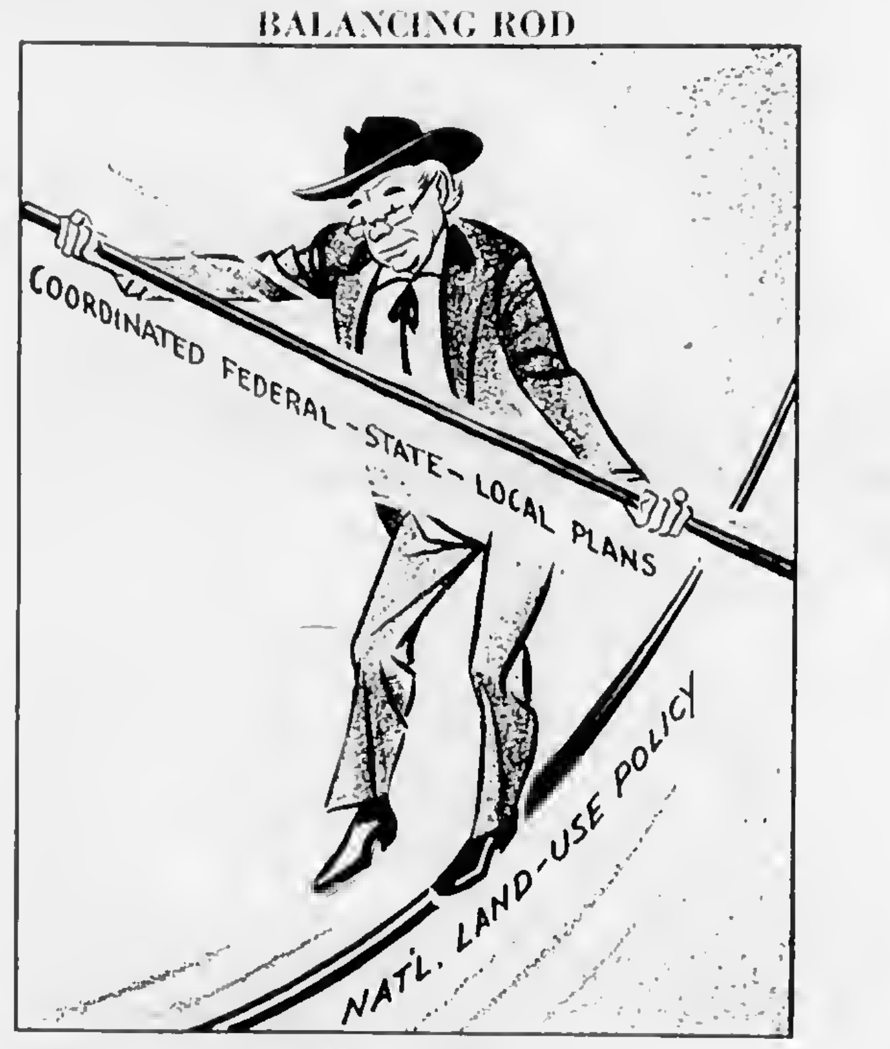
If the federal governmment is truly interested in precipitating an economic crisis in America, I can think of no better way to do it than by keeping the nation's working men and women away from their jobs.

The fellow who thought that one up should be drummed out of government service—post haste. We simply cannot tolerate irresponsible dunderheads dictating government policy any longer.

Fortunately, President Ford doesn't buy the gasoline tax hike either—further evidence that Jerry can chew gum, walk and do a lot of other mental and physical gymnastics at the same time.

I only wish he'd start cracking a few skulls–to save me the trouble.

BALANCING ROD



COORDINATED FEDERAL - STATE - LOCAL PLANS
NAT'L. LAND-USE POLICY

THE FUTURE DEPENDS ON US

The use of land in this country is described as "chaotic" by Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D.-Wash.) and he feels that it is time for the U.S. government to establish guidelines.

Congress is considering for the third time a bill which passed the Senate last year, focusing on four categories of more than local concern: areas that are critical to the environment such as wetlands; key facilities such as recreational land and lands connected with the development of energy resources; land use for primarily regional benefit; and large-scale developments such as subdivisions.

The need for better decisions is apparent. It will be difficult for Congress to hash out the details of how to preserve local rights, and still give states power to participate and to review within the rules of a national policy.

Wherever possible, the principle of multiple use of lands should be applied, so that both the social and economic objectives of each area may be satisfied. We should recognize the need for land for commercial forestry purposes, for mineral resource exploration and development, for energy resource development and for manufacturing purposes, as well as for recreation.

If it Fitz

By JIM FITZGERALD

"When he decided to give an international party in honor of his nation's birthday, the Shah of Iran dispatched agents across the world to buy a multi-million dollar collection of antiques to insure the comfort of his guests."

That's a quote from the society page of the Detroit Free Press. The article told how to entertain successfully. It was full of tips from "leading party-givers."

The Shah's party reminded me of my 40th birthday party. My wife dispatched an agent (me) to a local undertaker to borrow 6 folding chairs for the comfort of our guests.

Another tip: "Belgian-born actress Mireille Wilkinson often entertains her guests with an invitation to meet the family pets, followed by a game of croquet on the front lawn of her Grosse Pointe home."

That's not such hot stuff. I gave a party starring a frog. It had escaped from my son's jar and I chased it all over the house, trying to capture it with a saucepan. My plan was to slam the pan over the frog, thus jailing it to the floor. After dozens of abortive slams, a busted coffee table and a chipped sink, I finally pinned the frog to the carpet.

The next problem was to free the frog outside. Several guests said it should be killed, preferably flushed to death, but I insisted upon the humanitarian way. While loudly singing "Born Free," I slid the pan along the floor toward the door. Unfortunately, there were tri-level complications. It wasn't easy to keep that frog in captivity while going upstairs. The pan had to be handled with great dexterity. But I made it to the front lawn. The frog lived to croak again.

Our guests, considerably impressed, offered suitable toasts and crowned me with a pith helmet hastily converted from a lampshade. You didn't read about it on the Society Page, but that's how to entertain, man.

Another Free Press tip: "Mireille Wilinson depends on complete advance planning to free her once the party gets underway. Her dinners are cooked well in advance and frozen until they are needed."

Big deal. My wife cooks once a year, on Thanksgiving. She wraps the left-overs in foil and stacks them in the freezer. This not only feeds guests, it also feeds the family. Of course, she also gets catering aid from Sara Lee, Swanson and Colonel Sanders. This wise planning gives her enough free time to mingle with the guests, monitor table manners, and run the world.

The Free Press recommends "dinners for groups that can be divided by eight for intimate seating."

We once had a party divisible by eight and the seating certainly was intimate – 8 people on every folding chair. We sat around and counted off. Every 8th person was required to sit on the bottom. These people were indelibly marked by the success of this party. The name of the undertaker was imprinted in reverse on their buttocks.

According to the Free Press, when Henry Ford II entertains, "his favorite guests call him Hank and he delights in leading the orchestra through "When the Saints Come Marching In.' "

Me and Hank. That is also my favorite party song. I delight in playing a 33 rpm record of it at 45 rpm. If there are any saints around my house, I always say, they had better run, not march.

My favorite guests call me Stupid.

Meet Charlevoix

Meet Roger Srigley

Northern Michigan Planned Parenthood is working hard in Charlevoix and Emmet County to provide information local residents may find themselves in need of.

The Charlevoix Courier asked executive director Roger Srigley about the program and what his organization is attempting to do.

Srigley is a local resort owner and Melrose Township supervisor. Before moving to Charlevoix County, he was an advertising executive in Detroit.

He is married and the father of two children.

COURIER: What is planned Parenthood?

SRIGLEY: It's a two phase-answer. We are different than most planned parenthood affiliates. On the national level, the ogranization is concerned with the promotion of family planning as an integral part of stable family life and the furtherance of this goal through the provision of services, and education. On the local level, we are somewhat different because we do not provide any direct services, but as opposed to that, we provide information as to where these services are available. Both organizations are concerned with population education. Locally, we get into many areas related directly and indirectly to family planning. These would include adoption, V.D., male and female sterilization, child abuse, social services, helping the childless couple and genetic counseling for the mentally retarded and of course, population education.

COURIER: How do you get into this through your operation?

SRIGLEY: Well, our work is done primarily on a one-to-one level. Many members of our volunteer staff speak to groups, such as service clubs, church groups and any other groups, who request a speaker.

COURIER: What main obstacles do you find?

SRIGLEY: Probably the first and foremost obstacle is to make people more aware of our organization. Or is the fact that we are not as known as we would like to be. Secondly, would be the fact that birth control education is prohibited in the schools by state laws. Which of course, is one reason why one of our prime concerns is the increasing number of unwanted pregnancies among teenagers.

COURIER: Who belongs to planned parenthood?

SRIGLEY: Northern Michigan Planned Parenthood is made up of one part time professional and some 60 volunteers spread throughout our six chapters. The chapters are located in Petoskey, Alpena, Caddilac, Marquette-Alger, Soo and Traverse City. These are all people who put forth at least a half day a week towards fulfilling our organizations goals. Each chapter is backed by a board of directors, and a medical advisor. In most cases the board is made up of community leaders, representing the clergy, business, medicine plus other interested citizens.

COURIER: As executive director, what do you spend most of your time doing?

SRIGLEY: I can best answer that by telling you what's happened in the past three months and what's planned for the next three months. This past summer we've completed our first volunteer training sessions, moved into a larger office, published our first newsletter and have been able to provide personal help to more people than any other comparable group. We have handled an average of over five contacts a day who have requested help in one area or another. In the fall, we are planning another volunteer training session. Several members of the Petoskey chapter will attend the national convention, October 16-20. I will have to conduct a volunteer training session in all the chapters. Another important part of my job is to improve communications between the chapters and to assist the chapters in improving their relationships with related agencies in the community, such as departments of health, private medical practitioners, social service agencies, mental health clinics and hospitals.

COURIER: How can someone reach you if they want help or want to help you?

SRIGLEY: In the Petoskey-Charlevoix area, there's already such a demand on the organization that we can use all the help we can get. Anyone interested in volunteering should contact the office in person at 316½ Mitchell, above Cook Electric in Petoskey or by calling 347-9692, anytime between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. Volunteers are called upon to assist in the activities mentioned earlier, as well as assisting with mailings, covering the phone and individual contact with those seeking help. They all receive training before they are asked to help.

Counties Working

Trash Is Still A Problem

Over half the counties in Michigan have submitted plans for solid waste disposal plants (dumps) to the Department of Natural Resources.

Although July 1 was the deadline for submitting such plans, the D.N.R. has granted extensions to those counties working on plans and requesting extensions.

Charlevoix County asked for an extension some time ago and is now, through the Planning Department, completing a study of needs and possible sites, and exploring methods of operation.

Antrim County hired Williams & Works, management engineers, as consultants to study its solid waste problem. They are now completing the study, which must be approved by the D.N.R.

Gary Rogers, Antrim County planner, points out that there are many aspects to a study that results in a plan for solid waste disposal.

Site selection is based on site evaluation, including deep soil borings to determine subterranium soils.

There must be a design for the disposal unit showing roads, buildings and fencing. The manner in which the disposal unit is to be operated and managed must also be decided.

Antrim County is trying to work out a cooperative solid waste disposal plan with Kalkaska County. Present plans are for two disposal sites in Antrim County, and if one site is located in the southern part of the county, such a cooperative plan would be possible.

Antrim County hopes to have at least one site in operation by next January 1.

According to Tom Work, regional engineer for the D.N.R. in Lansing, they are now compiling a list of counties which have not submitted plans for solid waste disposal units, or asked for an extension in time to do.

Presenting Brain Drops

Well balanced, sculptured and functional. The Brain Drop weighs 4 ounces and measures only 1" x 2¼" x 4".

Craig Corporation introduces a powerful new percentage calculator for the executive on the go.

Craig Corporation proudly announces the new Brain Drop—a powerful little five-function calculator that does more in less space than many of the larger calculators.

For the businessman, the Brain Drop is Ideal. It's small enough to fit nicely in a pocket or briefcase and big enough to do even the most complex business problems.

BRAIN DROPS KEEP FALLIN' ON MY HEAD

The Brain Drop performs chain calculations exactly as you think. There's a full-floating decimal, overflow indicators, automatic constants on all five functions and an easy-to-read L.E.D. display.

BATTERIES LAST LONGER

If you forget to turn off the Brain Drop, the display shuts off after 15 seconds and a small dash appears. This battery-saving feature will conserve approximately 95% of the calculator's power. And to recall the previous number on the display, you simply press the "D" button. The Brain Drop uses one 9 volt battery readily available at any drugstore or supermarket.

ACTION KEYBOARD

The Brain Drop has unique oval keys sculptured to provide one of the smoothest keyboard feels. On your desk or in your hand, Craig's Brain Drop is easy to operate.

THE NICEST PERCENTAGE SYSTEM

You figure out percentage problems exactly as you think, getting the intermediate answers as you proceed. For example, to subtract 5% from $50, you enter $50, press the minus key and enter 5%. An intermediate answer of $2.50 (5% of $50) is displayed. Then press the equal key. The answer of $47.50 is displayed.

THE ONLY CALCULATOR GIFT YOU CAN BE SURE OF

If you're thinking of giving a calculator to that very special customer, the Brain Drop is perfect. But what if that person already has a pocket calculator? Don't worry. The Brain Drop is so unique and so compact, that any calculator owner will immediately recognize it as a great second unit and a handy business tool.

BRAIN DROPS COME COMPLETE

The Brain Drop comes complete with carrying case, 9 volt battery, detailed instructions and Craig's one year parts and labor warranty. An optional AC adapter at $4.95 may be purchased with your unit.

THE CRAIG WARRANTY AND COMMITMENT

Craig Corporation was the nation's first company to introduce the pocket calculator in 1971 and has since been among the innovators in calculator design and marketing. Craig's commitment, their one year parts and labor warranty and their optional two year extended warranty are good reasons to buy from and trust one of America's calculator leaders.

Get Ready For Winter

Gardeners Are Busy In October

The time between now and the end of October will be a busy one for area gardeners.

Mrs. Edward Lewand, retiring president of the Charlevoix Garden Club, says that although September is a rainy month it is the time to prepare for October plantings, and to plan next year's gardens.

Early fall is the time to divide and transplant iris and garden lilies as well as perennials such as peonies and phlox. Any insect-damaged plants should be dug up and discarded.

Early fall is also the time to plant new bulbs, prune rambler roses, propagate roses from cuttings, dry or press flowers for decorative arrangements, and to cut out raspberry and blackberry canes that have fruited this year.

Now is the time to pinch houseplants that have been set outside so they will be well branched when brought indoors. It is also the time to take cuttings from coleus, geraniums, impatiens, wax begonias and fuschia for growing indoors this year.

Mrs. Lewand suggests that while waiting for the rains to end and the soil to harden a little, gardeners should spend their time outlining new gardens on paper so they will not order more plants and seeds than they need.

Gardeners should also decide what to do with plants that are excess as the result of dividing. "Don't throw them away," Mrs. Lewand warns, "share them with a freind or start a new garden."

Lawn gardeners find this time of year a good time to start new lawns, spot seed bare spots, and remove the dead grass that has accumulated and become matted down.

When planting new bulbs, plants, bushes, trees or grass, soil should be tested to see if it needs added nourishment such as lime or bone meal. "But don't use it if you don't need it," Mrs. Lewand says.

Soil tests are made by the state through the County Extension Agent in Boyne City. He will advise gardeners about how to obtain soil analysis.

COMMON COUNCIL

COUNCIL MINUTES — SEPTEMBER 23, 1974, 8:00 p.m.

The Common Council of the City of Charlevoix met on the above date and time with Mayor Hansen presiding. Present: Aldermen Plumm, Selph, Wallace, and Wood. Absent: Aldermen McRae and Timms.

The minutes of the September 9, 1974 regular meeting were approved as presented in writing and as recorded in the Council Minutes Book.

Mrs. Robert Lieberman read a petition signed by twenty-two residents of the 200 block of Park Avenue; protesting the proposed widening of Park Avenue.

Enter Aldermen Timms and McRae.

A motion was made by Alderwoman Wallace and supported by Alderman Timms that the City replace the curbs on Park Avenue but maintain the width of the street as it is presently. The motion was approved by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas; Aldermen McRae, Plumm, Selph, Timms, Alderwoman Wallace, and Alderman Wood. Nays: None. Absent: None.

The question of the best way to handle the traffic problem on Park Avenue was put into Police Committee for study before next summer.

Because of the condition and use of the City-owned lot on Park Avenue, possible consideration was given to allowing the Historical Society to use the site for their building. Alderwoman Wallace will meet with Mr. Ohle and Mr. Olach this week.

Motion was made by Alderwoman Wallace and supported by Alderman Wood that the City approve of the renewal for license of Joe McPhillips as Airport Manager for the year beginning November 1, 1974 and ending October 31, 1975; also that the City approve the renewal of the Airport License by the Michigan Department of Aeronautics for the year beginning November 1, 1974 and ending October 31, 1975, and that the Mayor be authorized to sign both renewals on behalf of the City of Charlevoix. The motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Aldermen McRae, Plumm, Selph, Timms, Alderwoman Wallace, and Alderman Wood. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Alderwoman Wallace offered the following Resolution and moved its adoption, supported by Alderman Wood.

RESOLUTION

RESOLVED THAT the City renew the Fire Protection contract with the Township of Eveline, which has been signed by them and that the Mayor and Clerk be authorized to sign said contracts on behalf of the City of Charlevoix.

The Resolution was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Aldermen McRae, Plumm, Selph, Timms, Alderwoman Wallace, and Alderman Wood. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Alderman McRae offered the following Resolution and moved its adoption, supported by Alderman Plumm.

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, the CITY OF CHARLEVOIX has adopted and is enforcing ZONING ORDINANCE NO. 203, and

WHEREAS, Section 1601A of the aforesaid prohibits any person, firm or corporation from erecting, constructing, enlarging, altering, repairing, improving, moving, or demolishing any building or structure without first obtaining a separate building permit for each building or structure from the City Administrator, and

WHEREAS, the City Administrator must examine all plans and specifications for the proposed construction when application is made to him for a building permit.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED by the COMMON COUNCIL of the CITY OF CHARLEVOIX, MICH. as follows:

1. That the City Administrator shall review all building permit applications for new construction or substantial improvements to determine whether proposed building sites will be reasonably safe from flooding. If a proposed building site is in a location that has a flood hazard, any proposed new construction or substantial improvement (including prefabricated and mobile homes) must (i) be designed (or modified) and anchored to prevent flotation, collapse, or lateral movement of the structure, (ii) use construction materials and utility equipment that are resistant to flood damage, and (iii) use construction methods and practices that will minimize flood damage; and

2. That the City Administrator shall review subdivision proposals and other proposed new developments to assure that (i) all such proposals are consistent with the need to minimize flood damage, (ii) all public utilities and facilities, such as sewer, gas, electrical, and water systems are located, elevated and constructed to minimize or eliminate flood damage, and (iii) adequate drainage is provided so as to reduce exposure to flood hazards and

3. That the City Administrator shall require new or replacement water supply systems, and / or sanitary sewage systems to be designed to minimize or eliminate infiltration of flood waters in the systems, and discharges from the systems into flood waters, and require on-site waste disposal systems to be located so as to avoid impairment of them or contamination from them during flooding.

The Resolution was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Aldermen McRae, Plumm, Selph, Timms, Alderwoman Wallace, and Alderman Wood. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Mayor Hansen asked each alderman to choose two senior residents from their ward and present their names to the "Public Relations Committee" who will choose one citizen from each ward to study the ways and means for building housing for retired elderly citizens. The names should be chosen by the next regular meeting.

Alderman Wood offered the following Ordinance and moved its adoption, supported by Alderman Timms.

ORDINANCE NO. 345

An Ordinance to designate an enforcing agency to discharge the responsibilities of the City of Charlevoix under the provisions of the State Construction Code Act.

The City of Charlevoix Ordains:

Sec. 1. City of Charlevoix. Pursuant to the provisions of Sec. 9 of Act 230 of the Public Acts of 1972 (Michigan Compiled Laws), Sec. 125.1509), the building official of the City of Charlevoix is hereby designated as the enforcing agency to discharge the responsibilities of the City under Act 230 of the Public Acts of 1972, State of Michigan. The City of Charlevoix hereby assumes responsibility for the administration and enforcement of said Act throughout its corporate limits.

Sec. 2. All Ordinances inconsistent with the provisions of this Ordinance are hereby repealed.

Sec. 3. This ordinance shall be effective after legal publication and in accordance with the charter of the City of Charlevoix.

Adopted: September 23, 1974.

The Ordinance was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Aldermen McRae, Plumm, Selph, Timms, Alderwoman Wallace, and Alderman Wood. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Alderman Plumm offered the following Resolution and moved its adoption, supported by Alderman Wood. RESOLVED that Council, upon the recommendation by the Utility Committee, accept the bid of Graves Dur-a-Lift Sales for one DFSL-36 Bucket Lift Unit (complete with installation hardware) installed for $6260. The Resolution was adopted by Aldermen McRae, Plumm, Selph, Timms, Alderwoman Wallace, and Alderman Wood. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Motion was made by Alderwoman Wallace and supported by Alderman Plumm that Council post-approve of acting Administrator Wexstaff signing, on behalf of the City of Charlevoix, the acceptance of an Advertising Contract with the Charlevoix Courier to use 1000 inches of display advertising per year at $1.05 per inch. The Contract effective September 4, 1974 to September 4, 1975. The motion was approved by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Aldermen McRae, Plumm, Selph, Timms, Alderwoman Wallace, Alderman Wood. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Motion was made by Alderman Timms and supported by Alderman Selph that Council give Acting Administrator Wexstaff post-approval of signing the Agreement between the City of Charlevoix and Northern Design and Construction Engineers dated July 23, 1974, on the revetment wall on Round Lake between Clinton Street and the commercial Dock for a fee of $3200.

Motion was made by Alderwoman Wallace and supported by Alderman Timms to advance to the Recreation Softball League $450. to pay umpires, since the league was not self-supporting this season. The motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Aldermen McRae, Plumm, Selph, Timms, Alderwoman Wallace, and Alderman Wood. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Alderwoman Wallace offered the following Resolution and moved its adoption, supported by Alderman Plumm.

RESOLUTION

RESOLVED that the City Treasurer be given post-approval to cash Certificates of Deposit in the General Debt Service Fund to allow payment of the Michigan National Bank bill of $50,618.95 covering General Obligation Sewer Bonds, due October 1, 1974:

The Resolution was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Aldermen McRae, Plumm, Selph, Timms, Alderwoman Wallace, and Alderman Wood. Nays: None. Absent: None.

A petition dated September 12, 1974 was read from the election inspectors, requesting a raise in their hourly rate from $2.00 to $2.50. Motion was made by Alderman McRae and supported by Alderwoman Wallace to pay the election inspectors $2.50 per hour commencing with the November Election 1974. The motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Aldermen McRae, Plumm, Selph, Timms, Alderwoman Wallace, and Alderman Wood. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Correspondence dated September 23, 1974 from Warren Belding regarding his intent to renew his contract for services on the Municipal Golf Course for 1975 season. The matter was referred to the Recreational Committee for study and recommendation.

Alderwoman Wallace inquired about the use of chlorine in City water and was advised by Acting Administrator Wexstaff that it was recommended by the State Health Department, and that he felt it should be maintained.

Alderman McRae asked that the building fees should be published in the local paper again in its entirety. He also asked that the Clerk set up a roster of items which are put into Committee–and also expressed the need for a tape recorder to be used at Council Meetings.

The Finance Committee having examined bills totaling $85,031.26 find them correct and recommend they be allowed, including Greg Shadko's bill for $1,000. Moved by Alderman Plumm and supported by Alderman Selph that the bills be allowed and orders drawn for their amounts. The motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Aldermen McRae, Plumm, Selph, Timms and Wood. Nays: Alderwoman Wallace. Absent: None.

The meeting adjourned.

Who pays for damage done while it's in storage?

Marine insurance is a bad name for marine insurance. At least, we think it is! If you're like most boat owners, your sailing, cruising or fishing is generally confined to weekends. In fact, most of the time, your boat isn't even in the water — it's in "storage" somewhere! That's why you need more than marine insurance. We'll cover your boat in the water and out, and anywhere in between. You can insure your boat and trailer as easily as an automobile. Want to reduce the cost of your present insurance? Simply put Homeowners and Marine Insurance together in one "package!"

MRS. PAT SHERMAN has been working pre-school youngsters in the Charlevoix area for four years. The program is designed to help pre-schoolers with entering school.

Pre-Schoolers Get Help

Leaving home for the first time and starting school for the first time can be a big step.

To help prepare youngsters to make that move, Pat Sherman is beginning her fourth year with the Charlevoix Elementary pre-school program.

The Michigan State University graduate started the program with Charlevoix High School Principal Vane Smith when the school district decided they wanted to concentrate on pre-school youngsters.

"I didn't know Charlevoix very well," she said about beginning the program.

"We got in the car and started getting people."

Still holding her program in the Charlevoix Elementary building, Mrs. Sherman said she's trying to give children a better chance in school with an early exposure.

"Because we have the funds available we can provide a unique pre-school experience for Charlevoix children," she said.

Mrs. Sherman said the program attempts to help youngsters with their self-image and image about school.

In addition, the program attempts to provide a variety of experiences that will help learning.

One of the major parts of the program is to take children on field trips, where they visit everything from the zoo in Traverse City to local fire stations.

"We even go to a restaurant and eat," she continued.

"We go to the kitchen and see how they cook the food."

In the classroom, she says her students do many arts and crafts projects.

"We have resource people, visit us too," she added.

Mrs. Sherman said that being located in the elementary school building allows them to take advantage of schools facilities such as the gym and library.

Although the program is only three hours each morning, Mrs. Sherman said she thinks it is a benefit for any children involved in it.

However, she does say they can only do so much and can't do the impossible with children who may have learning difficulties.

"We can't work miracles," she said.

She said the program can do a lot of good, especially in providing them a happy school experience.

One of the key program assets is parent involvement, Mrs. Sherman says.

"We try to involve them in giving us some ideas in what they want for their children,." she said.

She said she also tries to involve them in school activity planning.

"It gets them involved in their child's education from the beginning," she said.

"It also gives a child the feeling his parents are interested."

Mrs. Sherman said she thinks her work is rewarding, especially with the age group she is working with.

"I couldn't go on if I thought it wouldn't help," she said.

John Kerner, returned Sunday to Central Michigan University at Mt. Pleasant, where he is a student. He spent the weekend at home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kerner and family.

Records Date Back To 1869

Charlevoix Register of Deeds Can Provide A Lot of Information

Your name doesn't have to be on a computer card to make a lot of information about you and your possessions available to the public.

The Charlevoix County office of Register of Deeds is filled with records that date back to 1869, the year that Charlevoix became a county, to the present time.

A complete history of ownership of every piece of real property is included in the records, along with information about mortgages and other liens against the property. The records also contain data about transfer of ownership, money involved, method of transfer, and dates.

There are records of land contracts, sheriff's foreclosures, redemption of property for taxes, long term leases, and subdivision plats.

The only exception to complete records is property covered in 26 books (libers) of deeds and mortgages which were destroyed in 1887 when the court house, then located in Boyne City, burned down.

Financing statements showing liens against personal property such as automobiles are also part of the records.

In 1966 the Register of Deeds installed a microfilming system, which has reduced the storage space of eight years' records to seven drawers in a filing cabinet.

Liens by the state against businesses for failure to pay sales taxes, income taxes, or unemployment taxes are also recorded. So are liens against individuals for state or federal income tax purposes.

When county records were first kept, they were entirely handwritten. The swirls and shadings of the penmanship are reminders of a long lost art. Later, part of the forms were printed and specific information written in. Then they were partly typewritten, and later photostated.

While microfilm records may be space-saving, they are not as handsome as the large leather bound volumes which line the Register's office.

Persons who do business with the Register have many missions. Since any instrument concerning real estate must be recorded, real estate people, lawyers, banks and other financial institutions are regular callers.

Individuals who want to check on the status of their own property, or property they are considering buying, also go to the Register's office. All information for the County Treasurer and Equalization Department comes through the Register.

Abstracts, which give a complete record of any given piece of land in the county, are also prepared in the office.

Grover Geneit has been Charlevoix County Register of Deeds for 21 years. He has the longest term of service of any county official and seems to enjoy his job thoroughly.

He explains that it is his duty to "receive, record and protect deeds, mortgages and other instruments affecting real estate in official county books.

Geneit says that the work of his office has increased several times since he started. The first few years' receipts were between $7,000 and $9,000 annually; last year they were over $50,000, about $13,000 of which was a profit to the county.

A past president of the Michigan Association of Registers of Deeds, Geneit is proud of his profession and the services is provides. He cites a statement made by a fellow Register, who said,

"Duties of the county Register of Deeds have been referred to as of importance second to none in county government since the basic vehicle of oil economy is dependent upon land."

All instruments which go through the Register's office are handled 19 times for various entries, checking, microfilming and stamps.

The real estate transfer tax stamp, which is affixed to all land sales documents, accounts for a portion of the office income. Geneit says that since January 1, 1968 his office has taken in $89,262 from the tax stamp. It is levied at the rate $1.10 for each $1,000 of evaluation.

Geneit feels that most people don't know enough about real estate and how to protect their holdings. "A house is probably the most expensive thing a person will buy in his lifetime, but he usually doesn't know how to handle it," Geneit says.

He thinks the high schools should teach more about real estate buying and ownership, and the work of the Register of Deeds should be explained at Senior Government Days.

Even County Commissioners could learn something by spending some time in the Register's office, Geneit believes. "I have never had a commissioner spend a full day in my office," he says. They should spend a full day each year in every county office to know how they operate."

Besides his duties as Register of Deeds, Geneit is chairman of the Charlevoix County Plat Board, which gives final approval for all proposed plats at the county level.

Geneit's staff, which has increased from two to four since he took office, consists of his wife Jean, chief deputy; Phyllis Oliver, deputy; and Stephen Pond, deputy abstractor.

GOVER GENEIT looks over one of the many books he keeps track of as Charlevoix County Register of Deeds.

CHARLEVOIX TOWNSHIP NOTICE

At the regular Township Board Meeting to be held on Oct. 14, 7:30 PM, at the Township Hall, the Board will reconsider the zoning decision made June 20 on the west 250 feet of CHX 23, located on Mercer Blvd. Reconsideration is based on a reduction and limitation in density of housing and fencing of property.

Do You Know Your Church?

Attend Your Choice This Week

ASSEMBLY OF GOD CHURCH
203 E. Upright Street, Charlevoix
Don Shorsch, Pastor Jim Sorum, Minister of Youth

Activities begin at 10:00 A.M. every Sunday morning with Sunday School classes for all ages. Adults have a choice of two classes. An attended nursery is provided for those too small to attend class.

Worship Service is at 11:00 a.m. The Sunday evening service is at 7:00 and is an informal time of singing and worship followed by a message from the pastor. The first Sunday of each month, communion is a part of this service.

Midweek activities include a youth oriented service under the direction of the minister of youth. Designed to develop Christian character and commitment, it is conducted in a variety of locations including the church fellowship hall, private homes and parks. Prayer and praise services are held Wednesday evenings. Following a message by the pastor, attention is given to prayer requests.

Once each month the church meets for a time of fellowship. This is to help meet the social needs of the church. Done on an alternating basis, one month is designated for the entire family and the following month as "couples club" night.

WE BELIEVE that the Bible is the Inspired Word of God...in the deity of our Lord Jesus Christ...in His virgin birth, in His vicarious and atoneing death, in His bodily resurrection and in His personal future return to the earth in power and glory to rule and reign a thousand years...in regeneration by the Holy Spirit and this being absolutely essential for personal salvation...in the redemptive work of Christ on the cross to provide healing of the human body in answer to believing prayer...the baptism of the Holy Spirit according to Acts 2:4 is given to believers who ask for it...in the sanctifying power of the Holy Spirit by whose indwelling the Christian is enabled to live a holy life.

Guests are always welcome at the Charlevoix Assembly of God and are encouraged to participate in the worship and fellowship of the church.

Sue Fowler Named Homecoming Queen

Sue Fowler, 17-year-old Charlevoix High School senior, was named Homecoming Queen to reign over the various activities planned by the Student Council, sponsor of the event.

Sue, who has brown eyes and blond hair, was crowned during the half-time festivities of the homecoming game by Peggy Carey, 1973 Homecoming Queen, who came from her studies at the University of Michigan to do the honors.

Members of her court were Gayle Boss, Kim Blanchard, Gay Kimble and Debbie Wood.

The candidates were nominated by the senior class and elected by the student body of the high school.

At the coronation ceremony Friday night, Queen Sue was presented with a bouquet of roses and a game ball by Co-captains Kevin Martin and Dan Green whom she had dubbed at the Pep Rally the night before.

Queen Sue's escort at the coronation ceremony was Joe Kaufman. Chuck Faust, Joe Baillargeon, Chuck Kitely and Darrell Clark, respectively, were the other escorts. Chris Begrow escorted Peggy Carey.

The Charlevoix High School marching band, directed by Gary Stutzman, dedicated its halftime concert to Queen Sue. The band also presented a post-game concert.

After a week of inclement weather that included temperatures in the low 30's plus snow, sleet and rain, the weather cleared for the Pep Rally and the homecoming parade and game on Friday.

A 28-12 victory over St. Ignace for the first time since Charlevoix entered the Michigan-Huron Shores league added the crowning touch to the homecoming festivities.

A dance at the Elementary School following the game was very well attended and featured music for dancing by the Oracles.

The homecoming parade earlier Friday evening featured decorated entries by the high school classes. Led by the marching band, the parade started at the Middle School and ended at Kipke field via State-st., the same route followed by the snake dance the preceding evening.

The Freshmen entry, "The Night We Tracked St. Ignace Down" was the first place winner with the Junior entry, "Stairway to Victory" placing second and "We Never Promised You a Rose Garden", the Seniors entry, placing third. The sophomore entry was "Dead Saints in the Middle of the Field".

Judges were Mrs. Gayle Kaczynski, Charles Bentley and Mrs. Joy Mudge.

Terry Edger of Station WVOY was master of ceremonies at both programs.

On Thursday night a program at Kipke field followed the snake dance and bonfire.

The queen candidates were introduced and Sue Fowler named Homecoming Queen.

Her first official act was the dubbing of Co-captains Martin and Greene.

Claire C. Martin of the Charlevoix board of education addressed the assembled students and guests telling them this was a time when only three things should claim their attention: the lovely queen candidates, the marching band and the Rayder football team.

Cheers led by the entire cheerleading corps and the playing and singing of the Rayder song "Red and White Forever" concluded the well-attended Pep Rally.

Queen Sue is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Fowler. Parents of the other candidates are Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Boss, Mr. and Mrs. Rex Blanchard, Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Kimble and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Wood.

Ordinance No. 1.05

Chapter VII A

"PUD", PLANNED UNIT DEVELOPMENT ZONE

SECTION A 7.1 - DESCRIPTION AND INTENT

A zone district which will be established only upon application by the owner of the property for approval of a preplanned complex. The proposed district shall be a minimum of twenty-five (25) acres and be uniform and contiguous in shape. The creation of odd-shaped areas which contain or surround non-conforming uses is to be avoided.

It is the intent of this zone district to promote greater flexibility in the design and placement of large scale projects in Charlevoix Township. It is further the intent that projects proposed under this zone district will provide plan considerations for sensitive environmental areas, for the project's impact on existing and proposed community facilities, and for proper integration into the existing pattern of development.

SECTION A 7.1 - USE REGULATIONS

a) Residential - Land within the Planned Unit Development Zone District may be used for one or more of the following residential purposes:

1) Single family dwellings.
2) Two family dwellings.
3) Multiple family dwellings.

b) Commercial - Land within the Planned Unit Development Zone District may be used for one or more of the following commercial purposes:

1) Bakery or baked goods store.
2) Banks
3) Barber or beauty shops.
4) Candy store, soda fountain or ice cream store, provided counter service is within the building or structure.
5) Drug store or pharmacy.
6) Dry cleaning, pickup and delivery shops only.
7) Florist.
8) Grocery store.
9) Indoor theaters.
10) Jewelry store.
11) Laundromat.
12) Take out stores.
13) Photographic studio.
14) Professional offices.
15) Restaurant - no drive-in.

c) Special Uses - Special uses that may be authorized in this zoning district include the following uses, provided that an application is submitted for a special use permit and approved in accordance with the procedures, provisions and standards of Article XIX of this Ordinance:

1) Amusement centers, including, but not limited to, bowling alleys, billiard halls and indoor/outdoor miniature golf.
2) Appliance store.
3) Automobile parts and supplies, indoor only.
4) Automobile sales, new and used, provided all service functions are performed within a completely enclosed structure.
5) Catalog order and pickup shop.
6) Clothing, dry-goods or variety store.
7) Contractor equipment, parts and supplies, indoor only.
8) Dry cleaning plant.
9) Furniture store.
10) Hardware store.
11) Motel, hotel or motor courts.
12) Recreation vehicle sales, new and used, provided all service functions are performed within a completely enclosed structure.

d) Public Uses - Land within the "PUD" Zone District may be used, or dedicated for use, for any of the following purposes:

1) Ambulance houses.
2) Fire houses.
3) Municipal Buildings.
4) Nursery Schools.
5) Open space (unused lands).
6) Parks, tot lots, recreation buildings.
7) Police department substations.
8) Schools, provided this shall not include trade schools, business colleges or commercial schools.

SECTION A 7.3 - DEVELOPMENT REGULATIONS

The site development plan (Section A 7.4) for a planned unit development shall include evidence and facts showing that consideration has been made for, and the development shall be executed in accordance with, the following provisions:

a) General

1) Residential and commercial uses shall be separated by a buffer strip of a minimum of one hundred (100) feet in width. This buffer strip shall provide trees and shrubs of a height to provide adequate screening. Paths, walkways, pathways and other pedestrian or bikeways may be used to connect the areas of the development.

2) Residential and public uses shall be separated by a buffer strip of a minimum of fifth (50) feet in width. This buffer strip shall provide trees and shrubs of a height to provide adequate screening. Paths, walkways, roadways and other pedestrian or bikeways may be used to connect the area of the development, and may be included as part of the buffer strip.

3) All buffer strips shall be provided for in a deed restriction and maintenance shall be a continuing obligation of the property owner or a homeowners' association, running with the land.

4) The proposed development shall be constructed in accordance with a unified architectural plan and an architectural review committee may be formed by any homeowners' association.

5) All areas for travel by vehicles, parking and loading and unloading shall be surfaced with bituminous asphalt, concrete or similar materials.

6) Provisions shall be made for safe and efficient ingress and egress to the public streets and highways servicing the "PUD" district without undue congestion or interference with normal traffic flow. The Zoning Board may request a study be done by the Michigan Department of State Highways, the Charlevoix County Road Commission, or a qualified engineer or transportation consultant to determine the project's impact on the public streets and highways serving the proposal.

7) All buildings in the "PUD" Zone District shall be served by a public sanitary sewage disposal system, public water supply system and a public storm water disposal system. All utility lines (power, television, water, gas, sewers) serving the district shall be placed underground.

8) For each twenty-five (25) dwelling units developed, or fraction thereof, two (2) acres of land shall be utilized for recreation pruposes.

9) At least forty (40) percent of the property within a proposed "PUD" Zone District shall be dedicated to open space.

b) Residential

1) For multiple family buildings, the horizontal distance measured in feet between parallel or nearly parallel elements of buildings forming courts or courtyards shall be not less than twice the height of the taller building measured in feet.

2) For single and two family dwelling units, the following minimum distances shall be provided and maintained:

+ Front (distance from buildings to road right-of-way) - twenty-five (25) feet.

+ Side (between buildings, or on corner lots, between buildings and road right-of-way) - twenty-five (25) feet.

+ Rear (between buildings, or on a through lot, between building and road right-of-way) - seventy (70) feet.

3) All dwellings within the "PUD" Zone District shall have a minimum of seven hundred-eighty (780) square feet of usable floor area exclusive of porches, garages, basements and utility areas, if a one (1) story building, or one thousand (1,000) square feet if a building of more than one (1) story. Multiple family buildings may be constructed having an average floor area of eight hundred (800) square feet, provided the minimum number of square feet shall not be less than six hundred-eighty (680) square feet.

4) Not less than two (2) off-street parking spaces shall be required for each dwelling unit.

5) Where a developer proposes to subdivide and sell any part of a "PUD" Zone District for residential purposes, the minimum requirements of Section 4.4 (Single Family Residential, "R-1") shall be followed and adhered to.

6) For all residential uses and related structures, the maximum height allowed shall be thirty-five (35) feet.

7) A maximum density of four (4) units per acre proposed for residential purposes shall be allowed in the "PUD" Zone District.

c) Commercial and Public

1) Commercial and Public uses granted or allowed by right within the "PUD" Zone District shall conform to the following parking and loading space provisions:

+ Three (3) square feet of parking space per square foot of gross floor area (the sum of the gross horizontal area of the floor or floors of a budding or buildings, measured from the exterior walls or from a center line of walls separating two (2) buildings).

+ One (1) loading space up to twenty thousand (20,000) square feet of gross floor area.

+ Two (2) loading spaces for twenty thousand (20,000) to fifty thousand (50,000) square feet of gross floor area.

+ Three (3) loading spaces for fifty thousand (50,000) to one hundred thousand (100,000) square feet of gross floor area.

+ One (1) additional loading space for each additional one hundred thousand (100,000) square feet of gross floor area or fraction thereof.

2) No building in the Commercial and Public portion of the "PUD" Zone District shall exceed thirty-five (35) feet in height.

3) For buildings developed in the Commercial and Public portions of a "PUD" Zone District, the following minimum distances shall be provided and maintained:

+ Front (distance to nearest road right-of-way) - fifty (50) feet.

+ Side (distance to adjacent property lines, road right-of-way, or buffer strip) - fifty (50) feet. Building sharing sidewalls shall be permitted.

+ Rear (distance to adjacent property line, road right-of-way or buffer strip - one hundred (100) feet.

4) All signs located in the Commercial and Public Portions of a "PUD" Zone District shall be approved pursuant to the requirements of Chapter XVII of this Ordinance, by the Zoning Board prior to being erected.

SECTION A 7.4 - SITE DEVELOPMENT PLAN REQUIREMENTS

When submitting an application to the Zoning Board for the "PUD" Zone District, the developer shall be required to provide the following information:

a) Maps illustrating -

1) Location, shape, area, and dimension of the lot, lots or acreage proposed for use.

2) All public and private right-of-ways and easement lines located on, and adjacent to, the subject property which are proposed to be continued, created, relocated, or abandoned.

3) Location of curb cuts, driveways, off-street parking and loading spaces.

4) Proposed exterior building dimensions (horizontal and vertical), number of floors, and proposed uses.

5) Location and dimension of all existing and proposed structures, walkways, bikeways, malls, buffer strips, open spaces, walls, and fences.

6) All proposed landscaping.

7) Existing or proposed water mains and pumping units, sewer (storm and sanitary) lines and lift or pump stations, power, gas, telephone and television lines.

8) Front, side and rear yard distances.

9) Location, size, height of and orientation of all proposed signs.

10) Topography (existing and proposed) of site utilizing five (5) foot contour intervals.

11) Location and orientation of all lighting.

b) Written material stating the following -

1) Total area in proposed project.

2) Percent of area to be used for:

+ Residential purposes (specific breakdowns for single family, two family, multiple family, if proposed).
+ Commercial purposes
+ Public purposes
+ Commercial and public parking and loading spaces, if applicable.
+ Open spaces, including buffer strips.

3) Present zoning of subject property and adjacent property.

4) For residential uses:

+ Minimum floor areas.
+ Total number of units.
+ Mixture of single family, two family and multiple family units.

5) A development schedule indicating -

+ The approximate date when construction will begin.
+ The stages in which the project will be built and the approximate date when construction will begin on each stage.
+ The approximate completion date of each stage.

6) Agreements, deed restrictions and other covenants anticipated to be provided by the developer to a home owners' association, the Township Board or other involved individuals. This may include, but should not be limited to, engineering reports on such items as drainage, water and sewer systems, roads, and potential air and noise pollution.

7) An environmental impact statement (EIS) describing project impact on:

+ Soil type
+ Water table depth
+ Slopes
+ Surface water
+ Drainage and erosion potential
+ Vegetation

Portions of the above requirements may be waived by the Zoning Board if it finds that they do not apply and would serve no useful prupose.

SECTION A 7.5 REVIEW PROCEDURE

a) The powers, duties and responsibilities as outlined in Section 23.6 of this Ordinance shall be followed by the Zoning Board when considering any proposed "PUD" amendment to the Charlevoix Township Zoning Ordinance.

b) If the proposed "PUD" project is to be developed in stages or phases, each phase shall come before the Zoning Board and the Township Board for approval pursuant to the provisions of the Charlevoix Township Zoning Ordinance in effect at the time of the request.

c) Should it be deemed necessary by the Zoning Board that any architect, planner or engineer is needed to consult with the Board regarding a proposed "PUD" amendment, the cost of retaining said individual, firm or corporation shall be paid by the developer of the proposal, and acceptable to the Zoning Board.

d) The Zoning Board may, at its discretion, request reports from the County Drain Commissioner, the County Planning Department, the District Health Department, or the Soil Conservation District regarding any project proposed under this Chapter of the Charlevoix Township Zoning Ordinance.

CHAPTER XIX SPECIAL USES

SECTION 19.1 - PERMIT REQUIRED FOR CERTAIN USES

a) Purpose - Certain land use activities entitled "Special Uses" may be authorized in the various zoning districts but only if adequate safeguards are provided to ensure the protection of the public health, safety and general welfare. The special uses that may be authorized are listed in the "Use Regulation" section of each zoning district.

b) Notwithstanding any other provision of this ordinance, no land in any zone shall be used for any of the following uses without first obtaining a special use permit:

1) Junkyard
2) Tavern
3) Commercial dumping ground or landfill area.
4) Commercial natural resource extraction or relocation including sand and gravel, but specifically excepting cases where land grades are changed in connection with the erection of any structures, roads and other land improvements.

SECTION 19.2 - REQUIREMENTS FOR GRANTING PERMITS

In order to grant a permit under this chapter, it must be determined that the proposed use is in the general public interest, and that it can be conducted at the proposed location without interfering with the enjoyment of substantial property rights by the other owners in the vicinity.

SECTION 19.7 - REAPPLICATION

Applications for special use permits shall be submitted in quadruplicate at least thirty (30) days prior to the meeting of the Zoning Board to the Township Clerk. Applications shall be accompanied by the payment of the fee specified in Section 23.7.

Applications for Commercial dumping grounds or sanitary landfills and for Commercial natural resource extraction shall be accompanied by a topographic map showing existing and proposed contour lines at intervals not greater than five (5) feet.

SECTION 19.4 - PROCEDURE

a) An application submitted to the Township Clerk shall be examined for all necessary information, and if this be so, it shall be submitted to the Zoning Board.

b) The Township Board shall review the proposed development as presented in the application and in terms of the specifications established in this Ordinance.

c) After adequate review and study of any application, the Township Zoning Board shall hold a public hearing or hearings when the following requirements are met: A notice of the purpose, time, and place of such hearing shall appear in at least one (1) newspaper of general circulation within the Township no less than fifteen (15) days prior to the date of said hearing.

d) The Township Zoning Board, after public hearing procedures, may recommend a permit subject to the final approval of the Charlevoix Township Board. A copy of the decisions of both, with any conditions or reasons for rejection, if it be so, shall be sent promptly to the applicant.

SECTION 19.5 - BASIS OF DETERMINATION

The Township Zoning Board shall review the proposed special use in terms of the standards stated within this Ordinance and shall find adequate evidence that such use in the proposed location:

a) Will be designed, constructed, operated and maintained so as to be harmonious with the existing or intended character of the general vicinity and that such a use will not change the essential character of the area in which it is proposed to be located.

b) Will not be hazardous or disturbing to existing of future nearby uses.

c) Will be equal to or an improvement in relation to property in the immediate vicinity and to the Township as a whole.

d) Will be served adequately by essential public services and facilities or that persons responsible for the establishment of the proposed use will provide adequately any such service or facility.

e) Will not create excessive additional public costs and will not be detrimental to the economic welfare of the Township.

f) Will be consistent with the intent and purposes of this Ordinance.

SECTION 19.6 - CONDITIONS AND SAFEGUARDS

The Township Zoning Board may impose such additional conditions and safeguards deemed necessary for the general welfare, for the protection of individual property rights on nearby parcels, and for insuring that the purposes of this Ordinance and the general spirit and purpose of the district in which the special use is proposed will be observed.

SECTION 19.7 - REAPPLICATION

No application for a special use permit which has been denied wholly or in part shall be resubmitted until the expiration of one (1) year or more from the date of such denial, except on grounds of newly discovered evidence or proof of changed conditions found to be sufficient to justify reconsideration by the Township Zoning Board.

SECTION 19.8 - JURISDICTION OF ZONING BOARD OF APPEALS

The Zoning Board of Appeals shall have no jurisdiction over decisions of the Township Zoning Board or Charlevoix Township Board in regard to matters concerning the granting of special use permits.

SECTION 19.9 - CANCELLATION OF SPECIAL USE PERMIT

The Township shall have the power to revoke or cancel any special use permit for any failure or neglect to comply with any provisions of this Ordinance, or in case any false statement or misrepresentation is made in any application, plan or sketch submitted or filed pertaining to a special use permit, or for failure to carry out any provisions of such application, plan or sketch or conditions or provisions on which such special use permit was granted.

SECTION 19.10 - TIME LIMITATION ON PERMIT

Special use permits may be issued for specific time periods as determined by the Township Zoning Board. No permit shall be issued for a period of more than five years and shall not be renewed unless the findings required by Section 19.2 shall be made as upon an original application.

+ + + + + +

SECTION 23.39 - A OPEN SPACE

Land not used for any of the following: parking and loading spaces, road right-of-ways, building coverage, sewage disposal areas, water-well houses, related uses.

+ + + + + +

SECTION 23.7 - FILING FEES

Add wording in parentheses -

b) For each petition for an amendment to this Ordinance, (and for each application for a special use permit), a fee...

The required public hearings have been held, the above changes in the "Charlevoix Township Zoning Ordinance as Amended" were duly adopted by the Charlevoix Township Board at a Special Meeting held at the Township Hall Sept. 25, 1974.

Karen McCafferty Marries James C. Wojan

ST. JAMES, Beaver Island - - Karen L. McCafferty and James L. Wojan exchanged their wedding vows recently at the Nuptial Mass celebrated by the Rev. Fr. Herbert Graff, O.F.M.C., at Holy Cross Church.

Arrangements of daisy mums and white gladioli graced the altar for the double ring service performed in the presence of more than 350 guests. Mrs. Rodney Colby of Grand Rapids was the organist and Mrs. Dennis Warner of Charlevoix, soloist.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. John B. McCafferty and Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Wojan.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father at the wedding solemnized at 5 p.m. Sept. 28. She wore an organza gown trimmed with venise lace and fashioned with a raised waist, sheer yoke, ring collar, bishop sleeves and a full skirt that terminated in a chapel length train. The gown was adorned with pearled venise lace appliques and featured a back bow at the waist. Venise lace edged her full length mantilla. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses and baby's breath scattered with blue carnations.

Mrs. John Martin attended her sister as matron of honor. Another sister, Mrs. Lawrence Kubic of Chicago, Mrs. Gregory Potter of Ypsilanti, sister of the bridegroom, Mrs. Ronald Murphy of Chicago, Pamela McDonough of Charlevoix and Lois Connaghan were bridesmaids. They wore idential light blue floor length gowns styled with raised waists, long sleeves and ruffled bodices. They carried baskets of white daisy mums accented with blue. Dana Gillespie, niece of the bridegroom, as flower girl, also wore a light blue gown. Daniel McCafferty, brother of the bride, was ringbearer.

Mrs. McCafferty chose a periwinkle blue floor length gown for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Wojan, mother of the bridegroom, wore a nile green floor length gown. Their corsages were of white carnations.

A reception with dancing, hosted by the couple's parents, followed at the parish hall.

After a wedding trip to northern Michigan and Canada, the couple will be at home at St. James.

Wedding guests were present from several Michigan cities, Illinois and Indiana.

Mr. and Mrs. Wojan, parents of the bridegroom, hosted a rehearsal dinner Friday evening at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John Gillespie.

Mr. ond Mrs. James Wojao

It's Time to Get Your Immunization

October has been designated as Immunization Action Month by Governor Milliken and Dr. Robert Libke, Medical Director of District Health Department No. 3 urges all parents in the district to use this month as a time to review the immunization records of their children.

Dr. Libke said he is concerned that a relatively large number of children in the counties served by the district have but completed their immunizations which cannot be completely effective unless the entire series including boosters are given.

Within the state approximately 40 percent of the children lack the recommended protection levels, he said.

Due to the increased contacts of pre-schoolers in nursery and head-start programs, mothers are urged not to delay the completion of the immunization program until the child is ready to start school.

Communicable diseases which are preventable through proper immunizations include: Diphtheria, Whooping Cough, Tetanus, Measles, Rubella, and Polio. It is significant to note that these are very serious diseases and that they may be fatal or have crippling or disabling side effects.

The immunization schedule recommended by Dr. Libke is as follows:

RECOMMENDED IMMUNIZATION SCHEDULE
DISTRICT HEALTH DEPARTMENT NO. 3

3 months of age	1st D.P.T. (Diptheria, Whooping Cough & Tetanus) 1st Trivalent Oral Polio Vaccine (TOPV)
5 months of age	2nd D.P.T. 2nd Trivalent Oral Polio Vaccine (TOPV)
7 months of age	3rd D.P.T. 3rd Trivalent Oral Polio Vaccine (TOPV)
12 months of age	Measles Vaccine or combined Measles / Rubella Vaccine Rubella Vaccine Tuberculin Test
15-18 months of age	Primary Smallpox Vacination (not routine, given only at parents request)
18 months of age	4th D.P.T. 4th Trivalent Oral Polio Vaccine (TOPV)

Prior to entering school: Booster dose of D.P.T., Trivalent Oral Polio Vaccine Tuberculin Test.

Diphtheria and Tetanus booster every 7-10 years, 9th grade in school.

Dr. Libke urges parents to review their children's immunization records with their private physician or with the Public Health Nurse who is located in the Health Department's County Office. The Health Department provides immunizations without charge at monthly clinics which have the following schedule:

CLINIC SCHEDULE

Bellaire - Courthouse, 1st Thursday, 9:30 / 11:00 a.m.

Beat Them 28-12

Charlevoix Rayders Defeat St. Ignace Saints

For the first time since Charlevoix became a member of the Michigan Huron Shores conference, the Rayders defeated St. Ignace 28-12.

On paper, St. Ignace outplayed the Rayders in all phases of the game except rushing (see stat. compilation) but the Rayder speed and ground game gave them the victory.

Charlevoix took the kickoff and returned the ball to the 38 yard line. On the first play from scrimmage, Quarterback Bob Alger pitched out to Kevin Martin who took the ball on the run and romped 62 yards down the left sideline to put Charlevoix on the board with 32 seconds gone in the game. The attempted kick failed and the Rayders were ahead 6-0.

St. Ignace took the air in an effort to penetrate the Rayder defense but failed to gain necessary yardage and punted. The Rayders worked the ball up the field to the 31 where Mike Streeter skirted the line to score with 3:06 remaining. This time Alger picked up two points when he ran the conversion over.

The Saints took the kickoff and were working the ball up the field when the Rayder defense jolted the ball lose from the carrier. Phil Christ grabbed the loose ball and romped 34 yards to rack up the Rayders' third TD in the period with 2:33 remaining in the period. Alger booted the conversion for a 21 point lead for the Rayders.

Again the Saints took to the air to move the ball to 30 yard line where Louie Bentgen pitched a line one to Jim Bishop who went in to score late in the second period after the Rayder defense had held earlier in the period when St. Ignace had penetrated to the nine yard line where Charlevoix took over on downs.

Shortly before the half ended Streeter received a hip bruise which benched him for the remainder of the game.

With Charlevoix ahead 21-6 when the teams returned to the field for the second half, both defensive squads dug in to keep the game between the 30 yard markers.

As the final period got underway, St. Igance battled to Charlevoix's seven yard line but a major penalty set the ball back to the 17 yard line where the Rayders took over on downs. Alger moved the ball to the 30 where the Rayders lost it on a fumble. Hit by the Rayder defensive line and a clipping penalty, again the Saints lost the ball on downs.

This time, with Alger, Martin, Frank Muma and Doug Smith carrying the ball, the Rayders took the ball to the Saints' 29 yard line.

Alger carried to the 20, Martin picked up a first down on the eight and Muma went in the three were Alger scored on a quarterback keep with 3:02 on the clock and then added the conversion on a kick.

With a 28-6 lead, Coach Don Carey was substituting freely.

This gave the Saints an opportunity to make their passing game click. They moved the ball to the Charlevoix seven where Jim Ahlrich attempted after time ran out but was not sun out but was not successful.

This week Charlevoix will play at Boyne City.

Along The Sidelines

By LARRY LINEBACKER

The Rayder eleven did it again! A fine first time victory over always rough and tough St. Ignace.

We don't know if the fact that the Charlevoix squad has never beaten the Saints prior to Friday's game is common knowledge, but it has to make the 28-12 Homecoming victory that much sweeter for Coach Carey and the team.

And how about that Phil Christ! Not only does he consistently make outstanding defensive plays, but, in the Rayder-Saint contest, he picked up a fumble and rambled 32 yards for the third Charlevoix touchdown.

Christ's agility for a 215 pounder, coupled with the quick reflexes to grab a fumble and go for six, speaks highly for the young man.

A hefty pat on the back to the defensive line and the linebackers. Four times the Saints tried to go marching in, and four times the defense held. Good pursuit by Jim Marsh, Kirk Lieberman, Tim Sladek, Dan Green, Dave Martincheck, Steve Michael, and Christ provided continued harassment to the St. Ignace squad.

We noted that the visitors recognized the speed of the Charlevoix Defensive Squad, as they used a game plan based on delays, counters and slants. For the uninformed, these plays are designed to make use of the defense's quick reflexes, and catch them in the wrong position as they respond to a fake or trap. The Saint's plays worked on few occasions.

Much to the dismay of the fine crowd on hand, Mike Streeter was injured in the first half of the Homecoming contest. Let's hope Mike recovers in time for this week's contest.

Finally, a note of congratulations to defensive backfieldman Ed Russell. His name was left out of last week's column, and we think this made him a little mad as his play against St. Ignace should not go unnoticed. He seemed to be the right place at the right time throughout the evening.

This Friday the Rayders take on the Boyne City Ramblers in Boyne City. Continued support by the Charlevoix fans will hopefully give the squad a boost against the inter-county rival.

Cross Country Ends Season

The Charlevoix Cross Country team will close out its scheduled meets Tuesday when the Rayders travel to Boyne City to take on the Ramblers.

The following Tuesday, the team will participate in the conference meet at Rogers City.

Last week the Rayder harriers returned with one of a possible two wins in the double dual meet at Petoskey with the Northmen and St. Ignace.

In this meet Charlevoix won over St. Ignace 21-35 while losing to Petoskey 15-48. Petoskey also defeated the Saints by the same score, 15-46.

Charlevoix's best time in the entire meet was set by Wally Drenth who covered the course in 17:28 to place fifth among all contestants from the three schools. The top time in the meet was 16:22.

Jim Marshall placed 10th; Ken Paul, 11th; Chris Begrow, 13th and Joe Kaufman, 14th.

In the meet with St. Ignace Drenth was first with a time of 17:28 followed by Marshall in third, Paul in fourth; Begrow in sixth and Kaufman in seventh place.

Defeat Cheboygan

Girls Take Two Games

The Charlevoix JV football team rolled up a 32-0 victory over the young St. Ignace Saints Thursday night.

Paced by Mike Way who scored three times in the third period after a scoreless first half, the Rayders came through with a total of five TD's for the game.

The first half was a defensive battle. Early in the second half, however, Way broke away and romped 60 yards to put the Rayders on the scoreboard.

Midway in the period Way acored a second time, this one from 15 yards out.

A 45 yard run by Dave Tollas, who was brought down on the two-yard line, set up the third scoring play of the period. Way again crossed into paydirt on the first play from scrimmage.

None of the conversion attempts were successful and the score stood at 18-0 as the game went into the final period.

Lee Begrow ran around end to score on a 30 yard run midway in the period. Ralph Muma passed to Tollas for the two-point conversion.

With time running out and the young Saints battling to prevent a shutout, Bud Klooster intercepted a St. Ignace pass and went 28 yards to score.

Gary Probert tallied a total of 15 tackles for the game. Cited for their defensive play were Ed Mann, Barry Potter, Tom Jones and Ed Bourke.

Authority

two governments. This, too will take time, he says, because "there is not much agreement on the kind of community we want."

Alderwoman Jeanne Wallace said she will have to study the proposition of a joint authority before making any definite statement. However, she said that any cooperative working agreement between the City and Township should be encouraged. She also believes that the City and Township should be combined and thinks that perhaps a joint sewer and water authority would be a first step.

Since the Township is now almost totally without sewage collection facilities, its need for a grant to build one is obvious.

If and when it receives the grant, it must be decided what areas would be served. On the face of it, it would seem that those critical areas pointed out by the Health Department would have top priority.

Several proposed land developments within the Township have been turned down by the Health Department because the land is not suitable for septic tank systems. A central sewage collection facility would make most of this land suitable for building.

The impact on the community could be great if all of these areas were to be built up. As one observer said, "It would pass the problem of pollution on from the Health Department to local planners who would have to combat the other kinds of pollution that dense population creates."

One proposed development that could benefit from a township sewage facility is the property owned by Dr. Walter Hoffman at the Martin Road-Highway 31 intersection.

manner, leaving plenty of open space surrounding them for recreation and farmland. People will have to live closer together because they will be dependent upon public transportation.

Whether or not the man who served under Presidents Kennedy and Johnson is correct in his predictions will be revealed in the months to come. In the meantime, it would be well for local leaders to look into the possible abandonment of the C. & O. rail lines through Charlevoix, as called for by the Department of State Highways and Transportation in preliminary planning for rail corridors in Northern Michigan.

counter."

Mrs. Klooster said she wasn't sure if there was any one thing that stands out over others, other than they have both met a lot of people.

"I love people," she said. "There's just something about them."

Mrs. Klooster said that if anyone ever planned going into business for themselves they should make sure they run it themselves.

"You just have to be here to run it," she said.

"You just can't run off and leave things."

Recently, more than 200 people showed up at the Klooster's daughter's home for open house to say good-bye.

"It just isn't going to be easy to say it ain't any more" she said.

"I don't know any nicer people we could turn it over to.

"I hope the public gives them the same co-operation they gave us."

Taking over the business will be Ron and Katie Sowers of Lansing.

Democrats Hold Fund Raiser

By Fran Martin

"Send a message to President Ford and tell him what inflation is doing to this nation. Send that message by voting for Democratic candidates in the Nov. 5 election".

This message delivered by Mildred Jeffrey, Democratic candidate for Wayne State University Board of Governors, set the tone for the Charlevoix County Democratic dinner held Saturday at The Shed.

More than 100 Democrats gathered for the event at which Mrs. Jeffrey, Francis Broulette, candidate for the 11th Congressional District seat, Mrs. Paul Brown, representing her husband who is a candidate for Lieutenant Governor and Prentiss Brown III, candidate for the 37th Senatorial District seat, were honored guests.

Martin Paul, chairman of the county Democratic committee, was master of ceremonies.

Mrs. Jeffrey continued by saying that it was important to have an effective agency to protect the consumer...someone who believes in serving the people.

Following in the same tone, Mrs. Paul Brown said that this election had to be a team effort with everyone feeling enthusiasm about the election. She went on to say that the Mackinac Bridge was once a dream of an individual but it was a team effort that included the people of that state of Michigan that made the dream come true.

"This team has a chance...but it must be everyone working together to make another dream come true...A Democratic success in November," she concluded.

Prentiss Brown spoke only briefly but he said the 37th District needs someone who is truly interested in the people in the district and their problems.

Broulette, seeking election to the Congressional seat now held by Philip A. Ruppe, said the 11th District, the largest single district in size east of the Mississippi, needs a representative who can make decisions.

Charlevoix School Budget Only Up 1.28 Per Cent

By FRAN MARTIN

Charlevoix School District residents will see only a 1.28 percent budget hike for 1974-75 when they attend a special budget hearing scheduled for Oct. 28.

In making the budget figures available, Supt. James A. McKimmy said the school district is, like every resident of the district, suffering from the problem of inflation.

He went on to explain that the district had anticipated a full return from the Charlevoix county Allocation board; i.e., a full 9.5 mills which the district had received in 1973, and had committed the proposed budget to this amount. However, the district received 9.0 mills and later, after an appeal, an additional .20 mill for a total of 9.2 mills.

This plus the fact that the school district's valuation rose to a point where the district will receive no State Aid has caused a severe hardship, McKimmy said.

"The Allocation Board, in allocating the available millage, asked that all units hold the line on spending," McKimmy said. "The Charlevoix school district is doing this out of necessity."

He also said teaching supplies and capital outlay items are the hardest hit by the effort.

The proposed 1974-75 budget is set at $1,741,109 or approximately 1.28 percent above the audited budget for the 1973-74 school year, which was $1,700,249.

Revenue to balance the budget will primarily come from property taxes ($1,491,151) as compared to $1,360,560 during the past year; $22,000 from deposits and investments, approximately the same as last year plus a balance of $56,199 from the 1973-74 budget.

Missing from the revenue is $96,000 in State Aid received last year.

Major expenditure cuts come in transportation which has been trimmed from $115,723 last year to an estimated $85,723; plant maintenance to $26,200 from $89,573; capital outlay to $8,587 from $63,438 and outgoing transfers to $3,000 from $9,338.

A comparison of figures for the various departments cannot be determined because of the combination of classes this year over last year.

For instance, the elementary school last year included the kindergarten through the fourth grade, but this year has been enlarged to include the fifth grade.

Last year the fifth and sixth grades were combined under expenditures, but this year the sixth grade expenditures are listed separately.

The overall expenditures for the K-5 this year will include $16,666 ($15,965) principal's salary; and $311,970 ($246,494 in '73-'74) for regular teachers salaries.

Expenses for the sixth grade is an estimated $92,765 for the single grade as compared to $169,194 for two grades, the fifth and

Duke Asks Board About Middle School Safety

Concerned about safety, Tom Duke of Charlevoix asked the Charlevoix School Board to dispell any rumors about the safety conditions at the Charlevoix Middle School.

The Charlevoix resident made his request following a brief conversation Monday night about widespread rumors that the middle school was unsafe for children.

"During the last millage election there were some things said that bothered me," Duke told the board.

He said one of those things was a rumor that Charlevoix needed a new middle school because the present one was unsafe.

When asked if this was true, Supt. James McKimmy said were some factors that had to be considered first before the school could be termed unsafe, if it was at all.

First, McKimmy said there has not been a recent report of the building condition by the State Fire Marshal and at this point it would look as though only the art room and boy's lockerroom would be unsafe because of the lack of required exits.

Secondly, the superintendent said if the building was required to meet standards of a newly constructed building, the old middle school wouldn't meet those criteria.

And finally, he said the middle school will be required to meet Michigan Occupational Safety and Health standards after Jan. 1. However, the state has not come up with regulations for schools.

School Board President Max Novak also denied rumors that the building was unsafe.

But, Duke said time and time again he had heard the building was unsafe and asked the school board request the State Fire Marshal to make an inspection immediately.

If at that time the building or portions of the building are declared unsafe, Duke said it would be the responsibility of the board to make the necessary changes.

In other related items, Novak said the board was still examining the district's alternatives for the middle school following the recent defeat of a bond issue to build a new one.

Among immediate considerations is a telephone survey to determine public opinion about what they want to see done.

Novak said they have not yet considered split-day sessions as was suggested by the Citizen's Study Committee.

In other business, the board:

–Heard an announcement from High School Principal Vane Smith that supervisors would be placed in the bathrooms to enforce no smoking regulations. Students caught smoking may be suspended anywheres from three to 10 days.

Bonnie And Clyde Shoot'em Up

Two escapees from state penal institutions and a run-away girl are being held at the Charlevoix County jail awaiting action by probation officers and probate court authorities.

All three were apprehended following a police chase Thursday night and ended Friday when the last of the trio was picked up in Charlevoix county.

Being held are Gary Raymond Smith, 20, of Boyne City, an escapee from Cassidy Lake Training School where he was serving a 3½ to 10 year sentence for breaking and entering. He has been sought in the area since his escape in August; a 16-year old juvenile boy who is being treated at the Charlevoix Area Hospital for a wound in the upper arm and a fractured pelvis, both received during the police chase, and a 16-year-old Boyne Falls girl, listed as a runaway.

The chase began Thursday when the trio escaped in a car that had been reported as stolen in Antrim county and on which the Antrim county Sheriff's department had a stake-out.

Elwin Wilcox, Antrim county deputy, and Rod Merkle, Region 10 detective, were chasing the trio in the latter's car when it went out of control and struck a tree in Antrim county, sending both men to the Charlevoix Area Hospital. Wilcox was released Friday and Merkle Saturday.

Meanwhile, Charlevoix county authorities were notified that the trio was entering their county.

The car, a Renault, was seen to slow down near the Rogers Bridge intersection to allow two people to leave the car.

Authorities continued the chase, hitting the driver who apparently lost control when struck by a bullet.

The car left the road and turned over.

The 16-year-old juvenile boy who was driving the vehicle, was taken by East Jordan ambulance to the Charlevoix area hospital where he is still being held under police guard. He had escaped from Boys Vocational School last March.

Protests Penn-Central Move

Group Fights Rail Abandonment

A new railroad action group, calling itself the Association for Railroad Retention, has been formed in Northern Michigan to block proposed abandonment of railroads in the state.

The association, which met last Thursday in Cadillac, vowed they would promote retention of railroad service in Northern Michigan.

Composed primarily of rail users and area businessmen, the group has formed a steering committee to formulate detailed proposals for the 50-member group to initiate.

At the same time, the group said it would also fight Penn Central Railroad's proposal to abandon its rail service from Cedar Springs to Mackinaw City.

Formation of the organization comes in the wake of a threat by the U.S. Department of Transportation to cut off almost all of Michigan's rail service because it doesn't meet minimum standards set-up in a federal reorganization rail plan.

The controversial plan has been critized by many for not being based on sufficient information and because it threatens the economic survival of Northern Michigan.

"I think everyone is aware that the organization report put out by the Transportation Department was full of errors," Robert Peacock of Cadillac Malleable Iron Co. told some 50 business and government officials Thursday.

He said there are indications that the proposed abandonment may be delayed and that the best thing now was for Northern Michigan to have an organized front.

"Unfortunately people working in several different directions doesn't work," he said.

Just A Reminder

If you plan on going to Charlevoix's game Friday night against Petoskey at Kipke Field, school officials ask you to arrive earlier to help avoid a last minute crowd at the gate.

They also ask that you use different gates when entering the field to avoid confusion.

One of the largest crowds in school history is expected to show up for the title competition that begins at 8 p.m. in Charlevoix.

Debaters Qualify

A Charlevoix High School debate team has qualified for entry in the Championship tournament of a standard tourney to be held at Ann Arbor Huron High School Oct. 19.

The team of Kim Blanchard and Gayle Boss, one of two teams entered in a tournament at Ann Arbor Pioneer Saturday, qualified when finishing eighth in the top 16 teams among the 45 entered.

The second team composed of Darrell Clark and Linda Smith will enter the JV division on Oct. 19 if the Board of Education grants permission to the group to make the trip.

The Charlevoix team was the only Class C group to qualify for the Championship tournament. Others included 13 Class A schools and two Class B schools.

Mrs. Connie Ford is the debate coach.

The question being debated this year is: Resolved: that the method of selecting candidates for President and Vice President be changed.

District Court

The following cases were heard in Charlevoix District Court last week by Judge Arthur Reibel

Julius G. Dennis, 67, Ellsworth, (1) driving while under the influence of alcohol, (2) operating vehicle with suspended license. Fine and costs $250, three weekends in jail.

Walter H. Black, 25, East Jordan, simple larceny. Plead guilty; case continued for sentencing.

Carl A. Swanson, 22, Charlevoix, driving while under the influence of alcohol. Plead not guilty, requested jury trial.

Walter J. Maule, 58, Boyne City, (1) no operator's license, (2) driving left of center, (3) driving while under the influence of alcohol. Plead guilty, case continued for sentencing.

Alvin John, 35, Charlevoix, contributing to delinquency of minor, reduced from sodomy. Plead guilty, sentencing later.

John W. Case, 46, Charlevoix, contributing to delinquency of minor, reduced from sodomy. Plead guilty, sentencing later.

Gracie Owen, 46, Boyne City, driving while under the influence of alcohol. $100 fine and costs.

Mamie F. Bolser, 43, East Jordan, driving while under the influence of alcohol. $100 fine and costs.

Robert H. Brilley, 26, East Jordan, breaking and entering. Plead not guilty, case continued.

Edgar Stephan, Boyne City, being drunk and disorderly. Plead guilty, case continued for sentencing.

Gayle Brannon, 28, Boyne City, possessing fire arm while intoxicated, reduced from carrying concealed weapon. Plead guilty, case continued for sentencing.

Vernon E. Shepard, 44, Boyne City, being drunk and disorderly. Plead guilty, case continued for sentencing.

Kenneth Chanda, East Jordan, selling marijuana. Demanded examination, case continued.

NOTE: Due to an error in court records, the Courier recently reported that Carroll Lee Bartholomew was found guilty of driving while under the influence of alcohol. In fact, Mr. Bartholomew was found guilty by a jury of the lesser charge of impaired driving.

Magistrate's Court

The following cases were heard in Charlevoix last week by Magistrate John Connolly:

John D. Wood, 25, Traverse City, speeding. Fined $15.

Barbara J. Dieter, 47, Muskegon, no proof of insurance. Case dismissed upon proof.

Emma M. Campbell, 68, Petoskey, disregarding posted speed limit. Fined $25.

David M. Corbett, 30, Williamsburg, speeding. Fined $25.

Patricia I. Lass, 42, Charlevoix, speeding. Fined $15.

Democrats Hold Brown Meeting

Charlevoix County Democrats will meet on Oct. 22 when all friends are invited to join Prentiss Brown, Jr., Democratic candidate for the 37th district State Senate seat.

The candidate is covering his entire district by bicycle and on foot in an effort to meet and talk with as many voters as possible.

He will be pedaling from Petoskey to Charlevoix, arriving at the city limits at about 9:00 A.M. Tuesday the 22nd.

Friends and supporters are invited to join him at the city limits and ride into town with him, or meet him at Leutheuser's Restaurant for a Dutch treat breakfast and a campaign rally in support of the Michigan Democratic ticket.

The Executive committee of the county Democratic party met Oct. 8 for a pre-election planning session. The highly successful Democratic dinner held earlier this month provided a fund to assist Democratic candidates.

Countributions will be sent from the county to the Levin-Brown campaign, for Governor and Lt. Governor; to Francis Brouillette, 11th District candidate for Congress and to Prentiss Brown, Jr. Party funds will also be used to assist county Commissioner candidates; Martin Paul, Robert Wasoski, John Vrondran and Oscar Ward, and Dorothea Powalka who is running for Marion Township Clerk.

Democratic Headquarters will upen in Charlevoix at 101½ Mason St. on Oct. 21.

It will be open from 10:00 A.M. every day except Sundays until election day, with volunteers in attendance to answer questions and give out campaign materials.

JUST ABOUT any time of the day you can find someone fishing off the Pine River Channel in Charlevoix.

OTHERS JUST sit and wait their turns, while some find themselves having to go home with that fish that got away story.

FISH HAVEN'T been biting too well, but even so, several fishermen have been able to make the big catch.

Walk Along The Pier And Find Out

Charlevoix Fishermen Are Great

By TOM DAMMANN

I have trolled for sailfish in the Indian Ocean off the coast of East Africa, cast for rainbow in Montana's Madison River, as well as in the angry rapids of the St. Mary's at the Soo, but in many ways, fishing off the Charlevoix pier beats them all.

It's the fisherpeople (you can no longer speak of fishermen, because many women have joined the sport) that make the experience so outstanding–habitues like Jim Annis, Bob Livingston, Les Petersen, Harley Waner, Claire Martin, the late Fred Looze, and others whose pictures you may recognize.

They always welcome a newcomer, make room for him or her in the manner of the easy going comraderie of the corner saloon.

"They're so nice," says Mrs. Philip Moore, of Winnetka, Illinois, who after spending most of the summers of her life here, decided to try it in fall. Almost immediately she tried her luck on the pier.

"People greeted me warmly," she said. "They watched me for a while and then one man advised me to change my lure, which I did. Then I caught one, (an eight pound lake trout). Everybody reeled in their lines and watched and advised me. Then finally one nice man netted it for me.

"It wasn't just because I am a woman, either," Mrs. Moore adds. "They were doing that for each other. And they talk and laugh all the time."

Myrl Keller, Fish Biologist in charge of the Department of Natural Resources Great Lakes Fisheries station here, keeps a close eye on the pier activity.

"I love to see people catching fish out there, because most of them don't have boats and the pier's the only place they can fish.

"So when I see a fish caught, it makes me warm and proud of our program."

There are as many theories about how to catch lake trout off the pier as there are fisherpeople, but there is general agreement that the best time to fish is when the current is charging out into Lake Michigan against a northwest wind that is blowing so hard you can barely cast.

Then is when the lake trout grab almost any kind of a lure.

There have been an unusual number of days like that this fall, but as yet not too many fish. It's a little too soon, the water is not cold enough, the fish psychologists assert.

"But they'll be in soon, any day now," Keller promises.

Sunday certainly wasn't right, far too pleasant and warm and only one lake trout was landed that afternoon, by Bob Livingston, and that one had a deformed tale which became the chief topic of conversation along the pier.

"Who cares?" said Bob. "It gave me a good fight and it will be good eating."

The day before, Les Petersen hooked a beautiful lake trout, which Jim Annis netted for him after a long and cautious battle.

Les was fishing for Menominee, a delicious breed of Whitefish, with a very light line and a small, hair-like hook, when the trout grabbed at the two or three fish eggs on it.

But despite these handicaps, not to mention the cacaphony of free advice from bystanders, Les got the fish in so Jim could net it.

The big trout had almost straightened out the hook.

If you walk to the end of the pierhead, where the waves break, you'll be reminded of the comraderie of the place by a small tribute some anonymous painter has lettered on the surface in the Southwest corner:

"In Memory of Fred Looze" it reads.

That was the favorite casting spot of the retired Coastguardsman who manufactured some of the finest lures used there.

Charlevoix Residents Consider Changing to Home Rule

Should Charlevoix consider changing the form of government they have had since 1905?

Some Charlevoix residents think so and met last Thursday to discuss the possibilities.

Charlevoix's Charter Study Committee, who held the special meeting, also recommended the city begin working on a home-rule charter.

On behalf of the committee, Mrs. Irma Scheid told some 30 residents that she along with Roy Bennett and John Schroeder visited several cities in addition to doing extensive research fourth class and home rule cities.

She said Charlevoix was chartered in 1905 under the Fourth Class City Act of 1895.

"In 1972, there were 263 cities in Michigan and only 21 had not exercised home rule–one of the 21 is Charlevoix," she said.

"There are 81 cities of our size, 77 have home rule, three are still Fourth Class, one of the three is Charlevoix and the remaining one is a special charter."

She said that presently 159 cities out of 263 have a council-manager form of government.

Some of the advantages of a home-rule include:

–A charter drafted to meet city needs, tailored to local desires.

–A charter under home rule recites duties of all officers.

–A right to form its own city government--therefore, a right of the people to set up and change their own government structure.

–To form their own charter and determine how best to serve, and adopt non-partisan, at large elections, if wished and establish its own accounting and auditing controls.

–An opportunity of local people together to strive to find an acceptable document capable of meeting the needs of the people.

After presenting some of the advantages, Mrs. Sheid said the city should consider if the council and mayor would be able to do a better job if it had a modern charter and professional guidance.

She said while the new charter is not the answer to everything, the committee feels it is a major element to progress in any city.

The disadvantages of having a fourth class city charter range from being old and obsolete to providing for a political subdivision with restricted enumerated powers.

"Home rule is American–the more local, the better way for the community," she said.

"State laws are, and of course, must be general in character."

James Tinnin of the Michigan Municipal League said his organization had a number of publications that could be of benefit to the community in making a decision.

He said the Fourth Class Cities Act, which Charlevoix operates under, was designed originally in the 19th Century for towns with small populations, but now with the complexity of government most Michigan cities have changed to home rule.

Editorials/Opinions

Only One Resident Attends Hearing

Last week the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners held their annual two-day meeting. A part of that meeting was set aside for citizens to hear and comment upon the proposed budget.

Both the annual meeting and the budget hearing were well publicized. The 1975 proposed budget as well as the 1974 budget were printed, for comparative purposes, in the Courier on the day before the hearing.

We are sorry to report that not one private citizen attended the meeting, and only one citizen of Charlevoix County attended the budget hearing to question proposals for spending tax money during the coming year.

That one citizen asked sensible questions and was given complete, courteous answers. He did not go away satisfied. It would be difficult for anyone to "sell" an 18 percent increase in county operating expenses in a year when we all find money disappearing from our pockets in a manner not heretofore experienced in our time.

What that one questioner did learn, however, is that the cost of county government in Charlevoix County is being increased largely because the crime rate is up with the resultant higher costs of protection and prosecution. Over 40 percent of the $219,473 increase is for operation of the Public Safety and Judicial Departments.

Other percentage increases, taken at random, are health care, nine percent; insurance and bonds, nine percent; advertising, five percent (for several years' supply of county maps and brochures); child care, four percent; social security, four percent; and unemployment compensation, three percent (not in budget before).

All departments, except Captial Outlay, have a larger budget than last year. Some increases are small, others large, but they all reflect higher costs of everything from paper clips to typewriters to salaries.

If more persons had attended the budget hearing, they, too, would probably have gone away still muttering about the high cost of county government. But they also would have gained some appreciation of the problems facing county officials.

Which brings us to another subject. Most of the incumbent county commissioners are facing opposition on the November 5 ballot, but not one of the opposing candidates has appeared at a commissioners' meeting to learn how the body operates, or to ask questions about anything in the operation that might interest or trouble him.

The election will be over before the next commissioners' meeting, but we hope that any new commissioner will attend at least one meeting before he is seated and has the right to cast a vote.

Is There A Need For A City Charter?

Charlevoix's Charter Study Committee demonstrated last week that the city should seriously consider whether or not there is a need to change from Fourth Class to Home Rule.

Holding a special meeting Thursday, Mrs. Irma Scheid made an excellent case presentation on why the city should consider making a change.

One of the major reasons, we feel the city should consider making a change, is the need for a city manager and job description.

As has been stated many times, Charlevoix needs a full-time person to supervise our growing government business.

However, because Charlevoix does not have a city charter many feel that Charlevoix will have a tough time trying to find a city administrator.

Under the present Fourth Class City Act, there is no provision for city manager and therefore are no guidelines for the position.

We feel this is just one case in point. There are many other positions in city government that are undefined and could be cleared up by having a charter.

A charter would also set city government in proper perspective in regards to the mayor and council's role.

Instead of council committees working directly with city employees, the manager would be handling government activities.

Both the council and mayor would then be free to make policy decisions that should then be handled through the city ubinistrator.

Writing a charter could require a lot of time and work, however we think city council should consider making the move and placing it on the ballot for the city residents to decide.

While changes aren't always good, we feel this one at least deserves the consideration of the people to put Charlevoix in the hands of professionals.

Shriners Ask For Support

Editor:

The Northwest Shrine Club, composed of Shriners from Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Kalkaska counties sponsored a band concert Saturday, October 5 at the Middle School in Petoskey.

Much effort goes into making the band a success and much work goes into the success of the project.

The band is made up of men who are devoted to the main theme of Shriners everywhere, which is that 'no man walks so tall as when he stoops to help a child' and helping children is what it is all about.

The bandmembers all contribute their time and talents with no pay other than what satisfaction they receive from knowing the monies earned go to pay for expense incurred in the operation of the 22 hospitals owned and operated for the treatment of crippled, handicapped and burned children all over the United States. Many thanks go to the merchants and others who contributed to the advertisements appearing in the Band Programs.

Beside the many numbers enjoyed by these attending, were numbers by the Dixieland Bands and solos by Kathleen Coe and Norman Bradley, both talented soloists.

A current project is a Crippled Childrens clinic to be held in Traverse City on November 7, 1974.

Anyone who knows of a child who needs some treatment or possible help should contact any area Shriner and make the name of a child known.

If you don't know an area Shriner, contact Edward Skinner, Central Lake, 544-6527, Loren Drury, Bellaire, 533-8633 or Hugh Leslie, Petoskey, 347-7685.

Do You Have Any Time?

Editor:

Would you like to help promote better understanding with other countries, and open a door to worldwide peace? The Youth for Understanding Committee is now interviewing families who will open their homes to a high school exchange student from South America for six months beginning in January of 1975.

Host families receive students as members of their own families and provide them with room and board. The students are responsible for their own clothing and expense money, are medically insured, and tuition and books are provided.

YFU, which sponsors the students to promote international good will, is approved by the U.S. State Department.

It's not too early to begin looking over the candidates to decide how you will vote in November. Your vote is important. Two years ago, for example, Democrat Joseph Biden, Jr. of Delaware became the youngest member of the U.S. Senate by defeating two-term incumbent Republican Senator J. Caleb Boggs. Senator Biden received 50.7 per cent of the votes, winning 116,006 to 112,844.

Clockwise

By BOB CLOCK

I was intrigued the other day when I read in the paper that Freidrich von Hayek, co-recipient of the Nobel Prize in Economics for 1974, is concerned about a world-wide economic collapse.

Von Hayek, who is now 75, was one of the few economists who forecast the stock market crash on Oct. 24, 1929, a day which ever after has been known as "Black Thursday."

Von Hayek was quoted last week as saying he sees "deep similarities" between conditions today and those of 45 years ago. Unfortunately, the article didn't go on to say what those similarities are.

So I went to the files to find out just what conditions were in that fool's paradise in the fall of 1929. To be sure there were similarities in the news of the day back then, but there were major differences, too.

Tariffs were a big issue between Republicans and Democrats. Sentiment was building for repeal of prohibition. And anything to do with radio was big news.

But there were similarities aplenty. Crime news was prominently played in almost every issue of the Petoskey Evening News 45 years ago. Kidnapings were common, just as they are today.

And, just like today, poor editors handling the news wire didn't know just what to make of the disturbing reports from Wall Street.

On "Black Thursday," the newspaper carried a story in the middle of the front page headed: "Stock Market in Bad Break."

In following day, a smaller two paragraph story appeared. The headline head: "Stock Market Turns to Hoover." The last paragraph tells us that government officials haven't changed much in the last generation.

"Already a high treasury official has insisted that the stock market set-back does not reflect the fundamental business condition, which he regards as sound."

I wonder what the "high treasury official" is doing now?

The following day, Saturday, Oct. 26, a story appeared in the middle of the front page headed: "Stock Market Settles Again." Subheads read: "Startling Upset Claimed by Government Reports Business Is Good" and "Wall Street Publisher Says Crisis Will Help in Stabilization."

On the same page was a story about how good business was across the country. "Autumn Drop Last Week Not as Large as One Year Ago," read the subhead.

On Monday, Oct. 28, The Evening News ran its first banner headline on the crash. On Tuesday, Oct. 29, a storm on Lake Michigan copped top honors, but the market slide was played prominently at the top of the page.

On Wednesday, Oct. 30, experts were predicting that the market had bottomed out. On Thursday came another banner headline reporting that the market had closed so that brokers and their aides could get some rest.

On Friday, Nov. 1, Democrats were accusing Republicans of starting the whole mess.

Did folks back in those unsettling days of October, 1929, realize what was in store for them during the next decade? Probably not, except for von Hayek and his friends.

By 1932, General Electric stock had plunged from 403 to 8½. General Motors nosedived from 91¾ to 7⅝. Sears Roebuck sank from 181 to 9⅞. and U.S. Steel dropped from 261 to 21¼.

And millions upon millions were without jobs.

Even though there are plenty of similarities between 1929 and 1974, there are also some significant differences which make it an entirely different ballgame — for better or worse.

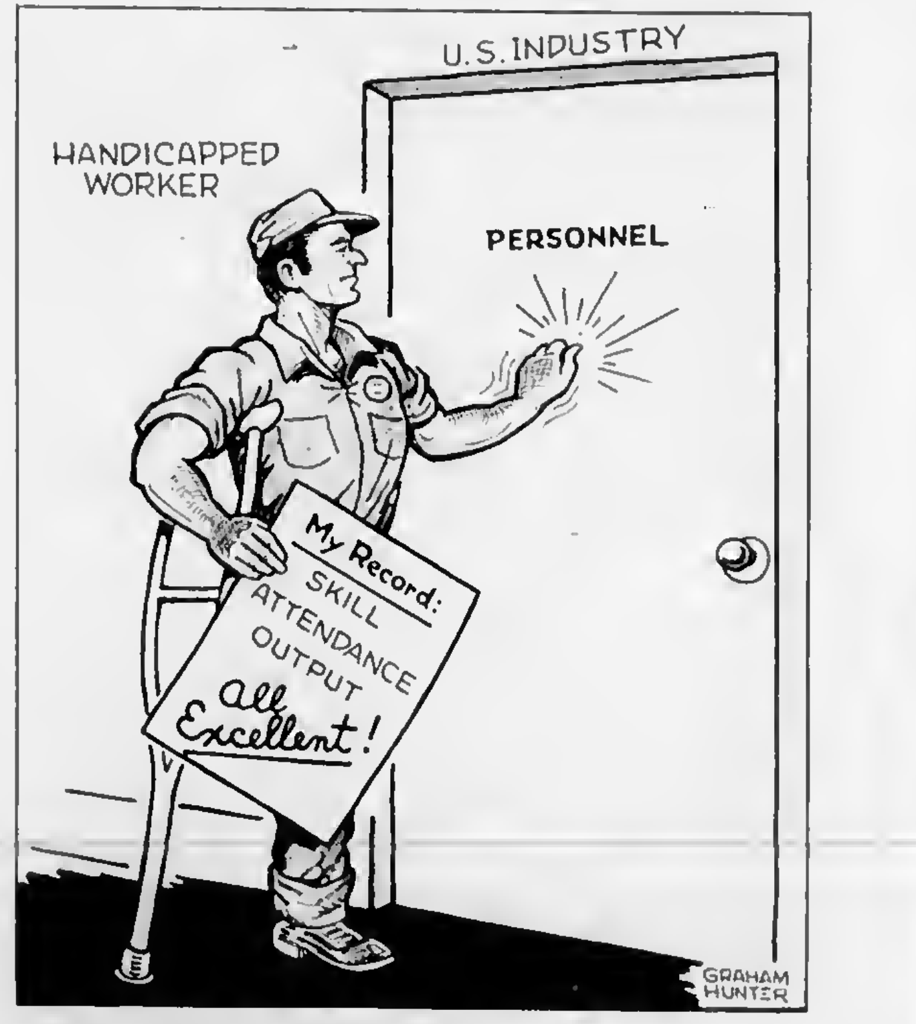
Bank deposits today are insured by the federal government. Social legislation has provided an umbrella for those caught without funds. Labor unions, which were practically unknown in 1929, represent an ever-increasing number of American working men and women. And no one really knows how labor unions fit into a truly depressed economy.

Probably the biggest difference between 1929 and 1974 is inflation.

Forty-five years ago, The Evening News advertised men's suits for $15 and new cars for $500 and $600.

Where can you find bargains like that today?

WANTED: A CHANCE



EMPLOY THE HANDICAPPED

Ignorance is America's major handicap in understanding problems of the handicapped.

Too few people, including many employers, simply are not aware of the roadblocks in transportation, housing, education and employment that the handicapped person faces. And unless they have worked with handicapped men and women they do not realize what excellent employees they make.

Some major corporations—like General Electric, DuPont, IBM, Hughes Aircraft, AT&T and Sears Roebuck, have become convinced that a disability is not detrimental to good work. More than 5½ million handicapped people are working in the United States—but 6 million remain unemployed.

If it Fitz

By JIM FITZGERALD

There should be no Christmas this year.

Now that I'm a Presidential advisor, that's my advice. Please indict me quickly so I can play the group rate for my legal defense.

President Ford asked the American people for suggestions on how to cut the cost of living and save energy. I can give him the perfect answer in one word: Scrooge.

Think about it. To fight inflation, you should not buy anything you don't really need. You shouldn't waste anything. You should be willing to make personal sacrifices. And you should increase your productivity without demanding an increase in your wages.

Last night I looked in the back of my sox drawer. This is where I hide toilet kits representing Christmas past. Someone is always giving me fancy boxes containing bottles of awful liquids that sting and stink. I don't need or want that stuff. The only reason I save it is a fermentation hedge against the return of Prohibition.

In another drawer are 1,456 white handkerchiefs, all received for Christmas. For some strange reason, perhaps because Prohibition didn't work, I never get colds. I am not required to blow my nose 10 times a year.

And then there is Christmas morning when the Mad Burner strikes again. That's what my family calls me. What I burn is gift wrappings and ribbons and, I'll admit, an occasional gift by mistake. Since the invention of Scotch tape and little kids, it has been impossible to open a package without tearing the paper which quickly piles eye-high. Old uncles have been lost for days in Christmas-gift debris. The only answer is a big fire, quickly, so you don't have to eat your turkey through tissue paper.

I could cite many other examples. Christmas cards, for Lord's sake. But you get the idea. Christmas is the most wasteful day of the year. Forget it in '74.

Christmas tree growers would bladly spruce me to death, of course. And my own grandchildren would hate me. But that's where the personal sacrifices come in. No one ever said it would be easy saving the nation.

Look at it this way and you'll feel better: No more toy commercials on TV. No more hollering hucksters telling Junior to tell Dad to buy him a baseball game which features a live Henry Aaron hitting baseballs in Junior's own bedroom.

So what will you do December 25? That's where increased productivity comes in. You go to work for free. And your boss cuts the pricetag on whatever you produce that day. I would write a special column and nail it to a tree.

Some of you may remember that Christmas was originally the celebration of the birth of Jesus Christ. That was back before Howard Cosell made Joe Namath God. I see no reason why the elimination of Christmas should ruin any birthday plans.

In fact, in view of the energy shortage, it would be appropriate to light a candle to Christ on His birthday. And thank Him for showing the way through the darkness long before the Edison Co.

Happy Nn Noel.

Mrs. Lu Klama, Service Team Chairman of the Charlevoix Girl Scouts is looking for help with her program for local girls.

Today, the Charlevoix Courier asked Mrs. Klama what being a Girl Scout leader involves along with some of the activities they provide for girls.

COURIER: What do the Charlevoix County Girl Scouts need at this time?

KLAMA: We desperately need leaders and assistants. We must have two more Brownie leaders and two more Junior leaders before we can set up troops for 40 or 50 girls who were Scouts last year.

COURIER: What are the duties of Girl Scout leaders?

KLAMA: They meet with the girls once a week. Brownies prepare for Junior Scouting, play games and do handicraft, learn to work and play well together. Juniors work on badges.

COURIER: What qualifications must a leader have?

KLAMA: There are no special qualifications. They must be 18 years old and be willing to give some time. Younger girls can be helpers. Most of our leaders are mothers.

COURIER: Is there any reason a father couldn't be a leader?

KLAMA: Well, we've never had one and I don't know whether there is any reason a father couldn't be a leader. We also need a publicity person. That could be a man.

COURIER: How many troops are there in Charlevoix?

KLAMA: We have two Brownie troops (ages 6, 7 and 8), two Junior troops (ages 9, 10 and 11), and 1 Cadet troop (ages 12, 13 and 14). We don't have any Senior Scouts.

COURIER: How many girls altogether are there in Girl Scouts?

KLAMA: We have 114 registered Scouts, including those not in troops because we don't have enough leaders.

COURIER: When and where do they meet?

KLAMA: They usually meet in the afternoon, but they could meet in the evening if the leader prefers. It is up to her. They meet in the library, church basements, K-5 school, or in the leader's home.

COURIER: Do you have a camping program?

KLAMA: We have a day camp during the summer. We also have a camp site on the Marion Center Road which can be used by Girl Scouts any time for overnights or other activities.

COURIER: What other programs to you have?

KLAMA: We have some community service programs. We helped with the tag day for Grandvue and we hope to participate in Clean-Up Week next spring.

COURIER: What does it cost to be a Girl Scout?

KLAMA: The dues are $2.00 a year. The uniforms cost about $10.00 but they are not compulsory. Many Scouts buy second-hand uniforms, or are given them.

COURIER: Do you want to say anything else?

KLAMA: Only that we really need help. You wouldn't believe the excuses mothers give for not helping us.

COURIER: If someone wants to help, who should she call?

KLAMA: Call me at 547-4375 after 3:30 or Mrs. Kenneth Wojan at 547-6496 before 3:30.

Land Act Has No Opposition

TRAVERSE CITY–Rules for an act that would give farmers and large property owners a tax break received virtually no opposition last week at a public hearing held here.

The Department of Natural Resources public hearing was one of six being held across the state on proposed rules for the Farmland and Open Space Preservation Act that took affect this spring.

The Act enables a land owner to enter into an agreement with the state that the land remain for only a certain use, and in return the landowner is entitled to certain income or property tax benefits.

Farmland would have to be 40 acres or more or a farm from five to 40 acres with a minimum per acre of $200 per year per acre, or a specialty farm with the gross annual income of $2,000 or more.

Open space lands includes historic, riverfront and shoreland areas or lands that may enhance recreation or preserve natural areas.

Under a farmland development rights agreement, the exact benefits would depend upon the property tax assessed against the property and the income of the landowner.

The landowner is entitled to claim as a credit on his Michigan Income Tax the amount by which the property taxes on farmland covered by the agreement exceed seven per cent of his income.

"Basically, the rules provide for administering and administrative guidelines for the act," said Dennis Hall of the DNR's Planning Service Division.

He said the rules simply provide for clearer definition of terms not explained in the act and explain application procedures for a development rights agreement.

The procedure includes seeking application from the local governing body, with it eventually being sent to the DNR.

It also explains how the agreement, if made, can be terminated.

Mike Thomas of Leelanau questioned whether it would be good for the state tax commission to determine values on property for the agreement with the state.

However, the DNR said it would be worked out with the local equalization office.

LoAnne French, Union Township Clerk, asked on what basis a local unit of government would approve or deny a request.

The DNR said they should use the same considerations they use when looking at zoned districts.

Asked if the local unit of government has the final say, the DNR said the act was written so they would.

DNR officials said the hearing record will remain open until the end of this month and written comments on the rules may be sent to the Office of Land Use, Department of Natural Resources, Lansing, Michigan.

DELIVERANCE

The Marantz Imperial 6G Speaker System meets any challenge. From a one-man band to a symphony orchestra this system combines high power handling capabilities with maximum efficiency. And the result brings full dynamic range from the music you're listening to. The 6G employs an efficient 10" woofer and 1¾" tweeter, requiring less power to reach high sound pressure levels.

Imperial 6G

This allows your amplifier power to spare, causing less distortion and delivering more crystal clear music. The sleek hand-rubbed walnut cabinetry and styled foam grille give the 6G that rich Marantz appearance that will last for years. Stop, look and listen for yourself. The Marantz Imperial Speaker Systems ... they speak for themselves.

Brumms Make Art A Family Affair

By PEG OHLE

When a husband and wife have the opportunity to live and work on the shores of Lake Michigan in a village like Norwood, they must be considered fortunate.

When they are doing the kind of work they love and creating things of beauty, they must be considered very fortunate indeed.

Norman and Judy Brumm are two such people.

They met at an art show nine years ago when Norman was displaying his sketches and water colors and Judy was showing her enamel plates and jewelry.

Their first home and studio after marriage was a one-room cabin in Norwood near their present large showroom and work shop.

Judy's "dowery" consisted of kilns, copper wire, powdered enamel, and other tools of her trade.

Norman's contribution was his paints, brushes and pens.

And they both brought with them a wealth of creative talent.

Today, Brumm's Studio Showroom employees 25 people and their works of art are sold from coast to coast with an attached tag reading, "Norman and Judy Brumm, Charlevoix, Michigan."

Brumm creations are mainly of three types: three-dimensional birds and flowers, single or in groups, mounted on wooden bases; enamel placques and plates; and water color pictures.

The three-dimensional creations, both wall hangings and table models, are made from copper sheeting and steel wire, coated with enamel powder in several stages and kiln baked. In all, there are about 50 different processes from start to finish.

The Brumms have about 14 birds and 10 or 12 flowers which they work into different settings.

The wooden bases are made from one of two different kinds of material – roots, knots and "eyes" from virgin pine trees which have been lumbered off, and galls from jack pine trees.

These discarded pieces of nature's harvest, through many finishing steps, become beautiful standards for delicate, colorful birds and flowers and butterflies.

Judy pointed out that pine is best for their bases because it is resin-saturated and aged, often for as long as 100 years. Resin produces a hardened wood which is less likely to crack.

Most of the roots, knots and "eyes" are found in the Upper Peninsula, lying on the ground in areas that have been cut over for lumber or road-building

Judy [illegible] Norman travel through [illegible] woods on old logging [illegible] in their van and trailer, [illegible] the pieces they [illegible] will make the most artistic creations. "The people are glad to let us have it," Judy said. "Some pieces are pitch black from fire."

However, it is Norman who really makes the selections, according to Judy. "Only he can tell what he can use as a base for our birds and flowers."

The jack pine galls are used for smaller bases. They come from near Gaylord, where they grow on dead limbs of jack pines in a pulp wood forest.

Brumm enameled plates, their second largest seller, are made in many colorful bird and flower patterns. The plaques are designed by Norman, and whether abstracts or landscapes, they show great freedom, the result of his training and work in paints.

The water colors are Norman's, too. Subject matter is varied and reveals the real talent of the man who received a master's degree in art from Michigan State University.

As interesting as today's activities of the Brumm studio are, events leading up to its success are even more so.

Judy started working with enamel when she was in junior high school and an aunt gave her and her mother a kiln. Judy was a bird watcher and wanted to create birds. When she and her mother happened to see pictures of Chinese bronzes, she got the idea of forming her birds from sheet copper, then enameling them.

It was Norman who suggested to her later that instead of using soft solder, she use an acetylene torch to weld the pieces together. After a trip to a service station to learn how acetylene torches worked, she bought one and became proficient in its use.

Norman soon also developed an expertise in enamels, and when Judy remembered the porcelain birds with flowers she had seen in a shop, they decided to experiment with sheet copper in similar creations.

"We looked at them and Norm said, 'Sure, we can do that,' " Judy remembers. We went home, got some wood, made some flowers and birds, put some holes in the wood, and there it was," she says simply about their first enamel bird and flower and wood creation.

Much of the manufacturing work in the Brumm studio is done by hand – all of the coating, spraying, soldering, and intricate shaping of birds and flowers. They hire several retirees, most of whom work full time, and many housewives who work part time – half days, two days a week, or nine months a year (when the children are in school).

Since it takes considerable time to teach employees how to do their jobs, they try to hire people who will be with them at least two years.

"We are glad to work around family demands on a mother," Judy says, and her employees look as if they appreciate that.

"If I get a little discouraged, I get some gratification from knowing that people are happy and satisfied working here," she added.

The Brumms are now erecting a new building so they will have "more elbow room".

Judy's own responsibilities in the studio are many. She checks the quality of work, straightens out any problems that develop, works with employees, and takes care of the correspondence. She also tries to find time to design.

Norman puts all the larger pieces of work together, designs and creates.

Norman and Judy have two boys, Andy and Joel, ages seven and four, who add to their activities.

Watching Norman creatively put together one of his three-dimensional wall hangings, this reporter commented on how nice it must be not to have to work assembly line fashion.

"We thank God every morning for that," he replied.

Yes, Norman and Judy Brumm are very fortunate people indeed.

NORM BRUMM of Brumm's Studio in Norwood looks over some of the metal work being done in his shop. Below: Local residents prepare some of the fine artwork that will eventually go on display in his showroom.

Girls Take Two More

The Charlevoix girls' basketball team tallied another set of victories during the past week defeating Rogers City 58-27 on Thursday and Grayling 54-12 on Tuesday.

On Thursday Cheryl Pence scored 26 points to pace the Rayders as they led the Hurons 13-3; 31-15 and 53-19 by quarters.

Lee Steelman added another 12 to Charlevoix's total. G. Losinski was top scorer for Rogers City with five points. In this meeting the Charlevoix J-V's lost 20-13.

On Tuesday, the Rayder offense jumped to a 10-4 quarter lead, went ahead 27-4 at halftime and 43-6 going into the final period as nine of 11 players scored.

Heidi Dove lead the scoring with 14 points. Wendy Gee and Theresa Stephan had four points each for Grayling.

The local J-V's were on the winning end of a 35-6 score over Grayling.

Charlevoix will play at Boyne City Tuesday and will host St. Ignace here on Thursday.

Rayders Defeat Ramblers; 25-6

It was rough and tumble football but the Red Rayders came out on top of the Boyne City Ramblers 25-6. A total of 206 yards was assessed against the two teams in penalties, slowing the play and threatening to turn the game into a slug-fest.

The Charlevoix eleven drew first blood after Steve Michael jumped on a Boyne City fumble on the 37 yard line. Bob Alger skillfully used the thrusts and daggers of fullback Doug Smith and Mike Streeter's replacement halfback Frank Muma, to bring the ball to the Boyne City 9 yard line. With 8:18 remaining in the first quarter, Alger carried it himself for the score.

The point after the touchdown attempt was not good and the score stood Charlevoix 6, Boyne City 0.

After receiving the kickoff, the Boyne City Ramblers moved down the field for 1 first down but were then forced to punt the ball to the Rayders. Charlevoix took over on its own 46 yard line.

Alger again showed his quarterbacking skills by leading the 54 yard drive into the Boyne City endzone for a second Charlevoix touchdown. This series of plays ate up most of the first quarter and consisted of numerous fine running performances by Kevin Martin and his backfield mates, Muma and Smith. It was culminated in a 1 yard plunge by Muma with 15 seconds remaining in the first quarter.

The Alger kick for the point after was successful and Charlevoix led 13-0 over the Ramblers.

Boyne City drew blood early in the second quarter after recovering a Charlevoix fumble on the 27 yard line. Quarterback Scott Upton operating at the helm of the Rambler squad converted on a fourth down and 8 yard play with a completed pass to the Charlevoix 10 yard line. Following two short gains into the Rayder defensive line, quarterback Upton carried from the Charlevoix 3 yard line for the Boyne City touchdown.

The conversion of the point after was not successful and with 5:33 remaining in the second quarter, the score stood Charlevoix 13, Boyne City 6.

The remaining portion of the first half was spent with neither team able to advance the ball into the opposition's endzone. The score at the end of the half remained Charlevoix 13, Boyne City 6.

Second half action began with Boyne City recovering a Red Rayder fumble on the Charlevoix 26 yard line. On the next play from scrimmage the favor was returned and Charlevoix recovered a Boyne City fumble on their own 27 yard line.

Alger then put the Rayder machine in drive again and began the movement toward the Boyne City goal line. This drive featured a fine pass from quarterback Alger to Dan Green for a 31 yard gain. The Rambler defense stiffened and the Charlevoix squad was stopped on the Boyne City 8 yard line.

The Boyne City eleven began their drive deep in their own territory. After three unsuccessful attempts to convert the first down, the Charlevoix defense forced the Ramblers to punt. A bad pass from center gave Charlevoix the ball on the Boyne City 4 yard line.

After a short gain into the Boyne City defensive line, Alger carried the three remaining yards for the third Rayder touchdown.

With 3:06 seconds remaining in the third quarter, Alger's kick for an extra point was wide, and the Rayders led 19-6.

Boyne City's next series of plays again ended in a punting situation for the Rambler squad. Following a series of penalties against both teams the Rayders took over the ball on the Boyne City 45 yard line.

Alger again quickly converted this opportunity with a fine play action pass to Martin for a 45 yard touchdown. The point after attempt again was not good, and with 1:21 remaining in the third quarter, the score stood Charlevoix 25 Boyne City 6.

Early in the fourth quarter, Alger again thrilled the Charlevoix fans by scampering 40 yards for what appeared to be the fifth Rayder touchdown. This five touchdown run was called back on a clipping penalty. Punter Casey Culbertson tried a fancy play on a punt attempt, but the Rayders were not able to score.

Even though the game was rough and tumble, many of the players took a few moments after the final gun to shake hands with the opposition and to show the fine sportsmanship everyone likes to see.

Perhaps a special word should be said about the officiating of the game. Although both squads were vigorously attempting to win the football game, in many cases individual players became over-zealous. The refing crew did a good job of containing the many excited players from both squads and avoiding what could have turned into a bench-emptying slug-fest.

The score at the final gun remained Charlevoix 25, Boyne City 6.

J.V. Football Wins

The Charlevoix J-V football team rolled to a 20-6 victory over Boyne City recently.

In the meeting between the arch rivals, Boyne City scored first on a three yard run by Tom Dressel to go ahead 6-0 in the second period.

As the second half got underway, the Rayder offense caught fire and scored twice, both on passes from Mike Way to Matt Doan. The first was a 12 yard aerial and the second a five yard pass with a pass from Way to Brian Williams accounting for a two-point conversion.

In the final period, Way passed again, this time for 24 yards to Doan.

Guy Carter and Tom Left were cited for outstanding offensive play. Tom Jones, Kip Cinnamon, Greg Loper and Bob Warner were commended for defensive play.

The J-Vs will play at Petoskey on Thursday.

Local Golfers Go To State Regionals

The Charlevoix golf team, playing in the Class C-D regional meet at Interlochen Saturday, qualified for the state finals, Coach Barry Anderson has announced.

The event will be held at Shepherd on Saturday, Oct. 19.

The Rayder squad posted a 258 to tie with Frankfort for third place and an opportunity to go to the finals.

Harbor Springs won the regional meet with a score of 256 followed by Mason County Central with a 257.

Medalist for Charlevoix was Chuck Faust with an 80 for 18 holes.

Boyne City with 379 finished eleventh in the meet.

We represent several firms, but we work for only one boss—you. That way we can always place you with a company which we think is best for each line of insurance you need. Naturally, we prefer companies like Auto-Owners who look at a loss and take care of it right away, without haggling or delays. That's one of the reasons we're part of the Altogether Family. Along The Sidelines

The annual war against Boyne City ended up with Charlevoix on top 25-6. We see it as a war from here, as both teams received numerous penalties for unnecessary roughness and similar violations. While we are happy to see the Rayders come out on top, we generally prefer the less vigorous type of football games. Congratulations are nonetheless in order for Coach Carey and the Charlevoix squad.

Perhaps the Rayder eleven was looking beyond the much-beaten Rambler squad to the heralded Petoskey-Charlevoix conflict. This one should be a real crowd pleaser as well as a fine contest between two well coached and multi-talented football teams.

We hope the services of Mike Streeter, the fine Red Rayder halfback will be available for the Northmen clash next Friday. If you remember, Streeter bruised his hip in the St. Ignace contest, and didn't see action against Boyne City. Hopefully, Carey was saving the fleet halfback from the rigors of the Boyne City encounter so that he will be ready for the Petoskey game.

As we see it, the Charlevoix squad has a fine opportunity to sit alone on top of the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference standings following Friday night's game, however, the team will have to play better football to beat Petoskey.

We fully realize that this year's Rambler game did not compare in importance to the Petoskey conflict, however, it should have been a good opportunity to brush up on basics such as solid tackling and good blocking. While the squad ran and passed for four touchdowns against Boyne City, the play during much of the game was not at par with past performances this season. We are sure Coach Carey will have the team honed to their sharpest edge for the Northmen contest.

Let's see all of you at the game this Friday, to cheer the Rayders on in their important clash with their visitors from Petoskey. Coach Carey and his fine defensive unit, quick backfield runners and fine services of quarterback Bob Alger will undoubtedly make all of us proud to be Rayder fans.

Harriers Qualify For Regionals

The Charlevoix cross-country team will close out its activities for the year on Wednesday when the Rayder harriers participate in the Michigan-Huron Conference meet at Rogers City.

On Monday they were scheduled to take part in the Soo Invitational.

The Rayders dropped their last meet of the season to Boyne City by a score of 42-19.

Richards of Boyne City posted the best time in the meet, 16:13 followed by Wally Drenth of Charlevoix with a 16:19.

Boyne City took the next five places with Ken Paul coming in eigth and Lee Begrow ninth.

Volleyball Sign-up

The Charlevoix Recreation Department will hold a organizational meeting for Men's, Women's and Mixed Volleyball managers Tuesday, October 22, 1974 at 8:00 p.m. in the Recreation Office in City Hall.

At this meeting rules, game times, and game sites will be determined. Tentative plans call for league play to begin in the middle of November and continue until the end of February.

Interested persons who wish to play but are not on a team may leave their name at the Recreation Department or call 547-4272.

The Gym at the elementary school is open on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday evenings from 7:00 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. for Volleyball practice.

Additional information can be obtained from the Charlevoix Recreation office by calling 547-4272.

Debaters Having Another Good Year

By GAYLE BOSS

As all the sports teams in C.H.S. run, jump, and romp into a new season, another team that is perhaps not as well known also begins another year. They do their share of running and romping too, but the team is mainly concerned with arguing.

The C.H.S. debate team has started preparations for a hot year of rebuttals, refutations, and contentions. Preparations actually began this summer when several team members attended debate institute at Northern Michigan University.

Now intensive training for all levels is under way with the first meets scheduled to begin very soon.

With a growing number of members, the team has expanded to four levels of debating: swing team, which is composed of two debaters arguing both the affirmative and negative sides of the question; four man varsity, which is four team members, two on each side; junior varsity, four debaters, two on each side in the second year of debate; novice, beginning debaters composed of four team members.

The question up for consideration this year is:

RESOLVED: That the United States should significantly change the method of selecting Presidential and Vice Presidential candidates.

Charlevoix High School Debate Team opened its season with a 6th Place position at the annual Big Rapids Cardinal Invitational Tournament held September 28th at the Big Rapids High School.

Debating for Charlevoix were Darrell Clark and Linda Smith, the affirmative team, which ended the day with 3 wins and 1 loss. The negative team of Gayle Boss and Kim Blanchard completed the day with the same record, 3 wins and 1 loss.

The team was pleased with the outcome of the day after looking over the total results.

First and second place teams were 'A' schools, Jackson Parkside and Muskegon Reeths-Puffer, respectively. Their records were 7 wins and 1 loss, giving them a tie which was broken by speaker points.

Essexville, a 'B' school, with a 6 win and 1 loss record with 365 speaker points, after a seven way tie was broken by speaker points.

Since Charlevoix also held a 6-2 record they came very close to bringing a trophy home.

Other schools with a 6-2 record in order of placement were: 4th place, Kalamazoo Central with 352 speaker points; 5th place, Grand Rapids Central, a team with 349 speaker points; 6th place Charlevoix with 346 speaker points; 7th place, Grand Rapids Central B team with 342 speaker points; 8th place, Petoskey with 341 speaker points and 9th place, Ithaca with 323 speaker points.

A closer evaluation of the tournament records showed that Gayle Boss was 6th highest in individual speaker points in the tournament out of 116 debaters. Trophies were awarded to the top 3 speakers.

This tournament annually is held on Hallowe'en but was moved up a month this year.

Since most schools are not ready this early a good percent of those debating were the product of summer institutes making the competition of better quality.

Attending the Ann Arbor Pioneer High School Invitational Tournament, the team recently succeeded in putting 3 wins-1 loss placing them in the top over-all out of a field of 45 units.

This record now makes the team of Gayle Boss and Kim Blanchard eligible to move into a championship run-off at the Ann Arbor Huron High School Invitational on Oct. 19th.

They had, prior to the Sat. tournament, applied to the board for permission to attend the Huron Tournament as a standard swing team. The team will also include a J.V. unit.

The team is especially pleased with the results of the tournament for a number of reasons. Of the 16 schools those qualifying include 13 Class A, 2 Class B and 1 Class C. Teams with records include:

University of Detroit High School 4 wins 1 loss with 212 speaker pts.
Southfield H.S.–4-1, 210
Ann Arbor Pioneer–4-1, 191
Detroit Catholic Central–4-1, 186
Taylor Truman H.S.–4-1, 183
Marshall H.S.–3-1, 196
John F. Kennedy (Taylor)–3-1, 192
Ferndale–3-1, 191
Charlevoix–3-1, 187
Jackson Parkside–3-1, 186
Portage Northern–3-1, 186
Essexville–3-1, 179
Jackson Parkside (B)–2-2, 200
Kalamazoo Central–2-2, 188
Livonia Stevenson–2-2, 182
Southfield Lathrop–2-2, 182

They were also pleased with their ability to compete on an equal basis with many of the top schools in the state. The highlight of the day came when the team found out they had beaten Royal Oak Kimble, Class A State Champions last year.

A second unit made up of Darrell Clark and Linda Smith represented Charlevoix in the tournament. Not as lucky as Kim and Gayle they were still pleased with their ability to maintain comparable speaker points with those of schools they faced.

Competing Oct. 19 at Ann Arbor Huron will be Gayle Boss and Kim Blanchard in special 2 man championship run-off and the J.V. team of Darrell Clark and Kathy Britton, affirmative with Denise Boss and Linda Smith, negative.

DEBBY POWELL, a 1974 graduate of Charlevoix High School will be featured in the eighth edition of "Who's Who Among American High School Students." She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Powell of Charlevoix.

Band Has Great Time On Wisconsin Trip

By JIM BERLAGE

The Red Rayder Marching Band recently traveled to Peshtigo, Wisconsin to perform a combined half-time show at the Peshtigo - Niagra football game on Friday night, and then on to a combined post game feature show at Northern Michigan University on Saturday. Leaving Friday at 6:15 a.m., the Rayders traveled to Peshtigo High School, arriving there about 12:30 p.m.

Once there, after eating lunch at the High School cafeteria, the combined Peshtigo-Charlevoix Marching Bands rehearsed together until 4 p.m.

After rehearsal, the band members were taken to various Peshtigo band students' homes where they were to eat dinner and stay the night, following the Peshtigo football game.

Saturday morning, the Peshtigo-Charlevoix Marching Band left Peshtigo, Wisconsin and traveled to Marquette, Michigan and Northern Michigan University for the Annual NMU Band Day.

At NMU, the massed bands rehearsed until 10:45 when everyone broke for lunch at the NMU Field House.

Following lunch was the pre-game performance by the Wildcat Marching Band. Kick off time for the game between the NMU Wildcats and Wisconsin's Saint Norbert's, was 1:30 p.m. At half-time, the massed band show, under Mr. Tom Davis of the University of Iowa, performed five numbers all arranged by Mr. Davis. They were: Frankie and Johnny Can Rock, Cute, Scarborough Fair, Rock-A-Bye Your Baby, and Manhattan Beach, by John Phillip Sousa.

Following the game which NMU lost, the Pestigo-Charlevoix Marching Bands put on a dynamic post-game show Featuring solos, with gymnastics, and dances, the Rayder & Bulldog Bands performed Theme From New World, Bill Bailey's Combo, Tea For Two, Tuba Feature, and America the Beautiful.

Following the show, there was a reception back at the NMU Field House. After all of the many good-byes, the two bands parted and headed for home with the Rayders arriving at CHS at approximately midnight.

Mr. Bruce Kroken and Mr. Gary Stutzman are both alumni of Charlevoix High School and also of NMU.

Chaperones for the trip were Mr. and Mrs. Neil Jones, Mr. and Mrs. David Juillerett, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Loper, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Stebe, Mr. and Mrs. Vane Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Hicks, Mr. Hans Wiemer, Mr. Jim Keller, Mr. Mike Carland, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Mol, Mrs. Ardeth Wieland, and Mrs. George Smith.

Also attending, were many other people from both Charlevoix and Peshtigo.

For most, if not all, it was a great and fantastic trip, with much accomplished and much more to look forward to. Many thanks all who helped in making this entire weekend, including the summer band camp- the great success that it was. And many, many thanks to our director, Mr. Stutzman who has put in untold hours already, so far this season!!

English Class Plans Dinner

By ROBIN ROSENCRANTS

Miss Liebold's 5th hour English Literature class is really up to something now. What? A dinner, right out of Charles Dickens' "A Christmas Carol". To be held at Grey Gables Inn, the dinner is tentatively planned for some time in December. It will coincide with the classes' study of Charles Dickens.

To finance their venture, Eng. Lit. held a bake sale Sept. 17, and is planning another soon.

The idea for the dinner came from a cookbook, "The Literary Gourmet," which describes menus and dinners out of famous tales like Charles Dickens'. The book came from Dave Phillips, of the Grey Gables Inn.

Miss Liebold said that two successful French dinners held last year make her very optimistic about this one.

The menu will probably be: Roast Goose w/gravy Sage and Onion dressing, Applesauce, Christmas Pudding.

Sandra Way Marries Wayne Boss

Sandra L. Way and Wayne E. Boss exchanged their wedding vows recently in the presence of more than 400 guests.

The Rev. Donald Schorsch of The Assembly of God Church officiated at the double ring rites at the Community Reformed church on Saturday, Oct. 5. Baskets of mums and greens formed a setting for the candle light service. Lighted tapers and greens decorated the windows and lighted tapers, bows and greens marked the pews. Mrs. Conrad Klooster decorated the church.

Mrs. John L. Boss, at the organ, played a program of traditional music and the wedding marches. The Agape' Singers with Mrs. Robert Klooster as soloist sang "O Perfect Love", "Whither Thou Goest" and "The Lord's Prayer", accompanied by Mrs. James Jensen.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Dawson Way of Charlevoix and Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Boss of Brighton.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, chose a gown of white sati-peau and re-embroidered Chantilly lace for her wedding. The all-lace bodice, collar and lantern sleeves was set off by a full skirt and train that featured venise lace panels. The same lace formed a headpiece and trimmed the veil that was made by her mother and aunt. She carried a bouquet of white carnations, daisy mums, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Susan Way was her sister's maid of honor. Judy Potter, Gayle Boss of Howell, sister of the bridegroom, Kathy Hittenberger of Detroit, cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Paul Bradley were bridesmaids. They wore floor length chiffon gowns styled with lantern-type sleeves and accented by a contrasting braid at the yoke. Each gown was in an autumn shade. They wore sprigs of baby's breath in matching colors in their hair and carried bouquets of daisy mums and baby's breath in autumn shades.

Stacy Way, sister of the bride in a gown similar to the other attendants, was flower girl. She carried a basket of flowers in autumn shades. Andrew Boss of Howell, nephew of the bridegroom, was ringbearer.

Gary Boss of Howell assisted his brother as best man. Groomsmen were Brian, Michael and Don Boss of Brighton and Wilson Boss. They also seated the guests.

DALE BOSS (second from right) announces the sale of the Village Insurance Agency to Donald Blalock (second from left). Also present during the announcement were Alex Little, president of Pioneer State Mutual (left) and Harold Wood of Pioneer Fieldman. The new insurance agency will be called "Blalock Insurance Agency" and will be located at the corner of U.S.-31 and Barnard Road in Charlevoix.

Doctor Arrives

Dr. Plagge

The Charlevoix Area Hospital has ended its long search for a surgeon.

Merle Plagge, M.D., will join the hospital medical staff and open offices in Charlevoix within the next few days. He becomes the 11th physician on the hospital staff.

Dr. Plagge's practice will be limited to general surgery and his offices will be located in the Port-Air Plaza on U.S. 31 south of the city.

A native of Riverdale, Illinois, Dr. Plagge graduated from the University of Illinois and received his medical degree from St. Louis University School of Medicine in 1960.

He served his internship and surgical residency at Pontiac General Hospital and became part time director of the hospital's surgical residency program in 1971. He also had a private practice in Drayton Plains.

Dr. Plagge and his wife, Barbara, have three children; Mary, 10; Peter, 7; and Timothy, 6, all students in the Charlevoix elementary School. They live at 119 Hampton Street.

Budget

sixth, last year. Teachers' salaries dropped from $135,447 to $66,870 for the single grade.

Expenses for the secondary area of the seventh and eighth grade increased from $165,914 to $199,226.

As in the other grades, teachers salaries made up the major increases.

McKinmy said this was due mainly to the fact that increased enrollment required more teachers and that existing teachers had advanced steps on the salary scale.

A breakdown shows the principal's salary at $16,666 ($15,000); regular teachers' salaries, $150,840 ($124,638).

In the high school, the proposed budget will be $488,877, up from $446,217.

Again instruction is the largest item in the proposed budget with $336,193 earmarked for this purpose compared to $299,883 during the last school year. Principals' salaries are $27,480 compared to last year's $28,150.

Duke

--Approved a recommendation that a 50-cent fee per passenger be established for use of school buses to transport students as spectators to and from athletic events for the 1974-75 school year.

Bonnie

The search continued until 3 a.m. Friday with Region 10 East, Region 10 North, Sheriff's officials from both Antrim and Charlevoix county departments and the East Jordan police involved.

The following morning, the officials were informed that a pair resembling Smith and his female companion had been seen near the Rogers Bridge intersection south of East Jordan.

When officials arrived, the girl gave herself up at 9:30 a.m. Smith, however, took to the woods. A tracking dog and a private plane, piloted by Deputy Bill Welke of Beaver Island, were brought in.

Smith was spotted approximately a quarter of a mile from where the girl was found and was apprehended without difficulty.

David Bailey, probation officer, and other officials were notified.

However, with the weekend followed by a legal holiday Monday (Columbus Day) no action was taken and the pair remain in jail and the injured juvenile in the hospital.

904 May St. Minister: J. Lugibihl 547-9338
Morning Worship 11:00 a.m. Sunday School 10 a.m.
Evening Worship 7:30 p.m.

The church is located at 904 May Street in Charlevoix. It began on July 3, 1955 by Pastor Jim E. Lugibihl. The church was named Charlevoix Bible Church (Independent Baptist) and was holding meetings in the American Legion Hall. On August 12, 1956, the group changed their name to Bible Baptist Church and continued in the Legion Hall until on July 21, 1958 when they moved to their present location. The church still holds to the Word of God as the final basis of Authority and remains independent of any group, fellowship, or convention.

There are services nearly every day of the week including Sunday School at 10 a.m. and there are classes for all ages from the nursery through the adults and is an ALL Bible Sunday School with unified lessons. The church provides free transportation by Sunday School bus or cars by calling 547-4300 or 547-9338.

There are varied age group Bible clubs for all ages at varied times and dates for an informal worship time during the week.

The church has designated group Visitation Night on Wednesday at 7 p.m. called "Calling For Jesus" visiting in the homes in the area.

Old-fashioned Prayer Meeting Hour is at 7:30 on Thursday. A message from the Word of God is given before the hour of intercession. There are prayer groups for all ages.

There is always a warm welcome given to all attending the services whether they are visitors or residents of the area.

DOWNTOWN CHARLEVOIX, CADILLAC AND TWO LOCATIONS IN TRAVERSE CITY

Residents To Decide on Revision

Council Puts Charter on City Ballot

Charlevoix City Council took its first official step towards exchanging the city's present 75-year-old Fourth Class City Charter for a homerule charter Monday night when it agreed to place the question on the February ballot.

At the same time, council called for the election of nine charter commission members to be put on the same municipal ballot.

The historic move came only minutes after council was presented with a list of possible alternatives for the city to consider from its city attorney.

Councilman Ralph McRae said that while he was willing to discuss the matter Monday night, he didn't want to delay the action any longer and presented council with a resolution for charter revision.

The action was seconded by Councilwoman Jeanine Wallace and passed on a 5-1 split. Councilman Bob Timms cast the only negative vote.

In a memorandum to city council, city attorney Don Berlage had presented a list of possible alternatives the council could consider for revising the city charter.

Besides placing the question of homerule charter to the voters for approval, Berlage said council could pass a resolution soliciting 250 signatures of city and Charlevoix Township residents directed to the State Boundary Commission calling for the consolidation of the City of Charlevoix and Charlevoix Township.

At that time a 9-man commission could be set up.

The city attorney said another feasible alternative would be for council, by resolution, to propose certain amendments to the Fourth Class City Act for a vote of the people.

Issues that could be presented to the voters would be the establishment of a "council-manager" form of government, a change in the ward system of government either to a complete at large election system or a combined ward and at large system.

Still another proposed amendment to encourage the annexation of Charlevoix Township would be to call for the terms of all elected and appointed officials to cease upon the annexation of Charlevoix Township being accomplished, with an immediate special election being called for the election of all elected officials with both city and township residents voting.

And finally, the city attorney said the city could petition the county board of commissioners to annex and at the same time pass a resolution of intent that they would establish a nine-man charter commission with the township involved.

"I think we have enough problems without getting mixed up with the township," McRae told the council.

He claimed involving the township at this point would only prolong revision of the charter another two years.

He also said the township would be more willing to join the city if they had a homerule charter.

"I think we're only doing one-half the job when we can do all of it," McRae said about suggestions to amend the present Fourth Class City Charter.

After questioning how long it would take to draw up a new charter, Mayor Ed Hansen said one of the major questions to consider is whether or not the city wants to expand its boundary to include the township.

"This is strictly up to the voters of Charlevoix," refuted McRae.

Councilman Ray Wood said he had heard no requests from the township to merge.

'"Why are we planning for the township when they haven't asked?" Wood asked.

"I think we're only doing one-half the job, when we can do all of it."

--Ralph McRae

"I'm concerned about the council coming up with some goals and reasons first."

--Mayor Ed Hansen

Hansen said they need something to join first.

The Charlevoix mayor said if the city had some goals first it would make things easier.

"Are we trying to entice the township to join?" Wood continued.

"Why are we doing this?" Hansen said the issue was defeated five years ago because the public was not properly informed.

He said the city is going to have to have a plan and that if the township had been guaranteed representation five years ago, the township and city would be one unit now.

John Schroder, chairman of Charlevoix's Charter Committee, said the township is going to have to have equal representation if the city ever expects an affirmative vote.

He also questioned why the city wanted a charter that was so old.

Schroder then listed a variety of reasons why the city should consider changing homerule.

Among these were a list of duties for a city administrator, placing city government on a non-partisan basis and electing councilmen at large to get the best people.

"I don't think it's the council, it's the people," Mrs. Wallace said.

She said the people are

Charlevoix Given Lands By Flint Summer Couple

A Flint couple's love for Charlevoix has left the city with 10 more acres of property, including 1,126 feet of Lake Michigan frontage, south of Mt. McSauba.

The generous gift came Monday night in the form of a letter from Mr. and Mrs. Peter D. Kleinpell, who said they were concerned about the amount of land available to the public.

"For a number of years my wife, Joan M. Kleinpell, and I have appreciated the amenities of Charlevoix and the hospitality of its people," Kleinpell said in his letter.

"We would like to express our appreciation in a tangible, enduring way for the benefit of all those who now enjoy, and all those who will enjoy, 'Charlevoix, the Beautiful.'"

In a telephone interview Monday, Kleinpell said he decided to give the property to the city after learning that Nate Cummings had sold his Lake Charlevoix estate, "The Anchorage," for more than $¾ million to Herbert Dow of Dow Chemical Company.

He said it was at that time, both he and his wife, realized how difficult it would be for the city to consider purchasing any more public land.

Kleinpell said they liked Mt. McSauba and felt that it was lacking in lake frontage.

The Flint building supplier said they acquired the property nearly 10 years ago and still plan to keep their summer home that adjoins the parcel they are giving to the city.

City Attorney Don Berlage said that while it is not mandatory, the Kleinpells hoped the property would be become a part of the Mt. McSauba park area and left in its natural state.

Ron Stebbins of the Little Traverse Conservatory also asked that the council keep non-motorized vehicles off the property.

Kleinpell added that he hoped other adjacent property owners would consider turning over their lake frontage to the city for public use.

In other action, council:

–Denied a variance request from Mr. and Mrs. Jack Russell to add a office and home unit to the Airport Motel.

–Tabled action of insurance to a special meeting called for next Monday.

Still Under Investigation

Judge Reibel Sells 'Fleet'

By TOM DAMMANN

New owners of the tug boat North Shore and oil barge, Tanker II, once dubbed "Judge Arthur Reibel's fleet" took command of the vessels over the weekend.

According to Thomas Mulder, Grand Rapids Attorney representing the National Bank and Trust Co. of Traverse City which held a mortgage on the vessels, they were purchased from Reibel by the Beaver Island Co-op Company Friday.

The sum paid for the vessels, said to be worth $85,000, was not disclosed, but Mulder said it was sufficient to pay off some $35,000 covering a mortgage and delinquent interest payments which Judge Reibel owed the bank.

The bank held "a preferred marine mortgage" in the amount of $30,000 which comes under the exclusive jurisdiction of the federal courts, Mulder explained.

So, when Reibel became delinquent, the bank retained Mulder to institute foreclosure proceedings.

Mulder said that contained in Friday's purchase agreement is the stipulation that the foreclosure action be dismissed.

The sale is also in compliance with instruction to Reibel by the state supreme court administrator to divest himself of commercial properties which could make him subject to conflict of interest charges, Reibel has said.

An investigation of Reibel by the Michigan Judicial Tenure Commission is still pending.

It had been requested by Deputy Supreme Court Administrater John Mayer in September. Mayer said his office had been unable to resolve a variety of problems involving Reibel's private business and possible discrepancies in reports of case dispositions.

Reibel had no comment to make on the investigation but said early last week that the sale of his boats might help keep fuel costs down for Beaver Islanders, since the new company will provide competition with the Beaver Island Transit Co., operator of the vessels Beaver Islander and South Shore.

Paul Welke, 25, of St. James and manager of Beaver Island Co-Op Co., said the North Shore and Barge will be used to supply the firm's fuel oil sales division on the island.

Strong Opposition

Rail Battle Continues

By PEG OHLE

TRAVERSE CITY –Strong opposition to the proposed abandonment of Penn Central Railroad service from Cedar Springs to Mackinaw City was voiced by the Northwest Michigan Regional Planning & Development Commission last week.

In a resolution passed on motion of Emmet County Commissioner Ang Smith and seconded by Charlevoix County Commissioner John Kujawski, the group cited several reasons why such abandonment would be detrimental to the welfare of residents of Northwestern Michigan.

Brought out was the fact that the Region's present highway system includes no freeways or limited access highways and is already overloaded with passenger and freight vehicles, particularly in the summer months.

Also, that major highway improvements in the State highway system, other than widening and safety improvements in the Region, will not be completed for at least another decade, based on plans of the Department of State Highways and Transportation.

Shortage of petroleum fuels, once again of major concern throughout the country, was also cited in the resolution, which reads in part,

"Rail transportation not only is often the least expensive form of transportation for the user, but also is one of the most, if not the most, energy-efficient form of transportation....The entire nation is beset with a serious shortage of petroleum fuels with a need for wiser use of these fuel resources in the future."

Environmental considerations in the proposed abandonment were considered in the resolution in a section which read, "More freight trains traveling on existing railroads probably pose a much smaller threat of continued environmental destruction that do many more individual tractor-trailer vehicles emitting pollution up and down highways."

Penn Central has not tried to operate a successful business, according to the resolution.

"Many of the Region's users of rail freight service – service provided by the Penn Central and by other railroads – have said they often have been discouraged from using the service because of what has appeared to be the railroad's unwillingness to maintain schedules, assure prompt service and prevent theft and damage to shipments," the resolution states and adds,

"The Penn Central has made little or no attempt to solicit more business in an effort to make its less-traveled routes more profitable; and the Penn Central's recent moves to abandon trackage throughout the Northest and Midwest have grown out of the railroad's bankrupt condition, a condition possibly brought on more by corporate blunder than by lack of public support of rail transportation."

A group of citizens in Northwestern Michigan, under the guidance of the Regional Commission, during the last two months secured over 5,000 signatures to a petition asking that more time be given for state and local planning before all railroads in the area are abandoned, as proposed by the United States Railway Association.

Park Hearing Tonight

A public meeting to discuss the Department of Natural Resources' use plan for the proposed Fisherman's Island park site located nearby along the shore of Lake Michigan will be held today (Wednesday).

The informational-type meeting is set to begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Charlevoix County Courthouse. It is expected to draw a large turnout in view of long-standing local support for state ownership of the key project area.

The proposed park site is located a few miles southwest of Charlevoix off US-31 in Norwood and Charlevoix townships. It draws its name from an approximate 4-acre dot of an island lying near the area's Lake Michigan coastline.

Oh....Please, Great Pumpkin Don't

I just can't keep it a secret anymore.

For more than 10 years, it has been bothering my conscience and I can't hold it in any longer.

I wish I hadn't done it, but it's too late, what's done is done.

No one around here would understand, but my seventh grade English teacher would.

I never wrote that letter to the Great Pumpkin.

Our fourth hour class was supposed to write to the Great Pumpkin, but I never could.

I just thought it was a lot of bunk and could never see myself fooling around with such silly stuff.

Who ever heard of writing to the Great Pumpkin?

A bunch of us thought it was a waste of time and we all decided not to do the assignment.

But alas, I ended up being the only one in the class who carried out his thoughts of not doing it.

I could never confess to my English teacher that I was the one.

And he was so right; anyone who didn't write would regret it the rest of his life.

It has been 10 long years and still I can't clear my conscience.

By now you're probably laughing at me and thinking the whole situation is really stupid.

But, don't you let the same thing happen to you that happened to me.

Every year about this time, I begin to tremble and wonder if this is going to be the year.

The shadows along the sidewalks seems to get larger and darker. The winds holler harder.

Every night before Hollowe'en, I lock my bedroom door and snuggle deeper in bed covers hoping this won't be the year.

I seem to have the shakes right up until Hallowe'en night and then they disappear for another year.

No one around our office even understands the Great Pumpkin.

They say they've never heard of him and only laugh and scoff at such thoughts.

But, I know better and they'll eventually find why I am the way I am.

Each year on Hallowe'en night, the Great Pumpkin rises out of the pumpkin patch that he thinks is the most sincere and flies through the air with his pack of toys for all the good little children in the world.

While many are out wearing costumes they've made to help them "Trick or Treat," true belivers wait in their pumpkin patches to see if the Great Pumpkin will visit them.

Linus of Peanuts is one who has waited many years on Hallowe'en to see if the Great Pumpkin will come to his patch.

Lucy, Charlie Brown and all his friends have always laughed and gone "trick or treating."

Even Snoopy thought it was the funniest thing he had ever heard.

The only person who thought Linus just might be right about the Great Pumpkin has been Sally. And even she has had her doubts.

See Pumpkin page 15

Townships Face Local Issues

By FRAN MARTIN

Seven of the 15 townships in Charlevoix county will have local issues on the ballot in the Nov. 5 general election, a factor that is expected to result in a large turnout in these areas.

Four proposals will be asking the approval of zoning ordinances which were placed in effect earlier; three will relate to millage requests; one to the sale of spirits and a fourth the confirmation of a franchise granted to an electric cooperative.

Bay, Boyne Valley, Hudson and Melrose townships will be asking that the zoning ordinances, which became effective as the result of township board action, be continued.

All but Melrose township had vetoed the county-wide zoning ordinance in the referendum vote of August 1973. Following the defeat of county-wide zoning ordinance, Bay and Melrose townships adopted interim ordinances on the day of the election. Since then all four townships have compiled ordinances meant to meet the needs of their respective townships.

The township board of Boyne Valley township approved and put into effect its zoning ordinance on July 20; the Bay township board adopted its ordinance Aug. 8; Melrose, Aug.. 13 and Hudson township Aug. 15.

It is these ordinances that the voters of the four townships will be asked to continue.

A yes vote will continue the ordinance as approved by the township board; a no vote will veto the ordinance.

Charlevoix, Hayes and Marion township voters will be considering millage issues.

While Charlevoix township voters will be given two proposals, both relate to the millage issue. Proposal No. 1 asks that the 15 mill limitation be increased by 2.5 mills for five years beginning Dec. 1975 and continuing through Dec. 1979 with the funds to be used for general operating costs and capital improvements. Proposal No. 2 asks permission for the township board to levy the 2.5 mills, if needed, for five years for the purposes stated above.

Voters are reminded that they should vote the same on both issues; that is, if you vote yes on Proposal No. 1 then you should vote yes on Proposal No. 2. Or, if you vote no on one

COMMON COUNCIL

OCTOBER 7, 1974
8:00 p.m.

The Common Council of the City of Charlevoix met on the above date and time with Mayor Hansen presiding. Present: Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen Wood, McRae, Plumm, Selph and Timms. Absent: None.

The minutes of the September 23, 1974 Regular Meeting were approved as presented in writing and as recorded in the Council Minutes Book.

The minutes of the Special Council Meeting of September 30, 1974 were approved as presented in writing and as recorded in the Council Minutes Book.

Council recessed to the Board of Appeals.

Council reconvened, roll call was taken with the following present: Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen Wood, McRae, Plumm, Selph, and Timms. Absent: None.

Motion was made by Alderwoman Wallace and supported by Alderman Timms that the City employees selection of Norman Empey as delegate and George Smith as alternate delegate for the employees be certified and that Ida Heise be selected as delegate and Robert Wexstaff as alternate delegate to represent the Municipality at the Michigan Municipal Retirement Annual Meeting in Traverse City, October 28, 1974. The motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen Wood, McRae, Plumm, Selph, and Timms. Nays: None: Absent: None.

Alderman McRae's request for Council to consider the City government lowering utility rates for residents living wholly on income from Social Security payments and other inadequate pensions was discussed briefly and put into the Finance Committee for study and fact finding. They were requested to report back to Council within thirty days.

Robert Cook, representing the Charlevoix Regional Planning Commission, addressed Council asking them to consider the draft of Articles of Incorporation of the Charlevoix Area Sewage Disposal and Water Supply Authority, previously present to them. He asked Council to consider meeting with the Charlevoix Township in a joint meeting giving a tentative date October 16, 1974. The matter was put into Committee as a Whole, meeting to be held October 14, 1974.

Motion was made by Alderman Selph and supported by Alderman Timms that the Utility Committee recommends that Council reject bids taken August 12, 1974 for all trucks. The motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen Wood, McRae, Plumm, Selph, and Timms. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Alderman Selph offered the following Resolution, supported by Alderman McRae. RESOLVED THAT the City of Charlevoix purchase a new 1974 Chevrolet Three-quarter ton truck from the Charlevoix Oil Company to be used for the aerial devise for $3866.00. The Resolution was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen Wood, McRae, Plumm, Selph, and Timms. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Alderman Selph offered the following Resolution, supported by Alderman Timms. RESOLVED THAT the City of Charlevoix purchase a new 1974 one ton Chevrolet truck (10,000 G.V.W.) at a price not to exceed $4,002. The Resolution was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen Wood, McRae, Plumm, Selph, and Timms. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Mayor Hansen read an invitation to the Council members to attend an open meeting to be held October 10, 1974 at 8:00 p.m. in the Council Room; held for the purpose of the Charter Study Committee to report their findings of their study of charters made on Fourth Class and Home Rule Cities. The invitation was also extended to the public.

Alderman Wood inquired again about the sign and steps leading to Lake Michigan Beach. Mr. Wexstaff advised that the Corp of Engineers will rebuild the steps at the end of River Street to Lake Michigan. He also asked about complaints regarding the City's radio system and asked that some consideration be given to snow removal at night stating that he thought perhaps a better plan can be worked out than has been done in the past.

Alderman McRae announced that the Clerk was trying out a dictaphone for taking Council Minutes. He also introduced Terry Edger from the local radio station.

Alderwoman Wallace asked if assessments had been made on the new sidewalk on Park Avenue. Mr. Wexstaff claimed that Mr. McDermitt and the Sandcastle had been billed. Mr. Taylor did not agree to have sidewalk replaced. She asked if leaves could be dumped in some other area other than over the bank on Park Avenue, claiming that it is killing some of the trees.

Attorney Berlage read from a letter dated 10/4/74 that the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District wishes to exercise its option to purchase the 1.8 acres adjoining their Service Center. He was asked to research it and report at the next meeting. He also asked if Council wishes to adopt the Uniform Traffic Code. He was instructed to research this further.

The Finance Committee having examined bills totaling $136,667.96 find them correct and recommend that the bills be allowed. Moved by Alderman Plumm and supported by Alderman Selph that the bills be allowed and orders drawn for their amounts. The motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen Wood, McRae, Plumm, Selph, and Timms. Nays: None. Absent: None.

The meeting adjourned.

BOARD OF APPEALS
OCTOBER 7, 1974
8:15 p.m.

The Meeting of the Board of Appeals met on the above date and time with Mayor Hansen presiding. Present: Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen Wood, McRae, Plumm, Selph, and Timms.

Mayor Hansen announced that the purpose of the meeting was for the Board of Appeals to again consider the request for a variance by The Dunes Condominium to construct twenty carports.

John Campbell Landscape Architect presented a sketch and explanation of their proposal as outlined on permit No. 191 asking for a variance of 17 feet and a set-back of 8 feet from the front boundary to provide for berm and plantings.

After considerable discussion as to the type of roof to be used and how much the roof would be lowered a twenty minute recess was called to allow citizens present an opportunity to see the sketch.

Mayor Hansen called the meeting back to order. He read a statement from the applicant as follows: "There is no other way to furnish covered parking space, as required by the number of units, except in the location on the lot as proposed. The only other feasable possibility is to build up against the main building which would cut off air and light from the building and result in a build-up of water." This, Mayor Hansen continued, is the presentation of "practical difficulty" in the criteria under which the application for variance has been made.

Citizens present, after seeing the sketch, and hearing further discussion expressed their views and felt that Mr. Steffes' proposal was a good plan and could be acceptable.

The motion of Mr. Ralph McRae, put in final form by the City Attorney, Donald Berlage, is as follows: I Ralph McRae, move the variance be granted. That the Board feels the developer has established practical difficulty and that plan, that variance is granted on the condition that the pitch of the carport roof structure is lowered to that of 1½ inch per foot and the variance is granted on the condition on the developer's representation, affirmative representation to the Board that he will use his best efforts in obtaining permission to erect the guard rail on the sidewalk at the developer's expense.

MR. HANSEN: You have heard the motion, is there a second?

MR. PLUMM: I will second.

MR. HANSEN: Seconded by Mr. Plumm.

Any questions? (No response) Are there any questions by the Council on the motion? (No response).

Roll was taken and the motion passed unanimously.

MR. HANSEN: The motion is carried.

The Board of Appeals then reviewed the request for variance of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Russell to construct a small addition to an existing northern-most cabin for living quarters at 1526 South Bridge Street.

Motion was made by Alderwoman Wallace and supported by Alderman McRae that this meeting be adjourned and Mr. Russell's request be referred to the Planning Commission for their consideration and that a Special Board of Appeals Meeting be held October 21, 1974. Motion approved by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen Wood, McRae, Plumm, Selph, and Timms. Nays: None. Absent: None.

The Board of Appeals meeting adjourned.

Incumbent County Commissioners in six of the nine Districts in Western Charlevoix County face opposition at the polls November 5.

All of the incumbents are Republicans and all of the challengers are Democrats.

In District Two, Republican Clyde Cunningham and Democrat Robert J. Wasoski are the candidates. Cunningham is a dairy farmer and Wasoski is a county veteran's counselor. District Two is comprised of Marion, Norwood, Peaine and St. James Townships.

Republican Clayton A. Smith and Democrat Tusco D. Heath are opponents in District Three. Smith is a fruit grower and Heath is a teacher at North Central Michigan College as well as a horseman. Charlevoix and Hayes Townships make up District Three

In District Four, Republican Ira L. Davis and Democrat Donna Van Dorn are seeking office. Davis is a right of way coordinator for Northern Michigan Rural Electic Cooperative. Miss Van Dorn works at the Gulf & Western plant in East Jordan. District Four covers Bay and Evangeline Townships.

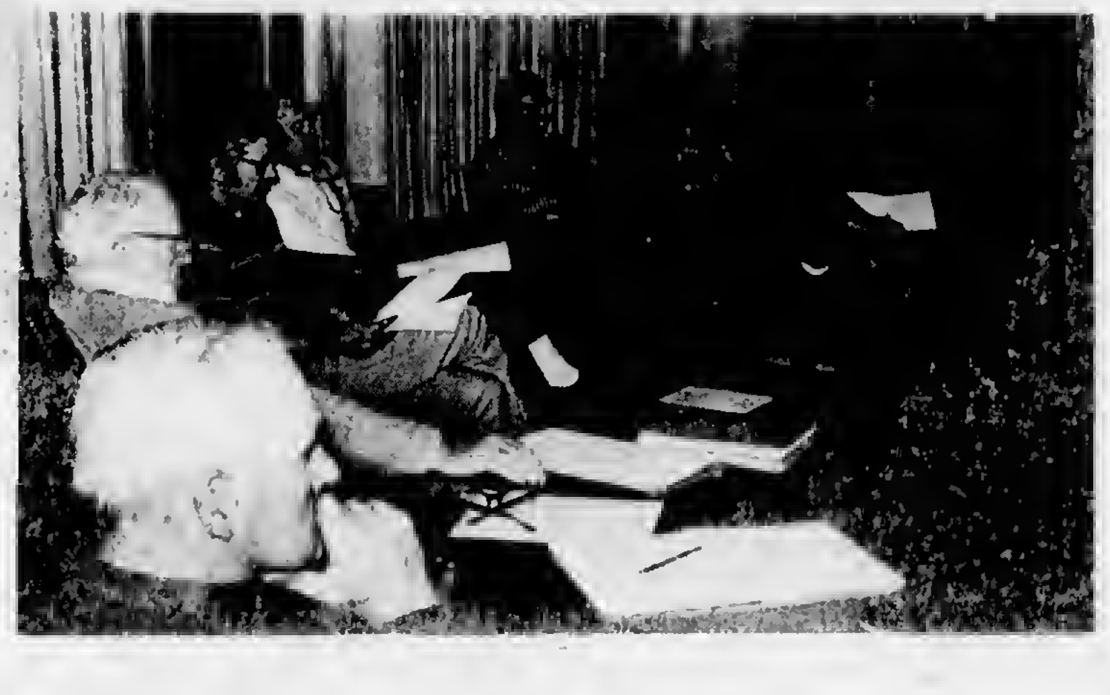
Republican Ralph Richardson and Democrat John E. Vrondran are candidates in District Five. Richardson is a beef farmer and Vrondran operates a restaurant. Eveline and Wilson Townships make up Districe Five.

The contest in District Eight is between Republican Thora Kolowich and Democrat Melvin Niswander. Mrs Kotowich operates a sporting goods shop with her husband. Niswander is a carpenter. District Eight is the southern part of the City of East Jordan

In District Nine, the northern part of the City of East Jordan, candidates are Republican Barney R. Milstein and Democrat Patricia A. Betz. Milstein is a retiree and Mrs. Betz a housewife

Republican Kenneth A. Staley and Democrat Oscar W. Ward are opponents in District Fourteen. Staley operates a grocery store and Ward is in the taxi business. District Fourteen is made up of the southwestern section of the City of Charlevoix.

Republican Delbert Ingalls is unopposed in District One, South Arm Township; Republican Donald R. Meggison is unopposed in District Thirteen, the northeastern part of the City of Charlevoix; and Republican I Lee Moerland is unopposed in District Fifteen, the southeastern part of the City of Charlevoix.



BOTH CHARLEVOIX and Charlevoix Township officials met last week in Charlevoix City Hall for an informative meeting on forming a sewer authority between the two local governmental units.

Charlevoix Considers Sewer Authority

Charlevoix and Charlevoix Township officials met for a second time Wednesday night to explore possibilities for forming a joint sewer-water authority.

However, discussion for forming an authority drew sharp criticism from at least one resident.

During the two-hour meeting, local officials heard John Johnson of the Harbor Springs Area Sewage Disposal Authority discuss how Harbor Springs, Alanson along with Little Traverse and Littlefield Townships formed a joint system.

Johnson emphasized the need for communication between the communities and authority, as well as a long range plan that will show how the authority will grow.

"We do nothing in our authority that we don't go back and check with our townships and city first," he told some 20 people meeting in the Charlevoix City Council room.

The authority official also stressed that they had to combine a little ecology with practicability when putting mains through environmentally sensitive areas.

When asked how the authority brought new groups into the system and insuring they pay their fair share, Johnson said it was merely a bookkeeping problem that can be worked out.

However, he stressed that any prospective members had to first be approved by the entire authority.

He also said that while the state could probably dictate that someone be allowed to join, experience had shown them that they had control of their own authority as long as they followed their regional development plan.

Tom Duke of Charlevoix said he was against Charlevoix considering the move, primarily because of the burden of indebtness it would place upon local taxpayers.

The one-time candidate for city council cited a recent Detroit newspaper story that told of how farmers were forced to sell out portions of

County Receives Funds For Local Job Training

Charlevoix County has been allocated $81,276 under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act for the fiscal year 1975.

These funds are for public service employment and manpower training programs for unemployed and underemployed persons in areas of substantial unemployment.

Special emphasis is placed on hiring and training Vietnam veterans, welfare recipients, handicapped workers and older workers.

The county was allocated $72,269 under this program for the fiscal year 1974 and divided the allocation for 15 jobs among several county agencies, including the Road Commission, Charlevoix Public Schools, District Health Department, Twin Valley Public Schools, Boyne Falls Public Schools, Char-Em Intermediate School District, and County Government.

No employment schedule has as yet been set up for the 1975 allocation, but County Clerk Clarence Rabach says the money will be used for employment in areas of greatest need in the country.

Ford Asks For Support In Inflation Fight

As a result of his appeal for tips on conserving energy and fighting inflation, President Ford has received nearly 2,000 letters.

His press office has taken a batch of those letters and asked us to pass some of them on to our readers.

Here's some of what they call the "best and most interesting ideas:"

ADVICE TO THE PRESIDENT

If citizens advisors to the President had their way about it, all Americans would become walkers or bicyclists or bus riders or, at least, car poolers.

Suggestions for keeping the family car idle or in very limited use appear most frequently on the lists of Americans responding to President Ford's plea for advice on conserving energy and beating inflation.

Other suggestions dealing with the family gas buggy call for combining various shopping errands into one trip, observing the 55-mile speed limit, and keeping tires inflated at 30 pounds to improve gasoline mileage.

Advice to substitute light bulbs of lower wattage except in reading lamps came from a Milwaukee realtor, who also

"Just because you can afford it, don't hoard scarce items. It may drive the prices out of sight for poor people with big families. Don't feel it is necessary to eat and drink everything in sight. Just consume what you need for good health. You'll be rewarded by a better figure, too."

The same man urged that housewives fill the oven when they bake, alternate the use of a vacuum cleaner with an ordinary carpet sweeper to save electricity, and use warm or cold water in the laundry instead of hot whenever feasible.

He further advised repairing tears "to realize big savings in clothing and linens," and added:

"Adopt this philosophy in buying clothing and furniture: 'If I'd have to borrow the money to pay for it, I'll wait until I've saved the money first.' You'll save an amazing amount in interest, also; and you'll buy everything more wisely when you've had to plan and save for it."

A Chicago trade paper publisher was primarily concerned with turning off unnecessary lights -- not just those in his own house but those in office buildings.

Said he: "I drove along Lake Shore Drive the other night around 1 a.m. and the office buildings were lit up like Christmas trees. This goes on all over the country and it costs millions of dollars in energy. It must be stopped."

A Yonkers, New York, woman was concerned that people not burn lights on sunny days and that housewives wait for a full load before using the dishwasher.

UNICEF Needs Everyone's Help This Halloween

In 1974, a year of soaring food and fertilizer prices as well as adverse weather conditions, the world has been forced to recognize the spectre of imminent famine in many developing countries.

For the first time in its history, the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF) has felt compelled to declare a World Child Emergency.

In "normal" times civilization faces the challenge of 10 million children close to starvation; this year the number has risen to a chilling 400-500 million.

Every day famine pushes its path further around the equator. Last year it came to prominence after years of devastating drought in West Africa and Ethiopia.

Already it is making its mark in India, and in such areas as Bangladesh, Bolivia, Central America and the Caribbean hunger is a way of life--but one that cannot last long.

UNICEF's emergency relief combines the efficiency of long experience and the urgency of this unprecedented crisis.

It has been rushing high-protein food and intravenous rehydration fluids to children and mothers in drought-stricken West Africa and Ethiopia.

UNICEF is also supplying well-drilling equipment to these areas to provide the desperately-needed clean water for drinking and sanitation. As part of longer-range emergency actions UNICEF will assist governments with nutrition policies and education, food production and the monitoring of the overall child situation.

An estimated $40 to $50 million more a year will be needed for several years to help alleviate the problem.

When Trick-or-Treaters come to your home collecting for UNICEF this Hallowe'en, remember the spectre of children with no doors to knock on for their vital food.

Remember there are now at least forty times as many, and give as proportionately as you can. Behind all the glitter of make-believe, real-live skeletons haunt our world.

Council Objects To Story

October 15, 1974

The Charlevoix Courier
111 Bridge Street
Charlevoix, Michigan 49720

Att: The Editor

The City of Charlevoix Council proceedings for Sept. 23, 1974, had many worthy items on the agenda. You chose only to report on one subject. Newspapers are about the only means the Council has of communicating with the Public. Un-informed people are mis-informed people. It is regretable that the residents of our town were not also told the following:

1. Airport Manager's contract renewed for one year.
2. HUD Flood Insurance program now available to people who need it.
3. Council members to select a committee of three citizens to look into Senior Housing for the retired people of Charlevoix.
4. Council adopts BOCA Building Code for Charlevoix.
5. Council authorized the purchase of an Aerial Lift Unit.
6. Passed resolution giving $.50 cents an hour raise to election inspectors.
7. Paid bills amounting to $85,031.26.

All the above were considered important and it would please the Council that this letter be published in its entirety in the next issue of the Charlevoix Courier.

CITY OF CHARLEVOIX
Committee AS A Whole
Mayor Edward P. Hansen

BLESS THE PRESS

EDITOR'S NOTE: We appreciate the council's interest and point out that because of shortage of space that week, we deviated from our normal routine of covering the council actions. We feel the council is most important and often stay up to 3 a.m. after Monday night's council meeting to get council news before we go to press Tuesday morning. We would also again ask council for any advance background material of items on the agenda to help facilitate our gathering of news.

Help Mental Health Clinic By Going to Benefit Dance

Charlevoix Courier
111 Bridge Street
Charlevoix, Michigan 49720

Dear Sirs:

We would greatly appreciate your publishing the following public service information in your newspaper:

"The Eleventh Annual Benefit Dinner Dance for the Area Mental Health Clinic will be held on November 9 at the beautiful new Boyne Mountain Convention Center. Cocktails at 7 p.m. will be followed by dinner and dancing to the music of John Wynn's Dance Band.

This annual event is the only fund-raising project of the clinic, which serves a four county area. Strong local support is imperative to help provide the local share, amounting to 25 percent, of the operating budget. The remaining 75 percent comes from the State Act 54 Board as "matching funds."

Of particular interest to Charlevoix residents is the projected opening this year of a satellite clinic to serve its community. A staff member of the clinic and a secretary will be in Charlevoix full time after April 1, 1975.

The three new branch offices will more equally distribute the clinic's facilities among the residents of Charlevoix, Emmet, Cheboygan and Otsego Counties.

Services provided by the clinic include private, group, marital and family counseling, a variety of psychological testing, planning for the mentally retarded, and chemotherapy. Last year the clinic worked with over 600 individuals, with the addition of the satellite clinics.

Tax deductible tickets may be purchased in Charlevoix from Mrs. Robert Tollas and Mrs. Robert Bergmann, and in Petoskey from the clinic office, 603 E. Lake St. The benefit is not invitational all are urged to come and enjoy a festive evening."

Clockwise

By BOB CLOCK

If there's one thing I object to in American politics it is the godawful amount of time our representative must spend shaking hands and kissing babies.

There must be a better way to get elected—or re-elected but I don't know what it is.

Aa you know, Congress closed up shop last week and all of its members scattered to the four winds to do a little electioneering before their constituents visit the polls Nov. 5.

Poor Wilbur Mills had to hie himself back to Arkansas, black eye and all, to attempt to explain away his much publicized night on the town with the Argentine stripper.

Wilbur certainly is going to do a lot of tall explaining before the home folks in Arkansas send him back to Washington. (But they will. In the Bible Belt they may hate the sin, but they sure love the sinner.)

The next three weeks will be a lot easier on the rest of our representatives who didn't hoist a few with "Fanne Fox--the Argentine Bombshell", or whatever name she goes by professionally.

But still they'll have to be on their toes explaining how they voted and why to the guy next door.

And if the guy next door is out of work and his kids are starving, Mr. Congressman is going to have a pretty good explanation of why the federal government has let the country slip ever deeper into the twin evils of inflation and recession.

All of this came to mind the other day when I ran into our own Congressman Phil Ruppe in Petoskey. Mr. Ruppe was buoyant and happy over the seeming success of President Ford's "WIN" program, although the program, for what it's worth, is scarcely dry behind the ears.

Mr. Ruppe said he visited one factory in the Upper Peninsula the other day and the workers asked him where they could get "WIN" buttons. Oh, boy! He saw it as a sign that the people are going to voluntarily pitch in, pull in their belts and lick inflation once and for all.

Mr. Ruppe actually believes that the Ford program can put the brakes on inflation--and this is the tragic message he probably will preach throughout the 13th Congressional District between now and election day. And some folks are going to believe him.

Frankly, I'd rather have Mr. Ruppe back in Washington working with his colleagues on a program that not only will stop inflation in its tracks but also turn back prices to reasonable levels.

And this is going to take tough legislation with teeth in it.

For my money, there is no such thing as a "reasonable rate of inflation."

But, true to the GOP line, Mr. Ruppe is confident that Mr. Ford's "marshmallow" is all the country needs. Period.

The problem with the Ford program, as I see it, is that it is merely an attempt to sweet-talk the American people into living with inflation.

And, that, unfortunately, is not what I want.

I want my dollar to be worth something. I want to be able to eat steak a couple of times a year without taking out a second mortgage on the house. I want to be able to hop in my car two or three times a year and drive to Detroit, Muskegon or Sault Ste. Marie, without having to get a bank loan. I would like to be able to buy shoes and clothes for the kids without having to wonder where the money is coming from.

Mr. Ford gave a friendly little talk the other night on TV about all of the things Americans can do to save their precious dollars. But the Clocks have practiced Mr. Ford's little economies for more than a year now and we simply are running out of ways to cut back.

That's why I object to my congressman prancing around northern Michigan shaking hands, election or not.

I'd rather have him back in Washington trying to solve my problems.

Society Announces Programs

The Charlevoix Courier
Bridge Street
Charlevoix, Mich.

Attn.: Ken Winter

Dear Ken:

The American Cancer Society appreciates very much, all the fine coverage you've given us over the past months. Hope we can prevail on you once again for some help.

First, on Wednesday, October 23rd, there will be a two hour program on television channel 29 (WGTU) from 4 to 6 p.m. The program is entitled "Breast Cancer–Where We Are."

And second, on November 14 (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m. there will be a meeting held in the Community Room of the First State Bank Bldg., sponsored by the American Cancer Society, and their "Reach to Recovery" program. This ongoing program which is conducted nationwide is one in which former Mastectomy patients contact patients who have just had the operation. They attempt, through visits and the sharing of a common operation. Featured at the meeting, will be a film, a talk by Dr. Harry Custer of the Charlevoix Area Hospital, and a demonstration of Prosthesis Hardware by Walenta Pharmacy.

Area doctors have been urged to contact their former Mastectomy patients, but it is hoped that any coverage you could give us may reach some that may not be contacted, and of course anyone interested in the program is urged to attend.

Sincerely yours,

Pete Pace

If it Fitz

Please Don't Come Clean

By JIM FITZGERALD

If the Food and Drug Administration had spoken up sooner, maybe those mushrooms wouldn't have grown in our shower and I'd be $500 richer.

You remember the mushroom fiasco. My wife said she'd kill me if I wrote about the cruddy little things that kept growing between the tiles.

"Just because you are married to an editor, you cannot tamper with the Freedom of the Press," I told her bravely. And I wrote about the mushrooms.

As you probably guessed, she didn't kill me. In fact, her assault was relatively mild, when you consider the provocation, and the doctors say I may be able to play tennis again someday. My vision had cleared and most of the tennis racket has been surgically removed from my head.

Mushrooms grew in our shower because mushrooms usually grow where it is forever wet. It is forever wet in our shower because my family believes everything it sees on television. A person who does not wash body and hair twice a day will never make out, never make friends, never make the team, and never make more than $1.68 an hour. This soapy world shows no compassion for the man who cannot see over his own dandruff.

So there was no way my wife was going to quit watering the mushrooms. Instead she had a new shower installed with excess grout between the tiles (If you don't know what grout is, you haven't been paying attention. Go kiss a bricklayer.) The $500 expenditure is supposed to keep mushrooms out of the shower. Maybe. It will for sure keep steak out of my mouth.

Certainly it would have been cheaper to starve the mushrooms out by cutting off their water. I suggested to my wife that maybe our family bathed too much and she whipped me across the face with her rubber duck. It was no use–then.

But now comes a government study made by the Food and Drug Administration (FDA). It says deodorant soaps may be harmful because they kill too many germs. Oh my. Life can be beautiful, though dirty.

Some germs on the skin serve a "protective function." If they are killed for the sake of smelling good, the FDA said, worse germs may take their place.

Also, the FDA said it's concerned because soap chemicals are absorbed into the bloodstream and it may be dangerous to expose "the entire body surface to these chemicals when alternative methods of odor control are available." (An offensive alternative could be perfume. Or a defensive alternative could be to squeeze your nose firmly between your thumb and forefinger.)

Remember hexachlorophene? It used to star on lots of soap commercials. No more. Now you need a prescription to buy the stuff. The FDA said hexachlorophene was a possible cause of brain damage.

And now there are similar fears about a Dial ingredient–triclocarban. You should use it continuously for only 1 year, the FDA said, "unless extensive tests are made to determine its impact on reproductive organs, the brain and spleen." Geez. Thank God I've never known my son to stay in the shower longer than 8 months.

These terrifying facts should be enough to scare both man and mushroom. With this in mind, I read the entire FDA report to my family every night. So far, no one has heard me over the noise of the shower running.

Onward and Upward.

Meet Charlevoix

Meet Gary Bailey

Gary Bailey recently moved to Charlevoix as the manager of Saginaw Savings and Loan.

Today, the Charlevoix Courier asks Bailey to discuss a little bit about his organization and the current economic situation.

Bailey has a degree from Ferris State College in business administration with a strong background in accounting and banking.

He is a member of Lion's Club, the American Legion and the Chamber of Commerce.

Bailey and his wife, Connie, have two children.

COURIER: What is your background in the savings and loan business?

BAILEY: When I initially started with Saginaw Savings I was in a management training program and I spent months in mortgage, savings installment, branch operations and after finishing the training, I went out to my first branch. I spent two years in a branch and from there went back into the home office and spent another four months in the installment department and from there I was transferred to Charlevoix. I've had ten outside courses with the American Savings and Loan Institute in savings and loans business and have received a certificate for my efforts from them.

COURIER: What is the difference between a bank and savings and loan association?

BAILEY: The primary function of a savings and loan has always been residential housing. Probably around 60 percent of the homes financed in the United States are financed by savings and loan. A savings and loan by law can offer a higher rate of interest on savings passbook or certificates because they have to loan a major portion of their assets in housing. Also the members of a savings and loan are people who deposit and borrow money from the association, where as in a bank the members are stockholders. Members in a savings and loan are eligible to vote for directors and set policies for the savings and loan, where in a bank only stockholders are the ones who vote for officers and set policies. A savings and loan cannot have a checking account, but there is legislation now trying to have checking accounts for savings and loans.

COURIER: Do you feel there is enough room for savings and loan in a small community like Charlevoix that already has two banks?

BAILEY: Yes, I do. The reason being that Saginaw Savings can offer the community more flexible policies on mortgage lending and also a higher rate of interest on passbooks. Saginaw Savings has many flexible programs that are geared to helping the individual in purchasing a home. I also feel that a savings and loan can relieve the pressure on banks so that they can loan money in other areas. I think it is good for competition and it gives the people of the community a better chance of getting the best rate and program in purchasing their home.

COURIER: Can you tell us a little bit about Saginaw Savings?

BAILEY: Saginaw Savings has 14 branches with three in Northern Michigan. We have been in business since 1888. Presently we have $190 million assets, in comparison, we are the 11th biggest saving and loan in Michigan and that is out of 65. We rank 228th out of the 5,000 savings and loan associations in the United States. The Charlevoix office has been open since March of this year. We have a smaller staff in comparison to the banks because we are computerized and therefore can give quicker and more accurate service to the customer. A lot of people don't realize we have an installment department, in which we can loan on such things like cars, snowmobiles, mobile homes and home improvements. We also offer the highest rate of interest in a savings account or certificate in the State of Michigan.

COURIER: What is the local economic picture for Charlevoix at this time"

BAILEY: The present mortgage market in Charlevoix County has the same type picture as the economy of the nation. Generally there is a lack of mortgage funds and high interest rates. This is a result of the government's monetary policies on tight money and credit. The government has drained mortgage money by offering more and higher and attractive investments for individuals. What's taking effect now is instead of a bank or savings loans making investments, individuals are making direct investments.

COURIER: What can Saginaw Savings and Loan do to help the economic situation in Charlevoix?

BAILEY: When mortgage funds become more available Saginaw Savings can offer more flexible and lucrative programs to any individual who would qualify for a loan. They can also offer higher interest rates on the individuals money so that they will get a greater return. The savings and loan can offer the individual installment loans and at the same time offer more services to the community.

4-H Holds Annual Dinner

Charlevoix County 4-H members and their leaders will be given recognition for their accomplishments in various fields at an Awards Dinner, Saturday evening at Whiting Park.

The awards, mostly medals and pins, are furnished by industries and businesses throughout the state, and are distributed through the state 4-H office.

4-H leaders will receive certificates and pins for their work with the various groups.

Watch Out For Masks

Be Safe This Halloween Holiday

Hallowe'en is fun for the kids but there are also dangers involved in "tricks or treating".

A spokesman for the Charlevoix elementary school stresses that Hallowe'en safety begins with a "be seen costume".

"Wear something that shows up in the dark," she said.

The Michigan Optometric Association also emphasizes the importance of children wearing something that makes them visible. It suggests that retro-reflective material be used on purchased or made-at-home costumes.

"Children in dark clothing are the most susceptible to automobile accidents, but even white clothing is safely visible only at lower speeds," the Association reports.

"On the other hand, optometric studies at Indiana University found that retro-reflective material is safely visible at speeds of 70 and 80 miles per hour," it adds.

Retro-reflective material is available in either iron-on or sew-on fabrics and tape, so children can make up their own designs. However, it should be used so that they will be visible from front, back and sides.

Children must also be able to see properly to be safe on Hallowe'en. Masks should fit properly and eye holes should be large enough so that the wearer's vision will not be impaired.

Makeup instead of masks as a disguise is advocated by some. The makeup should be of the nonallergic type and applied carefully by an adult to avoid getting particles in the eyes.

The school spokesman also suggested that children only go into neighborhoods where they are known and that all treats be taken home and inspected by the parents before being eaten.

Homeowners who welcome "tricks or treaters" should turn on all porch and yard lights and be sure that toys and garden tools are put away so they won't be tripped over.

Battery-powered lights for children to carry provide further protection from injuries.

"Parents who accompany their children on Hallowe'en rounds should also add retro-reflective material to their clothing so that they, too, can be seen by motorists," is a final word of caution.

It's No Secret

Why Do Leaves Turn Colors?

It's not Jock Frost or the advent of cooler weather that turns leaves from green to bright yellows and reds. It's the shorter days of autumn.

Dr. Melvin Koelling, extension forester at Michigan State University, says that when the nights begin to lengthen in September, the production of chlorophyll diminishes while the breakdown of the old chlorophyll continues.

"With the loss of its chlorophyll, the leaf also loses its green color," Koelling explained.

"Most of the other color pigments are present in the leaves from the time they unfold in the spring, but are dominated throughout spring and summer by the chlorophyll.

Once the green is gone, the bright colors of autumn emerge. They are produced primarily by three pigments, either singly ar in combination – carotenoids, anthocyanins and tannins.

The yellow hues come from carotenoids, the same pigments found in carrots, daffodils, corn kernels, egg yolks and canaries.

Scarlet, lavender and purple colors come from the anthocyanins, or "blue flower" pigments, that are also found in Concord grapes, cranberries and many other fruits. These anthocyanin pigments are produced anew in autumn leaves, but the yellow pigments are present all summer.

Tannins are brown pigments that give the characteristic glossy brown color to autumn oak leaves. They are also present in tree bark, walnut shells, persimmons and bitter-tasting roots.

Weather affects leaf pigments in various ways, according to Koelling.

"Cool (but not freezing) nights and warm Indian summer days favor the production of colorful reds, lavenders and purples," he says. "On the other hand, temperatures below freezing kill the leaf cells so that new supplies of pigments can't be produced. When this happens, the leaves wither and turn dark.

"Direct sunlight stimulates the formation of red anthocyanin pigments, sometimes so powerfully that a partly shaded leaf will turn bright red on its sunlit portions but remain green or yellow on its shaded parts," Koelling explains.

Not all the factors that determine autumn colors are external, however. Some of inherited genetic characteristics are traditional to a particular species. For example the fall foliage of red maples is historically bright scarlet, that of the black maple a glowing translucent yellow, and that of oaks a glossy brown.

Trees kept artificially warm will still lose their leaves as the days become shorter, but trees lighted artificially for the same period each day will retain their leaves long after temperatures have dropped to wintry levels.

Falling Leaves

Watch Out For Those Burning Leaves

What can the homeowner do with all those leaves that have fallen to the ground in the last couple of weeks?

The Charlevoix Fire Department reports that they may be burned in the yard, but not in the street. City Clerk Ida Heise says she can find no ordinance prohibiting the burning of leaves within city limits, but that in 1952 a motion was passed to that effect.

Outside the city, in the townships, permits must be secured from the Department of Natural Resources to burn leaves in the yard or anywhere else, according to Matthew Skovera DNR Area Fire Supervisor.

The DNR also suggests that leaves not be raked into ditches where they can be washed into streams or lakes because of the polluting nutrients and silt they create.

Many farmers and gardeners find that the best way to dispose of leaves is to rake them into compost piles for future fertilizer.

Most homeowners, however, pack them into plastic bags for disposal at the local dump.

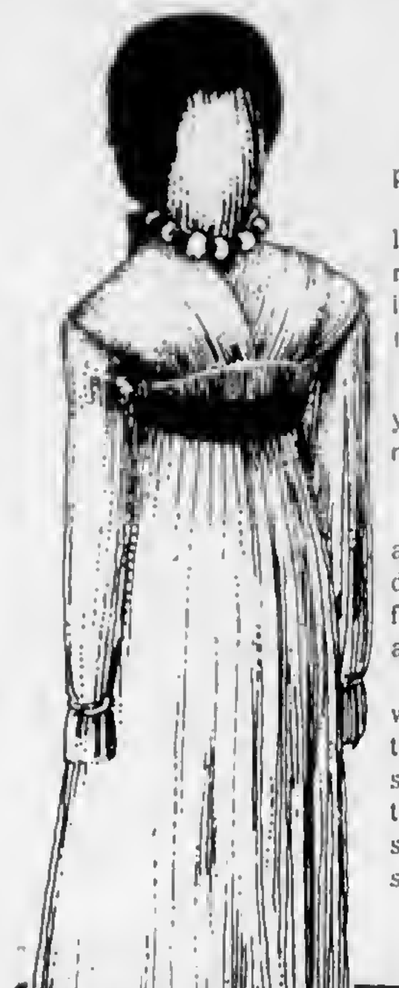
Corn-Husk Figures Easy To Make



What can be washed, dried, bleached, dyed, sewn, glued, painted, knotted, walked on, or hung up? Corn husks!

If you're like most of us you've probably admired many corn-husk figures but from a distance feared that handling them would result in disaster. We were intrigued when we read to the contrary in "Corn-Husk Crafts" by Margery Facklam and Patricia Phibbs (New York: Sterling Publishing Company, $3.50).

Projects in this book are easy enough for young children and yet, because this medium lends itself to endless variations (detail, motion, grace), they are satisfying to adults as well.

STIFF TEXTURE 'MELTED'

The best time for collecting husks is in late autumn when they are dry. If green (like from summer sweet corn) they must be dried before they are usable. Sweet corn has finer husks, more flexible for detail work than the field-corn husks which are larger and more durable and are used in braided mats and baskets.

All projects are worked with husks which have been soaked in water for several minutes to "melt" the stiff texture and make them pliable. Illustrations aid in constructing each project. To show movement in the legs, arms, tail, parts should be bent and tied loosely until they dry in that position. And, if you are not satisifed with them when they dry, simply soak them again and start over.

SENECA INDIAN DOLL

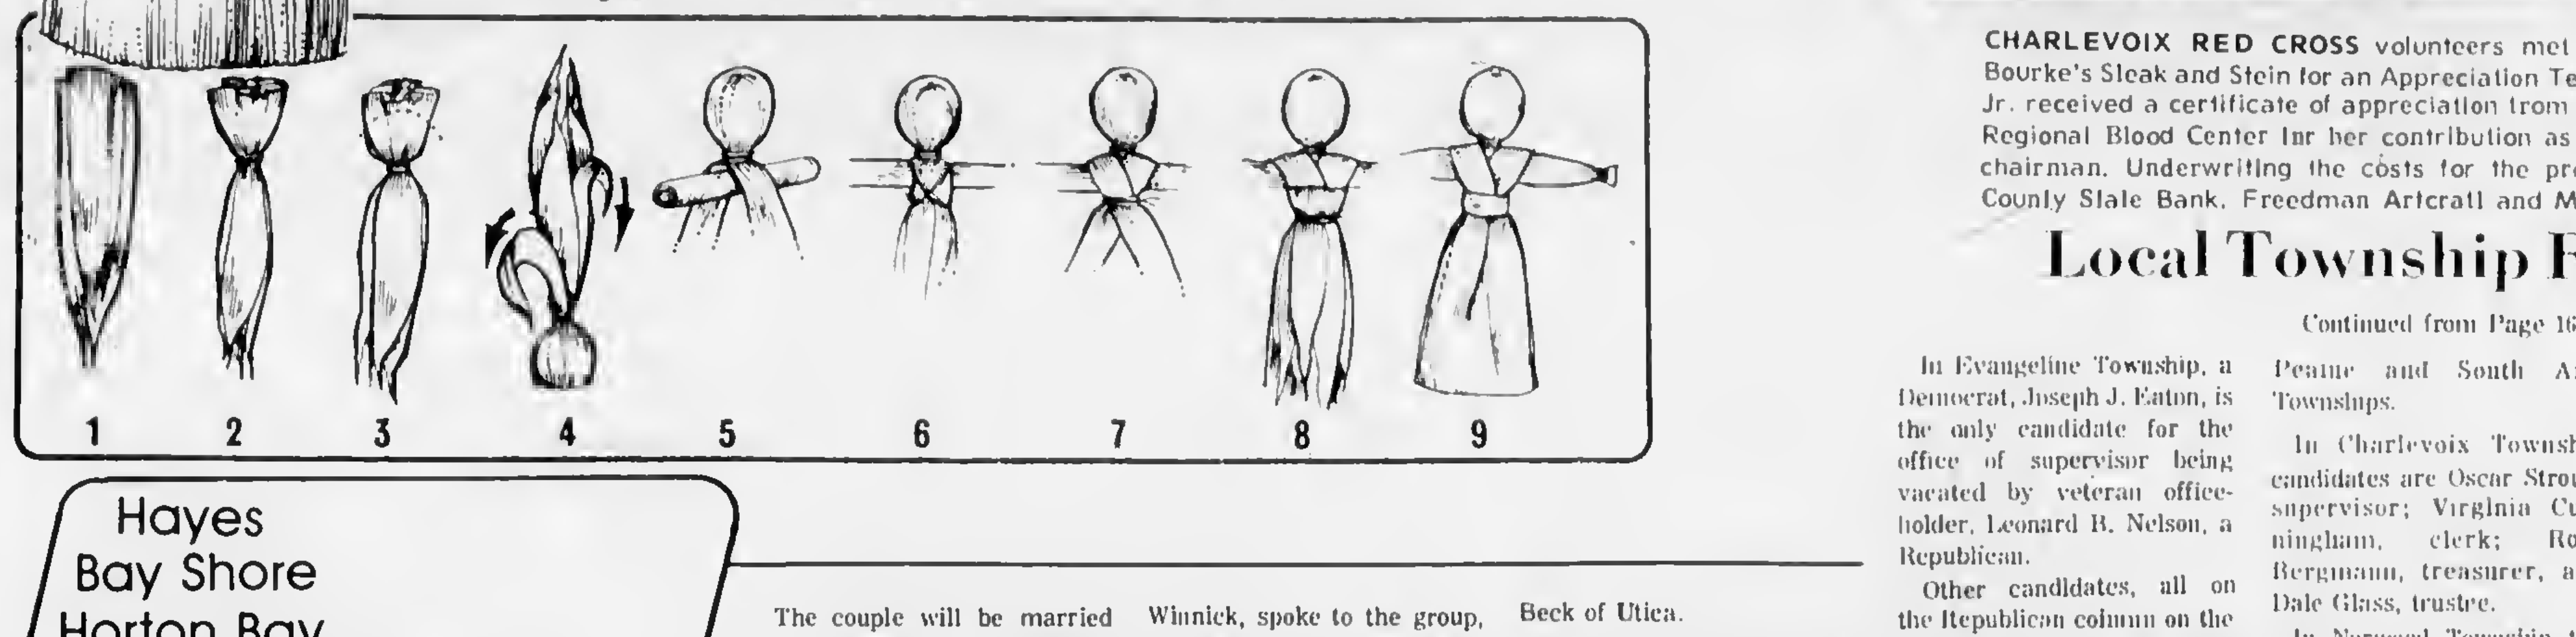
With a little imagination, corn-husk skiers, skaters, and dancers are easily made for friends with those hobbies–and can be displayed mounted on bases, as separate figurines, or as shadow-box wall hangings.

Detail work is fascinating, too; for hair, corn silk or unraveled twine can be used. Beaks and noses are made by simply knotting a piece of corn husk. Moveable joints, clothes, and color offer endless ideas and hours of fun.

Here are directions for making a Seneca Indian doll:

Soak 12 husks in water for several minutes.

1. Choose 6 large husks and lay on top of each other with wide edge at top.
2. Gather husks 1 inch from top and tie tightly with string.
3. Cut off top of husk and round it into head.
4. Hold head in hand, peel husk down like banana. Tie at "neck."
5. Make arms from 2 husks rolled together one on top of the other into a long piece and insert between the ends of the head husks (braided arms can be made if preferred).
6. Tie arms in place with crisscross over chest and back.
7. Take 2 more husks, fold each one into a strip 1-inch wide. Place one over each shoulder position and cross them over the chest and back. Tie tightly around the waist.
8. Lay long wide husks well above waistline; tie tightly with string; fold husks 1-inch wide; tie around waist.
9. Cut off skirt, bend arms down, and cut at a point one-third of the way down the skirt.



Hayes Bay Shore Horton Bay

Mrs. Thomas Maxwell
547-6609

A bridal shower for Miss Connie Shores, was held last week, Monday evening, October 14 in the fellowship hall at the Charlevoix Church of the Nazarene. Friends and relatives enjoyed games and prizes were awarded to Darlene Smalley, Debbie Shores, Mrs. Douglas Johnson and Mrs. Erwin Smalley. Other guests were the bride-elect's mother, Mrs. Timothy Shores, grandmother, Mrs. Martin Elzinga and an aunt, Mrs. Violet Sommerville, also Mrs. Floyd Baker, Mrs. James Fiedler, Mrs. C. J. Fiedler, Terry Hauff, Mrs. Carl Johnson, Mrs. Erik Johnson, Mrs. Paul Louiselle, Mrs. Alan Mettler, Mrs. Dennis Mousseau, and Carol and Linda White. After the honoree opened her gifts, refreshments were served by the co-hostesses, Mrs. Larry Betz and Mrs. Edna DeMitchell. The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Shores and the groom, Jeffrey Popenhagen, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Erwin Smalley, all of Hayes. The couple will be married November 1, at the Bethany Lutheran Church in Charlevoix.

Rev. and Mrs. William P. Seibert, attended the Annual Michigan General Assembly for Minister's and their wives and Lay delegates, of the Church of God, held last week, on Friday and Saturday at the Pennway Church in Lansing. They attended Conferences in four areas of Pastoral Work and Living. Special speakers were Dr. Charles Hand of Ohio and Dr. Richard Rhem of Spring Lake.

Library notes

New and noteworthy books for the Fall season:

Hemingway in Spain by Jose Luis Castillo-Puche. In this personal reminiscence, the author writes of Hemingway's relationship with Spain, its customs and people.

Babe, by Robert W. Creamer. A senior editor of Sports Illustrated, separates the wheat from the chaff, the true from the false, and the real character from the legend in this down-to-earth story about the bad kid who grew up to become known around the world as Babe Ruth.

The CIA and the Cult of Intelligence is the first book the U.S. Government ever went to court to censor before publication. It is the book that the agency itself tried to suppress. It is published here with blank spaces indicating the exact location and length of the 168 deletions demanded by the CIA.

Lyndon, a compelling book about one of our most colorful and controversial presidents, was written by Richard Harwood and Haynes Johnson, assistant managing editors of the Washington Post. There are more than photographs chosen from the files of the Post and the Johnson Memorial Library.

Wild Enemies, in which the author, J.J. McCoy explains the role of predators in nature and in relation to man.

Thomas Jefferson - a biography in his own words – is an extremely unusual and handsome book with many illustrations and colored plates.

Something Happened is Joseph Heller's first novel since Catch-22 which became the most celebrated novel of its decade. The plot concerns Bob Slocum, in his forties, who is trying to contend with his office, his accusing wife, his unhappy daughter, his son who has difficulties and-- himself. Like his own children, he was once new and eager and valuable, waiting for the good things that were sure to come along. Now he is what he is. What happened? What happens? Something.

And finally, The Gerald Ford Letters, by Robert N. Winter–Berger, author of The Washington Pay-Off. It is a slender volume packed with new information, and it contains some startling new charges.

24 Hours A Day

Being Youth Officer Isn't Easy

The job of Juvenile Officer in Charlevoix County is not an easy one.

Mrs. Betty Litzner, who holds that position, appeared before Charlevoix County Commissioners recently to talk about her work and problems.

She explained responsibilities in the fields of probation work, foster care, investigations, and counseling in her contacts with children, parents, police, and the courts.

Mrs. Litzner said she must be available 24 hours a day to accompany police on calls of child abuse or neglect, and often drives such children to a juvenile home in a distant city late at night or early in the morning.

A state employee, Mrs. Litzner was appointed to her post by the Governor and approved by the Probate Judge and Department of Social Services. She is paid by the state on the basis of 40 hours' work a week, but seldom puts in fewer than 60 hours on the job, she says.

Mrs. Litzner asked the Commissioners to supply funds for the purchase of a Polaroid camera and tape recorder to be used in her work.

She explained that the law requires legal action be taken against a persons accused of child abuse or neglect within 24 hours. Pictures and tapes are basic tools in supporting evidence against such persons.

Mrs. Litzner showed the Commissioner some pictures she had taken. They were so raw and brutal that she had had trouble getting them developed. Hence the need for a Polaroid camera.

In explaining her case load, Mrs. Litzner reported that during the month of August she dealt with 58 cases of delinquency, 37 cases of child neglect, 21 adoptive cases, and 20 cases of consent (first offenders with misdemeanor charge under court jurisdiction).

There were also 19 Charlevoix county children residing in foster boarding homes during the month of August.

In addition to the camera and tape recorder, Mrs. Litzner asked the Commissioners for a supplement to her state income.

There were two beautiful and a part of a third rainbows seen on Thursday about 4 p.m. And we were told the Northern Lights were beautiful Friday night. We had a white frost Sunday morning and about 9 a.m. the leaves came down like rain.

Mr. and Mrs. John Wynsma of Grand Rapids were weekend visitors of Mrs. Hazel Edson and Mrs. Jennie Wynsma. The family enjoyed Sunday dinner with the Marvin Wynsmas.

The three children of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel VanderArk of Holland were taken care of by Grandpa and Grandma Willard VanderArk while their parents attended the Christian School Teachers Convention in Chicago, Thursday and Friday.

Mrs. Arlene Swaney and sons of Wyoming spent a few days last week with her mother Hattie Kuiper and on the farm of her sister, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Rubingh and children.

The address of Constance Lapeer is Recruit Training Command, U.S. Naval Training Center, Orlando, Florida 32813.

The Community School Harvest Sale will be held Oct. 23, 8 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bratt of Grand Rapids were Thursday overnight guests of her sister Mrs. Herman Van Stedum. They also called on Mr. Van Stedum at Meadowbrook Hospital. Saturday callers on the Van Stedums were their son Abel and wife from Jenison. They came to attend the wedding of their niece Cynthia Boss and Ken Derenzy Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Strange from Knoxsville, Tenn. were Sunday luncheon guests of his daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Siebe DeVries and daughters Sonia and Marcia. Mr. and Mrs. Strange are spending about 2 weeks in our area.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Ter Haar and Margie Oosterbaan of Wyoming came last Monday and were house guests of their brother Jake Timmer while they traveled daily to view our colored leaves. On Thursday, with Elsie Timmer they went as far as McBain and called on their cousins Mr. and Mrs. Herman Brower.

Mrs. Esther Witteveen and her three youngest children from West Olive were Thursday night and Friday visitors with their mother and grandmother Anne Osterhaan.

Mr. and Mrs. Casey DeYoung of Zeeland were house guests, of Mettie VanderArk all last week. Casey and Harm Fielstra spent this time fishing, results were nothing to brag over.

Mrs. Lavern Emery and her mother Mrs. Ella Platt of Milwaukee, Wis, spent a few days last week with their cousins Mr. and Mrs. Emery Wilson.

Emery Wilson was taken to Lockwood-MacDonald Hospital at Petoskey, Thursday, due to severe chest pains. He has been placed in the intensive care unit.

Lawrence Wysma and his mother Jennie Wysma spent from Monday to Thursday visiting Mr. and Mrs. Peter Padavana and children in Columbus , Ohio. Mrs. Padavana is Mrs. Wynsma's daughter Eva.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry King and their sister and husband, the VanderLaans from Highland, Mi. called on Helen Hansen as they were returning from a trip to the U.P. Saturday's visitors were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Alkema and her parents from Chicago. Sunday, coffee drinkers at Helens were the usual children, grandchildren, and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Bergsma, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Nichols and baby, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Senneker and Mr. and Mrs. Evert Cooper of Chicago.

Other visitors to view the colors were Mr. and Mrs. John Aardema from Palos Heights, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Shooks, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Cooper and son Marc with the Harry Cooper family and Mr. and Mrs. John Heeres of Kalamazoo visiting with the Henry Heeres families.

Having lived in Ellsworth all my life (several score) I am still amazed how fast the seasons change and now you see it and now you don't. I am speaking particularly of the leaves. Last week there were all kinds and beautiful colors. Sunday, there were still many leaves on my neighbors walnut tree. Today, Tuesday, would you believe it, there is not one leaf left.

Scouts Honor Griffin

U.S. Senator Robert P. Griffin will be the featured speaker, November 7th, at the 35th annual dinner-meeting of the Scenic Trails Council, Boy Scouts of America.

In addition to the guest speaker, the scenic trails council board will pay tribute to all area scouts who have achieved the rank of eagle, and recognition to cubmasters, scoutmasters, explorer advisors and den leaders for services this year.

The general public, in addition to interested scouters are invited and urged to attend this important salute to local scouters, and hear the honorable Senator Griffin.

The banquet is scheduled to be held at the Park Place Motor Inn, Traverse City and will begin at 7 p.m.

Tickets may be reserved by calling the Council Service Center in Traverse City.

Charlevoix Resident

Hamilton Heads Road Group

Ralph S. Hamilton, of Charlevoix, has been appointed to serve as area chairman for the Michigan Good Roads Association.

Announcement of the selection was made by Lowell Decker, president of the Association which represents highway users and road industry leaders.

Decker said Hamilton was selected for the chairmanship post because of interest in supporting safer and improved highway transportation which is essential to economic growth of Michigan and low cost movement of people for employment and recreational purposes.

Hamilton will serve as spokesman for the Good Roads Association and assist in the organization's program to promote highway safety and elimination of inadequacies in state and local road and street systems.

The Association currently is supporting adoption of Proposal A on the November election ballot.

The referendum proposes amendment to the state Constitution to protect existing gasoline tax revenues from further appropriation to non-highway purposes.

Motorist taxes, which will not be increased by the amendment proposal, have traditionally been earmarked for highway improvement and maintenance since 1938.

Pat Brannon Marries Aaron Brock Here

Arrangements of white gladioli and red carnations and lighted candelabra graced the altar of the United Methodist church in East Jordan for the recent wedding of Ms. Patricia S. Brannon of East Jordan and Aaron L. Brock II of Charlevoix.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Richard A. Clark, Sr. of East Jordan and Mr. and Mrs. Aaron L. Brock, Sr. of Charlevoix.

The Rev. Daniel Miner officiated at the double ring service in the presence of 150 guests. Mrs. Arthur Thompson was the organist and Ronald Klooster the soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose an empire gown of powder blue polyester with an embroidered lace overlay for her wedding. Her picture hat was handed in blue to match her gown and she carried a bouquet of white carnations and red roses.

Mrs. William Eisner of Grawn, attended her cousin as matron of honor. Mrs. Russell D. Clark of Alanson, sister-in-law of the bride, served as bridesmaid and, Glenda and Rhonda Clark and Susan Brannon, all of East Jordan, daughters of the bride, were junior bridesmaids. Mrs. Eisner and Mrs. Clark wore powder blue empire gowns and carried single red roses. The junior bridesmaids wore lavender, yellow and green gowns, respectively, and carried baskets of flowers in shades to match their gowns.

Patti Brannon, wearing a pink gown, was her mother's flower girl. Aaron Brock III of East Jordan, son of the bridegroom, was ringbearer.

Robin R. Clark of East Jordan, brother of the bride, was best man and his twin brother, Richard Roger D. Clark of Alanson, was groomsman. Another brother, Richard A. Clark, Jr., of East Jordan and Richard Muma of Pinconning, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, seated the guests.

Mrs. Clark selected a mint green gown and a corsage of white carnations and red roses for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Brock, mother of the bridegroom, wore a tangerine gown. Her corsage was of white carnations and red roses.

A reception followed at the V.F.W. Post Home in Charlevoix.

After a wedding trip through the Upper Peninsula, the couple will be at home at RR 2, Charlevoix.

Wedding guests were present from several Michigan cities and Illinois.

The bride is a graduate of East Jordan high school and Petoskey Beauty Academy and is employed at the Gulf & Western Co. in East Jordan. The bridegroom is a graduate of the Charlevoix high school and attended North Central Michigan College. He is a veteran of service in the U.S. Navy and is employed at the Brock Dairy Farm.

Lose Friday Night

Rayders Just Didn't Have Enough To Win

The Petoskey Northmen came to town Friday night and handed the Charlevoix Red Rayders their first Conference loss of the season. The 19-0 score put Petoskey on top of the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference and settled Charlevoix into a tie for second with Gaylord.

Petoskey scored early in the first quarter. Charlevoix had received the kickoff, and following a series of plays, Casey Culbertson came in to punt for the Red Rayders. A bad pass from center caused Culbertson to be tackled on the Charlevoix 7 yard line.

Following a short gain into the Charlevoix defensive line, Ed Lamkin scored from 6 yards out. The point after touchdown was not good, and Petoskey led 6-0.

Mike Streeter, returning from a hip injury to play in the Petoskey game, took the ensuing kickoff to the Charlevoix 18 yard line. Following one first down, the Red Rayders were again forced to punt, and the visitors took over on their own 33 yard line.

This set the stage for one of many fine defensive stands by the Rayders. After three plays, the Petoskey punter, Kim Thomson, came in to punt the ball.

Thomson got his food into one, and the Rayders had to take over on their own 12 yard line. Thomson's punt carried 53 yards.

Following another punt from the Rayders to the Northmen, Charlevoix recovered a fumble on their own 28 yard line. With 1:52 remaining in the first quarter, Quarterback Bob Alger came in to direct a fine drive down the field.

This series of plays was highlighted by a Streeter run of 19 yards to the Petoskey 26 yard line just after the second quarter got underway. Kevin Martin contributed his own fine run as he advanced the ball to the Petoskey 11.

After a short gain into the Petoskey line and a loss of yardage, the Northmen were called for pass interference and Charlevoix was given a first down on the 7 yard line. Even though helped by another penalty against the Petoskey squad, the Rayders were unable to score.

On fourth down, Alger attempted a field goal from the 11 yard line. The 21 yard kick was short, and Petoskey took over on their own 20 yard line.

Petoskey's quarterback Thomson engineered two first downs, and after a nice run was called back on a clipping penalty, Martin intercepted for Charlevoix and returned the ball to the Rayder 37 yard line.

Following one series of plays which resulted in a first down, the Red Rayders were forced to punt the football. Culbertson's punt was taken by Bill Evashevski and returned to the Petoskey 39 yard line. A penalty against the Northmen put the ball back to the 24 yard line.

The half ended with Petoskey unable to advance to the Rayder goal line. The score stood Petoskey 6, Charlevoix 0.

Petoskey's Marty Hill took the Charlevoix kickoff to begin the second half and returned the ball to the Northmen's 28 yard line. After one first down play, the Charlevoix defense again showed fine form and held the visiting eleven on fourth down. The Rayders took over on the 50 yard line.

Charlevoix's next series of play featured a fine pass to Streeter from Quarterback Alger to the Petoskey 29 yard line. This was followed by another fine display of passing on a fourth down play as Quarterback Alger completed to Charlevoix's fine end, Dan Green, placing the ball on the 9 yard line.

A penalty against Petoskey moved the ball to the 4 yard line, but after a short gain and an incompleted pass, the Northmen took over on downs, as once again Charlevoix was unable to cross the goal line.

Following the next series of plays, Petoskey again punted to Charlevoix. With 3:24 remaining in the third quarter, the Red Rayders took over on the visitors 31.

Again Charlevoix was knocking on the Northmen goal line. Once more, the Petoskey defense held. Even though the Rayders advanced the ball to the 7 yard line, fine defense was displayed by the visitors and gave them the ball on their own 12 yard line.

The fourth quarter began with Petoskey in possession, following a fine run by halfback Larry Eaton to the Petoskey 20 yard line. Eaton again carried for another first down, before receiving a screen pass on the next series of plays. This pass play took the ball to the Charlevoix 24 yard line. This fine 35 yard gain against the Rayders was one of the longest of the evening.

Following another first down, Eaton carried the remaining 3½ yards into the end zone for the second Petoskey touchdown. The point after conversion failed, and with 8:56 remaining in the game, Petoskey led 12-0.

The ensuing kickoff was taken by Streeter and advanced to the Charlevoix 21 yard line, where again the Rayders took over. On the first play from scrimmage Charlevoix fumbled and Petoskey recovered on the Red Rayder 27 yard line.

Quarterback Thomson wasted little time taking advantage of this miscue as he scampered for 7 yards, and was followed by fullback Tom Splan on a fine run for 20 yards and the third Petoskey touchdown. Splan displayed fine open field running as he evaded a number of Rayder tacklers to score. The point after attempt was good and with 7:13 remaining in the game, Petoskey led 19-0.

Martin returned the kickoff following the touchdown to the Charlevoix 26 yard line. Quarterback Alger then directed the squad to three first downs before a pass was intercepted by Chris Weston on the Petoskey 33 yard line and returned to the Charlevoix 44 yard line. A penalty against Charlevoix advanced the ball to the 29 yard line.

The Northmen were unable to convert the interception into a score and were forced to punt following three plays from scrimmage. The punt was taken by Streeter and downed on the Charlevoix 3 yard line. With 3:09 remaining in the fourth quarter, the Red Rayder squad took over for the final time.

Alger again showed fine form as he directed a 87 yard drive to the Petoskey 10 yard line. However, after the fourth down attempt failed, Petoskey was able to take over the ball on the 18 yard line. One play from scrimmage ran the clock out and the game ended Petoskey 19, Charlevoix 0.

It was a cold, crisp evening Friday as the Petoskey Northmen iced the Charlevoix Red Rayders, 19-0 at Kipke Field. The Rayder defense put up a fine display of football, but the offense, even though penetrating as deep as the Petoskey 3 yard line was unable to advance the ball into the end zone.

The Petoskey quad showed why they are undefeated this season, as their quarterback Kim Thomson mixed up his plays well, and effectively used his backfield mates Larry Eaton and Tom Splan. The Rayder eleven had nothing to be ashamed of, as they were defeated by a fine Northmen squad.

Cold temperatures such as experienced Friday evening rarely contribute to a mistake free football game, and both teams had the dropsies during the game. The first touchdown for Petoskey can in part be attributed to the temperature, as Casey Culbertson received a bad pass from center on his initial punt attempt, and Petoskey ended up with the ball deep in Charlevoix territory. Each team lost one fumble and had one pass intercepted.

We also noted from here that early in the game the Charlevoix offensive line was not snapping off the ball with the hike. Quarterback Bob Alger on some occasions had to take the ball to the offensive backs, and the boys weren't getting to the holes quite on time. Again, it is sometimes difficult on a cold evening to get that extra snap needed.

While speaking about quarterback Alger, we might note we were impressed by his throwing ability. Whether it was a down-and-in pattern by end Dan Green or a play-action-pass to one of the backfield men, Alger displayed fine form in hitting his target for good Charlevoix gainers.

Also, it is good to see Mike Streeter return to the Charlevoix line up. Mike didn't appear to favor the hip that he injured in the St. Ignace game on too many plays, and he showed fine form in carrying the ball for a number of gains. We hope Mike is in good shape for the remaining Gaylord and Cheboygan contests.

Another factor which had at least something to do with the football game Friday evening was the fact that Charlevoix, with one exception, never had good field position to start their scoring drives. With a single exception, their deepest point of possession was their own 28 yard line. On two occasions they were forced to begin plays on their own 3 and 12 yard lines.

The fans should not be too disappointed in the loss to Petoskey, as the Rayder squad is still in the thick of things in the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference. Next Week's contest against Gaylord will be an important one, as Charlevoix and Gaylord are now tied for second place. The Rayders need to re-establish their winning ways in the game against Gaylord to remain in a position to take advantage of a potential Petoskey loss. We hope to see a lot of fans out there for the Gaylord game.

Editors note: A correction to the story on last week's Charlevoix-Boyne City contest. It should have shown Doug Smith scoring the third Red Rayder touchdown. It was incorrectly reported that quarterback Bob Alger had advanced the ball across the goal line.

Junior Varsity Team Defeats Petoskey Northmen, 14-18

The Charlevoix J-Vs rolled up a 14-8 victory over the Petoskey J-V's at Petoskey Thursday night marking the first time in recent years that the team has chalked up a win over Petoskey.

Charlevoix got on the board in the first period the first time they had the ball on a razzle-dazzle type of play that Coach Norm Probert calls a 'transcontinental pass'. The play went from quarterback Mike Way to Bud Klooster who passed back to Way who then scored on the run that covered 26 yards.

The conversion kick was blocked and the score stood at 6-0 when quarterback Jerry Cousens scored on a one-yard keeper. Cousens passed to Mike Ball to put the young Northmen ahead 8-6.

With time running out, Charlevoix took to the air with Way passing to Brian Williams to move the ball deep into Petoskey territory. Way then went in on a quarterback keep from one yard out for the victory.

Though the weather was cold which resulted in numerous fumbles by both teams, Probert said this was the team's hardest hitting game this season. Cited for outstanding play on defense were Dave Tollas, Lee Begrow, Tom Jones, Barry Potter and Matt Doan.

Drenth Goes On To Regional Meet

Wally Drenth, Charlevoix High School sophomore harrier, was the only Rayder to qualify for the 10 man team that will represent the Michigan Huron Shores league in the regional meet at Ithaca on October 26.

Petoskey with 21 points won the conference title in the league meet held at Rogers City Wednesday. Rogers City, the defending champion, came in second in the meet with 61 points. In order of finish other schools were Boyne City, 97 points; Gaylord, 112; Grayling, 123; Charlevoix, 172; St. Ignace, 179 and Cheboygan, 181.

Petoskey placed six men on the conference team, Rogers City and Charlevoix one each. Coach Dennis Carr did not know where the other members were from.

On Thursday, Charlevoix will host Traverse City St. Francis in a cross-country meet to be held at the Jack Mort farm where a course has been set up.

On Saturday, the team will travel to Elk Rapids to participate in Class C-D meet scheduled to begin at 10 a.m.

Girls Win Tuesday

In action at Boyne City last Tuesday, the Charlevoix girls handed the Boyne City girls a resounding 71-37 defeat.

Charlevoix jumped to a 16-8 lead which was increased to 39-12 at halftime and 53-23 going into the final period.

Cheryl Pence, with an impressive 38 points led the scoring with Leanna Steelman adding 12. Diane Johnecheck had 21 for Boyne City.

The Charlevoix J-V's won by a score of 30-9.

Win 21 Games

Girls Extend Winning Streak

By CHUCK WRIGHT

The Charlevoix High School Girls Varsity Basketball team extended its conference winning streak to 21 games as it clobbered Boyne City 72-37 and St. Ignace 61-24 in last week's action.

The team's only loss since 1972 was in the quarterfinals of last year's state tournament. With another league championship and a possible state championship in their sights, the squad has shown little mercy on their opponents this season.

After the Boyne City win last Tuesday, a game in which Cheryl Pence poured in 37 points, the Rayders returned to their home court for the first time in two and a half weeks. The squad had to play without the services of starter Heidi Dove who will be out several weeks due to an injury in the Boyne City game.

St. Ignace came into the contest with a 2-2 conference record but were respected by Charlevoix because of their excellent team shooting. The game quickly turned into a rout, however, as the tenacious Charlevoix man-to-man defense smothered every Saint offensive move.

Offensively, the Rayders were virtually unstoppable. St. Ignace came out in a 2-3 zone defense designed to make the Rayders shoot from the outside and to keep them off the offensive boards. Charlevoix countered with a disciplined patterned offense which emphasized cuts through the middle.

With Dona Bellows, a scrappy substitute for the injured Dove, and Tammy Penney, an excellent ball handler and dribbler, controlling the offense, the Rayders repeatedly got the ball inside. Once inside, Pence and Leanna Steelman totally dominated the action.

Both girls have excellent shots from in close, but whenever the St. Ignace defenders sagged in on them, they would hit the open girl, often Denise Boss, for the easy bucket. Steelman and Pence also controlled the offensive boards scoring on their teammates missed shots.

After picking the St. Ignace defense apart for a 14-6 first quarter lead, the Rayders opened the second and third quarters with an awesome fast break. Steelman, Boss and Pence owned the defensive boards. Once they got the ball, they constantly looked up the floor for the open girl to the basket.

At halftime, Charlevoix had put the game away, building up a 31-12 lead. The girls kept adding to the lopsided margin. Pence led all scorers with 21. Penney and Steelman had 12, Bellows 8, Boss 6, and Von Priest added 2.

The J.V.'s also had no problem, disposing of the Saints 32-13. Getting off to a slow start, the Rayder J.V.'s held on to a slim 6-2 lead at the end of the first quarter. The team then got their fast break going, employing passes and hitting the open player, exploding for 14 points in the second quarter and a 20-6 halftime lead.

Jodi Alger, the team's offensive leader, had 12 points as did Kay Curry. The win brought the J.V. record to 3-2.

Coach Toni Felter's squads both are very sound fundamentally. Good solid defense combined with a controlled fast break and a disciplined set offense make them excellent teams.

Coach Felter does not hesitate to talk about her varsity basketball hopes. She feels her team this year has a great chance of winning the state class C basketball championship. That is exactly what the team is gearing itself for.

"We would sure like to win it this year. If we don't choke, I think we can go all the way."

Felter added that the team should have won last year, but played very poorly in the quarter final game. She feels, however, that the experience was good for the squad and that should make them even tougher in the tournament this year.

The state tournament is still a month away, however, and the team has another Michigan-Huron Shores Conference championship as its immediate goal. The Rayders play the Petoskey Northmen tonight in what should be their toughest test. Last year, Charlevoix barely edged Petoskey in overtime.

Yes, you can stay in business while you're "out" of business.
Fire Insurance alone just won't do it. Sure, it will repair your store and restock your shelves. But who's going to pay your taxes, interest, salaries, and provide a normal profit too while you're "in repair?" Auto-Owners Business Interruption Insurance! We have a policy to meet every business need. Call us today. We can put a lot of security together in one package.

COMMUNITY REFORMED CHURCH OF CHARLEVOIX
A.F. Mansen, Pastor
Corner of U.S. 31 and Meech St., Charlevoix

Twenty-five years after Columbus discovered America Martin Luther nailed his 95 theses on the door of the Wittenburg Chapel. This marked the beginning of that period known in Church History as the Reformation. Other men, including John Calvin, also espoused the cause of the Reformation. He set the intellectual pattern of the Reformed Church. This marks the beginning of the Reformed Church.

In the year 1628 the first Dutch Reformed Church was established in America in New Amsterdam, now New York. This is the oldest Protestant Church in America with an uninterrupted ministry.

After the Revolutionary War people of other ethnic backgrounds began to come into the Church and the use of the Dutch language disappeared.

In 1867 the name was changed from Reformed Dutch Church to the Reformed Church in America. At the present time the Reformed Church has over 900 congregations scattered throughout our nation. While originally ministering largely to people of Dutch extraction now many of the congregations are composed of many other ethnic groups including some of other races.

Our local Community Reformed Church had its beginning in 1904 in South Barnard. In 1940 it erected a new structure on Barnard Road. This building is still in use having been converted into a house. In 1962 our present structure was erected. Beginning in the Fall of 1973 and completed in the Spring of 1974 an educational unit was added.

We currently number about seventy families. We have two worship services every Sunday -- three during the summer months -- and Sunday School classes for all ages.

We have a Christian Fellowship Club which meets once a month; a women's Guild which also meets once a month. A W.H.O. (We Help Others) circle and various Prayer Groups which meet in the different homes. We also have various activities for the young people. High School and Post Hi, groups. The government of the local congregation is in the hands of a group known as the Consistory. This group is composed of Elders and Deacons and is elected by the members of the Congregation. Anyone who wishes to serve and worship the Lord is welcome to meet with us.

Council

going to have to be educated.

"The council is not really doing something, they are just giving the people a chance to vote," McRae added.

Hansen said the people have always had the right, all they had to do was petition the council.

"I'm concerned about the council coming up with some goals and reasons first," Hansen said.

McRae then submitted his resolution and gave a variety of reasons why the city should get away from its Fourth Class City Charter.

Among those was the elimination of the words horse and carriage used throughout the Fourth Class City Act of 1895.

He said the old state act also calls for cleaning of privies and maintaining hitching posts, while making no mention of automobiles.

Following adoption of the resolution, it was explained that those wishing to be on the ballot as a charter commission candidate must be nominated by a petition of two per cent of total vote cast for the mayor in the last election.

After the meeting, Councilman Timms said he voted against the resolution because he said the change was not necessary.

He said the council needed only to work on a resolution establishing the petition of city manager.

Mayor Hansen said he would not veto the council action.

The mayor said his major concern was over the problems it's going to cause in Charlevoix.

--Decided present procedures to apply for a variance on property was adequate.

--Tabled action on re-zoning the Depot Beach and C & O properties to a later date.

--Awarded a bid for $39,100 to build a retaining wall from Clinton to the Sundew Dock to Lake Construction Company.

--Adopted a resolution advising the Michigan Department of Highways and Transportation that money expected for freeways in Region 10 be used for railroads instead. Council Jerry Self voted against the action because he said he preferred to travel on roads.

--Referred the question of noise abatement along Bridge Street to the City Police.

--Appointed Robert Cook, Stan Hammond and Ralph Shapton to the Senior Housing Committee to investigate senior citizen housing needs.

you should vote the same way on the second proposal, otherwise you defeat your own purpose.

The 2.5 millage issue is a renewal of millage though the original millage levy in effect for the past five years was for 2.7 mills.

Hayes township voters are being asked to renew a 1.0 mill levy for five years with the millage to be used for the construction of roads. There will be one ballot which will take a yes or no vote.

In Marion township where there are three proposals on the ballot, Proposition No. 3 asks that the township be authorized to levy two mills for a period of three years to raise monies for roads beginning Dec. 1975 and continuing through 1976 and '77.

Proposition No. 1 on the Marion township ballot asks if the sale of spirits, in addition to beer and wine, should be permitted in the township.

Proposition No. 2 is asking the residents of the township to confirm a grant of franchise to the Northern Michigan Cooperative, Inc., for the purpose of constructing, maintaining and commercially using electric lines within the township.

The company proposes to construct a sub-station in the township in order to enlarge its operation as the result of increased demands for power. The franchise has been granted and must now be confirmed by the voters of Marion township.

their property in order to pay taxes for unused sewers.

He said the Oakland Township residents found that money collected from service fees could not cover the cost of bonds sold for the project.

Citing his own experience as a large project developer, Duke questioned whether Charlevoix really needed to form an authority to accomplish its needs.

Local Twps. Races Set

Many Charlevoix County residents won't be able to vote straight party tickets very easily when they decide on township officials Nov. 5.

In the county's 15 townships, there will only be five contests while three townships will only have Democratic candidates and four others will have all Republican slates.

Contests will be found in Boyne Valley, Hayes, Marion, Melrose and Wilson Townships.

In Boyne Valley Township, veteran Republican supervisor Joseph Topolinski is being opposed by Junior Hunt, a Democrat while incumbent Democratic clerk Nancy Dunham is being challenged by Republican Louise Magee and incumbent Republican treasurer Josephine Wojciechowski is receiving opposition from Vivian (Hetrick) Bell. Democrats Andrew Kose and Leland Dunham, candidates for trustee and constable, respectively, are unopoosed.

Charlevoix Township

In Hayes Township veteran Democratic supervisor Lee Sneathen Jr., is being opposed by Ronald D. Stoneham, Sr., a Republican and Leo Burnett, Jr., a Republican incumbent clerk by virtue of appointment, is receiving opposition from Democratic candidate, Sandra Somerville. Other candidates are Republicans, Shirlene Tripp and Lloyd Kuebler, for treasurer and trustee, respectively.

In the only contest on the ballot in Marion Township, Republican incumbent clerk, Tracy G. Curtiss, is being opposed by Dorothea Powalka on the Democratic ballot. Other candidates who are unopposed are on the Republican side of the ballot. They are: supervisor, Robert Potter; treasurer, Doris Johnson; trustees, Allen Towsley and Dennis Spence.

There are two contests on the ballot in Melrose Township where incumbent Democratic supervisor Roger L. Srigley is being opposed by Republican Warren Ecker and incumbent Republican treasurer Robert H. Yaich is opposed by Democrat Georgie D. Llewellyn. A third contrest, this one for trustee, pits Democrat Andy L. Miller against Republican Melvin L. Holden. Republican clerk Mary W. Erb is unopposed for re-election.

In Wilson Township, two candidates are seeking election to the office of supervisor being vacated by William Vrondran, Jr., a Democrat who has held the office for many years.

Harvey Crozier, Jr., heads an all-Democratic slate for the office. Everett W. Beischlag, Jr., is the lone Republican candiddate on the ballot.

Other candiddates who are unopposed are Democrats Frederic C. Moore, clerk; John C. Oliver, treasurer; Hilbert Hardy, trustee; Stephen R. Ernst and Frederick W Baker, constables.

Bay Township

Elsewhere in the county are three townships where candidates from both parties are unopposed for re-election. Bay Township heads this list. Incumbent supervisor Carl Skornia, a Democrat, and clerk, Paul E. Chamberlain, treasurer, Robert Stolt and trustee, Ruben Wangberg, Republicans make up the slate of township officers

Council Hears Appeal For Merger

By BOB CLOCK

Should the City of Charlevoix attempt to join forces with Charlevoix Township before work begins on charter revision?

That was the question city fathers kicked around for more than an hour in committee Monday night following a brief official meeting to approve an insurance bid. (See separate story.)

The question was raised by City Attorney Donald Berlage after the council voted 5-1 last Monday night to put the question of charter revision on the ballot.

Time is Ripe

Berlage believes that the time is ripe for the city and township to join forces and work together on charter revision.

He even has drawn up a proposed charter which would set in motion the machinery for merger of the two units before charter revision is undertaken.

Berlage said no one asked him to prepare the resolution, but he feels that if annexation is put off much longer it will no longer be a feasible alternative for township residents.

Alderman Ralph McRae feels that Berlage's resolution is an attempt to sidestep or delay the question of charter revision indefinitely.

If the council decides to adopt Berlage's resolution, it would virtually be forced to rescind a resolution submitted by McRae last week--and adopted by the council--calling for a vote on the question of revision and the election of nine charter commissioners.

> '...Merger of the City with Charlevoix Township is not only highly desirable but of extreme importance for both residents of the City and the Township.'

Mayor Approves

Mayor Edward P. Hansen, who stands four-square behind Berlage on the question of annexation, indicated that he has received many overtures from township officials and residents on annexation or merger.

He added that he has worked hard to establish rapport between the city and township since he became mayor.

He pointed out that township officials have been asked to meet informally with the council Wednesday evening to discuss a possible merger.

Hansen insisted on sharing responsibility for Berlage's controversial resolution.

The resolution says in part:

Best For Area

"The City of Charlevoix, recognizing that the welfare and general well being of Charlevoix area citizens is paramount, after careful consideration, has arrived at the following opinions and conclusions:

"That merger of the City with Charlevoix Township is not only highly desirable but of extreme importance for both residents of the City and the Township.

That the question of merger should be considered now not only for the reason that the time is opportune, but also for the reason that the additional passage of time will substantially decrease the possibility of merger."

The resolution also points out that substantial sewer line construction will take place shortly in the township and the township will ask to tie into the city sewage treatment facility.

Supply Services

"In the event the City elects to supply such services only upon the condition that the particular "serviced" Township area or areas join the City, then it is expected that a series of separate, controversial, expensive, devisive and time-consuming 'piece-meal' annexation actions will occur."

The resolution further states that the present system of governments, both in the City and Township, may not be adequate to meet the challenge of modern times and that the citizens should have an opportunity to decide whether to change the present form of government by voting on a proposed 'Home Rule' charter.

Under Berlage's plan, city and township committees would work together to come up with tentative budgets for police and fire protection, ambulance service, parks and recreation, planning and zoning and other municipal services so that citizens of the city and township would know how they would fare financially if the two units merge.

Resignation Required

The resolution includes the automatic resignation of the mayor and council in the event that the merger attempt is successful.

Township residents rejected annexation to the city by a narrow margin when the question last came to the fore five years ago.

Since then the township has established its own fire department and has started its own water works on the north side.

To Be Sold At Auction

Castle Farms Foreclosed

By TOM DAMMANN

Ninetieth District Court Judge Arthur Reibel's misfortunes grew further complicated with the publication in today's Charlevoix Courier of two notices of foreclosure of two mortgages on his Castle Farm property south of town.

Published by the Federal government's Small Business Loan Administration (SBA) Detroit office and Charlevoix County State Bank the notices cover two mortgages, one for $61,706.34, the other for $25,813.71, to be sold at auction on the east doorsteps of Charlevoix County Courthouse at 10 a.m. Wednesday, Dec. 4, 1974.

Payments including 6½ percent interest have been arrears for some time it is understood.

The notices are directed to John Van Haver, who arranged for the original loans, but who sold the property to Reibel and his wife in 1969, who then assumed the indebtedness when they received the deed.

Under the state law the foreclosure notice of sale must be published four times in county newspapers prior to the auction.

After making the original loans, Charlevoix County State Bank in effect sold 85 percent of the mortgages to SBA retaining only a 15 percent participation.

There has been considerable litigation between Reibel and Van Haver over the sale of what was then called Castle Van Haver.

In November, 1973, Reibel lost to Van Haver in a suit Van Haver had filed in circuit court to recover money he claimed Reibel owed him the sale. Circuit Court Judge James Fitzpatrick ruled that Reibel owed Van Haver $24,000.

Two motions for a new trial by Reibel were denied by Judge Fitzpatrick the last being delivered on March 21.

When Reibel failed to appeal within the 20 days permitted after the ruling, Van Haver's attorney John Michael secured a Writ of Execution and Charlevoix County Sheriff Philo Sumner "seized" Reibel's two vessels, the tugboat North Shore and the barge Tanker II, as collateral for the $24,000 judgement.

In May, the vessels were freed to continue carrying fuel to Beaver Island after Reibel posted an Appeal's Bond in circuit court. Last week, the state court of appeals dismissed Reibel's motion to file a delayed appeal of the judgement "without prejudice" because he had failed to file a copy of the trial transcript.

"This leaves the matter in limbo for the moment," Michael said Monday.

Reibel, who has an unlisted phone number, could not be located for comment.

However, he has said several times that the administrator of the state supreme court had advised him to divest himself of Castle Farms and other properties to avoid the risk of conflict of interest charges.

The two vessels, a dock, building and a lot Reibel owned on Beaver Island were sold to the Beaver Island Co-op, Inc., ten days ago in sale which paid off a "preferred marine mortgage" of some $35,000 held by the National Bank and Trust Co. of Traverse City in which Reibel was also delinquent.

Until he ran afoul, the health standards strictly upheld by District 3 Health Environmentalist Director Dean Mikulski and the Michigan State Liquor Control Commission which denied his application for a license, Reibel had hoped to open Castle Farms as a tourist attraction containing arts and crafts shops and a tavern.

At latest report, he is feeding a small herd of cattle on the grounds rising the ire of neighbors who complain he is violating the commercial zoning which they allege he had been instrumental in obtaining for the neighborhood.

THE RECENTLY appointed Senior Citizens Housing committee is pictured discussing plans for their initial meeting following their appointment by Mayor Edward P. Hansen. They are (l to r) Robert J. Cook, Ralph Shapton and Stanley Hammond. Initial plans call for a survey of housing needs for senior citizens. Though the committee, at this time, has little information regarding the proposed facility, it is interested in learning the extent of local interest. Anyone who thinks he or she might be interested in Senior Citizens housing is asked to call any of the three members and make their needs known.

Board Approves Austerity Budget

By FRAN MARTIN

The Charlevoix Board of Education adopted a budget of $1.741 million which was termed an austerity budget Monday night by both Max Novak, resident of the board, and Supt. James A. McKimmy.

In reviewing the revenue to support the budget, McKimmy said that for the first time the Charlevoix district would receive no State Aid and that approximately 90 percent of the revenue would come from local sources including $1.491 million in property taxes.

This resulted when the local tax base increased to a point where it exceeds the $39,000 behind each student.

A breakdown of the budget shows 21 percent or $367,124 for elementary instruction; .05 percent or $92,765 for Elementary, Middle School (fifth grade) instruction; 11 percent or $199,226 for Secondary Middle School (seventh and eighth grade); 28 percent of $488,877 for High School instruction or 65 percent of the overall budget for instruction alone.

Other percentages include Special Education, two percent summer school, .006 percent; adult education, .002 percent; administration, .05 percent; health services, .002 percent; transportation, .05 percent; plant operation, .10 percent; maintenance of plant, .02 percent; fixed charges, .09 percent; capital outlay, .005 percent; community services, .003 percent and outgoing transfers, .002 percent.

Following the hearing, the board approved the school budget of $1,714,109 which is only 1.28 percent over the 1973-74 budget; a public library budget of $33,300 financed by a .04 mill tax levy and $6,100 from other sources; a Title 1 budget of $14,410 which is reimbursable and an Indian Education budget of $4,408 which is supported by a grant in this amount.

During the budget hearing, Mrs. Norman Helms asked if it was true that after Jan. 1 students would have to pay a fee if they were to have, for instance, their art work.

McKimmy said that since 1967, all school districts have been obligated to supply any materials necessary to permit the student to learn in order to earn credit.

However, if the student is to keep what he has made, whether it is in the field of art, homemaking or industrial arts, the school has the right to ask that he pay the cost of materials.

Since the school district is operating on an austerity budget, he said this would be one way of acquiring funds to

Medusa Cement Company Gives $6,000 to CMU

A gift totaling $5,000 from the Medusa Cement Co. of Charlevoix has helped increase to $136,363.70 the latest interim total in the drive to build public television station WCML-TV, Channel 6.

The new interim-total was reported Friday by Central Michigan University.

The figure represents about 53 percent of the campaign's $250,000 goal and includes actual cash and pledge receipts of $86,363.70 and a $50,000 challenge gift from Besser Foundation and Jesse Besser Fund, Inc., both of Alpena.

Regional campaign efforts are continuing throughout the proposed station's 23 county broadcast area.

WCML-TV is expected to begin broadcast by mid-1975. When completed, it will offer free, full color public television service to some 300,000 Northern Michigan residents.

Charlevoix Voters Prepare For Tuesday Election

By FRAN MARTIN

Registered voters through the state will go to the polls next Tuesday to cast their ballots for a host of offices.

Entering a voting machine and seeing nine parties and candidates for as many as seven categories of offices under each party could well be a traumatic experience for some voters.

In an effort to clarify the ballot, the Charlevoix Courier will explain the offices to be found on the ballot, whether on the voting machine or paper ballot.

While Boyne Valley, Eveline and Melrose Townships and the cities of Boyne City and Charlevoix have voting machines, other voters will continue to use the paper ballot.

Nine Parties

Across the top of the ballot the voter will find nine columns with the Democratic ticket to the left and the Republican ticket second from the left.

Others, in this order, are also on the ballot: the American Independent party, Socialist Workers Party, Socialist Labor Party, Human Rights Party, the Conservative Party of Michigan, Communist Party U.S.A. and the United States Labor Party.

To the left of the first party listed (Democratic) will be a heading "Names of Offices to be Voted For." Under this will be the following categories and the names of candidates in each party. The candidates on the two major parties are listed as follows.

Under the heading of STATE will be candidates for Governor and Lieutenant Governor: Sander M. Levin and Paul Brown (D) and William G. Milliken+ and James J. Damman (R); Secretary of State: Richard H. Austin+ (D) and M. Lorraine Beebe (R); Attorney General: Frank J. Kelley+ (D) and Myron H. Wahls (R).

Congressional Candidates

Below this category will be CONGRESSIONAL: Representative for Congress, 11th District: Francis D. Brouillette (D) and Philip E. Ruppe+ (R).

Next will be found: LEGISLATIVE: State Senator, 37th District: Prentiss M. Brown (D) and Robert W. Davis+ (R); Representative in State Legislature, 103rd District, James M. Miller (D) and Ralph Ostling+ (R) or, if you live in the eastern section of Charlevoix county, the 106th District, Fay Lee (D) and Daniel Stevens (R).

Four different groups are listed under the next category: STATE BOARDS: The first is Members of the State Board of Education: Barbara Roberts and Roger Tilles (D) and James F. O'Neil and Florence Saltzman (R); Members of the Board of Regents of University of Michigan: Sarah Powers and Thomas A. Roach (D) and Donna Scott Parker and David F. Upjohn (R); Members of the Board of Trustees of Michigan State University: John B. Bruff and Raymond W. Krolikowski (D) and Frank Merriman and Ken Thompson (R); Members of the Board of Governors of Wayne State University: Milfred Jeffrey and Michael Einheuser (D) and Norman Otto Stockmeyer and Frank B. Walker (R).

Thirty-Third Judicial Contest

Lawyers Battle It Out for Circuit Court Position

VOTE! IT'S YOUR PRIVILEGE

By FRAN MARTIN

In addition to the one large ballot bearing the names of candidates for various offices on a party basis, voters visiting the polls on Nov. 5 will receive a Non-Partisan ballot on which will be listed candidates for Judge of the 33rd Circuit to fill a vacancy term ending Jan. 1, 1979.

The non-partisan candidates for Circuit Judge are seeking election to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Edward H. Fenlon earlier this year for reasons of health.

The 33rd Circuit to which Charlevoix county was assigned in 1972 also encompasses Emmet and Mackinaw counties.

Among the candidates to fill the vacancy left by Judge Fenlons's resignation, a vacancy which had to be filled until the next election, were Martin Breighner of Petoskey and Robert C. Klevorn of Boyne City. Breighner was Governor Milliken's choice. He became Circuit Judge in the 33rd Circuit on July 15. He and Klevorn are now candidates for the Judgeship in the three-county circuit.

Both candidates bring with them outstanding backgrounds to qualify them for the office they are seeking. Robert C. Klevorn is a lifelong resident of Michigan, having been born in Grand Rapids and educated in schools in Charlotte, Lansing and Chicago prior to obtaining his Juris Doctor degree from the Detroit College of Law.

After practicing law in southern Michigan, he moved his office from Detroit to Charlevoix county in 1961.

He has been active in many areas. He is a former president of the Emmet-Charlevoix Bar Association and has served continuously as an officer for the past 11 years; presently he is a member of the Michigan State Bar Conservation and Environmental Law Committee, American Judicature Society, several sections of the State Bar and the Sigma Nu Phi Legal fraternity.

In Boyne City where he, his wife and son Kevin, reside, he has served as a member and secretary of the former Boyne City board of education and the Twin Valley School Board. A leader in developing the tennis program in the Boyne City high school, in 1973 he contributed $1,000 to help finance the school tennis courts and the school's first tennis team.

MARTIN BREIGHNER

ROBERT KLEVORN

Klevorn has been a member of the Michigan Outdoor Writers for more than 25 years; has been an officer of the Kiwanis Club, Rotary Club and the Chamber of Commerce; a member of the Petoskey Elks' Club, and chairman of the United Fund Drive. A 32nd degree Mason and member of the Shrine Club since 1951, he has been awarded a life certificate as a permanent contributing member of the Shrine Hospitals for Crippled Children; is a life member of the Metropolitan Clubs of America and is a member of both the Order of Eastern Star and the Rebekah lodge.

During World War II Klevorn worked with the federal government in charge of alien registration. He is a former field representative of the State Board of Tax Administration and served as manager of the first outstate branch office. He has been a pilot since 1947.

Klevorn, has served as the attorney for the city of East Jordan, the village of Boyne Falls and several townships and chief negotiator for the school board for many years.

An older son is a packaging engineer in Elmira, N.Y.

Martin B. Breighner also is a native of Michigan and a graduate of St. Gregory's high school in Detroit.

He was graduated from the University of Michigan School of Business Administration in 1949 and from the University of Michigan School of Law in 1952.

After being admitted to the bar, he practiced law in the metropolitan Detroit area for six years before coming to Petoskey 17 years ago.

He has been active in the community since coming to the north country. He is a member and former president of the Regional Chamber of Commerce, past president and secretary of the Emmet-Charlevoix Bar Association, a former director of the Petoskey Regional Community Chest, founder of the Geriatrics and Care Center, director of the State Bank and Trust Co. of Petoskey and a director of the Harrington Broadcasting Co. He is a veteran of World War I.

He has a broad trial experience in northern Michigan.

Breighner was appointed by Governor Milliken to fill the vacancy for Circuit Court Judge in the 33rd Circuit following the resignation of Judge Fenlon.

His appointment to fill the Circuit Judge vacancy at the time of Judge Fenlon's retirement received the unanimous endorsement of the Charlevoix county Board of Commissioners' Judicial and Legislative committee.

He assumed the office on July 15 to serve until the next general election.

DNR Hears Request To Keep Park Undeveloped As Possible

By FRAN MARTIN

If Charlevoix residents have their way, the new proposed state park to be located just south of town will remain undeveloped.

At least that's what some 100 residents told the Department of Natural Resources at a public hearing held here on the proposed development stretching from the Bell's Bay Camp Grounds south to more than a thousand acres of state-owned land, including Fisherman's Island.

Orie Scherschligt, chief of the DNR's Parks Division, chaired the meeting.

He opened it by presenting the history of the property presently owned by the Department, the Bell's Bay camp grounds and the acreage which extends from the Clipperview sub-division south to Norwood.

He then explained that the State Legislature had supplied the funds to purchase the Fisherman's Island tract of just under 500 acres which includes the offshore island.

He told of the National Parks survey which called attention to this area and suggested that it be preserved in its natural state. He said that this proposal was one of the ideas behind the proposed Woodland Indian Memorial Park which met with such protest when proposed in 1970.

Tentative plans, drawn up by the DNR in anticipation of acquiring the Fisherman's Island tract as well as the other state land, as presented by Scherschligt, revealed a low key type of park with little development except for hiking trails, sites for primitive camping which would be reached by foot and protection of the entire length of the shoreline and the wild areas, leaving them in their present state.

It is the DNR's suggestion that the Bell's Bay park be continued as a camping area with additional camp sites developed east of the present road and those west of the road discontinued in order to protect the shoreline.

The Department proposes that the area south of Clipperview remain pretty much in its present state and that the Fisherman's Island tract which has beautiful sand dunes and bathing beaches be limited to day use, backpackers and limited primitive camping but all accessible only by foot from a proposed parking area on the eastern side of the area.

It was proposed that a small information center be constructed in this area which would be reached via a road leading north off the present Clipperview access road. The DNR spokesman said that it might be necessary to acquire property east of the Clipperview sub-division in order to connect all three tracts of property presently owned by the state.

By the use of maps done in different colors Scherschligt showed the properties and what was being suggested for each.

In conclusion, he said that the entire park would be staffed by DNR personnel who would be in charge of the entire park and thus do away with some of the vandalism, damage and rowdyism experienced at Bell's Bay.

Mrs. John Pearl of Norwood said she hoped the area from Norwood north to Clipperview could be kept in its present state for it contains one of the finest deer herds and deer yards in the county. This was verified by Bruce Bergmann and Herbert Cummings who asked much the same thing for the area. The latter, however, asked that snowmobiling be allowed in that area.

G.A. Shadko said that the Fisherman's Island area had been the playground for Charlevoix residents for years and commended the DNR for its efforts to acquire the tract.

T.R. Loudenslager, who has property in the Norwood area, thanked the DNR for allowing area residents to, as he put it, "get in on the planning from the start". Like the others he urged caution in the manner the park would be developed.

Several persons urged protection of the deer herd in the large swamp on the south end of the proposed park. Those who asked that snowmobiling be allowed, however, were advised that no vehicular traffic would be allowed in that area.

Hospital Gets Accreditation

Charlevoix Area Hospital has been accredited by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals (JCAH) according to Richard Krueger, Administrator.

This accreditation, which covers from August 19, 1974 to August 19, 1976, is the result of an on-site survey made by field representative of the Joint Commission's Hospital Accreditation Program (HAP). Accreditation indicates that this facility has chosen to operate according to standards set by JCAH and that the facility has, in the main, met these standards.

The standards, published as the Accreditation Manual for Hospitals, set forth optimal achievale goals of excellence against which a facility can measure itself and be measured by the Joint Commission's survey.

Charlevoix Area Hospital is one of approximately 5,300 general hospitals throughout the United States that have earned this recognition. There are approximately 7,400 hospitals in the U.S.

The Joint Commission's accreditation surveys are voluntary. It is not legally necessary for a hospital to be accredited, but health care facilities have sought accreditation because it represents a benchmark of quality that is higher than governmental licensure alone.

The chief aim of the Hospital Accreditation Program, one of four such programs under the JCAH umbrella, is to help hospitals in their pursuit of excellence and thereby provide a higher quality of care to patients.

The program also seeks to recognize, and to identify for the public, those facilities which meet its standards.

Second Largest Employer

American Mold Lays Off 21

By FRAN MARTIN

The American Mold Engineering Co., the community's second largest employer, has experienced its second lay-off in the past six weeks.

On Thursday company officials announced that an additional 21 production workers would be laid off, effective Friday, as a temporary measure to bring inventories in line with demand.

Early in September, 13 workers were laid off. The most recent layoff brings to 34 the number of American Mold workers laid off. This figure represents approximately one-third of the company's work force.

A spokesman for D-M-E, parent company of American Mold, said that a reduction in personnel at several of the company's facilities had become necessary due to the lower level of demand in the plastic molding industry.

Inventory surpluses developed at D-M-E's branch locations throughout the U.S. when reduced demands occurred at a time when production was still geared to the previous record sales year according to Hal M. Hill, plant manager.

The recent lay-off at the Charlevoix plant is condidered a temporary measure necessary to bring the company inventories in line with current demands, Hill added.

D-M-E President Frank Marra pointed out that some tooling producers have held up new programs because of the general climate of economic uncertainty. He went on to say that "We hope to see a resumption of our former level of business sometime in the near future. This would allow us to return to our normal production at the Charlevoix plant".

"American Mold is an indispensable part of D-M-E's overall operations and we will continue to take any and all measures necessary to maintain its efficient operation" Marras added.

The necessity for a personnel reduction was determined during a recent review of all D-M-E facilities undertaken by plant managers at each of the company's locations.

The Charlevoix plant produces ejector pins and ejector sleeves used in plastic injection molding and die casting.

Highway Meeting Set for Thursday

Representatives from Antrim, Charlevoix and Emmet Counties will meet Thursday evening of this week to consider 15 alternative highway corridors through Northwestern Michigan.

The 15 corridor plans were recently presented to the Northwest Michigan Regional Planning and Development Commission by a representative from the Michigan Department of State Highways and Transportation, with the request that they be turned over to county planning commissions for consideration at the local level.

Besides members from the three local planning commissions, others invited to attend the meeting are soil conservationists and County Extension Agents. However, any interested citizen will be welcome. The meeting starts at 7:30 p.m. in the Courthouse.

City Council Should Include The Township

We feel Charlevoix City Council's decision to place the charter question on the February municipal ballot was a good one.

However, we urge the council to rescind their action made at the last regular city council meeting and consider another alternative.

This time they should consider a move that would include Charlevoix Township.

Perhaps this suggestion may seem somewhat strange in light of what the council has done, but we feel reconsideration of the council action is imperative.

At no other time in the history of Charlevoix has a decision meant so much.

In another few years, it may be too late for Charkevoix to consider merging with Charlevoix Township. Benefits derived from such a move now would be good for both governmental units.

The City of Charlevoix faces a situation where it will have very little room to grow during the ensuing years because it is boxed in geographically by water on two sides and Charlevoix Township on the other.

This means that as the city continues to grow and demand on services continues to rise, city fathers are going to have a tough time trying to cough up enough revenue to meet the pressures.

At the same time, Charlevoix Township, with its soaring population and development, is going to find itself in a similar situation of trying to provide services demanded and required by a larger population.

For example, more and more residents are going to demand sewers and local police and ambulance protection.

How can either of the two units meet these and other demands?

We feel the best way is to merge.

However, if such a move is to take place, it is going to have to be done in a well thought out and organized fashion.

The important thought to keep in mind is that if a merger is to be successful some guarantee that the residents of Charlevoix Township will be given representation is going to have to be made.

And one way of doing that is by starting out from the very beginning with a charter commission comprised of representatives from both the township and city.

We think the City Council should carefully examine the alternatives they recently requested its city attorney to present to them.

In his memorandum to city council, the city attorney suggested that both the city and township petition the state boundary commission for consolidation of both governmental units.

As part of the consolidation process a joint city-township charter commission would be elected to work a homerule charter to be presented to township and city residents.

Still another method to encourage the merging of Charlevoix and Charlevoix Township would be to call for the terms of all elected appointed officials to cease upon the annexation of Charlevoix Township with an immediate special election being called for the election of all elected officials with both city and township residents voting.

One other method, which we feel is the best, would be for the city to petition the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners that the township be annexed into city. At the same time, the city would pass a resolution of intent to form a charter commission that would include some township members.

We disagree with those council members who say it is best to first create a new charter and then merge with the city.

To us, it would seem more logical to have the township involved with the city from the very first move.

If either township or city waits much longer it may be too late for considering a move that we feel would be beneficial to both communities.

Thanks For Property

Words could never express the gratitude needed in thanking Mr. and Mrs. Peter D. Kleinpell for their gift of Lake Michigan property to the City of Charlevoix.

Last week the Flint couple notified the city that they were giving 10 acres of property, including 1,126 feet of Lake Michigan frontage, south of Mt. McSauba, to the city.

They said it was to repay the people of Charlevoix for the hospitality given them over their many years as summer residents.

The property will make a valuable contribution to an already beautiful piece of public land located just north of the city.

As property values continue to increase, it will be harder for the city to obtain land for public use and contributions such as made by the Kleinpells will insure that there will be land for future generations to enjoy.

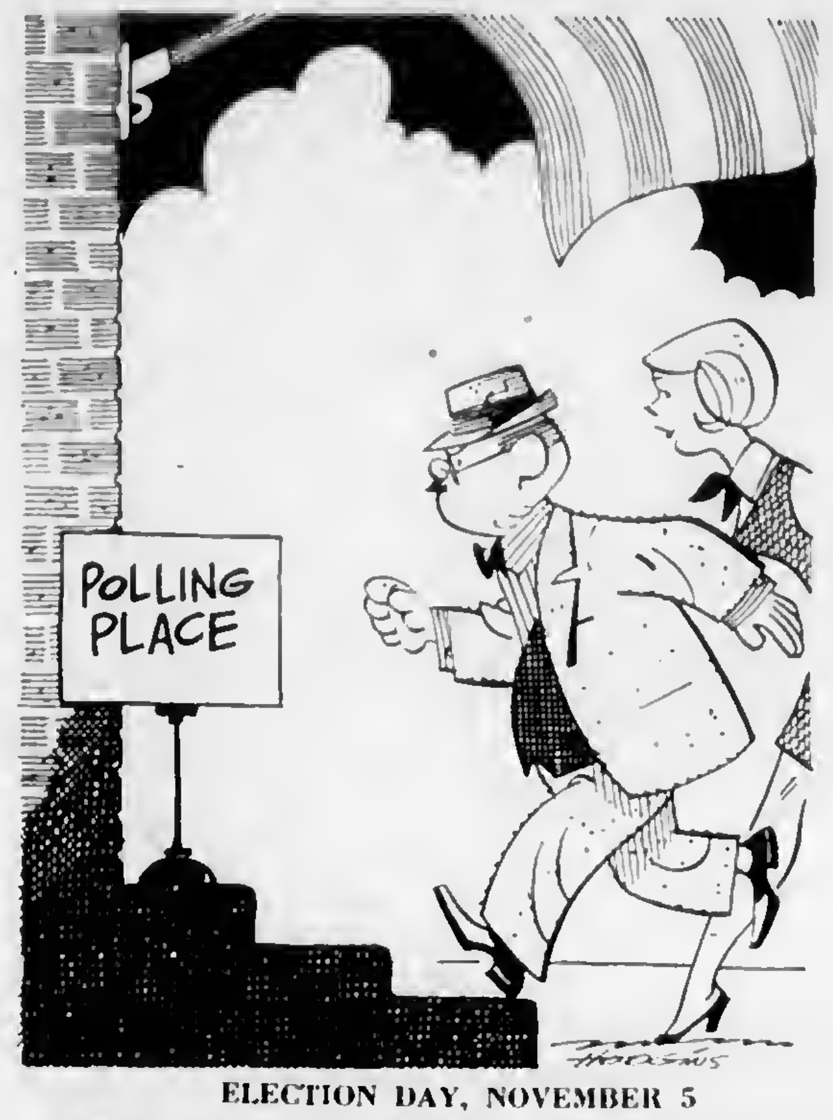
ON THE JOB



ELECTION DAY, NOVEMBER 5

Imagine waking up to a day in which over one-third of America's work force has capriciously decided to take the day off.

You amble to your front door, only to find your morning newspaper missing; the paper boy has gone fishing. After waiting an hour for your bus, you decide to walk to work; the driver, too, is away from his job. You arrive home at the end of a hectic day to find no groceries for dinner—your wife says the store was closed. The point is obvious: none of us can function without the performance of responsibilities by those on whom we rely.

Yet many of us apparently expect our country to operate smoothly when over one-third of us are "off the job" as citizens and voters. In 1972, for example, 80 million Americans—37 per cent of the electorate—failed to vote in the presidential election. Worse, in the last non-presidential election year—1970—nearly 50 per cent of eligible voters failed to cast ballots.

This year be "on the job" on Election Day 1974.

"To Whom It May Concern"

People are getting tired of picking up the paper and reading where Petoskey "Northmen" beat the pants off Charlevoix "Rayders."

We all know that one team would win and one would not. Don't make the team feel like they did something terrible by not winning. I'm sure the whole team knows what went wrong and now's the time to stand behind them and let them know that we do love them rain or shine, win or not win.

Some of us know where the blame should go. Right in the coaches' lap. You kept calling plays that made it a whole different ballgame. When you could see that the plays you were calling to those players didn't work why in heaven's name didn't you keep still and let the kids call their own plays. They won the other games. They might not have won the game but I'll bet my bottom dollar that they would have come up with something else besides a zero.

Mr. Carey, you have been a coach for years but we do feel you are the reason that the Rayders lost the game. How about it.

Sincerely

Our aging electorate

By Mitchell Colby

We, the people of the United States, are growing older. According to a recent Census Bureau report:

— Today about 20.6, million Americans are 65 years old or more, and the number is increasing by 300,000 to 400,000 a year.

— The number of people over 65 will rise sharply between the years 2010 and 2020 when the World War II "baby boom" becomes an "elderly boom."

— The proportion of people 65 to 69 is declining, while the proportion of those 75 and older is growing.

— The time is coming, says one gerontologist, when more than half our population will be over 65, a fact which is going to have major impact on many of our institutions and customs.

Now the premium is on being young, notes Dr. Mary M. Sequin of Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland, who is one of a growing number of persons with doctorates in the field of gerontology, the study of aging.

But when the population shifts begin to occur — caused by a combination of medical advances and a declining birth rate — the premium will be on being older, she predicts. "The focus of power and values will shift."

She foresees one major problem area in the economy, especially the job market, as technology eliminates jobs and we are forced to keep lowering the age of retirement to make room for new entrants.

One possible solution might be for people to work in five-year cycles. They would take a year or more off after each cycle, giving opportunities for more people to be employed.

Clockwise

By BOB CLOCK

Sometimes politicians don't use the good sense they were born with.

Take Gov. William Milliken, for example.

Our governor has elected to cast his lot in the upcoming election with the forces opposing repeal of the sales tax on food and drugs.

And because of his stand, the governor just might go down the tube, as the fellow says, along with a lot of other opponents of repeal.

Now you know and I know that the sales tax is going to be defeated, don't we? It's going to be defeated so badly that you'll be able to tally the "no " votes on on the back of the Food Stamp.

Then why doesn't the governor share our political savvy? Where has he been, lo these many years, not to realize that the sales tax on food — in fact all sales taxes — discriminate unfairly against the little guy?

Look at it this way.

The fellow earning $10,000 a year spends, say, $2,500 a year on groceries. But the dude earning $50,000 a year also spends $2,500 a year on groceries. He can sock the rest of his boodle in the bank without paying a cent in sales tax.

So we have a situation where one man must pay food sales tax on one-quarter of his income. The other pays food sales tax on one-twentieth of his income.

It's not right and the governor knows it is not right.

But instead of searching for the ways to replace the lost funds with a tax on corporate profits or some such the governor now is threatening us with an increase in our income tax if the sales tax is repealed.

The governor's Democratic opponent, Sander Levin, shows considerably more political acumen.

He not only has backed the repeal movement but he says that if he's elected governor he will look for ways to cut state spending to make up an anticipated $40 million deficit in revenue. And $40 million is only a drop in the bucket when it comes to the state budget.

Here's another interesting point. If the sales tax is not repealed, Michigan stands to have a surplus of $200 million next year — money that could be well spent by the suffering citizenry instead of by bureaucrats in Lansing.

President Jerry Ford also has committed a monumental political boo-boo in the past two weeks.

After the Watergate fiasco, Ford would have been wise to stay close to Washington and let fellow Republicans rise or fall on their own merits out in the hinterlands.

After all, Jerry inherited a staggering mess from his predecessor and it is going to take all of his energies just to hold the country together for the next two years.

Furthermore, he was not elected by the American people to occupy the highest office in the land. He won it on default and should be bright enough to realize it.

But instead of maintaining the cool impartiality that the nation needs in these trying times, Ford has hit the campaign trail on behalf of his old GOP cronies — uttering partisan inanities from coast to coast like an old-time Chicago ward heeler.

For our money, he had done more to harm the Republican party in two short weeks than President Nixon managed to accomplish in six long years.

No one today believes that the Democratic Party is the "war party." No one but Ford.

No one today believes that the Democratic Party has cornered the market on big government spending, particularly after six years of Nixon. No one but Ford.

No one today believes that a veto-proof Democratic Congress will spell the end of the American system of government. No one but Ford.

Instead of staying home and minding the store, the President has opened old wounds all along the campaign trail to the detriment of the Republican Party and the nation.

As a non-elected President, Ford has a marvelous opportunity to effect the changes that must be made from a vantage point well above mere partisan politics.

But he blew it.

Spoiled!

Watch Out for Pheasants

By Jim Fitzgerald

What Jim Sparling may not understand is that the pheasants are getting away, for lord's sake. Something has got to be done before this nation is overrun with rampaging ringnecks.

It is a fine thing for Sparling to be against gun controls. But what this country really needs is a law requiring every citizen to own a gun and to kill at least 1 animal per week. Otherwise, there'll soon be a 10-point buck crowding in front of you in the A&P checkout line.

Sparling is a Republican candidate for Congress from my district. He recently told a Michigan Deer Hunters' meeting: "Firearms don't kill people, people do."

Strip off the back of his conservative gray suit and he'll stick to any bumper.

Sparling was speaking in Lapeer but he gave no indication he was aware of the great danger nearby. He wasn't even wearing a pistol. Probably his dumb aides hadn't told him about the marauding pheasants taking over the State Game Area just a few short miles north of where he stood, unarmed. Otherwise, he would have sounded a warning: "Firearms don't harvest pheasants, people do. And you'd better get busy."

The Mich. Dept of Natural Resources (DNR) started the trouble with its Put and Take program. The DNR breeds thousands of pheasants and then releases them at various locations so hunters can harvest them. As I pointed out last year, the hunters wear bibtop overalls, carry pitchforks and drive Allis-Chalmers tractors. Back on the farm, the hired man is shooting wheat.

Put and Take worked fine last season. The DNR told harvesters when and where the pheasants would be released, so attack plans could be made in advance. In our area one weekend, it was possible to muster 3,500 harvesters against 250 pheasants. Under these conditions, the territory was secured quickly with no enemy surviving. The only casualty among the harvestrs occurred when an infantryman ran up against a particularly stubborn flip-top beer can and cut a knuckle.

But something subversive infiltrated the DNR this year. Perhaps it all started when a park ranger was scratched by a Communist squirrel. Anyway, an unAmerican decision was made. There is now no prior announcement of exactly when the pheasants will be released. The invasion can come at any time, without warning. There is no way the harvesters can be prepared. They can't man the fort 24 hours every day. After all, this is a volunteer army and even the most patriotic harvester must spend some time earning a living, helping the hired man shoot wheat.

The fearful result is not surprising. In our game area, a pheasant survival rate of 40 per cent and even 50 per cent a week has been reported. This means almost as many pheasants are staying Put as are being Took. There may well be as escaped pheasant flapping around your home right now, as you read these very words.

This is happening despite the heroic efforts of a few harvesters who have been tracking the trucks that deliver the pheasants to the game areas. A DNR driver recently complained to a newsman: "They're just like hounds. Everytime I go to Put some pheasants, there they are with their shotguns, ready to harvest."

That's good news, of course. But it isn't enough. The DNR has lots of trucks. Many more tracking harvesters are needed. And they must be trained and financed. It is not enough that men like Sparling fight gun controls. What this nation needs is legislation requiring a machine gun in every window and a bull's eye on every animal.

Otherwise, there'll be a pheasant in the White House some day.

Meet Charlevoix

Meet William Ohle

Northern Michigan faces the threat of losing all of its railroads. The problem is that not too many local people are doing anything about it.

One concerned citizen is William H. Ohle of Horton Bay. A retired Chicago advertising executive and life-long summer resident, Ohle has been staging his own battle to save the rails.

Today, the Charlevoix Courier asks Ohle what the picture for Northern Michigan is.

COURIER: What is the current railroad situation in Northern Michigan?

OHLE: The situation is that both the major railroads in the area, the Penn Central and Chesapeake and Ohio, which serves the city of Charlevoix, appear eager to let their freight service go as they did their passenger service some years ago. Only token efforts are extended to maintain the condition of road beds, rails and rolling stock, to the point where operation of trains is really dangerous.

The Penn Central has filed the second abandonment proceeding request on the heels of one filed a year ago. Unless there is considerable opposition to this latest Oct. 3, 1974 petition, the Penn Central will for all intents and purposes be out of business from Cedar Springs to Mackinaw City. No hearings will be held unless the public registered their opposition. The C & O has voiced no official request for abandonment, but it can be assumed that they are merely waiting to find out how the Penn Central situation develops.

COURIER: What is being done to prevent the abandonment of Northern Michigan railroads?

OHLE: Several things. First, the $1.1 million mass transportation bond issue, proposition D on the November ballot, promises at least token attention to Northwest Michigan. The exact facts in this respect are cloudy since the hastily developed state plan does not spell out enough specifics to make the ultimate plan definite. Apparently, the state department of transportation expects to compose its final plan after approval of the bond issue.

Northwest Regional Planning and Economic Development Commission, which represents 10 counties from Manistee north and I-75 west, has held numerous hearings and submitted resolutions opposing abandonment of freight service. Indeed, it has also pushed hard for revitalization of passenger service as well. Recently, in a very short period of time, about 5,000 signatures of residents were obtained by the commission on a petition calling for a reasonable time extension to enable the state to work properly with the region in development of a sensible multi-modal transportation system. That is, a plan that would give necessary balance to rail, highway, air and water methods of freight and passenger travel.

The regional commission strongly believes that rail service is basic to such plans. All township and county planning commissions strongly endorse this point of view. Most recently a group of businessmen and other rail users formed an association to do whatever is possible to maintain rail service to this part of the north.

COURIER: Will proposal D on the November 5 state ballot save Northern Michigan rails since a state rail use plan has not been completed?

OHLE: This is a big question, since the plan literally has not been written. Actually, what proposition D will do, if passed, is authorize the state to issue bonds to fund a state wide transportation plan.

COURIER: What will happen to Northern Michigan if we lose our railroads?

OHLE: The full answer to this question depends upon the severity and duration of the energy crisis. The north can get along without railroads or trucks, but obviously it cannot get along without both. An authority at Michigan State University stated only recently that the truck people are as little interested in serving the north as are the railroad people. It is easy to imagine the effect on truck service and truck rutes if the railroad is not present to provide competition. We pay more for food and life necessities now. The result of discontinuance of rail service would obviously be to push our costs of everything still higher.

Also, if the gasoline and oil pinch becomes severe, which is likely, we may actually face shortages of necessary items. Our resort economy will be similarly affected. I don't think we want to take that chance if anything can be done to maintain and hopefully improve the railroads in this area.

It is perhaps a sad commentary on our federal and state leaders that they no longer seem to place local need into their computors when it comes to railroad service. To quote the Michigan Public Utilitles Commission in a 1924 statement: "land grants were not in general bestowed upon (railroad) routes traversing well populated regions. They had at least one terminal in an underdeveloped region, and it was the professed purpose of the land grant aids to lead population to underdeveloped districts. This was the first step where therein the railroad was substantially to lead the way to settlement and industrial development."

Since the railroads in the northwest section of the lower peninsulu were "land grant" railroads, and acquired their rights-of-way at no cost, it seems a pity that attempts are being made today to pull the rug, (or perhaps more upproprlately the tracks), out from under us in a time of even greater need than we had in the first place.

County Solid Waste Study Nearing Completion

Preliminary plans for a Charlevoix County Solid waste management system were heard last week by a group of representatives from townships and cities in the county, as well as by established haulers of solid waste.

Charlevoix County Planner Bill Mercer presented an outline of a system he has devised utilizing the licenced landfill operated by the Charlevoix Garbage Service, the present Boyne City and East Jordan landfills, and the Melrose Township and Boyne Falls-Boyne Valley Township, modified open dumps.

The plan calls for using the four public disposal sites as transfer stations, and transporting wastes collected there to the private site for disposal.

After analyzing the Charlevoix Garbage Service site in Eveline Township, the Solid Waste Division of the Department of Natural Resources was determined that it would accommodate the wastes currently being handled at the other sites.

Under this plan, according to Mercer, it would be possible for the political units to retain a convenient location for their residents to dispose of solid waste, and at the same time comply with sound engineering practices for waste treatment.

The four existing public disposal facilities would have to be modified to serve as transfer sites, but using them would eliminate the necessity of purchasing additional land for solid waste disposal.

The transfer sites would consist of a semi-trailer into which waste would be loaded for hauling to the landfill in Eveline Township, and several bins for articles which could be recycled, such as glass, paper and household appliances. There would also be space for junked cars.

The entire areas would be fenced and surounded by burms and trees.

None of the four public landfills in the county meet State standards and have been threatened with closing by the State for some time. Originally, July 1 was set as the date for bringing these facilities up to date, but since the county is working on a comprehensive plan the deadline was moved back.

The plans will be presented to the full Planning Commission, and to the County Board of Commissioners at their regular meetings next month.

If You're Prepared

Mothers Find Babies Aren't All Worry

Fourteen pregnant women in the Charlevoix area are graduating from school this week.

They are completing the Charlevoix Area Hospital's Childbirth program, a seven-session course covering almost every aspect of pregnancy.

The students are not all first-time mothers-to-be, either. There are some who are having their second child, and one who is already the mother of four children.

Mrs. Janet M. Ready, R.N., was the class instructor. She was assisted by several physicions and other nurses and individuals who spoke on various aspects of becoming a mother.

Exercises for relaxation and physical conditioning, as well as breathing exercises were stressed throughout the program.

Other subjects included nutritional needs, female anatomy and physiology, emotional and physical effects of pregnancy, normal labor and delivery, doctor's lectures, care and feeding of the newborn infant, and social, sexual, financial and emotional adjustment to the new member family.

The program was a public service undertaking of the Charlevoix Area Hospital Women's Auxiliary. Mrs. Ready is enthusiastic about her first class and hopes that future classes will include non-pregnant women, even young girls, who want to learn more about their bodies and the process of childbirth.

Four husbands joined their wives in attending the last series of classes and Mrs. Ready hopes that more men will also participate in future programs.

Proper breathing and muscle exercises make for more comfortable labor and possibly easier delivery, according to Mrs. Ready. "Mothers also bounce back more quickly if they are in good physical condition," she says.

Mrs. Ready is the young mother of two small boys, aged four and six. She attended pre-natal school before they were born but did not learn about the exercises, which she believes would have made her deliveries easier.

Among these who helped Mrs. Ready with the childbirth program were Ofelial Bidart, hospital dietician; Mary Terryberry, R.N.; John Lignell, M.D.; Linda Sherlee and Teri Divine of the LaLeche League; and Mrs. Raymond Griffin of Planned Parenthood.

In addition to Dr. Lignell, cooperating physicians were Richard Mansfield, D. O., Harry Custer, M.D., John Fotchman, M.D., and Dennis Joy, M.D.

The next Childbirth Program of the Charlevoix Area Hospital Women's Auxiliary is scheduled to start on March 18. Members of the Childbirth committee are Donna McGary and Jane Kipke, co-chairmen; Cricket Uhrich, secretary; Millie Brown, registration; Carol Morris, publicity; Ann Hite, East Jordan; and Becky Davis, Boyne City.

EXPECTANT MOTHERS try their hand at holding a young infant in a session held last week at the Charlevoix Area Hospital.

MRS. JANICE DIETRICH demonstrates how to wash a baby while Mrs. Janet Ready (Background) explains the steps.

Mechanics Must Be Licensed

New Law May Send Repair Bills Soaring

Michigan's new auto mechanics licensing law, hailed as a consumer protection law, could send repair bills skyrocketing.

In addition to providing for testing and licensing of mechanics, the new law calls for state registration of an estimated 30,000 major auto repair facilities.

Only muffler shops and service stations which do minor repairs such as tire work and lubrication jobs would be excluded from registrations.

Signed into law a week ago by Gov. Milliken, the law requires that a customer be provided with a written repair estimate before his car is serviced.

It also requires that customers be able to see and receive replaced parts to insure they were replaced.

By 1978, all registered repair shops must employ at least one master mechanic in each repair category they have—electrical system work, transmission, front end, brakes, engine tune-up and the like.

The new law will be administered by the Secretary of State and as many as 90,000 mechanics may be affected by the new law.

A spokesman for the Governor told the Charlevoix Courier that Gov. Milliken said it gives Michigan the most comprehensive auto repair bill in the nation.

The governor calls it a major step forward in protecting one of the largest customer groups in the state—the motoring public.

However, while it will be protecting customers, several Charlevoix repair shops say it will also cost them more.

Mel Renaud of Professional Vehicle Service says that while having the licensed mechanics poses no problems, customers will probably have to pay more because of the time required to figure out detailed estimates.

"It's going to make the job take longer," he said.

He added that when mechanics become certified they will cost more because of the certification.

"Let's face it, it's not going to come out of my pocket," he said.

Tim Smith of the Charlevoix Zupin Service Station says he thinks it is a good idea and will eliminate some of the poor service that is given in some stations.

Hospital Guild Plans Christmas Sale

The Showcase gift shop in the Charlevoix Area Hospital will conduct its annual pre-Christmas sale next Monday and Tuesday. The shop is operated by members of the hospital Women's Guild as a fund-raising project for their many public service activities.

Recently the Guild held a Thrifty Sale which they termed a "huge success" and thank everyone who made contributions to it including Peterson & Associates, who donated use of the building.

Yesterday the Guild gave a coffee to introduce Mrs. Merle Piagge, wife of the new surgeon on the hospital staff.

Eleanor Neff is this year's president of the Guild, Mary Dinwiddie is vice-president in charge of membership, Evelyn Seger is secretary, and Eleanor Schultz is treasurer.

Guild committee members are Car, Fran Miiner; The Showcase, Barbara Gallagher, Ina Fochtman and Eleanor Freedman; Puppets, Edna Weidman; Knitting, Edith Chamberlain; Layettes, June Riley, Jane Lieberman and Hilda Crowe; Publicity, Fran Martin and Peg Driggett; Holiday Tray Favors, Karen Joy, Pat Roebuck, Beverly Espich and Wilma Stabnick.

Also, T.V. NORWOOD TOWNSHIP CLERK

No One Seems To Know

Court Decision Could Change Zoning

Township boards may no longer have to consider individual requests for rezoning as a result of a recent Michigan Supreme Court decision.

In fact, both local and state officials aren't sure what's going to happen.

One Southern Michigan township attorney has gone to the point of telling his township board to update their zoning map every few years instead of hearing and acting upon individual zoning requests.

Some planning experts say this could mean that property owners might have to wait several years before they can, if at all, get their property rezoned.

The confusion stems from a court decision (West versus Portage) that determined rezoning in individual cases is an administrative rather a legislative, action.

On those grounds, the Court specifically states that the right of referendum does not extend to rezoning particular property.

Both local and state officials are awaiting word from the Michigan Attorney General's office about how to handle the situation in light of the new decision.

"I've had at least three zoning administrators ask what this means," said a spokesman from the Department of Natural Resources' Office of Land Use.

"It raises a question...very definitely."

The state planning official looked at the decision as a positive step because local township boards and planning commissions will have more time to be involved with planning.

He said it will also put local governmental units into a position of keeping their zoning maps updated.

Joseph Brennan, attorney for Green Oak Township in Livingston County, recently evaluated the situation at the Michigan Society of Planning Officials (MSPO) fall conference in Harbor Springs.

He has also circulated his own attorney's opinion of the situation.

Brennan said the Court "sneaked in" the definition of rezoning changes as administrative, not legislative, in a case which involved the more specific issue of whether or not proposed zoning changes could be subject to referendary vote.

Brennan indicated that the decision shifts the authority over the zoning ordinance from the municipality of the property owner.

"The decision changes the issues involved in rezoning," Brennan said in a recent newspaper interview.

"Rezoning as a legislative process means that the township board considers the opinion of the planning commission, hears facts, and decides the issue.

"If the applicant is unhappy with the board's decision, he may go before the Board of Appeals.

"If he is not satisfied with the ruling of the Board of Appeals, he may bring a civil suit against the township.

In that case, it is incumbent upon him (the plaintiff--applicant) to prove that the township's original zoning of his land was unreasonable.

"As an administrative process, rezoning becomes a contested case before a tribunal.

"The township attorney would be called in on every case. Citizens would be called as witnesses, and evidence would be presented.

"In this case, the plaintiff, or property owner requesting rezoning would have to show only that his proposed use of the land is not unreasonable. There are six uses for every piece of property which are not unreasonable but, before, the board had final say about which use was most appropriate.

"Under the new ruling the township cannot grant zoning changes is some cases and not in others because that's violation of equal protection under the law. The township either has to go administrative or legislative all the way," Brennan said.

Other officials point out that the opinion was reached by a four to three vote of the justices and the decision may be reconsidered.

Obituary

Gerald Hollingsworth died Thursday, October 24 at his home in Sunapee, New Hampshire after a month-long illness. Mr. Hollingsworth was the grandson of Belvedere patriarch, Oscar Allen and a relative of Glen Allen who recently remodled the old Hopyard school house on Boyne City road for a vacation home.

The Oscar Allen family built Belvedere cottage at 306 Belvedere Avenue in 1876 and descendants of the family continued to occupy the summer home until it was sold to Wm. T. Leakas of Dayton, Ohio, some 3 years ago.

It was Mr. Hollingsworth's (Holly to his friends) life-long desire that Brookside Cemetery be his final resting place. He loved Charlevoix and loved to reminisce about his boyhood summers here when he and brother, Emmett, (Now also deceased) played around the old Charlevoix Lumber Company's yards often balancing themselves on the logs in the big booms that had "rode the waves" from inland logging camps.

The entire Hollingsworth family lived in the water as much as on the water as their mother, Fanny Allen Hollingsworth taught them all to swim at an early age. He often recalled picnic trips from Bellvedere Bayou to Lake Michigan beaches in tha family rowboat which in those days was as much a part of the family as Today's automobile.

Mr. Hollingsworth is survived by his wife, Charlotte and 2 daughters, Shirley Hollingsworth Simpson and Hellen Hollingsworth Baubie.

TWO VOLUNTEERS from the Seventh Day Adventist Church explain how their program for helping fire victims works.

Do Fire Victims Get Help?

Fire has a way of tossing his treacherous flames on the lives of people when they least expect it.

Except for buying an insurance policy to protect your household, you probably never think too much about fire damage.

What would happen if you suddenly found yourself outside in the cold night huddled close together with your family watching your house go up in flames?

What would you do if you needed clothes right away and didn't have time to wait for an insurance claim?

In Charlevoix County, you would probably hear from the Community Services Center in Boyne City before you could give it a second thought.

Last year nione, the Seventh Day Adventist-related group gave more than 7,200 articles of clothing to fire victims and needy families.

"Years ago, two women began it," says Mrs. Lorraine Magee of Boyne City.

"They worked right out of their homes."

At that time, she said the group was called Dorchas, after the Biblical character who used to help make clothing.

But as the demand and volunteer staff increased, she said the women eventually were forced to move into their present location at the old Seventh Day Adventist church in Boyne City.

"We help everyone," Mrs. Magee said.

"We even helped clothe children here in Charlevoix this year for school."

In fact, there's been such a demand for jackets that Mrs. Magee says they're almost out.

"We try to help everyone out." she said.

Mrs. Magee said the group of women take up offerings among themselves and sell novelties to raise money to buy more clothing.

Presently, there are between eight and 10 people who head up the program that is supervised by Mrs. Pat Sherwood of Boyne City and Mrs. Lucille Sherwood of Boyne falls.

A Long History

How Did Hallowe'en Get Started Anyway?

BY LAURIE PIDEK

When families from the Old World came to America, they brought their Halloween customs with them. Its name means hallowed or holy evening, because it takes place on the day before All Saint's Day. There are many syperstitions and symbols connected with Halloween.

The Druids, an order of priests in ancient Gaul and Britain, believed that on Halloween, ghosts, spirits, fairies, witches, and elves came out to harm people.

They thought the cat was sacred and believed that cats had once been human beings but were changed as a punishment for evil deeds.

We get our witches, ghosts, and cats from what the Druids believed.

There are lots of cat superstitions connected with the time. If a cat sits quietly beside a person, that means peace and prosperity.

If the cat rubs against you that means good luck and greater good luck if the cat jumps into your lap.

If the cat yawns it means an opportunity awaits which must not be neglected, and if the cat runs from you, that means you have a secret which will be told within a week.

Another one for a few laughs is the Pennsylvania belief that if you go out of the front door backward, pick up grass or dust and wrap it in paper and put it under the pillow, you will dream with certainty of what the future holds.

In Maryland the girls put an egg on the stove and open wide the doors and windows. Then the man they are to marry will come in and turn the egg.

There is a belief that pills made of a hazelnut, a walnut and nutmeg grated together and mixed with butter and sugar will produce dreams.

If the dream is of gold the husband will be rich, if of noise he will be a trodesman and if of thunder and lightning he will be a traveler.

Another superstition is that if you eat a crust of dry bread before going to bed on halloween any wish that you have will come true.

And of course, in the case of witches, it was believed that iron was the protection against witches, expecially powerful if it was in the shape of a horseshoe.

For those who believed in the power of the sign of the cross thought that if it were made in front of a witch, she would become powerless.

In one part of Scotland it was believed that witches were out on Halloween stealing milk and harming cattle.

There were various beliefs about fairies in Scotland. One of them is that they meet at crossroads.

If a man were to take a three legged stool on Halloween to a place where three roads crossed and sit on it at midnight he would hear the names of the people that were going to die during the year.

Elementary Starts Paper

By DEBBIE WOOD

A school newspaper at the K-5?

According to teacher Mrs. Carland, the Learning Center has made one publication of their paper so far.

The kids went around and interviewed different teachers, and found out what was new in the classrooms.

Their biggest interview was about their new principal, Mr. Raymer.

Some other things included in the paper were recipes, such could be cut out and taken home, word scrambles, dot-to-dot puzzles, a section of jokes for the kids and one for the teachers, and just news about what was happening around the school.

The paper was eight pages long and they sold approximately 190 coppies at 5 cents each. Mrs. Carland was uncertain about how often the paper would be published.

Maybe once every six weeks or five or six times this year.

With the money made from the paper, the kids who helped put the paper together went to the Dairy Queen for a treat. The money left over and what they plan on making from future papers, will be combined at the end of the year and used for a trip, but at the present time are undecided as to where it will be.

Freshman Selected

Tryouts for Freshman cheerleaders were held on Thursday, October 17.

The girls chosen were Corinne Ranger, Kim Leyman and Tammy Wasoski, Chris Pidek, and Teri Bradley.

Alternates are Bobbie Klooster, Tammi Mann, and Kim Jones.

The girls were judges on group cheers and also on individual cheers.

The judges this year were Mrs. Marie Osterberg, P.E. Dept.; Miss Kravutske who teaches Spanish; and also Miss Terri Wood, former cheerleader and CHS alumni.

The other girls who tried out were: Mary Faculak, Becky Juillerett, Ronda Revoir, Patty Sneathen, Ginger Packert, Laura Glass and Beth Newton.

Charlevoix Debate Team Having A Good Season

By Gayle Boss

The Charlevoix High School Debate Team returned home October 19 not victorious but still pleased with the results of their efforts in the Ann Arbor Huron Debate Championship run-off.

The Championship Division was based on results both from primary rounds for qualification held at Ann Arbor Pioneer and the finals held at Huron.

Charlevoix entered the Huron rounds with a preliminary standing of 9th place, 3 wins-1 loss and 187 speaker pjoints. Huron results were 2 wins-2 loss and 179 speaker points. Charlevoix was able to hold off Southfield-Lathrop and Portage Northern then lost to Ferndale and Marshall, the 3rd place team. The final tally placed Charlevoix still in 9th with a 5 win-3 loss total and 366 speaker points. What this means to the team is that they didn't gain any in standings but they certainly weren't over-powered by the downstate competition.

Final results of the tournament were: Jackson Parkside (team A) 7 wins 1 loss; 404 speaker points; 10th in pre-lims. Southfield, 7 wins and 1 loss; 402 speaker points; 2nd in pre-lims. Marshall, 6 wins and 2 losses; 379 speaker points, 6th in pre-lims. University of Detroit, 6 wins and 2 losses; 379 speaker points; 1st in pre-lims. Ann Arbor Pioneer, 6 wins and 2 losses; 364 speaker points; 3rd in pre-lims. Taylor Truman, 6 wins and 2 losses; 362 speaker points; 5th in pre-lims. Detroit Catholic Central, 6 wins and 2 losses; 356 speaker points; 4th in pre-lims. Taylor Kennedy, 5 wins and 3 losses; 369 speoker points; 7th in pre-lims. Charlevoix, 5 wins and 3 losses; 366 speaker points; 9th in pre-lims. Livonia Stevenson, 5 wins and 3 losses; 363 speaker points,; 15th in pre-lims. Jackson Parkside (team B), 4 wins and 4 losses; 396 speaker points; 10th in pre-lims. Ferndale, 4 wins and 4 losses; 380 speaker points; 8th in prelims. Portage Northern, 4 wins and 4 losses; 368 speaker points; 13th in pre-lims. Southfield-Lathrop, 4 wins and 4 losses; 364 speaker points; 16th in pre-lims. Belleville, 4 wins and 4 losses; 343 speaker points. Essexville, 4 wins and 4 losses; 329 speaker points; 12th in pre-lims. Detroit Catholic Central (team B), 3 wins and 5 losses; 374 speaker points; Kalamazoo Central, 3 wins and 5 losses; 346 speaker points; 14th in pre-lims.

Two teams were odded to the second round bringing the tournament up to 18 teams and all rounds were based on power pairing. Kim Blanchard and Gayle Boss represented Charlevoix in the championship division.

Also competing at Huron in the J.V. division of the regular tournament were Kathy Britton and Darrell Clark on the affirmative and Denise Boss and Linda Smith on the negative. Kathy and Darrell were particularly pleased with results of 3 wins and 1 loss. The total team, however, was not as fortunate; total team record was 3 wins and 5 losses.

The record, however, is really a reflection of the schools meet and the type of competition faced in southern tournaments. Some of the J.V. schools faced by Charlevoix were Marshall, Detroit Catholic Central, Grand Rapids Central, Ann Arbor Pioneer, Royal Oak Kimble; all large and strong debate schools. The team was not unhappy with the results seeing as this was the first tournament of the season for

NOTICE

CHARLEVOIX TOWNSHIP

Notice is hereby given that at the regular meeting of the Charlevoix Township Board held on Monday, October 14, 1974 the following resolution was passed. Resolved that the Ronald Swanson property CHX. 23 be rezoned from R-1 to R-4.

This is effective immediately upon publication.

Virginia Cunningham, Clerk

Ken Staley invites you to consider the record before you vote on November 5th. Charlevoix County is operating today on the 3rd lowest allocated millage of the 83 Michigan Counties. Charlevoix County's budget for 1975 will be only 13.3 percent of all the levied county millage. This 13.3 percent of your property tax dollar will go for all county operations – many are State dictated and compulsory. Ken is interested in where this 13.3 percent of your tax dollar is being spent. Ken was present at the Public Budget Hearing. His opponent was not there.

Ken gives freely of his time to many things outside the official meeting of the County Board of Commissioners. There have been mony other efforts put forth to help guide orderly future growth of the area. Some of these things will affect you, your children, and your grandchildren in years to come. An example is: Ken formed a committee with several others in February, 1971 in an effort to get the State to acquire the almost 500 acres, 1.5 mile shoreline, Fisherman's Island tract for public purposes. This is now becoming a reality.

Ken has 16 years of service for good government. He served local government on the City Council 4 years, the Regional Planning Commission 6 years and as your County Commissioner 6 years. Ken is busy taking care of his business and also the county work so does not have time to go door to door but is always willing to answer any questions either on the phone or personally.

Your support has been and always will be very much appreciated. The National and State Governments are placing a bigger load on local government each year so this is "NO TIME FOR BEGINNERS". Do your part for good government on Tuesday November 5th.

VOTE FOR KENNETH A. STALEY FOR DISTRICT 14 COUNTY COMMISSIONER.

He will do his part for you. Good government doesn't just "happen".

DO YOUR PART – VOTE NOVEMBER 5th.

A New Group

Trademark Comes Here

By JIM BERLAGE

On Friday, October 11, Campus Life provided CHS with a 40 minute assembly, featuring TRADEMARK, a group of seven young musicians from the Michigan-Ohio area.

The College- oge group make up the YFC Campus Life team for this year.

To become a member of the team, auditions were held and these seven were the finalists chosen out of a field of 65 candidates. All seven are taking a year off from college and they will be on the road full-time until May of 1975.

The group is very versatile in instrumentation. Everyone plays at least two instruments and all sing. Twenty-seven people would be needed to play all the instruments used by TRADEMARK, if the ratio were one instrument per person.

The team is made up of two gals and five guys.

Mary Ann McAlpine comes from Jackson, Michigan and plays the organ, piano and flute. Mary Ann is a sophomore in college. Kathy Goodwine, also a Sophomore comes from Utica, Michigan and plays the flute, piano and organ. Senior Jay Walden comes from East Lansing, Michigan and plays a host of instruments. Among them are bass, six and 12 string guitars, piano, organ, trumpet, and trombone. Ken Mills of Southfield, Michigan plays the bongos, condas, trumpet and harmonica. Ken is a Sophomore. On drums is Mike Silliman, a Freshman, from Defiance, Ohio. Playing lead guitar and trombone is Rick Taylor, from Flint, Michigan. Rick is also a Freshman.

TRADEMARK is managed by Randy and Jan Walker from Van Wert, Ohio. TRADEMARK has recorded a record album which will soon be released. At the end of October, they are scheduled to tape n television special along with Jay Kesler, President of Youth for Christ (YFC).

While in Michigan's Northwest area, for the past 8 days, TRADEMARK has appeared in over 27 different assemblies being held in various schools and churches.

TRADEMARK will also be visiting the states of New York, Pennsylvania, Minnesota, and then up to Canada over the Christmas holidays for the Annual Holiday Teen Convention.

CMS Proud of Newspaper

By DEBBIE WOOD

The Middle School also has a newspaper which the students seem to be very proud of. It is called the CMS Press.

Co-editors are: Lisa Flower and Chris Henkel. Reporters and artists are: Miss Schenk's first and second hour Language Arts class.

The paper contains many interesting articles. For example, the October 4, 1974 issue contained a schedule of important events, news of importance to their school, a "farewell" article to Ms. Stanke and a "welcome" article to Mr. Chew, and article about the skunks that have invaded Charlevoix, a teacher feature, sports information, puzzles, interviews with all the new students and teachers, reviews done by students on a book and a television show, and a section for advertisements.

Although the paper sells for 10 cents a copy, none of the money they make is profit- it is used to buy the paper and other needed materials.

If there is any money left over from that, they use it to buy film and other things for their annual.

Indian Center Started

The Michigan Indian Culture and Service Center has requested a grant of $31,000 for a cooperative project near Petoskey.

The money is being sought from the Northwest Michigan Regional Planning and Development Commission for the creation of an Indian-owned and operated marketing and trading center specializing in selling authentic Indian crafts.

If approved, the funds would be used to "update the feasibility of the Wag-a-Nuk-Zee project." Wag-a-Nuk-Zee means "crooked tree," according the Gerald Chingwa, director of the Michigan Indian Confederation.

The Michigan Indian Culture and Service Center has obtained an 18-acre leased site from the State of Michigan on Highway M-131 between State Police headquarters and the Petoskey State Park for the project.

Chingwa noted that there are approximately 30,000 Indians living in Michigan, with only about 4,000 of them living on four state reservations. About 55 Indian artisans would be aided through funding of the project.

NANCY FOCHTMAN

EAST LANSING– Nancy Fochtman, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Fochtman of 304 Meech, was recently named a 1974 Homecoming Associate at Michigan State University.

Miss Fochtman, a 1971 graduate of Charlevoix High School, is an MSU senior majoring in television and radio.

For the first time in MSU's history there will not be a homecoming queen. Instead, there will be a homecoming representative, making it possible for male MSU students to enter and win.

Charles Lillis, a junior from Boyne City entered the contest and became the first male to help represent MSU at homecoming.

The general theme of this year's homecoming was "Return to the Emerald City" from the "Wizard of Oz."

St. Francis Xavier Church

Ellen Wimmer Marries Gary Drew In October 19 Ceremonies

Arrangements of mums and garden flowers in autumn shades graced the altar of St. Francis Xavier Church in Petoskey for the recent wedding of Ellen M. Wimmer and Gary Drew.

The Rev. Fr. Frank Kordek celebrated the nuptial Mass and officiated at the double ring rites on Oct. 19. Professor August Huybrechts, at the organ, accompanied the soloist, Elmer Englehart, who sang "What are you doing the rest of your life?", "More" and "On this Day, Oh Beautiful Mother" as the bride placed a bouquet on the altar of the Blessed Virgin.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wimmer and Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Drew.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. For her wedding she wore a gown of ivory symphony crepe which she had styled and fashioned. The gown featured a gathered bodice, mandarin collar, long sleeves, an empire waistline and monk's hood. Seed pearls trimmed the collar and hood. Her crescent bouquet was of white chrysanthemums, dried leaves and dried fall flowers.

Mrs. Ginny Mollis of Mishawaka, Ind., served as matron of honor and Julie Wimmer, sister of the bride, as bridesmaid. They wore chiffon gowns in a floral print in autumn shades styled with V-necklines and bell sleeves. Each carried a single white mum tied with matching streamers.

The bride's brother and sister, Gerald and Mary Wimmer, carried the rings to the altar.

Terry Drew assisted his brother as best man. Robert Donaldson served as groomsman. Wesley Kroll of Crivitz, Wis., and Anthony Wojan seated the guests.

Mrs. Wimmer chose a full length blue floral print chiffon caftan for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Drew, mother of the bridegroom, wore a full length mint green chiffon gown.

An evening reception, hosted by the bride's parents, followed at the V.F.W. post home.

After a camping trip through the Upper Peninsula and Canada the couple will be at home at the Lake Terrace Mobile Court in Charlevoix after Oct. 28.

Wedding guests were present from Wisconsin, Indiana and several Michigan cities.

Double Ring Service Held

The Rev. Fr. Frank Kordek, O.F.M. officiated at the double ring service that united Regina Ann Borths and Richard Greer Stearns in marriage at St. Francis Xavier Church in Petoskey Saturday afternoon.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Henry Borths of Charlevoix and Mr. and Mrs. Gary Stearns of Topeka, Kans.

Arrangements of multi-colored mums graced the altar to form a setting for the ceremony witnessed by 150 guests. Traditional music and the wedding marches were played by Professor August Huybrechts who also accompanied John Napiezinski of White Law, Wis., uncle of the bride, who sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "We've Only Just Begun".

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, chose a gown of satin, nylon and lace for her wedding. Fashioned with a lace bodice, mandarin collar and sheer sleeves accented with seedpearls, the gown featured an empire waist banded in seedpearls and a full skirt outlined in lace at the hemline. A band of seedpearls secured her chapel veil that was banded in matching lace. She carried a bouquet of pink roses, blue carnations and baby's breath.

Sue Elzinga attended the bride as maid of honor and Elizabeth Stearns of Topeka, sister of the bridegroom, and Sharon Holm were bridesmaids. The honor attendant wore an empire gown of deep blue velvet and light blue chiffon styled with a square neckline, long sleeves and a flounce at the hemline. White dasies accented the neckline and waist of the gown. She wore a lace picture hat and carried a basket of mums and baby's breath. The bridesmaids wore identical gowns in burgundy velvet and pink chiffon and matching lace picture hats and carried baskets of mums and baby's breath.

Tammy Lavake of Sault Ste. Marie, as flower girl, wore a blue velvet empire gown trimmed with white lace and carried a basket of mums. The bride's nephew, Thomas Lavake, also of Sault Ste. Marie, was ringbearer.

Martin Richardson assisted the bridegroom as best man. Kevin Sauvage and Daniel Blechel were groomsmen. James Borths, brother of the bride, and Curt Dechow of Northport seated the guests. All but the latter are from Charlevoix.

Mrs. Borths selected a floor length gown of mint green for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Stearns, mother of the bridegroom, wore a green gown. Their corsages were of mums in matching shades.

Mr. and Mrs. Borths hosted an evening reception at the American Legion post home in Charlevoix. Assisting were Mrs. Kenneth Himebauch, sister of the bride, who cut the cake, Mrs. Robert Borths and Connie Borths, sister-in-law and sister of the bride, who served punch and Caroline Stearns of Topeka, sister of the bridegroom, who attended the guest book. More than 200 guests attended the reception.

After a wedding trip through northern Michigan the couple will be at home at 101½ Ainslee-st. in Charlevoix.

Wedding guests were present from California, Kansas, Missouri, Texas, Wisconsin and several Michigan cities. On Friday evening Mr. and Mrs. Stearns, parents of the bridegroom, hosted a rehearsal dinner at the Weathervane Inn.

Penny Gibelyo Married Downstate

The First United Presbyterian Church of Wayne was the scene recently of the wedding of Penny Sue Gigelyou and John Christopher Bleha of Cincinnati.

Parents of the couple are Mrs. Lee Gibelyou of Wayne and the late Mr. Gibelyou and Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Leha of Charlevoix.

The Rev. Robert B. Dickson officiated at the double ring service in the presence of 150 guests on Oct. 12. Baskets of mums in autumn shades and lighted candelabra formed a setting for the service Ms. Adeline Taylor, at the organ, played a program of traditional music and the wedding marches.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her brother, Lee Gibelyou, chose a gown of white satin and alencon lace for her wedding. Alencon lace trimmed the bodice, the collar and the bishop sleeves. The A-line skirt terminated in a chapel length train. Alencon lace secured and bordered her veil of bridal illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of gardenias and stephanotis.

Lyndal Gibelyou served as her sister's maid of honor. She wore a forest green satin gown and a tiara that matched her cascade bouquet of chrysanthemums in shades of gold and bronze.

Thomas Bleha of Washington, D.C., assisted his brother as best man. Seating the guests were Andrew Fidak of Perma, Ohio, and Duane Wang of Cheboygan.

Mrs. Gibelyou selected a floor length floral print gown with a beige background and jacket for her daughter's wedding. Her corsage was of gold and bronze sweetheart roses. Mrs. Bleha, mother of the bridegroom, wore a long dusty blue gown and jacket complimented with a corsage of pink sweetheart roses.

A reception followed at the social hall of the church.

After a week's wedding trip to Niagra Falls and Finger Lakes, N.Y., and the Smoky Mountains, the couple will be at home at 5720 Winton Rd. Apt. 510, Cincinnati.

The bride, a graduate of Eastern Michigan University, is a former teacher at the Charlevoix high school. The bridegroom is a graduate of the University of Michigan with B.S.E and M.B.A. degrees. He was affiliated with Alpha Kappa Psi fraternity and is presently associated with Proctor & Gamble Corp. in the Operation Research Division.

Mr. and Mrs. Bleha, Sr., hosted a rehearsal dinner at the Hillside Inn at Plymouth on Friday evening preceding the wedding.

Library notes

A new, rip-roaring, highly entertaining novel about the American Revolution is hard to find, and so the Library is pleased to have a copy of The Kentucky Trace by Harriette Simpson Arnow. This warm, human author makes us feel what it was like for ordinary people to experience the upheavals of the War when whole families vanished from sight or were torn apart by opposing loyalties. The center of the novel is a wonderful Daniel Boone-type hero, Leslie Collins. Fighting on the rebel side, he is captured by bandits and rescued by scrappy "overmountain" men. As kin fights kin, he makes his way home only to discover his farm deserted and his family gone. The reader can follow his pursuit and be well satisfied that he did.

Alistair Maclean, master of the suspense-adventure tale turns to the American West of the 1870s as the setting for his new novel Break-Heart Pass. The story unfolds during a raging blizzard in the Rocky Mountains where a trainload of desperate people experience surprises, violence and unexpected resolutions. Murder, danger, Indians, lust for gold, and a Federal agent pitted against as villainous a set of thieves as ever came out of the Old West–these are the elements Mr. Maclean has woven into one of his most exciting fast-moving novels.

We sometimes wonder if a Library could exist without some of Victoria Holt's titles on the shelves. Her fans will be delighted to know that she has come out with a new novel of romantic suspense, The House Of A Thousand Lanterns. This is an absorbing tale in which a shattered love affair, a passion for Chinese art and a marriage of convenience take our heroine to Hong Kong where she finds her presence unwanted and her life in danger.

Even if you can't pronounce the title, Falkenhorst, a massive new novel by Mark Rascovich, you'll want to be able to say you read it and tell your friends that they should read it too. The setting for this rare work of fiction is the Franco-Prussian War. Its heroine, Tessa von Falkenhorst, is torn between two brothers–one her husband in name only; the other who loves her more than a brother-in-law should and with whom she falls in love. We feel that this book can justifiably be compared with the outstanding historical novels of American and European literature.

Sheriff Stands On Court Steps

Foreclosure Handling Process Retains A Bit of History

By PEG OHLE

It may sound quaint but it does happen. Property is sold on the courthouse steps.

Thousands of dollars worth of real estate pass from one owner to another there each year in compliance with an age-old law which says that is the place foreclosure sales must be held.

In fact, they are public auctions, with the highest bidder gaining possession of the property, at least for a short period of time.

The proceedings begin when the owner of the property defaults on payment of a mortgage or other lien against the property. The Institution or person holding the lien may then go to Circuit Court to receive a Judgement and Order of Sale.

It is the duty of the Sheriff's Department to serve notice on the property owner and arrange for publication of the foreclosure sale notice in a local newspaper. However, if the property owner satisfies the lien before the date of sale, the sale may be cancelled.

The published notice states the name of the defendants (property owners) and the institution or person holding the lien. It also states the date and time of sale as well as "at the main lobby entrance of the courthouse...."

It further gives a full description of the property as recorded in the office of Register of Deeds. Persons not acquainted with the value of the property to be sold may receive that information from the Equalization Department before the sale.

On the day of sale, the Sheriff or one of his men arrives at the specified time to conduct the sale, which by law must run for one hour.

Anyone interested in buying the property may open the bidding, at any figure. Sometimes there are several bidders, but usually only the holder of the lien appears at the sale. The lien holder customarily buys the property for the amount of the lien. However, if another person buys the property for more than the lien, he must pay for it in cash before the end of the sale day.

The successful bidder receives a Sheriff's Deed to the property which is good for a stipulated period of time, perhaps six months or a year. During that period, the owners of the property against which judgement was made may redeem the property for the sale price plus interest.

Editorials

The Klevorn diligence

Political campaigning is a mixture of drudgery, humor, insult, and exhaustion. That's why we can't help but admire the grit and patience of Robert Klevorn, the county's only candidate for the Emmet-Charlevoix-Mackinaw circuit judgeship.

For the past several weeks, Candidate Klevorn, between busy sessions with his own law practice, has been on the road and in the air - - every moment canvassing the sprawling region of the court's jurisdiction to succeed in his quest.

His campaign trail is somewhat reminiscent of his career in his quest of a law degree. He graduated from high school with the ambition of becoming an attorney - - but like so many of us in that depression era - - the ladder of success started in the WPA ditches - - wielding pick and shovel.

Money, after groceries, in Bob's case, was spent for tuition to night school in a business college. As he became a successful accountant, and auditor, he never lost sight of his high school graduation goal - - a law degree.

Our personal acquaintanceship with the candidate stems back to 1947, when as a Hastings, Michigan businessman, he was actively engaged in civic affairs promoting his community and its welfare as president of its Chamber of Commerce. He was also actively promoting the civic and business interests of Barry County as publisher of a local outdoor magazine. Even then, embroiled as he was in the life of a successful small-town businessman, he never lost sight of his goal to become an attorney.

Working, later, as a consultant and accountant for a Detroit firm, he persevered in that dream by attending Detroit College of Law night sessions until he was admitted to the bar in 1960. From the date he hung out the traditional shingle here in 1961, his career has amply justified his youthful ambition. His performance in the courts has resulted in retainerships by some of the region's most prestigious banks and businesses - - ample proof of his legal skill.

When the vacancy for the circuit judgeship was left open by the resignation of Judge Ned Fenlon, Bob Klevorn was not among "the anointed" of the state's political establishment, and therefore did not receive Gov. Milliken's appointment.

There are, however, more considerations than a man's standing in the "political establishment" that lead to a successful performance on the bench.

In the past 2 or 3 years, voters have witnessed the administration of justice with some thoroughly peculiar examples of paternalism and plea bargaining.

It's our assumption that Klevorn's chief opposition in the current judgeship race stems from "the establishment," and not from the average citizen whose own life experience may be somewhat on the level of Candidate Klevorns - - a man who worked for everything he got - - and who had nothing handed to him on platters, either by "the establishment" or the laboring citizenry. 2nd ward voters CALL 7-2969 for a ride to the polls.

WHY

...is the silent invasion kept silent?

...are older folks being encouraged to vote against the better interests of their own children and grand-children?

...isn't the property assessment of those in government made public?

...does our civic leaders endorse every expensive project that has a potential of keeping their neighbors destitute?

...has Charlevoix became the target for professional mercenaries and WHY has our tax collectors joined them?

...isn't our County Board of Commissioners joining the Emmet County Board of Commissioners in their fight with the Michigan State Tax Commission?

WHO can you sell your property to--if taxes become so burdensome that you can no longer pay them?

IS IT TIME FOR A CHANGE?

CHARLEVOIX CHURCH OF THE NAZARENE
Rev. Alan Mettler, minister
(Mrs.) Jane Fiedler, secretary.

Followers of Jesus, the Nazarene chose the name "Church of the Nazarene" to identify their fellowship, when they organized in 1908. They are evangelistic and missionary in spirit and program. It has become an international church, preaching, teaching, healing, singing, through worship services, revivals, and many types of missionary endeavor. It believes the cardinal doctrines of Evangelical churches, with a sense of mission to present and conserve the Wesleyan doctrine of heart holiness as an experience of sanctification as a second work of grace, to be followed by a victorious Christian life.

The church in Charlevoix was organized in 1967. The Easter Sunrise service in 1969 was the first one to be held in their new building, which was built by a third-generation Nazarene. It is supported by tithes and offerings.

The Sunday School is held at 10 a.m. each Sunday, with classes for all ages. During the year, attention is given to Vacation Bible School, Caravans, camps for boys and girls, youth institutes, and Christian Service Training classes.

The Nazarene Young Peoples Society ministers to juniors, teens, senior highs, and young adults at 6:00 Sunday evenings. Between Sundays, a variety of activities, devotional, social, educational, and recreational are enjoyed.

The Nazarene World Missionary Society meets once a month, to cultivate interest in missions, through reading, prayers, giving of offerings, and films. Men and women and children participate. Bandages and articles are made and mailed with supplies to hospitals and schools in foreign countries.

A Bible study class for women is held weekly in a home, with time for fellowship and prayer.

The Church of the Nazarene supports several colleges, a top ranking Publishing House, the largest denominational Publishing company of gospel music, a world wide radio program in English, Spanish, and Portugese, and missionary enterprises in over fifty countries.

This church is not a separist group, but cooperates with other churches in the promotion of civic righteousness through united efforts and projects.

Charlevoix Rayders Lose To Gaylord Blue Devils

Charlevoix took on a fine Gaylord football team this past Friday night and came out on the losing end of a 35-16 score. The Blue Devils from Gaylord feature two fine players in Quarterback Dave Johnson and Tailback Ken Ames. Throughout the evening the two backfield mates made key plays, ultimately spelling doom for the Rayders.

Gaylord got on the scoreboard on their first possession. The opening kickoff was returned to the Blue Devil 27 yard line, and after three first downs, Ames kicked a 28 yard field goal. Charlevoix trailed 3-0 without having touched the football.

The remainder of the first quarter was spent exchanging punts. Charlevoix came out on the short end of this situation with the ball on their own 4 yard line.

As the second quarter got underway, Charlevoix punted to Gaylord. The Blue Devils took over on the Charlevoix 39 yard line. The defense held on a fourth down play and the Red Rayders took over on their own 35 yard line. This defensive stand was highlighted by good pass coverage.

Following another Charlevoix punt, Gaylord took over on the Rayder's 38 yard line. Johnson quickly completed a pass for a first down, handed the ball off to Tailback Ames for another, and shuffled, pass for a third. The next series of plays resulted in an interference call against Charlevoix, giving Gaylord the ball on the Charlevoix 7 yard line.

Ames took the ball on the next play and ran it in to the endzone for what looked like the first Gaylord touchdown. The score was nullified by a penalty against Gaylord. This was followed by a fine pass reception by Ames on the Charlevoix 6 yard line putting the Blue Devils back in scoring position. Johnson carried on the next play and crossed the Red Rayder goal line for a touchdown. The point after attempt was good, and with 5:44 remaining in the first half, Gaylord led 10-0. It didn't take long for the talented Blue Devils to come up with another score. The Red Rayders were unable to move the ball following the Gaylord kickoff and Ames took Casey Culbertson's punt for a 62 yard touchdown run. This time the point after attempt failed, and with 4:32 remaining in the first half the score stood, Gaylord 16, Charlevoix 0.

The ensuing kickoff was taken by Mike Streeter and returned to the Charlevoix 28 yard line. Bob Alger came in to lead the Rayders back from their scoring deficit.

To do this, Quarterback Alger turned to his fine halfbacks Streeter and Kevin Martin. First it was Martin for an 11 yard scamper and a first down, followed closely by Streeter on a 32 yard run to the Gaylord 22 yard line. Alger then kept one for a gain of 10, and Streeter moved the ball to the Gaylord 8 yard line. After a short gain into the Gaylord line, Alger connected to Frank Mumo standing in the end zone for the first Charlevoix touchdown. With 1:17 remaining in the first half, Alger's pass to End Dan Green for the point after was good, and the score stood Gaylord 16, Charlevoix 8.

Neither team was able to advance the ball in the remaining moments of the first half, and at the midpoint of this contest, the score remained 16-8.

Little happened in the early part of the second half until the oft-mentioned Johnson intercepted an Alger pass and returned to the Charlevoix 22 yard line. Even while playing defense the fine Gaylord backfield man posed a scoring threat.

On the first play following the interception, there was a mixup in the Gaylord backfield and Quarterback Johnson was forced to carry the ball himself. He showed another aspect of his fine abilities by breaking Charlevoix tackles, evading Red Rayders pursuers and scampering the entire 22 yards for the third Gaylord touchdown. With 4:27 remaining in the third quarter, Ames converted on the point after, and the score stood Gaylord 23, Charlevoix 8.

The third quarter ended with Gaylord in possession, following a Charlevoix punt, on their own 38 yard line. The Rayder defense held early in the quarter and Johnson was forced to punt.

Charlevoix was unable to move the ball and following another Culbertson punt, Gaylord took over on their own 40 yard line.

This time, Johnson used the fine speed and deceptive ability of his Tailback Ames almost exclusively. On his first run, Ames carried for 18 yards to the Charlevoix 42. Again he was given the ball and advanced to the Charlevoix 35 yard line. Ames, then took a pitchout from Johnson, and following good blocking, carried the ball 32 yards for the fourth touchdown for Gaylord. The extra point attempt was not good, and with 6:08 remaining in the game, the score stood, Gaylord 29, Charlevoix 8.

Following the kickoff, Charlevoix was able to advance for one first down before fumbling to Gaylord on the Charlevoix 33 yard line.

The Blue Devil quarterback again wasted little time in converting this Red Rayder error. After gaining one first down, he hit Ames with a 33 yard touchdown pass. The point after touchdown was not good, and Gaylord led 35-8.

With time running out, the Charlevoix squad refused to give up. Streeter took the kickoff and returned the ball to the Charlevoix 25 yard line. Alger then handed off to Streeter for a 19 yard gain. Following a penalty, the Rayders gained another first down before Alger hit Martin on a fine play-action pass to the Gaylord 26. Another pass from Alger to Streeter to the Gaylord 16 was followed by a run by Martin to the Gaylord 3. To cap the drive Streeter slanted in from the 3 yard line with 10 seconds remaining in the football game. Alger's pass to Green was good for the two-point conversion.

The game ended Gaylord 35, Charlevoix 16.

Along The Sidelines

It was a tough night in Gaylord, as the Blue Devils, behind the fine running, passing and kicking of both Quarterback Dave Johnson and Tailback Ken Ames, demolished the Charlevoix Red Rayders 35-16.

The two fine Gaylord backfield mates seemed to do no wrong against our Red Rayders. Johnson consistently kicked long, high punts which offered little chance for the speedy Mike Streeter to return the ball, and he showed his other abilities by passing to Ames for one touchdown and carrying the ball himself for two additonal scores. Throw in an interception and fine defensive abilities, and you can understand what the Rayders were up against from this fine quarterback.

Add to this the abilities of his backfield mate Ames, who caught one touchdown pass, kicked a 28 yard field goal, returned a Charlevoix punt 62 yards for a tally, and rambled 32 yards for another score, and you have all of the Gaylord scoring.

Talk among the sidelines was that both of these players are likely All-Conference and All-State contenders and that both have received offers from colleges. Rarely have we seen two players dominate a high school football game in such a manner as in the Gaylord-Charlevoix contest.

High points for the Charlevoix Red Rayders were few, with notable exception going to the consistent fine running of Mike Streeter and Kevin Martin. Also, Quarterback Bob Alger displayed a whole chest full of pride, as he led the Red Rayders down the field for a score in the last moments of the football game, even though trailing by 27 points.

Dave Martincheck, Kirk Lieberman and Phil Christ also turned in good performances along the defensive line.

This loss leaves the Red Rayders in a tie for third place with Cheboygan, our opponents for the final game of the season this Friday evening. With two clubs such as Petoskey and Gaylord in the conference this year, a third place finish by the Red Rayders would be nothing to be ashamed of. We hope all of you fans will be at Kipke Field this Friday to see Coach Carey and the Red Rayders finish the 1974 football season.

Charlevoix Girl Cagers Still Winning Many

By CHUCK WRIGHT

The Charlevoix girls varsity basketball team overcame a 12 point deficit and barely hung on to defeat the Petoskey Northwomen 44-42 last Tuesday night. The win coupled with Thursday's 58-32 victory over Gaylord ran the Rayders' conference winning streak to 23 games.

Down 25-13 early in the second quarter, the Rayders regained their poise and outscored Petoskey 13-2 the rest of the half. Petoskey led 27-26 at halftime.

The rest of the game was a "see-saw" battle. The lead repeatedly changed hands, but Charlevoix took the lead for good 40-39 at the close of the third quarter.

With three minutes to play and Charlevoix leading 44-41, Coach Toni Felter ordered a semi-stall to force Petoskey to come out after the ball. Two minutes and fifteen seconds and two Petoskey fouls later, Petoskey's Jeaneen Foltz slapped the ball away from Cheryl Pence. Somehow the referee called a foul on Pence.

Foltz, who was 9 for 11 from the foul line up until then, calmly stepped to the line in a one and one situation. She made the first shot but missed the second. After a wild scramble, the ball flew out of bounds. Petoskey's ball out, 45 seconds left, and Charlevoix leading 44-42.

Working the ball around the perimeter of Charlevoix's zone defense, Foltz finally took a shot which caromed off the back of the rim. Lee Stellman grabbed the rebound and fired the ball to Pence who wisely refrained from shooting her breakaway shot and dribbled out the clock for the big win.

It almost was a long night, however. Perhaps too psyched up for this important contest, the Rayders played a miserable first quarter. Petoskey, who could have tied Charlevoix for first place in the Michigan Huron Shores Conference with a victory, took advantage of the numerous Rayder turnovers.

Petoskey's full court press forced the Charlevoix errors, and before the Rayders knew what had happened, Petoskey led 25-13 at the end of the first quarter. Only Von Priest's 6 points kept them that close.

When the Northwomen scored the first two baskets of the second quarter, coach Felter called a time out. Whatever she said must have worked. Charlevoix settled down, started giving the ball to the best ball handlers, Pence and Tammy Penney, and proceeded to come back to within one point by halftime.

Pence scored 12 points,

Recreation Department

Sign Up For Hockey

Charlevoix may not have any Gordie Howes, but some feel we have some super star youngsters who deserve a crack on the ice.

So, Charlevoix Recreational Director Curt Kipke is trying to drum up some support.

"We're at the stage right now where we're trying to get a meeting of all parents" Kipke said.

In addition to getting parents organized, Kipke said the recreation department is also out looking at several locations for a hockey rink.

Along with the rink, he says they're also out knocking on doors to collect the necessary $2,000 needed for boards to be built around the rink.

Kipke says they're trying to get local sponsors to purchase a board.

"Presently, we're trying to work up a league among ourselves, Petoskey, Harbor Springs, Elk Rapids and Gaylord," he said.

"The kids are interested, there's no doubt about that."

The Charlevoix recreation director says the biggest thing will be to get parents to coach and referee.

"The interest is here in the community, but I'll admit it is an expensive one," he continued.

Kipke said last year the program had only one game, against Petoskey, but with an expanded program more interest might be developed.

In the meantime, he said it would be possible to work on shooting and passing.

"We're tentatively thinking about getting someone from the Traverse City Bays to let them know how important hockey is," Kipke said.

As it stands now, the Charlevoix Amateur Hockey Association would include five divisions ranging from seven to 19-years-olds.

All teams would be subject to U.S. Amateur Hockey Association Rules.

Each player would be responsible for a helmet, mouthguard, shin guards, skates, hockey sticks, shoulder pads, hockey gloves, and athletic cup.

Registration for the teams will be Nov. 2 from 10 a.m. to 12 noon.

Parent permission slips and rosters must be turned in to Recreation Department no later than Nov. 9.

JV Football Team Defeats Gaylord

The Charlevoix Junior Varsity came through in the final minutes of play Thursday to hand a strong Gaylord team a 26-24 loss after trailing 18-8 at one time in the game.

This week the Rayder J-V's will travel to Cheboygan to close out the current season.

In last week's game, Gaylord scored first on a Mark Supinger to Don Bennett pass that covered six yards.

Charlevoix came right back to knot the score on a 19 yard run by Scott Boss. Mike Way passed to Dave Tollas for the conversion and Charlevoix went ahead 8-6.

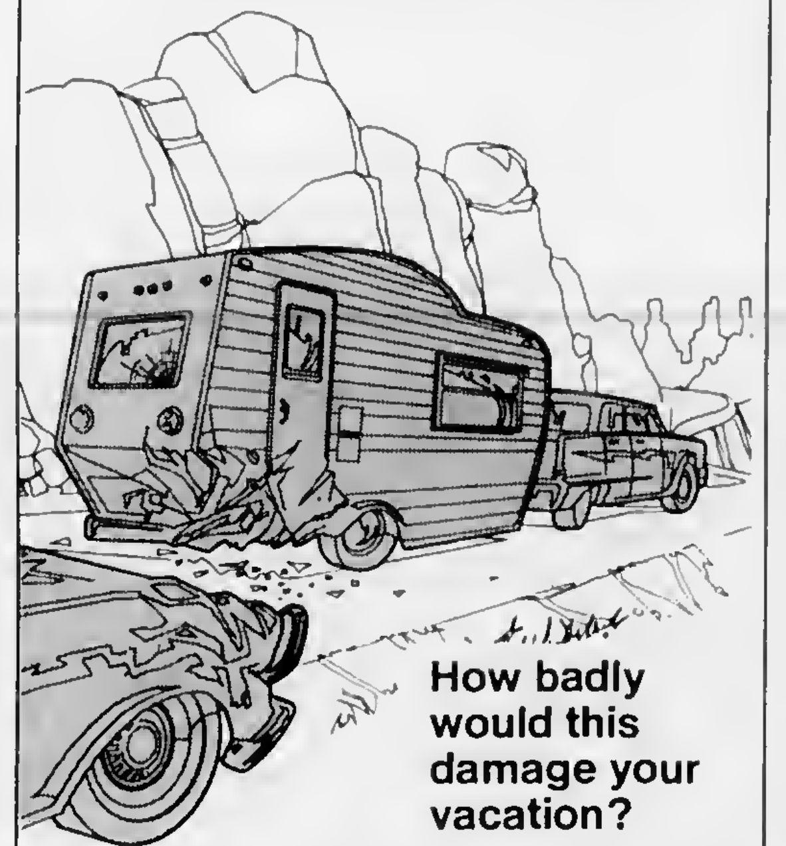
The lead was short-lived, however, as Jerry Tack scored on a two yard run followed by a 65 yard touchdown run by Dalton Dowker.

Shortly before the half ended Bud Klooster passed to Ralph Muma for 27 yard to put the ball in scoring position with Boss carrying it in from the three to cut the Gaylord lead to 18-14 at halftime.

It wasn't until midway in the third period that Lee Begrow broke away for a 51 yard run to return Charlevoix to the lead but Dowker countered with a 70 yard run to put the visitors ahead 24-20.

The winning touchdown came late in the game on a 5 yard pass from Way to Matt Doan with Boss scoring the conversion.

Coach Norm Probert named Boss, Ed Bourke, Gary Probert and Barry Potter as standouts on offense and Tom Jones, Klooster and Tollas on defense.



How badly would this damage your vacation?

A holiday on the road is great fun unless, of course, it's marred by an accident. The damage to your trailer or camper can be repaired. That's what you have insurance for. But what about the damage to your vacation? With our "altogether" trailer insurance, your holiday doesn't necessarily come to a complete halt then and there...cash for living expenses helps you continue on vacation while the trailer's being repaired. That's just one of many coverages designed to help make your holidays altogether better.

Girl Cagers Beat Gaylord Blue Devils

The Charlevoix girls' basketball team will open its second round of play in the Michigan-Huron Shores league Tuesday when Grayling ploys here.

The local team has concluded the first half of season play with a 7-0 record in league play and a 9-0 overall record.

Cheryl Pence and Leanna Steelman continue to be the high scorers on the team in its efforts toward another league title.

In the game with Gaylord Thursday, each of the players had 14 points to account for 34 of the team's total of 58 points. Jan Ciszenski had 17 for Gaylord.

In the meeting at Gaylord, Charlevoix edged to a slim 12-11 first quarter lead and went ahead 32-15 at halftime as the team press held Gaylord to four points for the period. Though Gaylord managed 10 points as the second half got underway, Charlevoix increased its advantage to 48-25 going into the final eight minutes of play. Outscoring their opponents 10-7, the Rayderettes posted a 58-32 victory, their seventh in league play.

Charlevoix had o bad night from the free throw line, connecting on only 16 of 41 attempts while scoring 21 field goals and collecting 21 personal fouls. Gaylord had 13 field goals, scored on 16 of 31 free throw attempts and had 35 personal fouls. Gaylord lost a player, Lee Sides, in the first period when she collected five personal fouls.

The Charlevoix J-V's posted a 64-29 victory over Gaylord.

Earlier in the week, Charlevoix took a close one from Petoskey, winning by a score of 44-42 after trailing throughout the first half and leading by only one point going into the finol period.

Charlevoix picked up the major part of its points from the floor, scoring 20 field goals and only four of 14 free throws while collecting 20 personal fouls. Petoskey was able to capitalize on Charlevoix's fouls, collecting on 10 of 27 attempts while being tagged with 13 personal fouls and scoring 16 field goals.

Charlevoix trailed 21-13 at the quarter but trimmed Petoskey's lead to one point, 27-26 at halftime before edging their opponents 40-39 to go ahead at the three-quarter mark for the first time. A tight defensive game resulted with Charlevoix outscoring Petoskey 4-2 for the winning margin.

Pence and Steelman shared scoring honors with 12 and 10 points, respectively. Jeanine Foltz had 22 and Mona Zaremski 10 for Petoskey.

The Charlevoix J-V's won over Petoskey by a score of 36-15.

Four State Proposals

Here's What The State Proposals Look Like

VOTE! IT'S YOUR PRIVILEGE

Michigan voters will be asked, at the November 5 general election, to approve or reject four ballot proposals. The proposals are: A. Limiting Use of Motor Fuel Tax Funds, B. Vietnam Veterans Bonus Bonds, C. Removal of Sales Tax on Food and Prescription Drugs, D. State-Wide Transportation Systems Bonds.

PROPOSAL A: LIMITING USE OF MOTOR FUEL TAX FUNDS

"Proposal A" would amend Article IX, Section 9 of the Michigan constitution. The proposition was placed on the ballot by provisions of a senate joint resolution which was approved in the 1972 legislative session.

The proposed constitutional amendment would: (1) Prohibit the use of motor fuel tax funds by law enforcement agencies for highway patrol purposes; and, (2) Limit the use of motor fuel funds for public transportation to 1/18 of the amount received.

PROPOSAL B: VIETNAM VETERANS BONUS BONDS

"Proposal B" appears on the November 5 ballot as a result of legislation enacted in the 1974 session. The ballot proposal would: (1) Authorize the state to provide veterans of the Vietnam and other conflicts who served between January 1, 1961 through September 1, 1973 with a service bonus; and, (2) Authorize the state to borrow the sum of 205 million dollars for this purpose; and, (3) Authorize the state to issue general obligation bonds therefor; and, (4) Provide for repayment from the general fund.

If Proposal B is approved by a majority vote of the qualified electors the payment of bonus benefits will be made according to the provisions of the enabling legislation—Act 106, Public Acts of 1974.

PROPOSAL C: REMOVAL OF SALES TAX ON FOOD AND PRESCRIPTION DRUGS

"Proposal C" would amend Article IX, Sections 8, 10 and 11 of the Michigan constitution. It was placed on the ballot by initiative petition. The proposed constitutional amendment would: (1) Remove the sales tax on food and prescription drugs used for human consumption except food prepared for immediate consumption and alcoholic beverages; and, (2) Compensate units of government, other than the state, for the resulting loss of revenues by increasing each present allocation of sales tax revenues to such units by 1/5th.

The language of the proposed amendment is fairly definitive and would appear to require very little by way of legislative definition. The intent is clear—to exempt from the sales tax all prescription drugs and all food for human consumption except prepared foods for immediate consumption. In an advisory opinion, the attorney general states: "...Although it would appear that the legislature does not have great leeway in the definition of 'prepared foods', since the term has a well-understood common meaning, it should have reasonable discretion to define the concept of 'immediate consumption'. For example, it should have discretion to determine whether carry-out meals, sandwiches, etc. were 'intended for immediate consumption'."

In the absence of legislative definition to the phrase "immediate consumption" all food for human consumption would be exempted from the sales tax according to the opinion.

PROPOSAL D: STATE-WIDE TRANSPORTATION SYSTEMS BONDS

"Proposal D" was placed on the ballot by the legislature (Public Act 245 of 1974) pursuant to the provisions of Article IX, Section 16, which requires voter approval of state bond issues. Proposal D states: The proposal would: (1) Authorize the state to borrow the sum of 1.1 billion dollars to finance the planning, acquiring, constructing, and equipping of various land, air, and water transportation systems, other than operating and maintenance expenses; and, (2) Authorize the state to issue general obligation bonds therefor; and, (3) Provide for repayment from the general fund.

Proposed bond funds would constitute the state's share of a proposed $6.2 billion 15-year public transportation capital improvement program. It is anticipated that federal legislation will provide $4.6 billion and Michigan local governments $557 million. Specific uses of the bond proceeds would be provided by law after voter approvol of the bonds.

The governor, when recommending placement of the bond issue on the ballot, proposed the following allocations: Urban Transportation. $540 million to be earmarked as the state contribution to a $5.4 billion high-level and intermediate-level transit system proposed by the Southeast Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA). The proposal calls for developing 75 miles of high-level service (rapid transit) and 179 miles of intermediote-level service (utilizing buses on reserved lanes of freeways and arterial highways). The SEMTA proposal contemplates that local taxpayers in the counties served would match the state contribution and that the federal government would provide an additional $4.3 billion under proposed legislation.

Inter-City Rail and Bus Systems. $362 million would be used to improve intercity bus and rail services (passenger and freight) by upgrading existing track, acquiring equipment and improving terminals. It is estimated that the federal government would provide $213 million in federal aid to rail improvements for a total $575 million program.

Prentice Brown Visits Charlevoix For Day

Prentiss Brown, Democratic candidate for State Senator, spent a day and a half campaigning in Charlevoix.

He bicycled into town on Tuesday, Oct. 22. Thirty-three area Democrats, some of whom cycled into town with him, met him for breakfast at Leutheuser's restaurant.

He spent the remainder of the day, and the following morning, meeting Charlevoix residents, visiting factories and speaking to a High School Assembly.

In the evening he attended a Charlevoix County Democratic meeting, held at the party Headquarters at 101½ Mason st.

Also present was Frank Garrison of the UAW CAP council who discussed current issues and the importance of getting a good voter turnout on election day.

"Democrats have an excellent State ticket this year," he said. "If Democrats get out and vote, we'll win all over the state."

An enthusiastic group of young Democrats attended the meeting and volunteered to cover the city, going door-to-door with campaign leaflets for Democratic candidates.

Local Democratic groups are being asked to assume the cost of placing ads in their own area newspapers.

Contributions from Charlevoix County Democrats will pay for several radio and newspaper ads on behalf of local, state and national candidates, according to a report given by the secretary.

Democratic Headquarters in Charlevoix will be open from 10:00 A.M. until 2:00 P.M. or later, every weekday through election day, so voters can drop in for coffee, discuss issues and get pins, bumper stickers and campaign literature.

JACK AND GRACIELA Hill of New York came last week to the Charlevoix Elementary School and demonstrated the art of pantomine in a special program sponsored by the Michigan Council For The Arts.

Farm Bureau Sues For PBB Claims Money

By PEG OHLE

Michigan Farm Bureau recently filed suit against their 1974 insurance carrier, the New Hampshire Insurance Company, to force the insurance company to pay several Michigan farmers for damages to their livestock from the chemical poly brominated biphenyl (P.B.B.).

Several weeks ago the Courier reported on the problems being faced by Norwood Township dairy farmer Doug Warner, whose cattle had been contaminated by P.B.B. Warner is one of the farmers waiting for an insurance settlement.

P.B.B, a highly toxic fire retardent, was erroneously included in shipments of magnesium oxide, a feed additive from the Michigan Chemical Company, and ultimately included in several feed formulas sold in Michigan farmers by the Farm Bureau.

Warner bought the contaminated feed last fall and since then has lost several head of cattle and calves as the result of P.B.B. poisoning. He also says his milk production has been cut almost in half.

Farm Bureau stated in the complaint that they did not order P.B.B. from Michigan Chemical, had no use for it, and did not learn about the mistake until last April.

Farm Bureau also stated that their 1973 insurance carriers have been settling claims for that year, as well as some 1974 claims. Michigan Chemical's carriers have also been contributing funds to settlements on a matching basis.

The New Hampshire Insurance Company says it is withholding its insurance protection because its investigation indicated Farm Bureau received all of the P.B.B. IN 1973 and that as a result, the event or "occurance" upon which the farmers' claims for damage are based took place before its 1974 coverage took effect.

County Asks For More Fed Funds

Charlevoix County is seeking $8,626 in federal funds to cover half the cost of supporting the Region 10 Detective Unit in the county for the year 1975.

Request for the funds was made through the Northwest Michigan Regional Planning and Development Commission on motion of Charlevoix County Commissioner John Kujawski.

This is the third and final year Charlevoix County will be eligible for federal funding to support the detective unit.

Under the program, regional detective units receive 90 per cent federal funding with five per cent state and five per cent local funding, the first and second years. Federal support drops to 50 per cent the third year, with the other 50 per cent coming from local funds.

In the fourth and successive years in operation, it is anticipated that involved local governments will provide total financial support for the units.

The same Region 10 detective unit also works in Emmet County and in the City of Petoskey, both of which pay them on the same basis as does Charlevoix County.

Commission Reviews 14 Applicants

Four members of the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners met as a committee Monday evening to review some 14 applications for the job of Construction Code Administrator in the county.

Members of the committee are Harry Griffin, Harry Tompkins, Clyde Cunningham and I. Lee Moerland.

They will be assisted in making the selection by two officers of the Charlevoix County Township Association, Rose Bergmann of Charlevoix Township and Shirleen Tripp of Hayes Township, president and secretary of the Association

Little Traverse

Hospital Explains Rate Hikes

Medical staff members and administrators of Little Traverse Hospital and Burns Clinic held a press conference last week to discuss future plans for the medical complex, hospital and clinic policies, patient care, and the present high costs of hospitalization.

They expressed the hope that in future years Little Traverse-Burns could become a specialty care center capable of treating all known diseases. This would require the addition of many more physicians to the staff and many more hospital beds.

At present there are 51 physicians at Burns Clinic, and 20 or 30 more physicians are on the courtesy staff of Little Traverse Hospital.

The hospital now has 204 beds and would need 300 to 350 beds to care for patients in the hoped-for specialty care center.

Although the hospital is now over-crowded and it often takes weeks to secure an appointment with a physician, it was pointed out that real emergency cases are taken care of immediately.

Explaining why daily hospital care has gone from under $100 two years ago to over $150 today, administrators cited the well-known increase in prices of food, supplies and wages.

Emergency Coverage Changes

Charlevoix Area Hospital full-time Emergency Room Physician coverage will be changed starting November 1.

The hospital has decided there is a greater need for a full-time physician being available Friday night rather than Sunday night.

So starting on November 1 and for each weekend thereafter, the hospital's emergency service will be covered by a full-time physician starting at 8:00 p.m. Friday and continuing through 8:00 p.m. Sunday.

The decision was made by the Hospital's Board of Directors at their Tuesday night meeting.

Although having the full-time physician available for 48 instead of 36 hours on the weekends will cost the hospital about 30 percent more, they felt the increased service to the public was important and should be started on a trial basis.

It is expected that weekend Emergency Physician coverage for November through June will cost approximately $20,000.00.

NOTICE: Application for National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System (Public Law 92-500) Permit by Consumers Power Company, Big Rock Plant Charlevoix Michigan, to discharge condenser cooling and process water.

The Big Rock Plant has applied for a National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System (NPDES) Permit to discharge condenser cooling and process water into the waters of the State of Michigan. The permit will be issued by the Michigan Water Resources Commission.

The applicant is engaged in the manufacture of electric power. The company discharges its effluent to Lake Michigan.

On the basis of preliminary staff review and application of applicable standards and regulations, the Michigan Water Resources Commission proposes to issue a permit for the discharge subject to certain effluent limitations and special conditions. The permit expiration date is October 31, 1979.

The proposed determination to issue an NPDES Permit is tentative. Persons wishing to comment upon, or object to, the proposed determination are invited to submit the same in writing to:

Mr. James N. Howell
Division Permit
Coordinator
Michigan Water Resources Commission
Stevens T. Mason Building
Lansing, Michigan 48926

The permit application number should appear next to the above address on the envelop and the first page of any submitted comments. All comments received within thirty (30) days of the date of issuance of this public notice will be considered in the formulation of the final determinations. If no written objections are received, the Michigan Water Resources Commission will issue its final determinations no later than sixty (60) days following the date of this notice.

The application, proposed permit including proposed effluent limitations and special conditions, comments received, and other information, are on file and may be inspected at the Water Resources Commission, 8th Floor, Stevens T. Mason Building, Lansing, Michigan and at the District Office located at 8015 South 131 Road, Cadillac, Michigan, at any time between 9:30 a.m. and 3:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. Copies of the Public Notice and the corresponding Fact Sheet summarizing application information and proposed permit conditions are available at no charge at the Michigan Water Resources Commission. Copies of all other information are available at a cost of $.20 per page at the Michigan Water Resources Commission.

Please bring the foregoing to the attention of persons whom you know would be interested in this matter.

names of candidates for supervisor, clerk, treasurer, trustee and constables is the last listed category if you live in a township. These also were named in a separate story last week.

If you plan to vote a 'straight' ticket, i.e., for all candidates on a given party, you need only place an 'X' in the place marked for this.

However, if you want to split your ticket, i.e., for candidates on more than one party, you must mark the place available for each candidate.

Do not mark the place to vote for all candidates of one party and then mark individual candidates or your ballot will be unacceptable.

Polls throughout each voting precinct will open at 7 a.m. and remain open until 8 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 5.

If you find that you will be unable to go to the polls for a variety of reasons such as illness, physically unable to without the aid of another, or being out of town on that date you may still vote by absentee ballot.

You may call or write to your city or township clerk in the precinct in which you are registered (the names were listed in last week's Courier) and ask for an absent voter's application or, if you are going to be out of town, you may go to the city hall or township clerk up until 2 p.m. Saturday, Nov. 2, fill out an application on the spot and vote.

In either event, you must first fill out the application and return it to the clerk, by mail or in person, to receive your ballot. If this is being done through the mail, be sure to allow yourself enough time.

If you have any questions, direct them to the county clerk, a commissioner in your district or a township officer.

followed by Lee Steelman who shook off a bad first half to score 10. Penney and Denise Boss had 7, Priest 8, and Dona Bellows 2. Jeancen Faltz led all scorers with 22 points.

The Petoskey game demonstrated several Rayder weaknesses. If the cherished state championship goal is to be reached by this year's Rayder squad, the tight man-to-man defense must stop overcommitting at half court. The girls play a good defense but were beaten too often away from the basket. The result was numerous Petoskey lay-ups.

The Charlevoix team seemed very vulnerable to the full court press, probably because they are not used to it. When they remembered to let their best ball handlers break the press in the second quarter, the Rayders were successful.

Tonight the Rayders take on Grayling and Thursday the team plays Cheboygan. Both games are at home.

two team members and new partner allignments were made for the tournament.

Charlevoix's next tournament will be Nov. 2 at Big Rapids and will see the novice team in for the first time. Varsity and J.V. teams will not compete again until Nov. 9 at Traverse City.

Pins Given

Service award pins presented to Charlevoix Area Hospital employees during a Hallowe'en style tea held in the solarium Friday.

Those receiving one-year employee service pins were Sharon Albert, Deanna Beyer, Betty Bogart, Elly Carey, Peggy Corey, Joyce Chellis, Sue Coen, Tricia Doan, Sheila Farrell, Mary Guilbault, Linda Johnson, Ray Jones, Peggy Meadows, Marcy Murdick, Larry Streeter, Mary Ann Thomure, Ardith Tornga, Cathy White and Leona Zeitler.

Five year pins were awarded to Esther Carey, Marilyn Duplessis, Gertrude Heeres, Lavina Hooper, Arvillu Kowalske, Diane Novotny, Reva Sarasin and Isabelle Seidel.

RUSSIAN VISITORS. Charles Kratt, (with back to camera), plant manager of Will-Flow in Charlevoix shows several Russian engineers one of the large stainless steel tanks their government is buying for a large truck plant and foundry to be built in Russia. The plant will be located about 250 miles east of Moscow.

replace materials use.

Mrs. Helms said she felt there were students who could not afford to pay and, as a result, would not take the course or lose interest because they could not have the finished product. She was advised that such hardship cases were given consideration. He also said that not all things would have charges.

McKimmy also reported on the paperback library, stating that funds were being made available so that certain books could be acquired in paperback form if certain criteria were met.

Ralph Raymer, Elementary School principal, reported on the Indian Education program. He said that Mrs. Helen Stainbraak, as liaison person between the school and the Indian families, was doing an excellent job and that the program was showing results.

Ruy Fortin said that scheduling of Parent-Teacher conferences to be held Wednesday and Thursday, Nov. 5 and 6, was about completed and that with the assistance of 10 parents a total of 1760 conferences had been scheduled.

In other action, the board:

–Discussed the inspection of school buildings and decided to explore the feasibility of employing a consultant to assist the school district in meeting the requirements of the Michigan Occupational Safety and Health Act. McKimmy he said that such a consultant would cost an estimated $250.

–Voted to make available the school districts facilities and services to prepare and serve meals for senior citizens in cooperation with the Commission for the Aging when such meals can be prepared without expenditure of public school revenues. McKimmy explained that the program allowed $1.10 reimbursement for meals at the present time. This includes the cost of labor, utilities and food. The board offered the use of the facility from 1:30 until 3:15 p.m. to allow for meals and socializing. This would be twice a week in the beginning. The program would be open to anyone over 60 years of age.

–Tabled what is known as the "Taylor Schools Resolution" which is supporting changes in the collective bargaining process which would spell out what is a negotiable item or issue. Since any proposed change would not affect the Charlevoix School district until after the 1975-76 school year, it was decided to discuss the resolution further at the Nov. 11 meeting.

Five Commissioners Defeated

Ward Crushes Staley

By FRAN MARTIN

Five veteran commissioners were defeated in Tuesday's election in Charlevoix county as voters went to the polls in large numbers.

Most surprising was the sweep that Democrats made of the three seats in the city of Boyne City.

Incumbent Charles Kessler was defeated by Martin Paul by a vote of 175-160 in District 10; incumbent Harry Tompkins, who is a member of several important committees on the Board of Commissioners, lost to a newcomer, Rudolph Florenski 154-150 in District 11 and John D. Kujawski, another veteran who is chairman of the Building and Grounds Committee, was defeated by a vote of 137-132 by Michael A. Fulkerson, another newcomer to political circles in District 12.

In the city of Charlevoix, Kenneth A. Staley, a member of the board's Sheriff's committee among others, lost to Oscar W. Ward by a vote of 282 to 227 in District 14.

Kotowich Loses

In District 8, another incumbent, Thora Kotowich, lost to Melvin Niswander by a 198 to 133 margin. District 8 takes in a part of East Jordan.

Despite the sweeps by the Democrats in some areas, the dean of commissioners, Barney Milstein survived the onslaught, polling 155 votes to 141 for his Democratic opponent, Patricia Betz.

In District 7, Democrat Ralph Harmon with 278 votes defeated Republican William H. Carson who had 170.

Both were candidates for the post being left vacant by Anthony Kullik who was not a candidate for re-election.

Republican incumbents who salvaged their posts were Clyde Cunningham who won over Robert Wasoski by a vote of 338-281 in District 2; Clayton A. Smith who tallied 352 votes to defeat Tusco Heath who had 318 in District 3; Harry Griffin with 227 votes who defeated Dennis Howard who had 135 in District 6.

Delbert Ingalls of District 1 who was unopposed had 254 votes; Don Meggison of District 13 had 309 and Lee Moerland of District 15 259.

Ballot Issues

Among the special issues on the ballot, all millage issues were defeated as was the question of liquor by the glass in Marion township.

The continuation of zoning ordinances placed in affect earlier also won the approval of the voters as did the confirmation of a franchise to the Northern Michigan Cooperative in Marion township.

The request for 2.5 mills for five years in Charlevoix township went down to defeat but the margin was not available early Wednesday morning.

The 1.0 mill request for five years in Hayes township was defeated by a margin of 199-170. The money was to be used for road construction.

Marion Township

The 2.0 mill request for three years in Marion township lost by a 180-114 margin.

Liquor by the glass in Marion township lost by a vote of 156 to 144. This was sought for Castle Farms.

The franchise that will allow the Northern Michigan Electric Cooperative to expand its operation and build a sub-station was approved by a vote of 210 to 81.

In Boyne Valley voters gave their approval to a zoning ordinance approved earlier by the township board by a vote of 112 to 92; in Bay township the ordinance was approved by a 42-vote margin (150 to 108); in Hudson township by a vote of 70-53 and in Melrose township by a vote of 178 to 107.

Incumbent Phillip E. Ruppe battled a popular Upper Peninsula county prosecutor offering relief from GOP stagnancy to win a fifth term in Congress early today by a neck.

South Arm Township Farmer Loses 20

More Local Cattle Ordered Destroyed

'I can't really quit the business. What else would I do? I don't want to retire.'

-- Alvin Grace

By PEG OHLE

Sixteen head of beef cattle and a registered shorthorn bull were removed from a South Arm Township farm for slaughter and burial last week because of poly-brominated bi-phenyl contamination.

This brought to 20 the number of cattle lost by Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Grace after the animals were fed a food supplement with which the P.B.B., a toxic fire retardant that had been by mistake comingled.

The contaminated food supplement, which was distributed by the Michigan Farm Bureau, has caused the death of thousands of head of cattle and other animals throughout the state.

State agriculture officials ordered Monday the slaughter of up to 5,000 more beef and dairy cattle which ate Michigan Farm Bureau Services feeds.

9,000 Slaughter

Already 9,000 cattle have been slaughtered and buried in Kalkaska County. In addition 900,000 chickens, 2,200 swine, 1,000 pheasants, 348 sheep, 1.5 million eggs, 351 tons of contaminated feed and 10,000 pounds of cheeses were destroyed earlier.

Grace purchased his feed last fall from the East Jordan Co-op, and his first two animals died in his barn last January.

It was about that time that the Farm Bureau started to recall the feed after receiving several complaints from farmers about slow growth of cattle and unexplained deaths of newborn calves.

After much research, it was determined, early this past summer, that P.B.B., a fire retardant, had been mistakingly added to the feed instead of magnesium oxide, a well-known food supplement.

Feed Mill Closed

It was after the East Jordan Co-Op closed down its feed mill last July that the Graces had one of their sick animals slaughtered and a biopsy performed, revealing the P.B.B. contamination.

The biopsy showed a high rate of poly-brominated bi-phenyl in the cattle's fat tissues.

After this revelation, the Graces knew their cattle would have to be destroyed, but in the weeks between then and the actual disposal they continued feeding them.

"It cost us a lot of money, feeding the cattle even though we knew they had to be destroyed," Mrs. Grace said, "but we couldn't let them starve.

The contaminated animals were herefords and black angus. The bull was about a year and a half old and valued at $1,000.

The Graces have 50 head of cattle left. They were not fed the contaiminated feed and have been in pasture, away from the barns and feed lot which are also contaiminated.

Mrs. Grace says the calves should have been weaned in early September but could not be because they had to stay in pasture. "The brood cows are behind time, the mothers are getting poor because the calves weren't weaned, and the calves should have other food," she added.

Before the cattle can be put in the barns and feed lot, the buildings and grounds will have to be steam-cleaned to remove any possible trace of P.B.B. That, too, will be an expensive proposition.

The Farm Bureau is paying the cost of transporting the condemned animals to Kalkaska for burial, and the Graces hope to receive full restitution from them for all other losses involved in the packaging mixup.

Filed Suit

In this connection, Michigan Farm Bureau has filed suit against their 1974 insurance carrier, the New Hampshire Insurance Company, to force the insurance company to pay several Michigan farmers for damages to their livestock from P.B.B.

The insurance company says it is withholding its insurance protection because its investigation indicated Farm Bureau received all of the P.B.B. in 1973, and that as a result the event or "occurance" upon which the farmers' claims for damage are based took place before the 1974 coverage took effect.

Councilman McRae Urges City To Display Past Mayor Photos

Councilman Ralph McRae instilled a bit of Charlevoix history into the council meeting Monday and urged city council to place pictures and brief biographics of its past mayors on the walls of the council chambers.

The request came after the city councilman told council he was able to locate a copy of the city's original charter adopted in 1905 from the Michigan Municipal League.

McRae said the city had been unable to locate the city's original 1905 charter and was able to secure another copy from the municipal league.

"They thought they had found our Fourth Class City Charter and instead found a home rule charter," he said about the city's attempt to locate its charter.

McRae said what city officials had turned up was a home rule charter that was proposed to voters in 1918 and turned down by some 20 votes.

Serving as the charter commission chairman was Will Hampton and Isabel Mitchell as clerk.

That charter had required only two commissioners and one mayor be elected. The remaining officials, including a city manager, were to be appointed.

In 1905, when Charlevoix became a Fourth Class City, McRae said the city had a population of 2,000. Mayor at that time was Elmer W. Coulter.

Since 1905, McRae said Charlevoix has had 23 mayors with one (Arthur Bergeon) who has been elected for 13 years and another for eight terms.

When Charlevoix became a Fourth Class City, McRae said the preamble of the charter provided for the establishment of city boundaries, ward boundaries, operation of the swinging bridge, public library and cemetery.

It also gave the city the right to purchase power.

McRae said various amendments had been added to the present city charter since 1905.

Among those was one approved in 1920 allows the city to levy $^3/_4$ mill to advertise the city as a good place to live.

Another established a three-member park commission

McRae said it would be interesting to see the status of these amendments.

He said the city should also try to get pictures and biographies of each mayor for the council chambers.

"It would be kind of a civic project," he said.

In other action, council:

–Agreed to hire Dr. Alvin Ranger on a six month trial basis as the city's building inspector. He would collect 90 percent of the fees as his salary.

–Approved purchase of new radio equipment for the city fire and police departments for $972.

–Tabled discussion on an historical society museum site chamber building rent, and a

On City-Township Merger

Mass Meeting Set For Nov. 20

A mass meeting to sound out the community on the proposed merger between Charlevoix and Charlevoix Township has been called by Mayor Ed Hansen on Nov. 20 at 7:30 p.m. at Charlevoix High School.

The meeting was announced at a press conference called by Mayor Hansen.

The Charlevoix mayor said the city has decided to hold an area public meeting to discuss the proposed merger and evaluate local sentiment about the move.

Hansen said both the city council and township board will be present.

Under a present proposed "timetable" drawn up by the mayor residents could see the two units of government merged as early as next October.

The question most first be approved by the Charlevoix City Council and by a vote of township residents.

For a complete text of the proposed resolution turn inside to page 15.

"In the past, there has been considerable talk that the township should be joined with the city," the Mayor said Saturday.

However, he said before making a move it would be best to discuss the situation in a public meeting.

Before any decisions are made, both the mayor and city attorney Don Berlage insist a thorough cost study in all areas of government responsibility, to be carried out by committees made up of city and township residents.

The merger question was first raised two weeks after the council voted 5-1 to put the question of charter revision on the ballot.

Berlage believes that the time is ripe for the city and township to join forces and work together on charter revision.

He has even drawn up a proposed resolution which would set in motion the machinery for merger of the two units before charter revision is undertaken.

Several city officials have indicated that if merger is put off much longer it will no longer be a feasible alternative for township residents.

To eliminate earlier fears that the resolution was an attempt to sidestep or delay the question of charter revision indefinitely, language was added to insure that the revision process would continue if the township votes down merger efforts.

Charlevoix Township residents turned down the annexation question five years ago.

However, many say it was defeated because there was no guarantee of township representation on the council.

They say this proposed merger would involve the township directly in forming a new government.

Hansen says if the township residents were properly informed the merger question will stand a better chance.

"The main thing we are concerned about is if these people want to work together," Hansen said.

Three Different Directions

What Do Charlevoix Seniors See As Their Future Lives

What are today's youth really thinking about?

Are they the long-haired kids wearing dirty Levis and T-shirts who are just looking for the easy way out?

Three Charlevoix seniors examined themselves and try to give some insight into today's generation.

Shelley Warner, a long-life Charlevoix resident, has been active in every school activity from cheerleading to school newspaper.

The 17-year-old daughter of a local fuel oil distributor looks at graduation as being only one step closer to her ultimate goal-nursing.

"I want to be a nurse very badly because I like being around people and doing things for people that way I'd be able to do it." she says.

Seventeen-year-old Gay Kimble, who was on this year's homecoming court and president of her class, plans on marrying her childhood sweetheart.

"I don't think that just being married would make me not go to college because I thought about going to college," she says.

Gay says that college at this point,doesn't seem worthwhile and that eventually, even if she does want a family, she would go if she changes her impression.

Lori Keaslin is the daughter of an Air Force commander and has moved around a lot during her lifetime.

Her interests are primarily sports and enjoys horses the most.

GAY KIMBLE isn't sure if college at this point would really be worth the money and will be getting married next summer.

High School Helps

In fact, she's so interested in horses she will be going to a college in Wyoming next year to learn how to be a trainer.

Ask if high school played an Important role in determining their life work and you'll find very little mentioned about the benefit of formal curriculum.

Shelley, the future nursing student, said high school played only an indirect role because she met a friend who influenced her decision.

"I'm working up at the Charlevoix Area Hospital and that put more of an influence on my going Into nursing than the high school, so really I'd have to say no," she said.

"I don't think it did for me, except for maybe the sense that I've known my boyfriend through school," Gay added.

She said being class president has helped her meet people and accept responsibility.

"But I don't think it had any influence on what I'm going to do when I get out of school," she said.

Lori said she didn't think high school has any part in future career as a horse trainer either.

Along those same lines, all three weren't exactly sure what they received from high school education.

Shelley looks at her education as a period of time when she has been able to find herself and decide what she wanted to do.

She said her relationships with other people helped, too.

"It really depends upon the person themselves," she said.

SEVENTEEN-YEAR-OLD Lori Kaeslin plans on going to a special school in Wyoming to become a horse trainer after graduating In June.

Friendship Important

"If they want to apply themselves to their classes then they can learn something from them and that helps you, but otherwise they don't."

Gay said it has been the little things from her classes and getting to know other people.

"I think the main thing is that you have a set schedule here and you come everyday and you walk around with your friends," Lori said.

"And I think it gave me a chance to grow up a little and mature and I've learned a lot of things that are going to help me in college.

However, all three said school could have provided a few more specific programs for their future careers.

Shelley said she would have liked more in the health services and Gay said she would have liked to have seen more in home economics, while Lori said she would like to have seen less business-related programs and more in agriculture.

All three also say they would like to see less complaining in the world and more positive action.

"I would like to be a part of society, but not the society that we have now because for the foremost of it, people do a lot complaining about it," Shelley said.

"People nowadays can do more complaining about things, but they can't do something about things they are complaining about."

Quit Complaining

Rather than sitting around and complaining, she says people ought to get involved.

Gay says getting involved in her own community activities will be part of the solution.

Are youth still looking for heroes to pattern their lives after?

While Shelley says there aren't any heroes or heroines in her life, she was influenced by someone that works at the hospital.

Gay says she doesn't have one at all.

"I'm old-fashioned and I just have my own feelings and my own fears, so I don't think I'm following in anyone's footsteps," she said.

Lori said her parents had set her direction and that there hasn't been any horse trainers to pattern her life after.

Charlevoix County Lawmen Cost More Than Other Counties

By PEG OHLE

It costs more to operate Charlevoix County's Sheriff's Department than either department in Antrim or Emmet Counties, according to a report recently published by the Northwest Michigan Regional Planning and Development Commission.

Charlevoix County is one of 10 counties in the Northwest Region.

The report shows that in 1973 it cost $148,938 to operate the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department, compared to $138,946 for the Emmet County Sheriff's Department and $138,498 for the Antrim County facility.

The Charlevoix County figure was 14.3 percent of the total county budget, while Antrim County spend 12.6 percent and Emmet County spend 12.4 percent of the budget on their Sheriff's Departments.

It cost each person in Charlevoix County $8.59 to support sheriff activities in 1973. The figure for Emmet County was $7.36, and for Antrim County $10.53.

This year, the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department has 15 full-time and three part-time employees. Emmet County has 13 full-time and five part-time employees, and Antrim County has 11 full-time and two part-time.

However, both Antrim and Emmet Counties employ auxiliary officers, Antrim, eight and Emmet, 12.

Sheriff's Departments in all three counties own four patrol cars, Emmet and Charlevoix County departments own one snowmobile and Antrim County, two. All three departments also own two patrol boats.

There were an average of four persons in the Charlevoix County jail each day of 1973, with the average length of stay being five days. Figures for Antrim County were seven and eight, and for Emmet County 10 and eight.

State Proposes Consolidating Law Enforcement Agencies

The Michigan Commission on Criminal Justice, of which Lt. Governor James Brickley is chairman, has prepared a proposed set of state goals and standards for criminal justice that would eliminate local police.

Some of the more significant items in the proposal especially affecting rural areas would –Require by 1980 that sworn police officers complete four years of college.

–Establish a unified court system, financed by the state and administered by a state court administration supervised by the Michigan Supreme Court.

–Establish Regional Court Administrators, appointed by the State Court Administration, in trial courts with small case loads.

--Require full-time prosecutors and, in smaller counties where the case load does not justify full-time prosecuting attorneys, establish Regional Prosecutors.

–Require establishment of Regional Public Defenders.

--Designate "Uniform Criminal Justice Districts" not necessarily in conformance with county lines or the boundaries of the state's general-purpose planning regions.

–In rural areas, consolidate existing state and local law enforcement agencies under a single state policing agency.

The last proposal is particularly abhorant to local law enforcement agencies. Charlevoix County Sheriff Philo Sumner says, "Law enforcement is the county's responsibility. Why do we have to operate like Wayne County?"

The Commission on Criminal Justice prefaced the proposal in part by saying, "If the people of Michigan want a more effective and efficient criminal justice system, this body of officials and lay persons believes they will have to seriously consider these goals and standards."

Chairman Brickley explained that the Commission worked with the knowledge that the criminal justice system "cannot alone prevent crime."

"Prevailing social values and respect for law and law enforcement will also be important," he added.

Salad Lunch On Nov. 14

A hand crocheted bedspread will be given away at this year's Christ Episcopal Church Christmas Salad Luncheon and Bazaar.

The drawing for the bedspread made and donated by Mrs. Archie Rounds, a summer resident of Charlevoix, will be at 2 p.m., November 14.

The Bazaar will feature a pantry shop with baked goods, canned goods and recipes; Knitting accessories; and Attic Treasures.

The Luncheon and Bazaar will be held in the undercroft of the Christ Episcopal Church, the corner of State and Clinton Streets in Charlevoix.

The Luncheon will be from 11 to 1:30. The Bazaar is from 10 to 2.

Local Citizen Effort Should Be Commended

The presentation of nearly 5,000 petitions to Governor Milliken last week was a great example of grass-roots action by people of Northwestern Michigan.

The petitions were signed by people who are concerned about the possibility of abandonment of railroad service to this part of the state.

Gathering the signatures in a very short period of time and arranging for delivery to the governor was undertaken by people in all walks of life who feel that our economic and social well-being be seriously impaired by such abandonment.

In the face of shortages of petroleum fuels in the future, these people feel that mass transportation, both freight and passenger, is necessary to support business in the north, both tourism and manufacturing, and to move the necessities of life to residents at fair, competitive prices.

The railroads played a major part in developing Northwestern Michigan. Early lumbering was made possible by railroads being given hundreds of thousands of acres of land by the federal government to help develop sparsely populated areas.

Moving timber from Michigan to other parts of the country in early railroad days helped build railroads empires.

The railroads brought resorting to Northwestern Michigan, and a revival of passenger service to this area could well become profitable to them again, and a real service to Northwestern Michigan.

Train service to bring vacationers from Cincinnati, Detroit, St. Louis, Chicago and other points south to spend their entire vacation here is not a dream.

The petitioners think that residents should once again be able to take a train from Charlevoix or Petoskey to Traverse City, Chicago, Grand Rapids, Detroit or any other point.

They also think we should have adequate freight shipping facilities for coal, building materials, fertilizer and other heavy loads that cannot be readily transported on highways.

Governor Milliken told those presenting the petitions that he would do his utmost to thwart the proposed abandonments, which threatens about 98 percent of the trackage in Northern Michigan.

"Gentlemen, you may rest assured that I will pursue this matter fully and that I will do everything in my power as governor to continue to fight against proposed railroad abondonments in our state," Milliken said.

The petitions presented to the governor request an extension of the Regional Rail Reorganization Act of 1973 timetable in order to allow local-regional multi-modal transportation plan for Michigan to be developed.

Congress has already granted a 120-day extension to the Act, but it is felt the state may need more time to evolve a comprehensive transportation plan which would include future rail service for Northern Michigan.

Prime-movers in the petition drive locally were members of the County Board of Commissioners, the County Planning Commission, Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce, manufacturers, businessmen, housewives and many others concerned about the future of Northwestern Michigan.

Let's hope that our elected officials, local, state and federal will carry on the battle.

Senior Citizen Drive For Housing Excellent

Charlevoix's senior citizens are joining forces these days to see if they can get some low cost housing for local residents.

We think the move is a commendable effort and offer our full support.

Charlevoix is one of the last areas in this county to tackle the problem and we are glad to see it get underway.

In these days of higher costs, senior citizens who are usually on a fixed income are finding themselves got in a financial squeeze.

This type of program, if it is done right, could possibly do some good.

But more than the financial savings, a local housing project would allow our older residents to be among themselves and still stay somewhat active.

We encourage those who know of people who might qualify to fill the application form located opposite our editorial page.

Presently, the Mayor's special committee on Senior Citizens Housing is trying to gather ammunition to demonstrate the need for this type of housing.

We hope the mayor's committee is successful in securing the necessary funds and ask all residents to cooperate in whatever capacity they may need help with.

Letters to the editor

Player Defends Coach

Oct. 29, 1974

Dear Editor,

In answer to the letter from "up-set football fan" in last week's Courier.

Football is a game of courage...a quality the person who wrote the letter seems to lack.

I have been a varsity football player for the past two years and have one year left to play.

During those years I have learned that no one person is ever responsible for winning or losing a game.

No letters of praise were ever written for the games we won when Mr. Carey called the plays!

I hate un-signed letters and feel they have to be the most cowardly way a person can relieve his emotions.

Help Community Chest

It's Community Chest time in Charlevoix so, with a bow to one of the greatest writers of all time, Anon., herewith:

There are eight degrees or steps in the duty of giving.

The first and lowest is to give but with reluctance or regret. This is the gift of the hand but not the heart.

The second is to give cheerfully, but not proportionately to the need.

The third is to give cheerfully and proportionately but not until solicited.

The fourth is give cheerfully, proportionately and even unsolicited, but to put it in the poor man's hand, thereby exciting in him the painful emotion of shame.

The fifth is to give in such a way that the distressed may receive the bounty and know their benefactor without being known to him.

The sixth rises still higher. It is to know the beneficiary of our bounty but remain unknown to him.

Still more meritorious is the seventh, which is to bestow in such a way that the benefactor may not know the relieved persons nor they the name of their benefactor.

Lately, most meritorious of all, is to anticipate and then to give, simply to prevent poverty, pain and despair.

This is the highest step in the golden ladder of charity.

Happy giving.

Charlevoix Community Chest.

It would appear by your references in your anonymous letter published Oct. 30 that you have spoken to, and, are speaking for everyone in the Charlevoix area. Please do not take the liberty of speaking for everyone, especially our fine young athletes.

If, however, you want to sound like a whistle and ride around in the wind with your mouth open, at least extend the common courtesy to the readers of this newspaper of signing your name.

It is often said, "People who write anonymous letters, scream in their pillows over their own shortcomings.

Another final note–"Football Fan", do not sign anonymous letters such as the nature of yours as "sincerely", because they are anything but sincere. Now I will finish as you did. "How about it?"

Nursery Says Thanks

To The Editor,

The Charlevoix Co-operative Nursery would like to take this opportunity to thank all the downtown merchants who so graciously gave treats to the children on their trick or treat trips in the downtown area last week.

Special thanks to the Charlevoix Agency for giving all three classes fire hats and trick or treat bags. Also a special thank you to you, Mr. Winter for your time in taking pictures. The children really enjoy seeing themselves and their playmates in the paper.

I don't know about you, but I hate to see Charlevoix–hat in hand–begging Charlevoix Township to join forces with the city under a single government.

Yet this, literally, is what City Attorney Donald Berlage advised the city fathers to do at last week's special council meeting.

If you listen to Mr. Berlage, you get the idea that Charlevoix has everything to gain and little or nothing to lose by merging with the township.

And if you keep listening to him, you'll get the idea that the people in the township hold all the trump cards when it comes to annexation. He leads you to believe that township residents are a bunch of independent cusses who need to be buttered up by the city—just so they'll join us.

He warns that the township is making such magnificent progress on its own that unless the city acts quickly to bring the township into the fold, there will soon be no good reason for merger from the standpoint of township residents.

I just can't buy Mr. Berlage's arguments—or his attitude.

Charlevoix has so many good things going for it that we don't have to be beholden to anyone.

Ironically, the people of Charlevoix will have nothing to say about annexation, municipal laws being what they are. Whether to accept or reject annexation rests with the city council and the county Board of Commissioners.

State laws being what they are, however, annexation will be voted on by the people of the township.

You'll recall that the question of annexation came up in 1969, on a petition from the township to the city. The council agreed to let the township come in, and the county board approved. But township residents, fearful of higher city taxes, rejected the proposal.

So keep this in mind: If you have a view one way or the other on annexation, let your councilman know. This is one time when his voice is your voice.

Don't get me wrong, I'm not against annexation. I just think the council has an awful lot of homework to do before it comes up with a resolution inviting the township to join.

Mr. Berlage says that the township is contemplating considerable sewer work in the near future with the aid of federal monies.

Fine.

But before the township is annexed, I'd like to know how much sewer work is anticipated, how much the federal government will kick in and how much must be raised by special assessment and how much by general obligation bonds.

These things are important to me as a resident of Charlevoix. I already am paying through the teeth on a $700,000 bond issue for the city's new sewage plant. I don't know if I can afford much more for a sewer extension out Boyne City-rd. or down old M-66.

In case you haven't been watching, sewers are expensive—especially when they require lift situations and other niceties that generally are paid for by the population as a whole.

I am afraid that all some city residents see when they look at Charlevoix Township is the township's whooping big valuation, thanks to the Medusa Cement Plant. They don't even consider what it would cost to extend city services throughout the township.

Mr. Berlage argues, and rightly so, that Charlevoix has no place to "grow", hemmed in on the north and south by Charlevoix Township.

His concern is understandable, because "bigness" is a desirable commodity in American society today. You've heard it a thousand times, "The bigger, the better."

Of course, this is hogwash.

A community with Charlevoix's unique characteristics doesn't have to be big. But it should try to be best.

For my money, the city has enough to do in its own backyard in the next few years without trying to extend its municipal benefits to an even larger area.

–Our electrical distribution system needs a thorough renovation.

–Board areas of the southwest side are still without water or sewage lines.

–Whole neighborhoods are without sidewalks. And the sidewalks downtown are in a sorry state of repair.

–For two summers we have forced our marine visitors at the city dock to wade through ankle deep water to get ashore–without a thought to the construction of risers on the piers. Of course, high water won't last forever. But it will return and we should be ready for it.

As I said, I'm not against annexation. It might be just the ticket for Charlevoix and Charlevoix Township.

But we have to study all of the ramitications—and the costs—first.

Furthermore, we must never feel that Charlevoix has less to offer than the township, if a merger does take place. Let's not sell ourselves short.

ENOUGH'S ENOUGH!

How Does Welby Do It?

In Michigan, the lawyers are fighting the doctors over money. If you'd like to help hold their coats, go to the end of the line which already stretches from Detroit to St. Ignace.

To hear the doctors tell it, the trouble started when Michigan got no-fault auto insurance. It is no longer necessary for courts to decide which driver ran the red light and which family will lose how much income because of contagious whiplash. This left a lot of bumpshop lawyers with nothing to do. So they started suing doctors for malpractice.

Apparently Perry Mason has had considerable success proving Dr. Welby amputated the foot when the patient really needed a triple A shoe. Juries have been awarding whopping damages and the price of malpractice insurance has doctors sobbing all over their stock portfolios.

500 doctors (which equals 20,000 examination rooms, the doctor will be in in a minute) formed the Physicians Crisis Committee. They have asked the state Supreme Court to limit the contingency fees that lawyers can charge clients in malpractice suits.

The limit would mean, for instance, that a lawyer could make only $31,000 instead of $75,000 on a $150,000 case. And this includes overtime (for a lawyer, overtime is the time spent preparing a case and the time spent in court. Regular time is the time spend entertaining ambulance drivers and teaching clients how to swallow surgical sponges).

Naturally, the lawyers are not taking this medical harassment with their briefs down. Sheldon Miller, vice president of the Michigan Trial Lawyers' Assoc., said: "The doctors who have been committing malpractice are blaming lawyers for suing them. If the doctors want to set our fees, we would like the same right to set theirs."

Yeah. Maybe Perry Mason could discover how Marcus Welby does it. And then the lawyers could ask the Supreme Court to require all doctors to use the Welby system.

Welby and his assistant get along on just 1 patient a week. They don't even have a drugstore in their lobby. Yet they enjoy a fine lifestyle, with a nice home, plush offices, well-fed secretary and a motorcycle for chasing patients up mountains to give them free shots.

Near my home there is a clinic containing about a dozen doctors. They just enlarged their parking lot to the size of 6 football fields. Their lobby looks like Dollar Day in Macy's basement. If you show up on time for a Tuesday appointment you might see your doctor by Thursday afternoon if it happens to be his week to work. No patient can leave without buying medicine from the clinic's friendly pharmacists who have the only key to the exit.

This place is so busy they sometimes don't have time to answer the phone. My wife let it ring for 20 minutes one day, just to see how mad she could get (in case of emergency, write a letter).

What I want to know is how come these doctors must schedule 50 patients each an hour to make a living while Welby gets along handsomely on 50 a year (and a lot of them are reruns).

Go get 'em, lawyers.

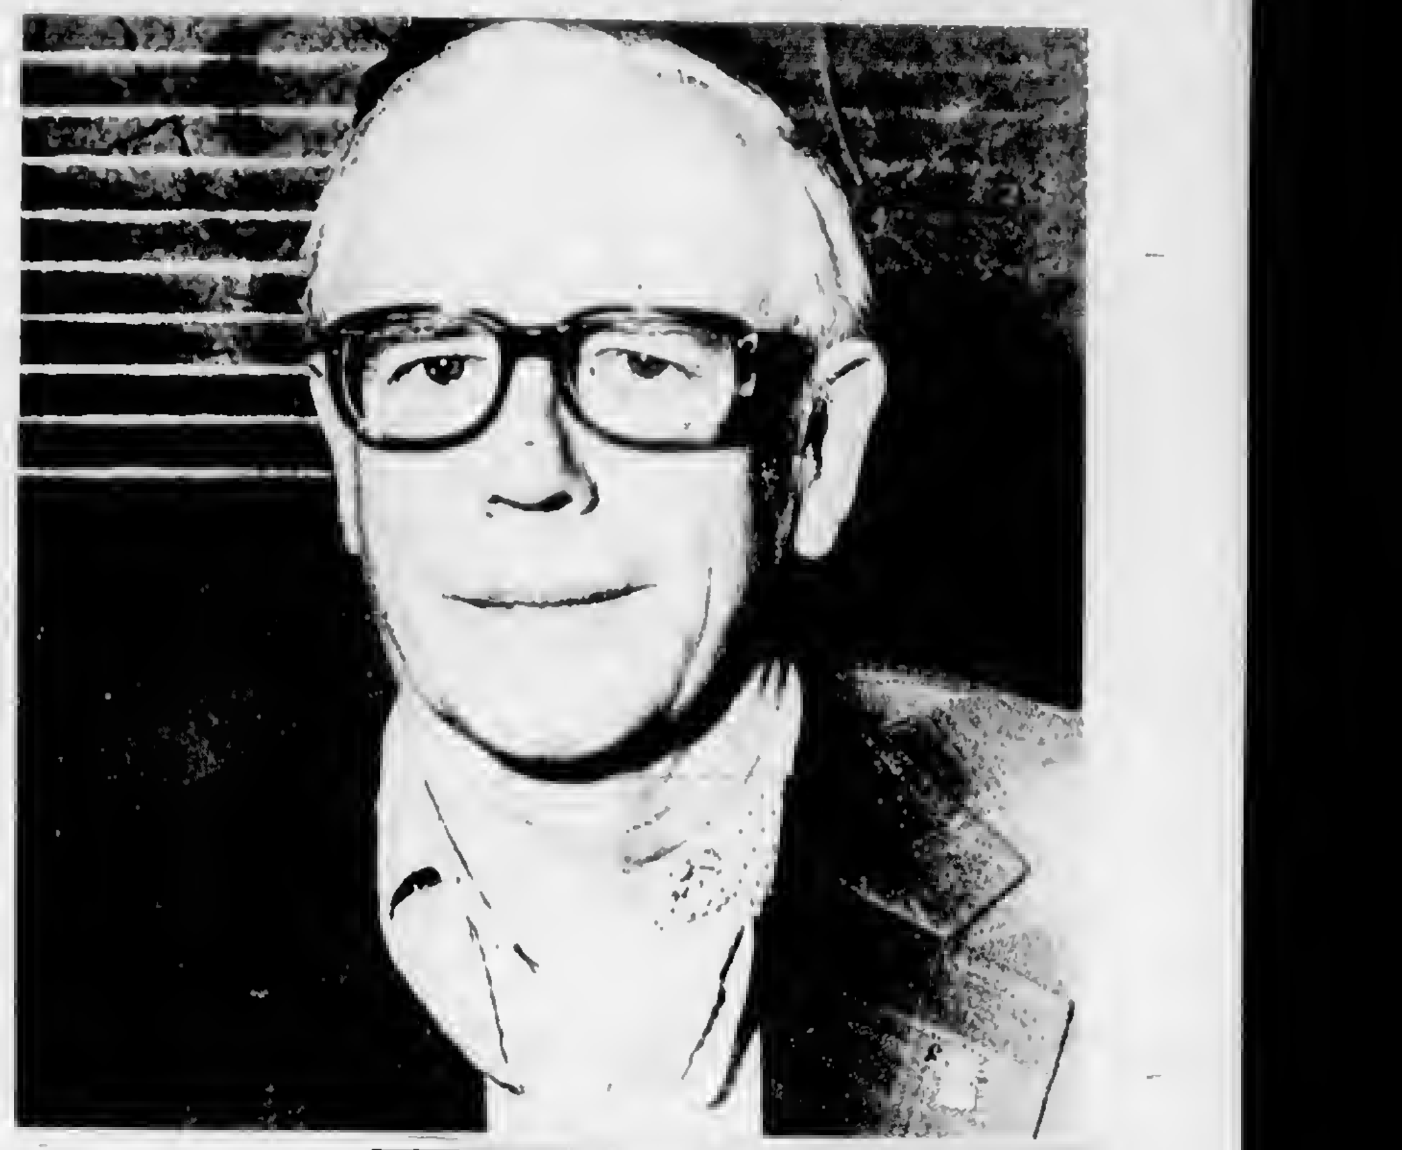
Go get 'em, doctors.

It's a battle any fair-minded consumer has to enjoy. Until the first of the month, anyway. That's when we'll be billed $70 an hour for the professional services that rubbed off on us while we were holding their coats.

And there'll be an extra charge to cover contingencies and consultants.

Meet Charlevoix

Meet Bob Cook



Mayor Ed Hansen recently appointed a Senior Citizen's Housing Committee to study Charlevoix's needs.

Today the Charlevoix Courier asks Bob Cook, chairman of the group, what they plan to be doing.

Cook is a retired Charlevoix Vocation Education Director and teacher and is a member of the Charlevoix Regional Planning Commission.

COURIER: What is the Senior Citizen's Housing Committee?

COOK: It is a committee appointed by Mayor Hansen to look into the feasibility of senior citizen housing in the Charlevoix community. The committee was formed at the request of Councilman Ralph McRae. The members of the committee consist of Robert Cook, Stan Hammond and Ralph Shapton.

COURIER: What are your aims and objectives?

COOK: Well, probably the first goal is to run a survey to find out how much demand there is for low cost senior citizen housing. In the short time we have been formed we have already received requests for housing. Our second goal would be to look into the various methods of financing and constructing a senior citizens housing project so as to be able to make a recommendation to the city council as to the best method for this community.

COURIER: Could you tell us a little more about the survey?

COOK: The committee hopes to contact various church groups, senior citizens groups, historical society and others that may be helpful in completing a survey. Also, individuals interested can fill out and mail the coupon enclosed in today's newspaper. Or they can call any member of the committee. We just want to know the interest. We are primarily interested in numbers of interested people and whether they want single or double occupancy.

COURIER: What is senior citizen housing?

COOK: It is a program to have adequate housing at a cost they can afford. Senior citizen housing usually has one or two bedroom apartments, recreation rooms, laundry facilities and usually some indoor and outdoor recreation areas. It usually includes various programs of a recreation nature.

COURIER: Are there any senior citizen housing projects currently in operation around this area now?

COOK: Yes. Most of the neighboring towns have programs either under development or in operation. Some of the towns include Elk Rapids, East Jordan, Boyne City, Petoskey and Traverse City. Just this last week Wednesday, Gaylord dedicated their new facility for 32 units.

The committee is planning to visit local units to better learn what all should be included in senior citizen housing.

COURIER: What do you think the senior citizens in Charlevoix are looking for?

COOK: We want to see that senior citizens in Charlevoix can have housing that they can afford, live in dignity and enjoy the social advantages such a unit can provide.

WE NEED TO KNOW ABOUT YOU!

We are interested in helping Charlevoix's Sr. Citizens.

A Quiet Place To Visit

Learn About Your Local Library Program

By PEG OHLE

Those who remember the libraries of their youth as dark, dusty whisper-only institutions will find the Charlevoix Public Library quite a different place.

The seven-year-old modern building on Clinton street is conducive to casual reading or intensive study.

It is light, airy and comfortable, a good place to spend a few minutes, an hour or an afternoon.

There are books to suit almost every taste among the 12,500 volumes.

Local history buffs will enjoy the Michigan Room with its collection of old and older volumes containing fact and fiction about early days in the area.

One of the library's prize possessions is a book of excerpts from the old Charlevoix Sentinel, starting with the first edition, April 24, 1869, through the year 1906.

It is 37 years of social history that is bound to intrigue anyone interested in Charlevoix in its younger days.

The book was compiled and presented to the library by Mrs. Rosa Nettleton, pioneer resident who came to Charlevoix from Toronto, Ontario in 1891.

Mrs. Nettleton was also an artist. She carved from wood and painted figurines depicting the history of clothing from the time of Adam and Eve to the year 1940. These figurines are now in possession of the library.

The history of Charlevoix is also recorded in the collection of photographs made by local photographer Robert Miles which he has donated to the library, and for which he is now having a display case made.

Among other books in the Michigan Room are some rare volumes given by Mrs. Katherine Babst Parsons from the collection of her husband, Earl D. Babst. They were early members of the Chicago Club.

However, all is not history in the Charlevoix Public Library. There is plenty of fiction, old and new, light and heavy. There is non-fiction ranging from "How To" books to scientific treatises. There is a children's section complete with junior size tables and chairs to encourage reading - or just looking by the youngest citizen.

Last year the library circulated 22,263 books.

The library subscribes to 76 magazines and has a collection of 300 records. There are magazines for all ages and interests and records for children and adults ranging from classical music to just-past popular.

Those who like old magazines will find them in the Magazine Room on the lower level, anything from a 1937 copy of Life to a 1895 copy of Harper's.

The Charlevoix Public Library has a budget of $33,300 for 1974-75.

These funds come from a tax levy of .0004 on property within the Charlevoix school district, which amounts to $27,200. A percentage of penal fines provides $3,200 of the budget, state aid adds $1,800 and miscellaneous items such as book fines and interest account for the remaining income.

Included in the budget is $6,000 for new books, up $1,000 from last year because of increased costs.

Librarian Mary Beth Wallick points out that books which would have sold for $3.95 a few years ago now cost $7.95 or more.

This year the library will get more shelving to provide needed space, especially for children's books.

The library building is used by many non-profit organizations as a meeting place. Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts and members of the Historical Society gather there.

The Charlevoix Nursery School is held in the building, and this fall the series of motion pictures, "Civilisation", is being shown there.

The Charlevoix Public Library is administered through the Charlevoix school system. Three members of the school board, Max Novak, Charles Elzinga and Ken Boss, make up the library board.

Miss Wallick is happy about the cooperation the library receives from the community. "We are well supported by people in the area," she says, "they are concerned about the library."

Library hours are 1 p.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. Friday and Saturday. Miss Wallick is assisted in the library by Mrs. Eleanor Ratigan, assistant librarian, Margaret Warner and Kathy Dubey.

MARY BETH Wallick is Charlevoix's librarian.

Teacher Feature

Meet Joan Baumer

Where do you find a Charlevoix third grade teacher after school during the spring, summer and fall?

On the golf course--of course!

Joan Baumer's keen interest in golf comes naturally as her parents built and now operate a nine hole golf course, "Devil's Knob" in Harrison, Michigan, Joan's home town.

The golf course is indeed a family project, and during the summer Joan and her four sisters pitch right in, watering greens and tending the pro shop.

Joan's interest was climaxed this past summer as she was awarded the winning trophy in a hospital auxiliary tournament in Gladwin.

Swimming, cross-country skiing, and just going for walks are also high on her list of interests.

At home Joan enjoys sewing and various crafts.

A graduate of Central Michigan University, Joan also attended Huntington College in Huntington, Indiana.

After graduating she came to Charlevoix to teach and has been in our school system four and one-half years.

She also taught fourth grade children for one year.

An appealing feature about Joan's classroom is the numerous opportunities she gives her children for self-expression.

Lively discussions ensue throughout the day as Joan feels children need to express their ideas so they can better cope with the world.

Another unique feature in Joan's class is a unit she does with the children involving self acceptance, accepting others' differences, and getting along with others. "It is very important that children like themselves," say Joan.

So a variety of experiences are pursued in this direction, including discussions, role playing, and films.

How does Joan feel about teaching?

"It's really great because the kids' enthusiasm is contagious and bound to keep a person young at heart," she says.

Second Issue

Charlevoix School Paper Puts Punch Into News

What makes news at Charlevoix Middle School?

Ask Hal Evans or several of the other teachers who were featured in this week's CMS Press.

It's the Middle School's second attempt this year to put out a publication and according to those who did it, newspapering is a lot of fun.

Editor Richard Packert said the paper was started because his teacher, Miss Ann Schenk, wanted to get everyone involved.

"Everybody has done something," he said.

At the time of the interview, the entire class was assembling their issue for distribution within the school building.

Richard says he likes newspaper work because he gets to go around and interview people for stories.

"It's just fun and I enjoy it," he said.

Co-editor Ann Puffpaff feels much the same way.

The toughest part, she said, is trying to think up ideas for stories and get everyone to do their share.

"I think the kids really liked the paper because it was the first one," she said about their first edition that came out several weeks ago.

The latest edition includes a variety of features on Hallowe'en as well as the latest in the schools intramural program.

Reporters Joe Herriman, Tim Hiller and Bob Ranger reveal all in their exclusive story, "The Set-Up."

Writer Susan Smith sends chills through your spine in "The Vine Covered Mansion," while other parts of the paper add some humor with jokes and games.

MIDDLE SCHOOL students take a brief glance at the newspaper they just published.

CHARLEVOIX'S Cheryl Pence (33) continues her record point scoring.

Girls Beat Cheboygan

The Charlevoix high school girls' basketball team pulled a close one out of the fire Thursday by a score of 45-43 in an overtime after the regolation game had ended in a 41-41 tie.

Earlier in the week Charlevoix had defeated Grayling 59-16.

In Thursday's game with Cheboygan, the game was won from the free throw line with Von Priest scoring two and Lee Steelman and Cheryl Pence one each, after Cheboygan had knotted the score from the floor at the final buzzer.

Both teams scored 19 field goals. Charlevoix, however, with 32 attempts managed to connect on only seven which gave them the winning margin. Cheboygan scored on five of 20 attempts. Charlevoix collected 16 and Cheboygan 22 personal fouls.

Coach Toni Felter is fearful that the team's shortcoming at the free throw line may be its downfall before the season is over. "They spend a lot of time practicing free throws. However, in a game they just don't seem to be able to connect" she said.

Charlevoix trailed throughout the game as Cheboygan led 14-10 at the quarter; 25-22 at halftime and 31-30 going into the final eight minotes when Charlevoix went ahead for the first time.

Pence was top scorer for the victors with 25 points. Michelle Carsant had 14 and Rene' Farmer 12 for Cheboygan.

The Charlevoix J-V's won 27-24

In the game with Grayling, Coach Felter emptied the bench as the Rayderettes led Grayling 13-3 at the quarter; 31-8 at the half and 51-12 at the three-qoarter mark.

Charlevoix, led by Pence with 23 points, scored 27 field goals, five of 21 free throws and had 12 personal fouls. Grayling scored six field goals, four of 12 free throw attempts and had 19 personal fouls called on them.

Priest had 11 points for Charlevoix.

The Charlevoix J.V's posted a 35-9 victory.

Charlevoix will host Rogers City here on Tuesday and travel to St. Ignace Thursday for a return game with the Saints.

End of Season

Rayders Win Last Game

The Charlevoix Red Rayders ended a fine football season on Friday by thumping the Cheboygan Chiefs, 27-12. The fans on hand were treated to a fine display of both offensive and defensive action.

Scoring started on Charlevoix's first possession, following the Cheboygan kickoff.

Kevin Martin took the first handoff and scampered 12 yards for the first down This was followed by another Martin run and a fine pass lateral which moved the ball to the Cheboygan 4 yard line.

This bit of high school razzle-dazzle involved a Bob Alger pass to fullback Doug Smith, who lateraled the ball to Mike Streeter for the fifty yard gain.

On the next play, Streeter slashed in from the 4 yard line for the first Charlevoix touchdown. Following Bob Alger's kick for extra point, the score stood Charlevoix 7 Cheboygan 0.

After Cheboygan was unable to convert a first down, they punted to the Charlevoix Red Rayders, and the Rayder squad took over on the Cheboygan 47 yard line.

Following three Charlevoix first downs, the ball rested on the Cheboygan 9 yard line. Martin took a handoff from Alger and carried to the 1 yard line. On the next play Martin carried for a touchdown. Alger was forced to attempt the point after kick from the 8 yard line following a penalty against the Rayders on the extra point conversion. The kick split the uprights from 18 yards out, and, with 5:29 remaining in the first quarter, the Charlevoix eleven led 14-0.

Cheboygan was able to put together one first down before being forced to punt on the next series. The Chiefs' quarterback, John Cavacece, was thrown for two losses and pressured into tossing an incomplete pass by an aggressive Charlevoix defensive line.

Charlevoix was unable to advance the ball and punted to the Chiefs. Cheboygan had possession on the Rayder 35 after a fine punt return by Kelly Clark.

On the next series the leading scorer in the Michigan-Huron Shores Conference, David Cleary, showed why he heads that department. Cleary had runs of 8 yards, 9 yards, and logged the final 1½ for the Cheboygan touchdown early in the second quarter.

A running play on the point after attempt was cancelled by fine Charlevoix defensive play, and with 11:14 remaining in the first half, Charlevoix led, 14-6.

Charlevoix countered this scoring in the next series of downs. After Terry Drew ran back the Cheboygan kickoff to the Charlevoix 32 yard line; Smith advanced the ball 6 yards, Streeter moved the ball 16 yards to the Cheboygan 45 yard line, and Alger carried himself for 6 yards. This set the stage for a well executed Alger to end Dan Green touchdown pass.

Green ran a pass pattern down the right sideline and angled in toward the goal posts at about the 10 yard line. The ball and Green came together on the 6 yard line, and the fine wide receiver for the Red Rayders easily crossed the goal line for a touchdown. Alger's conversion followed the touchdown was good, and with 9:16 remaining in the first half, the score stood, Charlevoix 21, Cheboygan 6.

The remainder of the first half was spent in a defensive struggle, as neither team was able to score. High points included a recovery of Charlevoix fumble by Cleary on the Cheboygan 35 yard line, and pass interceptions by Smith and Frank Muma for the Rayders. This defensive action also featured continued heavy pressure by the Charlevoix defensive line on the Cheboygan quarterback.

The first half ended with the score, Charlevoix 21, Cheboygan 6.

Action in the end part of the second half saw continued fine defensive play by the Charlevoix Red Rayders. After Cheboygan had received the kickoff to begin the second half play, they were unable to advance the ball and punted to the Red Rayders.

Charlevoix was unable to advance the ball for the first down and Casey Culbertson came in to punt. The ball was downed on the Cheboygan 31 where the Chiefs took over.

Following four first downs, Cheboygan was kicking on the Red Rayder goal line. With the ball on the Charlevoix 5 yard line, Cleary slashed for 4 yards and the remaining one, scoring the second Cheboygan touchdown.

The point after attempt was again halted by the stiff Charlevoix defense, and with 2:06 remaining in the third quarter, the Red Rayders led 21-12.

Again, Charlevoix wasted little time in getting back on the scoreboard. Streeter returned the kickoff to the Charlevoix 29 yard line where quarterback Alger came in to guide the Rayder eleven.

The first play was a handoff to Smith around right end for a gain of 36 yards to the Cheboygan 35 yard line. This was followed by a run by Streeter to the Cheboygan 13 yard line. Alger then kept the ball himself and advanced to the 5 yard line, where Streeter carried the remaining yards for the fourth Charlevoix touchdown. With a scant 28 seconds remaining in the third quarter, Alger's attempt point after failed, and the score stood Charlevoix 27, Cheboygan 12.

There was no scoring in the fourth quarter, as both teams settled into a defensive battle.

In the first series of the quarter, the Chiefs were stopped after they had advanced the ball to the Charlevoix 13 yard line. Good defensive efforts by Del Wood, Steve Michaels, and Jim Marsh stopped the Chiefs on a fourth down try. The Rayders took over.

Even though Alger was able to convert two first downs, Culbertson still had to come in and punt from his own 35 yard line. Cleary gathered in the punt on the Cheboygan 35 and with a fine display of open field running. advanced the ball to the Charlevoix 2. A penalty against Cheboygan brought the ball back to the 50 yard line.

Again, the good defense of the Charlevoix line forced Cheboygan to attempt to gain a first down on a fourth down situation. The Rayders held, and Charlevoix took the ball on the Cheboygan 36 yard line.

With time running out, the Red Rayders advanced the ball to the Cheboygan 20 yard line. On a fourth down situation, Jay Potter came in to attempt a field goal. The kick was short and Cheboygan took over with seconds remaining in the game on their own 20 yard line.

Three plays from scrimmage ended the game, and the score stood Charlevoix 27, Cheboygan 12.

Inflation hasn't changed the price of ashes.

But it has changed the price of your home. For example, if you bought a $20,000 home in 1968—today it's worth about $27,000. Don't be left with a costly pile of ashes. See me about a State Farm Homeowners Policy that will cover your home for all it's worth ... and keep it that way with automatic Inflation Coverage.

Grayling Defeats Charlevoix Squad

The Charlevoix Junior Varsity team closed out is 1974 season Thursday with a 5-2 record after dropping the last game to Cheboygan by a score of 6-0.

Played in a downpour that had turned the field into a quagmire, the game was marked by fumbles and bad punting situations. In fact, the game was scoreless until the final three minutes of play.

Cheboygan had gained possession of the ball deep in Charlevoix territory and moved it in to the six inch line from where they finally scored with 2:19 remaining on the clock. Ben Thompson, after three tries from the six inch line, scored.

The scoring play was set up by the fumble of a Cheboygan punt deep in Rayder territory.

In commenting on the game, Coach Norm Probert said "it was a matter of getting the breaks. Up until Charlevoix fumbled and Cheboygan recovered, the game had been pretty even."

Probert named Dave Tollas, Jim Elzinga, Gary Probert, Bud Klooster and Mike Way for their fine defensive effort and Dan Boss, Tom Jones and Lee Begrow for their work on offense.

Daughter Beats Dad

The final week of the Courier Football Contest resulted in some expert prognostications by a father and daughter, with the daughter picking the tiebreaker total right on the button. Henry Supernaw, Garfield St., Charlevoix picked 37 points on the tiebreaker, but Arlene Blissett, 504 W. Hurlbut, Charlevoix, picked the 33 points (Detroit 19-New Orleans 14) to win the final Courier Football Contest of 1974.

This year has turned up a number of excellent selections and some interesting competition between father-son, father-daughter, husband and wife, brothers and sisters.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH OF CHARLEVOIX
Rev. Hugh Cowan, Minister
M-66 Hwy, Charlevoix

The First Baptist Church of Christ in Barnard was organized in October 1878. In June 1879 the church was reorganized at Charlevoix as the First Baptist Church of Charlevoix. This church receives the Bible as an all sufficient basis of doctrine and practice. The church was located for many years on State St. next to the City Building. In June 1968 construction began under the pastorate of Rev. Jack Harris and on Feb. 2, 1969 the first service was held in the new church building on M-66.

There are approximately 30 families in our membership. There is Sunday School classes for all ages at 10 a.m. Morning worship service at 11 a.m. and our evening service at 7 p.m. Mid-week prayer and bible study is held each Wednesday at 7:00 followed by choir practice at 8 p.m.

Our Women's Missionary Society of the church meets the 2nd Thursday of each month. The Ella Usher Circle meets the 3rd Monday, and Esther Circle meets the 1st Thursday. All women are cordially invited to attend.

Obituary

Leverenz

Funeral services for Mrs. Herman (Edna) Leverenz, 76, who died Saturday at Little Traverse Hospital in Petoskey where she had been a patient for nine days, will be held at the Winchester Funeral Home at 2 p.m. Tuesday. The Rev. Raymond Giffen and the Rev. Lawrence Tenhopen of Elk Rapids will officiate. Interment will be in Brookside Cemetery.

Born in Chicago Nov. 6, 1897, the former Edna Hansen was married to Mr. Leverenz in Chicago in 1922. They lived in several southwestern Michigan cities including South Haven and Holland before coming here in 1970. Mr. Leverenz preceded her in death in June 1972.

She was a member of the First Congregational Church and the Order of the Eastern Star, both of South Haven.

She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Glenn (LaRue) Kenney of Charlevoix and three grandchildren.

Can they afford the monthly payments on your home?

Suppose your wife had to do it on her own. Chances are she couldn't afford those monthly payments and preserve your estate as well. Unless, of course, you plan for it now — with our "altogether" mortgage insurance. Because it has a fixed term and covers only the amount of your mortgage, it won't cost as much as you might think. Give us a call now. You don't have to buy a new house to be eligible. You're eligible anytime. Altogether insurance — to help the family stay all together.

Kris Brady Visits Pentagon

Kris Brady

Editor's Note: Miss Newton is a 20-year-old junior at Michigan State University who is majoring in journalism. She recently learned about a Charlevoix resident's experience in Washington, D.C. and offers this story to Courier readers.

By Karen Newton

EAST LANSING--An important document is stolen from the U.S. Department of Defense.

Does it contain the location of secret missile sites or perhaps a vital formula for rocket fuel?

No, it's only a chart mapping out maneuvers for a square dance routine that got a Charlevoix resident inside the Pentagon.

Kristen Brady, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. William Brady of 731 Mercer Blvd., and a caller with the Michigan State University Promenaders Club, found getting inside the Pentagon last month isn't impossible if you can square dance.

Kris admitted that it wasn't just an ordinary barn dance.

The square dancers have a high degree of expertise, so people must be fairly competent dancers to participate.

While on vacation in Washington, D.C., with friends, it was decided to travel to Arlington, Va., to a square dance, Kris said.

She and her partner danced with a group that had reserved the Pentagon for the evening.

"This isn't as unusual as it seems," she said.

"There are many high-level square dancing clubs on the East Coast who call and reserve the ballroom at the Pentagon."

Kris became interested in square dancing her freshman year at MSU and decided to join the Promenaders Club there.

She is now membership chairman and participates on the demonstration team which travels to areas around MSU to give square dancing exhibition.

"It's a far cry from junior high school gym days when everyone shyly hung back when told to find a partner to square dance with," Kris said.

"Some of the patterns used in square dancing are quite intricate so skill and practice are necessary to perfect them."

An MSU senior majoring in organizational communications, Kris hopes to become a business consultant after graduation. She is a member of Delta Delta Delta sorority and the Public Relations Club.

Starts This Week

Senior Citizens Can Get Meals

Senior citizens in the Charlevoix area this week began receiving nutritionally balanced meals under a program operated through the county Commission on Aging.

The program calls for serving 37 meals each Monday and Thursday in the Charlevoix High School cafeteria, beginning at 1:30. All persons 60 years of age and older, as well as younger spouses of persons in that age bracket, are eligible to participate in the program.

There is no set price for the meals but participants are asked for a free will donation in whatever amount they can afford, none if that is the circumstance.

Those eating lunch are asked to arrive at the cafeteria between 1:30 and 1:45 so that the food will not have to be kept warm for too long a period. They are welcome to stay longer than meal time for social activities.

Arthur Saworski of Boyne Falls, a member of the Charlevoix County Commission on Aging who was instrumental in setting up the program, says he is indebted to school superintendent James McKimmy and school business manager Robert Bogart for their cooperation in making arrangements for the meals.

The meal program is funded under the Older Americans Act and is being launched in Boyne City and East Jordan as well as in Charlevoix.

New Pastor Arrives

Rev. Hugh A. Cowan has accepted the pastorate of First Baptist Church of Charlevoix beginning Nov. 10.

Pastor Cowan comes from a ministerial family; his father was a Presbyterian minister; brother George is Director of the Wycliffe Bible Translators with head offices in Santa Ana, Calif; a sister, Marion is a missionary-nurse working with Wycliffe in Mexico.

Rev. Cowans has served pastorates in Minnesota and Canada, where he received his training at the University of Manitoba and the Winnipeg Bible College, Winnipeg, Manitoba.

He studied New Testament Theology at Central Baptist Seminary, Kansas City, Kansas.

For the last twenty years Rev. Cowan has served pastorates in Minnesota, and come to Charlevoix from the First Baptist Church, Battle Lake, Minnesota.

Dawn McKenzie And Peter Oswald Exchange Wedding Vows Recently

St. Mary's Church was the scene recently of the wedding of Dawn McKenzie and Perry Max Oswald.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Louis McKenzie and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Goss.

The Rev. R. Dale Magoon was the celebrant of the Nuptial Mass during which he officiated at the double ring service in the presence of more than 300 guests.

Arrangements of garden flowers in autumn shades graced the altar and Navy and white velvet bows and sprigs of baby's breath marked the pews. Mrs. Maurice Cudd sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "Ave Maria", accompanied at the organ by Mrs. Brendan LaBlunce who also played the traditional wedding marches. Heidi Dove, accompanying herself on the guitar, sang "Time In n Bottle".

The bride selected a Sally Wallace gown of debut fabric with venice lace trim for her wedding. Fashioned with a ring neckline, high rise waist and bishop sleeves accented with venise lace, the gown had a full skirt with a flounce at the hem and a chapel length train.

Her elbow length veil of imported illusion was secured with a Juiet cap of venise lace and seedpearls. She carried a colonial bouquet of white and blue dried flowers and baby's breath accented with red. The bride was escorted to the altar by her father.

Wearing gowns styled with lace and light blue halter bodices and skirts and jacket of navy velvet were Mrs. Bruce Meggison as maid of honor ond Terri Phelps and Dona Bellows as bridesmaids.

Tricia Wabanimkee, cousin of the bride as flower girl, wore a navy velvet gown trimmed with lace and carried a basket of dried flowers. David McKenzie, brother of the bride, was ringbearer.

Larry Anderson of Detroit assisted the bridegroom as best man. Carl Kaike of New York and Daniel Swanson were groomsmen. Brothers of the couple, Dan McKenzie and Brian Goss, seated the guests.

Mrs. McKenzie chose a floor length princess style pink lace gown with sheer sleeves for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Goss, mother of the bridegroom, wore a floor length gown styled with a bone lace bodice and an apricot sheer nylon skirt. Their corsages were of matching autumn flowers.

MR. AND MRS. John Best of Ellsworth announce the engagement of their daughter, Daria Rae, to Dale Shooks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Shooks of Central Lake. Miss Best works at First State Bank of Charlevoix and Shooks works on the family farm. They plan on a spring wedding.

LoAnn Brown Named Chairman Of Bank Group

The National Association of Bank Women (NABW), met October 23, at the Chalet Inn, to form a new Northern Michigan Chapter.

The NABW originally had just one chapter covering all of Michigan. The new Northern Michigan Chapter of NABW will cover an area from Cadillac north, including the Upper Peninsula.

LoAnn Brown, Assistant Cashier of the Charlevoix County State BAnk was elected Chairman of the new group. Charlene Rich, auditor of Traverse City State Bank was elected Vice-Chairman; Ingma Pontious, auditor of Charlevoix County State Bank will be Treasurer.

All were elected to one-year terms.

NABW is the only professional society for women bank executives, and has been in existence for 50 years.

The Northern Michigan Chapter of NABW will hold its next meeting in Traverse City on December 11, at which time Margorie Cremeil, Lake Region Regional Vice-President, will hold the formal installation of officers.

Evangelist Comes Thursday

Evangelistic services will be held at the Charlevoix Church of the Nazarene Thursday, November 7 through Sunday, November 10.

Rev. Erwin Self of Muskegon First Church of the Nazarene will be the evangelist, with Mrs. Self assisting with special music.

Rev. Self was ordained in 1958 and has served several churches in Michigan successfully.

He has supervised the building of a few churches and parsonages.

He is an active member of district boards.

Mrs. Self is a member of the counsel of the missionary society of the Michigan district, and directs many activities and projects of the district.

Rev. Self has an outstanding ability to communicate with both young and old, as he is a guidance counselor.

The pastor, Rev. Alan Mettler, invites the people of the community to hear the Biblical messages of Rev. Self and to enjoy the singing.

Services will be held each night at 7:30 p.m. and at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Sunday.

COMMON COUNCIL

RESOLUTION DECLARING FOR CHARTER REVISION

RESOLVED, That the city council of the CITY OF CHARLEVOIX hereby declares for a revision of the CHARTER of the city, as provided and permitted by Public Act No. 279 of the Public Acts of 1909, State of Michigan, as amended.

FURTHER RESOLVED, that the question of having a general charter revision shall be submitted to the electors of the city for adoption or rejection at a special election, to be held concurrently with the primary election to be held on the 17th day of February, 1975.

FURTHER RESOLVED, That at such election there shall be elected from the city at large a charter commission consisting of nine electors of the city who are not officers or employees of the city, the selection of such charter commission to be void if the proposition to revise is not adopted. The candidates for such charter commission shall be nominated and elected in the manner prescribed by the city for the nomination and election of members of the city council, except that the nomination and election of said charter commissioners shall be from the city at large. The candidates for such charter commission shall be nominated by petition without reference to, or designation of, party affiliation, signed by a number of qualified electors of the city equal to not less than two per centum and not more than four percentum of the total vote cast for mayor at the last preceding election.

FURTHER RESOLVED, That the City Clerk shall give notice of the last day for registration and of the election in the manner provided by law and said question on revision of the charter of the city shall be submitted to the electors in the following form.

"Shall there be a general revision of the charter of the City of Charlevoix"?

For the charter revision YES
For the charter revision NO

FURTHER RESOLVED, That the last day and hour for receiving nomination petitions for candidates for the office of charter commissioners shall be 4:00 p.m. on the 30th day of December, 1974.

COUNCIL MINUTES OCTOBER 21, 1974
8:00 p.m.

The Common Council of the City of Charlevoix met on the above date and time with Mayor Hansen presiding. Present: Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen Wood, McRae, Plumm, and Selph. Absent: Alderman Timms.

The minutes of the October 7, 1974 Regular Meeting and the Board of Appeals Meeting of the same date were approved as presented in writing and as recorded in the council Minutes Book.

Council recessed to the Board of Appeals.

Council reconvened, roll call was taken with the following present: Alderman Timms, Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen, Wood, McRae, Plumm, Selph. Absent: None.

Alderman McRae asked to discuss the memorandum to City Council as prepared by the City Attorney.

Mayor Hansen asked Attorney Berlage to read his memorandum to the Council, offering alternative proposals for the City. Discussion followed regarding the memorandum.

Mr. Schroeder, Chairman of the Charter Study Committee, told of some of the Committee's findings why they felt the City should consider changing their Charter from Fourth Class to Home Rule.

Alderman McRae spoke at length about the Fourth Class City Charter in comparison to the Home Rule Charter and finalized his comments saying, "Charlevoix is a good city-but it could be better. We should have better tools to run it. Council is not making any decision tonight but they are permitting the voters of Charlevoix the right to make their own decision four months from now. Under present law no new city could adopt a Fourth Class Charter. It has been completely outlawed."

Alderman McRae offered a Resolution and moved its adoption, supported by Alderwoman Wallace Declaring For Charter Revision.

The Resolution was approved by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen Wood, McRae, Plumm, Selph. Nays: Alderman Timms. Absent: None.

Mayor Hansen thanked the Charter Study Committee for their time and study of the Fourth Class and Home Rule Charters.

Bids were referred to the Finance Committee for tabulation and recommendation. The Acting Administrator was instructed to tabulate the bids for the committee meeting to be held Monday October 28, 1974 at 8:00 p.m., and to ask the bidders to be present at the meeting.

It was decided to hold a Special Council Meeting to award the bid Monday October 28, 1974 at 8:30 p.m.

Attorney Berlage read a letter from Peter D. Kleinpell expressing the desire of his wife & himself to give in appreciation in a tangible, enduring way for the benefit of all of those who now, and all those who will enjoy "Charlevoix the Beautiful" the following described real property in the Township of Charlevoix adjacent to the public park known as the Mt. McSauba Park.

In Township of Charlevoix, Charlevoix County, Michigan, Beginning at a concrete monument on the North and South quarter line of Section 23, Town 34 North, Range 8 West, 200 feet North of the North eighth line of said section; thence West 399 feet, more or less, to the shore of Lake Michigan; thence Northeasterly along the shore of said Lake to the North line of Section 23; thence East along the North line of said section 1554.7 feet, more or less, to the centerline of the Mount McSauba Road; thence Southwesterly along the centerline of said road to a point 831 feet South of the North line of said Section 23; thence West parallel with the North line of said section to the North and South quarter line of said section; thence south on said quarter line to the place of [illegible] being a part of Government Lot 1 and a part of the North half of the Northeast Quarter of Section 23, Town 34 North, Range 8 West.

Mr. R. Stebbins of the Little Traverse Conservancy was present and strongly urged the City of Charlevoix to accept the gift and asked that restrictions be placed on motorized vehicles on the property.

Motion was made by Alderman Selph and supported by Alderwoman Wallace that the City gratefully accept the gift of certain land as offered in Mr. Kleinpell's letter of October 18, 1974. The motion was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Alderman Timms, Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen Wood, McRae, Plumm, Selph. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Council discussed briefly radio equipment for the Police and Fire Departments. The Acting Administrator was requested to get quotations ready for the committee meeting on Monday, October 28, 1974.

Council discussed present procedures to be used in applying for a variance on property. It was decided that the procedure presently used is acceptable.

Council discussed re-zoning the Depot Beach and the C & O Railroad property from Agricultural to Scenic Reserve or Residential. It was decided to wait for a reply to Attorney Berlage's letter to the C & O Railroad and the possibility of the properties being included in a new zoning plan.

Alderman McRae asked Mayor Hansen to appoint three citizens to the Senior Citizen Housing Study Committee from names previously handed to the Mayor. Mayor Hansen appointed the following: Stanley Hammond, Robert Cook, and Ralph Shapton to the Committee.

Alderman Plumm inquired what is being done in regard to getting another ambulance vehicle. The Fire and Ambulance Committee was asked to meet Wednesday October 30, 1974 and to invite Chief Mol to attend the meeting.

Alderman Timms offered the following Resolution and moved its adoption, supported by Alderman McRae. RESOLVED, that the City of Charlevoix award the contract to the Lake Construction Company, their bid being the lowest bid of $39,100, for the construction of a revetment in Round Lake located northerly from Clinton Street according to Northern Design and Construction Engineers' Project No. 74-08. The Resolution was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Alderman Timms, Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen Wood, McRae, Plumm, and Selph. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Question was raised if the old ladder truck will be sold or put to use by the City. The Acting Administrator was instructed to report back to Council on the matter.

Alderwoman Wallace asked if a letter had been written to the school advising the change of location of the ice rink to the Middle School.

The matter of snow removal and off-street parking during winter months was put into Street Committee for study.

Alderwoman Wallace offered the following Resolution and moved its adoption, supported by Alderman Timms. RESOLVED, that the Charlevoix City Council wishes to go on record as recommending to the Michigan Department of State Highways & Transportation that they use the money planned for constructing freeways in Northern Michigan (Region 10) to revitalize Northern Michigan railroads instead of building new highways. The Resolution was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Alderman Timms, Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen Wood, McRae, and Plumm. Nays: Alderman Selph. Absent: None.

The Finance Committee having examined bills totaling $109,101.53 find them correct and recommend that the bills be allowed. Moved by Alderman Plumm and supported by Alderman Timms that the bills be allowed and orders drawn for their amounts. The motion was approved by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Alderman Timms, Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen Wood, McRae, Plumm, and Selph. Nays: None. Absent: None.

The meeting adjourned.

Ida A. Heise, City Clerk

BOARD OF APPEALS OCTOBER 21, 1974
8:10 p.m.

The Board of Appeals of the City of Charlevoix met on the above date and time with Mayor Hansen presiding. Present: Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen Wood, McRae, Plumm, and Selph. Absent: Alderman Timms.

Discussion following regarding the request of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Russell for a variance to construct an addition to the existing northern-most motel unit for living quarters and an office as presented in the application for a building permit No. 192 at 1526 South Bridge Street.

Enter Alderman Timms.

The recommendation, incorporated in a letter dated October 17, 1974 from the Charlevoix Regional Planning Commission was read, that the request for the variance be denied on the Russell property, as there is adequate room to expand elsewhere, without undo hardship.

Motion was made by Alderman McRae and supported by Alderman Timms that the Board finds on the basis of the information submitted that the case of practical difficulty has not been established for the reason that the proposed addition could just as easily be located to the West in front of the unit as opposed to the rear; and by so locating in the front there wouldn't be any invasion into the set-back requirement, and therefore the variance be denied.

The motion was denied by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Alderman Timms, Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen Wood, McRae, Plumm, and Selph. Nays: None. Absent: None.

The Board of Appeals adjourned.

Ida A. Heise, City Clerk

COUNCIL MINUTES (SPECIAL) OCTOBER 28, 1974
8:30 p

The Common Council met on the above date and time for a Special Meeting with Mayor Hansen presiding. Aldermen present: Selph, Timms, Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen Wood, McRae, and Plumm. Absent: None.

Motion was made by Alderman Plumm and supported by Alderwoman Wallace that the Council dispense with the reading of the October 21, 1974 minutes. Motion adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Aldermen Selph, Timms, Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen Wood, McRae, and Plumm. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Alderwoman Wallace offered the following Resolution and moved its adoption, supported by Alderman McRae. RESOLVED that the Common Council of the City of Charlevoix award the bid for insurance covering Fleet, Comprehensive, General, and Workmen's Compensation and Umbrella to the Charlevoix Agency, they having submitted the lowest bid of $11,233. The Resolution was adopted by the following yea and nay vote. Yeas: Aldermen Selph, Timms, Alderwoman Wallace, Aldermen Wood, McRae, and Plumm. Nays: None. Absent: None.

Council adjourned.

Clip and Bring to Nov. 22 Meeting

The City of Charlevoix, recognizing that the welfare and general well being of Charlevoix area citizens is paramount, after careful consideration, have arrived at the following opinions and conclusions

1. That merger of the City with Charlevoix Township is not only highly desirable but of extreme importance for both residents in the City and Township.

2 That the question of merger should be considered now not only for the reason that the time is opportune, but also for the reason that the additional passage of time will substantially decrease the possibility of merger, if not forever prevent it.

The reasons merger should be considered at the present time are as follows:

(a) The present sentiment and support for a proposed "Charter Revision" should be capable of permitting participation by Charlevoix Township.

(b) By contrast, since Charlevoix presently is a 4th Class City, the matter would be handled locally and expeditiously by petition to the County Board of Commissioners. Adoption of a Home Rule Charter prior to merger would result in any future efforts, to join all or parts of the Township to the City, controlled by the State Boundary Commission, a controversial state agency bogged down with multiple lawsuits and with a 2 to 3 year delay in annexation and consolidation proceedings.

(c) It is believed that substantial sewer line construction will occur shortly throughout the Township as a result of Township Board policy to supply municipal services and recent application for a federal grant to construct sewers.

(d) The City will be requested to service Township sewers by permitting connection to the City sewer system for treatment and disposal and further requested to extend City water service to Township areas.

(e) In the event the City voluntarily furnishes such services no incentive will then exist for the Township to merge with the City.

(f) In the event the City elects to supply such services only upon the condition that the particular "serviced" Township area or areas join the City, then it is expected that a series of separate, controversial, expensive, devisive and time consuming "piece meal" annexation actions will occur.

3. That the merger as a concept includes and contemplates an informed electorate making a free choice as to the desirability of merger and also the opportunity to equal representation through the proposed resignation of all present City officials and special election to elect new officials.

4. That the advantages of merger or combined government for the Charlevoix area are as follows:

(a.) substantial economic efficiencies and cost reductions in providing municipal services due to increased volume of demand and non-duplication of services.

(b) recognition of the fact that Charlevoix area wide progress, development and well-being of the area citizens transcends old governmental barriers.

(c) The burden of the cost of necessary and desirable municipal services will be spread more equitably and will become available to entire Township.

(d) without merger the tax base of the City of Charlevoix will become relatively fixed as a result city millage rates and the per capita cost of rendering municipal services may substantially increase.

(e) the township, because of its unique geographical division into two parts, if not now, at least in the future, would have difficulty operating efficiently and serving adequately all township residents.

(f) the inevitable future growth of the area should and must be directed under a single uniform plan of growth and development established under a common zoning ordinance.

(g) the township, in addition to other urban type services, presently needs the service of the City of Charlevoix tertiary sewage treatment plant facilities to serve certain township area proposed to be serviced by sewer.

(h) the ability of the Township Board to tax is limited to one mill allocated except by vote of the people. Therefore the ability of the Township to establish a planned long term budget is severely limited.

5. That the present system of governments, both in the City and Township, may not be adequate to meet the challenge of modern times and that therefore the area citizenry should have the opportunity to decide whether to change the present form of government by voting on a proposed "Home Rule" charter.

6. That certain mistrusts, suspicions, rivalries that may have existed in the past, or have been alleged to so exist, between the City and Township would be dispelled, eliminated and subordinated to the common good, interest and well-being of the Charlevoix area citizens.

7. That the City Council of Charlevoix, being aware of possible past problems, and being determined to dispel any doubts whatsoever, has decided to take strong and positive measures to show the ultimate in good faith fairness by reason of proposed resignations of present City officials and equal participation in the merger proceedings by Charlevoix Township.

8. That the merger legal process and opportunity for a change of the form of government under the "Home Rule" authority shall be initiated herein, and all possible steps and measures shall be taken by this council to inform the Charlevoix area citizenry, and to create a sense of urgency, and to help implement the formation of a new city and a new government.

9 That the issue of "Home Rule" charter and the election of nine charter commissioners on an at large basis be scheduled for election and vote of the people at such time to permit all electors to the merged government unit to vote thereon.

10 That a procedure be established to permit the special election of new representatives of the merged governmental unit immediately following said merger.

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED

1 That the City of Charlevoix does hereby petition the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners to hear and approve the alteration of the city boundaries by including within the corporate limits all of the territory of the Township of Charlevoix and to call special election on the issue in Charlevoix Township.

2 That this resolution and petition be presented to the Board of Commissioners for action thereon only following the passage of a similar resolution of tentative approval and endorsement by the Township Board of the Township of Charlevoix and following

(a) review of reports and recommendations of joint city township boards, commissions and ad hoc committees as established herein, and

(b) final adoption of said reports and recommendations, in whole or in part, or in modified form, or by rejection of the same, by a majority vote of both the Charlevoix City Council and the Charlevoix Township Board.

3. That within 120 days following a favorable vote by electors of Charlevoix Township to merge its territory with the City of Charlevoix, a special election shall be held to elect a major and six aldermen for the City of Charlevoix and also within said 120 days regardless of results of outcome of vote by Charlevoix Township residents to submit to the electorate a large for vote the issue of whether the present 4th Class city charter shall be revised by the adoption of a home rule charter and also for the at large election of nine members of a charter commission.

4. That consistent with City Council's desire to fully inform and encourage wide spread public participation in these vital proposed governmental changes, the following existing boards, agencies, and commissioners, together with their members, and the following ad hoc committees hereby established with members to be appointed are requested and directed to join and meet with additional members or established township counter parts, on an equal numerical basis, specially appointed and or similarly directed by the Charlevoix Township Board, to study, research, discuss, prepare budget estimates and make reports and recommendations on a regular basis, in writing, in form suitable for publication, within 120 days, as to matters in the area of particular concern and involved in the merger, proposed new charter process and extension of municipal services to the Charlevoix Township area

Obituary

Mrs. Withers Local Resident

Funeral services for Mrs. Bruce W. (Dorothy E.) Withers, 53, who died Thursday at Little Traverse Hospital where she had been a patient for a week, were held Sunday at the Winchester Funeral Home. The Rev. Warren Burgess of the Faith Reformed church of Traverse City officiated. Interment was in Brookside cemetery.

Born in Greenville Aug. 12, 1921, the former Dorothy E. Kortes was married to Mr. Withers at Plainwell in December 1941. They lived there until moving to Traverse City where he taught in the school system there from 1964 until his death in May 1972. They had built the A&W restaurant here in 1959. Following his death, she moved here to make her home and continued to be associated with the business. They had owned a summer home at Pine Point for many years.

She was a member of the Community Reformed church and the Brucie Chapter of the Leukemia Foundation.

She is survived by three sons, James B. and Robert H. of Charlevoix and Jon F. of Traverse City; four grandchildren; her mother, Mrs. Harold Kortes and a brother, Stacey Kortes both of Plainwell.

The family suggests that anyone wishing to honor her memory contribute in Mrs. Withers' name to the Community Reformed church the Brucie Chapter of the Leukemia foundation at Boyne City or the charity of their choice.

Cattle

Many believe there are still many undetected cases of P.B.B. contamination in the area. One that has been publicized is that of Norwood Township dairy farmer Doug Warner, who has lost a large number of cattle by this chemical poisoning.

Alvin and Hazel Grace own 200 acres of property on which they grow hay, corn and oats to feed their cattle. They came north from Detroit, where Alvin was a tool and die maker and Hazel a secretary for Ford Motors, 17 years ago.

When asked if he would continue raising beef cattle after his P.B.B. experience, Grace said, "I can't really quit the business. What else would I do? I don't want to retire."

Senate Race

In the 37th State Senatorial race, incumbent Robert Davis won a neck and neck race over St. Ignace's Prentis Brown, III. With 92 percent of the ballots counted early this morning, Davis had 38,103 next to Brown's 36,586.

Davis, 42, will be in his second term of office after being elected senate majority in his last term.

In the 103rd State House race, incumbent Ralph Ostling came out the winner over James Miller polling 59 percent of the vote.

Ostling received 17,270 votes next to Miller's 11,871.

The former Roscummon school teacher will be entering his second term of office after defeating Richard Friske of Charlevoix two years ago and again in this year's primary.

In the 106 State Representative District, Don Stevens beat Fay Lee of Onaway with 51 percent of the vote.

Stevens received 12,740, while Lee tallied 12,357.

Grocery Prices--Who's Winning?

By SARA GAY DAMMANN

The sugar on the grocer's shelf has clearly had its price changed three times, price stickers are layered on top of each other.

Are grocers reaping "windfall profits" or utilizing a legitimate business procedure for coping with inflation?

In an effort to answer that question and to find out what area grocers think about the problem, which has become a subject of national debate. a survey was conducted.

The principle stores in Boyne City and Charlevoix responded to these questions, with the exception of A & P which was unavailable for comment, and the manager of one store who had no comment.

$50 Higher

Arlene Staley, co-owner with her husband, of their family grocery in Charlevoix, reached back behind the freezer.

"Here's this month's utility bill. It is more than $50 higher than the same month last year. That's inflation, too."

She continued, pointing out that shelf prices aren't rising as fast as her overhead, such as utilities..

"We raise the price on goods on the shelf when we add new higher priced goods. When the price comes down we lower all prices, too.

Replace Goods

"But, we have to replace new goods on the basis of sales of present goods. For instance, tuna fish–it went way up. The new case wholesale cost as much as the old retail price. It went from about $21 to $27 in less than a month. Rice did the same thing last summer, in a month, it went from about 25 cents to 69 cents a pound."

Mrs. Staley's comments are in the same vein as those of Dick Edwards, of Edwards IGA, and Robert Neff, of The Market.

The only area store which has an announced policy of not changing shelf prices as new higher priced items come in, is the B & C Chain.

No Changes

In a policy statement sent to all his stores, William Lee, President of the B & C Corporation wrote: "Effective Monday, August, 5, packaged groceries which are already price marked on our shelves, except in the case of weekly specials or price decreases, shall not have their prices changed."

As a result the B & C shelves frequently have the same item at different prices. Store policy, which was observed at the Boyne City store, is to place the new high priced items on the back of the shelf, moving the older lower priced item to the front.

Lee also said that if a customer finds an item with more than one price mark he will pay the lower price.

Asked why the B & C decided to change its policy, Lee responded: "Because of large amounts of price changes our merchandise was beginning to look terrible; and because we think it will build more confidence between our store and our customers."

B & C Policy

He added, that some stores have tried this policy and eventually returned to the old policy of changing shelf prices, but Lee thought B & C would be able to maintain the present policy.

"We want a legitimate profit. We do not want profits that are not legitimately ours," he said in conclusion.

The proprietors of other area stores responded, that while it might be possible for a chain with a large inventory to maintain such a policy, it was simply impossible for the smaller stores.

Windfall Profits

Dick Edwards said, "It's not fair to call it 'windfall profits', changing shelf prices. My profits are not increasing at the same rate as inflating prices. Other expenses eat our profits: wages, utilities, and particularly paper products–shopping bags, butcher wrap–costs are up.

"If I hadn't been putting prices up, I'd be in real trouble."

Robert Neff added, "When we have a price change, we have to take it. We're not trying to gouge the customer, all we are trying to do is to keep a stabilized price and we're trying not to go under.

"We'd make a heck of a lot more if the price was cheaper," Neff said with a shrug.

Shelf Prices

Edwards, Neff and Staleys all emphasized that when prices go down on an item, shelf prices are changed on old goods, and in that case the store owner takes a loss.

It was pointed out that like everything else, the price direction is generally up.

Neff agreed, "Ninety per cent of goods that come in have a price rise."

Edwards, who receives a weekly list of price changes from the IGA Cooperative reports, "I get five pages of price raises and maybe a quarter of a page of decreases."

No Luck

As he discussed the problem, Edwards commented, "This has always been an advocated procedure, if you don't take the price rise when they go up, if they go down you'll be out of luck.

"But," he added, "change is quite possible. If we can't foresee a time in the immediate future when prices are going down, I may decide to change my policy."

Edwards explained, prior to this period of a constantly rising rute of inflation, price hikes and decreases were more in balance, so that raising shelf prices compensated for losses incurred when prices came down.

All three small store owners expressed some cynicism about stores not making the shelf price changes, either questioning if the policy change was as straightforward and simple as appeared, or wondering when and how they made up the difference.

Competitive Prices

Lee of B&C said he can't make up the difference in

THERE STILL seems to be some question as to whether or not the community colleges in Southeastern Michigan are still interested in Beaver Island's south end lighthouse.

It's Lonely

Wanted :Lighthouse Owner

ST. JAMES–It's lonely being a lighthouse, especially when you're not sure if anyone wants you.

Right now, someplace, somewhere in the multitudes of federal bureaucratic red tape is a request for ownership of Beaver Island's south end lighthouse.

But, no one is quite sure whose desk it is resting on.

The lighthouse has been up for grabs for nearly a year and still the question of ownership has not been resolved since it was declared surplus.

Originally, there were six contenders out for the 61-acre site that includes five small buildings.

But for one reason or another, a hospital and several educational groups pulled out of the running.

Now, according to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare's Surplus Property and Utilization Division, only a consortium of 13 community colleges are still vying for the property.

But even the consortium leadership has changed from Jackson Community College to Macomb Community College.

A Jackson Community College spokesman said they decided to pull out and lend only its financial support after hearing that perhaps the Department of Natural Resources might have some interest.

However, the DNR says they'll only step if no one else wants the property to insure it would be preserved.

The lighthouse that stands on a bluff at the south end of the Island and that was until recently equipped with a powerful twin fog-horn, was erected in 1851 and rebuilt in 1891.

It was the guardian of the channel between Beaver Island and North Fox Island, according to a former keeper of the light.

Now, the lighthouse is still waiting to see who will be its guardian.

DNR Calls Second Hearing For Fisherman's Island

Further plans for development of Fisherman's Island State Park will be discussed at a public hearing on December 10, at 7:30 in the Charlevoix County Courtroom.

O. J. Scherschlight, Chief of the Parks Division of the Department of Natural Resources, will explain site development plans that have been created in response to last month's public hearing on the park.

Jim Hane of the Parks Division, who attended the earlier meeting, will also be on hand.

All interested persons are invited to attend the meeting and comment upon the plans.

"We are planning parks for people, so we like to have people involved in the planning. While we are undertaking the early stages of plan development, it is most helpful if area residents offer their assistance and advice," Hane said.

The D.N.R. is working with the Charlevoix County Planning Commission in keeping the public informed of the park's progress.

Charlevoix Township Cool on Merging with Charlevoix

Charlevoix Township residents gave a cold shoulder Monday night to any move towards merging with the City of Charlevoix.

If straw votes are any indication, the 17 residents attending last night's township board meeting were entirely against it.

The informal poll came after several residents expressed their unhappiness about such a move.

Next week both Charlevoix Township and City residents will meet on Wednesday, Nov. 20, at 7:30 p.m. at Charlevoix High School to discuss the move.

Homer Brady, who suggested the city pay for the township election on the merger question if they want it so bad, suggested the township consider breaking off any relationship they have with the city.

Trustee James Fiedler said people have been assuming too much.

"The only thing we know is that there is a meeting planned on November 20," he said.

"I feel this meeting on the 20th will answer all the questions."

Township Supervisor Oscar Stroud said he had been asked earlier by City Attorney Don Berlage what the possibilities of a merger were and Stroud said he told the attorney they were slim.

Stroud said that while he supported the move five years ago, he was not taking a stand this time and leaving it up to the people. Treasurer Rose Bergmann said when both she and Clerk Virginia Cunningham were asked they didn't indicate they were necessarily interested, but did want to know what the city was offering.

She said the township board became a little more familiar with the proposal at a recent dinner meeting with Charlevoix City Council.

Stroud emphasized that it is strictly up to every individual and that he's not going to lift a finger to change the present situation.

"I think this board has given you a good strong township government," he said.

Stroud said he won't mind stepping down, but it is going to have to a decision made by the people.

Homer Brady said the meeting will be at a bad time because of deer hunting season.

"If we were to merge we would go downhill," he said.

Another Charlevoix Township resident said she lived in large cities all of her life and now enjoyed township government.

"The best way to be heard is township government," she said.

Twin Valley Demerger Petition Started

By Tom Dammann

BOYNE CITY–Residents of this city and neighboring East Jordan began a last ditch campaign Monday to demerge the Twin Valley School District (TV) formed in 1968 when voters of both communities voted to unite their respective school districts.

A "right to vote" petition is being circulated to gather signatures supporting special legislation by the state legislature empowering the district to vote on a recall of the 1968 election.

Two bills specifying such action are pending before the education committees in both the Senate and State House of Representatives.

They must be passed before the conclusion of the present term of the legislature or face death.

The bills were initiated Senator Robert Davies (R-Gaylord) and Rep. Ralph Ostling (R-Roscommon) after Attorney General Frank Kelley ruled that the State Board of Education cannot conduct an election to "recall" or "rescind" the 1968 election.

Last September the TV board acting under pressure of a group demanding demerger, appealed to the Char-Em Intermediate School District to conduct such an election.

Char-Em, in turn forwarded the appeal to the State Board, which following Kelley's ruling, advised that such an election could be held only under legislation specifically permiting it.

Ever since the 1968 merger, the TV Board and its administration have been plagued by disagreements between parents in the two communities which have jeopardized the passage of millage proposals and prevented the approval and execution of building plans.

To alleviate overcrowded conditions in the high school, the TV Board inaugurated a split-shift for high school students this fall, which further aggravated the controversy.

"This is our last chance to get back to the old system which worked so well," said Mrs. Betty Johnechek, Boyne City spokesman for the group.

"We hope to impress the Legisluture with a number of Schools Consider Tax Billing Switch

By FRAN MARTIN

Charlevoix School District is again exploring the possibility of collecting a part of the school tax with the summer tax instead of billing the taxpayers in December Supt. James S. McKimmy told the Charlevoix Board of Education Monday night.

The school now depends almost entirely on local property taxes for its revenue, McKimmy said.

In order to finance the operation of the schools from June 30 until Dec. 31, he said it is necessary to borrow money which this year will cost the school $25,978 in interest in order to meet the school district's financial obligations.

It would also allow the district to invest the money until it is needed and thus bring in a certain income.

If 50 percent of the estimated taxes could be collected when summer taxes are collected in July, it would permit the district to realize in income from investment equal to approximately .40 to .60 of a mill in interest, McKimmy explained.

He said he had appointments to meet with the city and all township boards in the Charlevoix school district to discuss this proposal and after the meetings would report to the board.

McKimmy also reported that Charlevoix School District, as a member of the Char-Em Intermediate District, had been asked to participate in the program for which the Intermediate district had received a grant of $15,000. He said a new concept of career education was being explored and, that it would take a great deal of time and teacher participation under the guidance of the Professional Studies Committee.

The report on the study must be ready by September 1975.

Warner Loses 200 Cattle

Almost 200 head of dairy cattle were taken from the Doug Warner farm in Norwood Township Tuesday for destruction and burial by the Michigan Farm Bureau.

They were contaminated with poly-brominated biphenyl, a toxic chemical mistakingly mixed with their feed, purchased from the Farm Bureau.

Previously, the Warners had lost over 60 animals because of the contamination.

They have been waiting since August for a final decision from the Department of Agriculture on what to do with the remaining cattle.

The Department of Agriculture originally set the contamination danger point at one part in a million. Since then it has been lowered to three parts in a million. The latest tests on the Warner herd showed a contamination rate of over four parts in a million.

The Warners are waiting until they receive an insurance settlement from Michigan Farm Bureau before making any future plans about replacing the herd. They say they have had to "pound on a lot of doors" to get any action at all on their problem. Recently veterinarians from the United States Department of Agriculture and Michigan State University visited the farm to inspect the cattle.

Michigan Tourists Spent Most For Gas

Michigan tourists pay the largest part of their vacation dollar, 38.4 per cent, for gasoline and oil.

This fact is revealed in a study made by the Michigan State Chamber of Commerce.

The next largest percentage is paid for food, 21 per cent, followed by lodging, 17.8 per cent, retail purchases, 17.1 per cent, and entertainment, 5.9.

Robert Trumble Starts Position

By PEG OHLE

Anyone desiring to construct a building costing more than $200 in Charlevoix County outside of the City of Charlevoix and Charlevoix Township must now secure a building permit from the county construction code administrator.

Robert E. Trumble of East Jordan has been appointed to that post by the Charlevoix County Board to Commissioners to administer the State Construction Code which went into effect November 6.

ROBERT TRUMBLE

Tumble is a licensed builder and electrician, a former partner in the Trumble Construction Company of Boyne City, which he sold out in 1972.

He has had over 24 years' experience in general construction -- residential, commercial and industrial, has worked as an electrician and has managed a small manufacturing plant.

Although administration of the code will be Trumble's main job, for the time-being he will also make structural inspections of new buildings. These are the only inspections required at this time. Plumbing and electrical inspections are scheduled for adoption next year.

Cost of permits will range from $10 for construction costing $1,000 or less and go up as the costs of buildings go up. A permit for a $20,000 building will cost $74 and for a $50,000 building, $151.50.

It is hoped that the construction code department will pay for itself from permit fees. Trumbie's salary will be $10,500 a year.

Trumble views his job as a real challenge, as all new ventures are.

His offices are located in the lower level of the Courthouse Annex and will be open during regular business hours.

Trumble and his wife Phyllis came to Charlevoix County in 1951 from Warren. They live in Eveline Township, on the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix. Their three married children all live in Charlevoix County.

The City of Charlevoix and Charlevoix Township will have their own separate building code administrator and fee schedule.

South Arm Clerk Plans Retirement

Lawrence Addis, South Arm Township Clerk, will be honored with an open house Sunday, November 24, from 2 to 5 o'clock in the community building at Whiting Park.

Addis is retiring after serving the township for 44 years, and his friends are inviting all who have known him and done business with him through the years to stop in, shake his hand, and wish him well.

Property Owners Should Check With 'Clean Dean' Mikulski

By TOM DAMMANN

"That would be a nice place to build a house."

Archie Murphy smiled, pointed out to a gentle knoll.

His looks, far younger than his 73 years, Archie stood, contented, eyes feasting on the long South Arm of Lake Charlevoix, out behind the knoll. Dark shadows skittered across the water, trying to blot out ripples glistening in the sun.

"But I was forgetting the sanitation."

The suspenders over his shoulders lifting neat, fading blue overalls, Archie was a Grant Wood portrait for an Oshkosh-By-Gosh advertisement.

East Jordaa

Untidily, the hamlet of East Jordan, with its ancient Iron Works, sprawled at the mouth of the Jordan River, where a pair of mute swans floated on guard duty. The river eddied into the lake from the valley, grassy and wooded, reaching back to the right.

"I was born here, in the log house my father built when he homesteaded in 1867," Archie reminisced.

Today Archie is subdividing 20 acres, a quarter of his father's original homestead.

He is familiar with the procedure: tortuous with detail, paper work and incessant palavar. A few years ago he subdivided the bottom land out below where modest, uninspired ranch type homes, replete with swing sets, dog houses, barbecues and an occasional swimming pool have replaced corn and beans.

Clean Dean

One day on the brink of summer, Archie was visited by F. Dean Mikulski ("Clean Dean" as he is called in the four northern counties he is responsible for), Director of Environmental Health, Health Department District 3, Charlevoix, who was checking out Archie's plans for on-site sewage disposal.

District 3 covers Emmet, Charlevoix, Antrim, and Otsego Counties, an area from which Michigan State University archeologists have excavated proof that people have been summering in for more than 35 centuries: In earlier times by Indians, who came to plant gardens and to fish, and in the last century by well-to-do midwesterners bent on escaping Chicago, St. Louis, Cleveland, Detroit and other urban centers summer's heat.

But, whereas before the area magnetized only summer vacationers, now skiing, snowmobiling, mushroom hunting and fishing have given it year-round attraction, affluence and shortened work weeks combined with speedier transportation by plane or over freeways have resulted in burgeoning construction of all-seasons dwellings, as primary or secondary homes.

Crowded Region

More people have crowded into the region than it can safely accommodate and still preserve the natural resources that make it attractive in the first place; without, that is, precautionary planning in the form of sanitary and construction codes and zoning ordinances, regulations that are unfamiliar and repugnant to earlier generations.

Dean and his colleagues attempt to help and regulate the development of a land area of 1878 square miles or 1,204,480 acres. It is predominantly agricultural, but for the most part farming has been a struggle against a minimal growing season and ever increasing taxes, making farmers happy to sell out to land developers and individuals willing to pay steadily inflating prices.

The maximum above sea level elevation is about 1480 feet, the minimum 576.8 feet.

31 Rivers

Thirty-one major rivers and streams and 150 lakes account for 66,560 acres or about 5½ percent of the total – a lot of wild water.

Glaciers gently sculptured the terrain over soil stratas of loam mixed with sand gravel, boulders and clay, not conducive for profitable farming. Outcroppings of lime on the Lake Michigan coastline are callously quaried for cement factories belching odorus smoke into the atmosphere and discharging murky plumes of water into the lake.

"This is typical of what's happening in the upper Michigan," Dean said as he parked the car in front of Archie Murphy's frame house.

"Man now lives in such large numbers in small geographical areas that the process of simply diluting his waste products with natural elements, basically water or soil, causes undesireable changes in those elements.

Not Enough

"Even up here in Northern Michigan, there is no longer enough of the natural environment to be used by everyone as they care to use it. The use of all the elements that make up the Earth must be controlled in some manner, so that man always maintains a liveable balance with nature.

At 32, Dean is one of the more senior health environmentalists, in the state – in indication of the newness of the profession. He is a trail blazer. He moves cautiously, yet confidently. He speaks softly, eyes smiling, a grin seemingly ready to spread across his face.

That day he was accompanied by Larry C. Levengood, 25, environmental health officer for Charlevoix County, who had done all the early work on the project and wanted Dean to examine the bore holes and trenches which provide profiles of the soil, its type and location, the all-important purpose being to determine what sort of drainage existed.

Saad Fools

"There's a lot of sand in the soil," Dean said. "Often the presence of sand fools – it's not necessarily a sign of good drainage. Coloration is the thing. Uniform coloration would indicate uniform drainage. If it's mottled, varying in color, that indicates that the water table comes up and down and that the drainage is impaired by the presence of these little clay deposits, probably conveyed there by the moving water. A high water table obviously impairs safe on-site sewage disposal."

"We must think in terms of 3,000 square feet for the sewage system and 3,000 square feet for your house," Dean advised. "It's hard to plan this without seeing the road stakes. The roads must be laid out to provide more flat land to these lots for your septic drainage field. That might mean you'd not have so many lots. The drainage is good. It's the slopes that cause the trouble.

"Two things must be done, before a sewage system can be designed," he directed; "you must rough stake the center lines of the roads and prepare typicals of the lot layout, well location, driveway, roads etc.

Sewage Disposa'

"We must hold to a minimum of 20 feet inside a drop off or bank. Select a sewage disposal area within that perimeter."

On July Archie received his Health Department Permits. He had to eliminate three plots in order to meet the requirements Dean had stipulated, but he compensated for that by adding seven on more level ground, ending up with a total of 35 approved lots on the 20 acres.

Those sewage permits are all important. The power company won't install a meter, much less turn on the electricity until you show your sewage permit. Likewise the permit is a requirement for a zoning permit.

Those are the teeth in the county environmental health codes of District 3, the only health district in the state able to apply such sanctions to enforce its regulations.

District 3

District 3 operates under Public Act 306 enacted in 1929 authorizing the organization of local health districts. Dean is responsible to Dr. Robert Libke, the District Director, based in Gaylord. Aside from Charlevoix and Gaylord there are District 3 office in Bellaire and Petoskey, each with an environmental health officer.

Primarily the District is funded locally on a resident population basis. Dr. Libke and an administrator are on the state payroll.

"I'm in a unique position," Dean says when describing the qualifications required of environmental health officers. "I had about four years of college, but I didn't graduate. I got into the business first. Now you must have a B.S. degree plus a master and six years experience. The oldest man in the group is 33 and he's been at it aince 1964."

20 Functions

The District is responsible for about 20 different public health functions, including the licensing and inspection of ambulances, camp grounds, restaurants and other food services places, mobile home parks, private water supplies and well drillers and the like. A great deal of time is spent checking out complaints involving such public health problems as garbage disposal.

The great and mighty have been felled by it. 90th District Court Judge Arthur R. Reibel learned this when he could not obtain a permit to open his Castle Farm's this summer. Formerly part of the Loeb Estate south of Charlevoix, this was to have been a complex of arts and crafts shops with a tavern and sandwich stand. But the onsite sewage disposal system did not qualify for a permit.

And in Petoskey the Penn Dixie Cement plant was forced to revamp its sewage system or face being hauled into court for failure to comply with the Emmet County Sanitary Code, which District 3 enforces.

But the major time is spent on designing and reviewing building sites not served by public water and sewer systems. This is complicated by the fact that there is less and less "good" (in the sense of proper drainage) land available.

Friday Meeting

Planners Check Senior Housing

Housing for Charlevoix senior citizens was the main topic of discussion at last week's meeting of the Regional Planning Commission.

Bob Cook, chairman of the Senior Citizen's Housing Committee and a member of the Regional Commission, explained that such housing is set by a governmental agency which also pays the difference if any, between the set rent and the amount the renter can afford.

In publicly financed housing, rent is charged at the rate of 25 percent of the renter's income.

There are certain eligibility requirements based on annual income and assets in both types of housing.

On Friday the Housing Committee had received more than 20 responses to the Senior Citizens Survey which appeared in last week's Courier.

Aging Committee Hires Nurse For Charlevoix Senior Citizens

District 3 Health Department will soon start a pilot project to provide increased public health services for senior citizens in Charlevoix County.

The project will be under the direction of a public health nurse to be hired under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (C.E.T.A.).

Initial activities to be undertaken by the nurse are set forth by the Health Department as follows:

"Coordinating of home health services and assisting in the expansion of the delivery of home health services to the aged population within Charlevoix County. This will include the delivery of such services.

"Administering blood pressure screening clinics throughout the county.

"Assisting the Northwest Agency for the Aging and the completion of a survey of the health needs of the senior citizens of the county."

The need for special health care for citizens of Charlevoix County is dramatized by the fact that in 1970 there were 2,609 men and women over 60 years of age living in the county, or 15.6 percent of the entire population. This compares with a percentage rate of 12.24 percent statewide.

A coordinating committee will be established to direct the program and to insure that there will be no duplication of effort as the project is developed.

The committee will include representatives from the County Commission on Aging, the County Department of Social Services, the Northwest Area Agency on Aging, and a local medical practitioner.

This is the second program for Charlevoix County senior citizens announced within a month. Last week a hot meal program was started under the guidance of the Commission on Aging.

Lake Property Owners Look At Zoning

The Lake Charlevoix Property Owners Association is looking into all zoning regulations and building codes applying to property having access to Lake Charlevoix.

At a meeting of officers and directors last week, Mrs. Susan Vrondran of Boyne City was assigned the task of investigating and reporting on the situation.

There was considerable discussion about zoning in townships contiguous to Lake Charlevoix, and some examples of laxity in enforcing regulations were cited.

Complains of violations of zoning and building codes may be made to Dick Meyers of South Arm Township.

Lee Moerland of Charlevoix was asked to keep the Association informed of any multiple unit or other major developments which might have a substantial impact on Lake Charlevoix.

Anyone wishing to know more about the Lake Charlevoix Property Owners Association should contact Dave Fowler, 409 East Dixon Street, Charlevoix, phone 547-9314.

Neighborhood Watch

Neighborhood Watch Program has been developed by the National Sheriff's Association in an attempt to stem the increasing number of burglaries.

Neighborliness is the basis of the whole program. "Become acquainted with your neighbors," the sheriffs suggest. "If you know they are away and you see an obvious invitation to a burglar, correct it. Close the open garage door, remove the accumulation of newspapers from the door stoop."

The sheriffs also say that being suspicious of strangors helps prevent crime.

"That person (young or old) taking a 'shortcut' through your backyard may have broken into your neighbor'a home.

Don't Forget To Attend Next Week's Meeting

We urge all residents to attend the mass meeting scheduled for next Wednesday to sound out the community on the proposed merger between Charlevoix and Charlevoix Township.

Whether or not you are for merging the township and city, we feel the meeting is important and should be attended by all.

The meeting was announced recently at a press conference by Mayor Ed Hansen.

At that time, he said the purpose of the meeting was to discuss the proposed merger and evaluate local sentiment about the move.

We think calling a general meeting is a sound move and encourage everyone to attend.

Both the township board and city council are planning to attend.

Under a present proposed "Timetable" drawn up by the mayor, residents could see the two units of government merged as early as next October.

The question must first be approved by the Charlevoix City Council and by a vote of township residents.

Several officials have indicated that if merger is put off much longer it will no longer be a feasible alternative for township residents.

We agree with them and think now is the opportune time to clear the air.

The meeting is set for 7:30 p.m. on Nov. 20 at the high school gym.

It's Time To Join Together

Six new County Commissioners will take office in January as the result of last week's election.

They beat out five seated commissioners and one newcomer for the job of helping to run county government.

Election of the new commissioners was considered an "upset" by some. Others said it was just a sign that people want a change, while still others said the defeated incumbents felt too secure in their jobs and did not campaign.

Whatever the reason for the change in make-up of the County Board of Commissioners, their job is to handle the affairs of Charlevoix County and they must do it well.

The newcomers are not experienced in government but they will have a chance to attend two meetings before being seated in January. We are also sure the "old " Members of the Board will show them how things are done.

There will be nine experienced commissioners serving with the six new ones so there will be no reason for delaying necessary actions.

County government is big business, and it is complicated. It ranges from Washington, where revenue sharing and other funds come from, to the 15 townships and three cities where taxes are colllected.

The present Board of Commissioners is a one-party group. The new one won't be, so here are bound to be more debates and more split votes on matters affecting all of us. Endless bickering could result in no action being taken on important matters. We hope this won't happen.

Voting was heavy throughout the county last week, in contrast to the fairly light turnout nationally. In many townships, more than 70 per cent of the electorate turned out to cast their ballots, which shows that people in the county are interested in their government and the people who run it.

This is good for both the people and government officials. It makes for responsive government, which Charlevoix County deserves.

New members of the Board of Commissioners who will be seated in January are Martin Paul, Rudolph Florenski, Michael Fulkerson, Oscar Ward, Melvin Niswander and and Ralph Harmon. Paul, Florenski and Fulkerson will represent Boyne City; Ward was elected in District 14, part of the City of Charlevoix; Niswander was elected in District 8, part of the City of East Jordan; and Harmon was elected in District 7, the eastern part of the county.

These men will join veteran commissioners Delbert Ingalls, Clyde Cunningham, Clayton Smith, Ira Davis, Ralph Richardson, Barney Milstein, Donald Meggison, Harry Griffin and Lee Moerland in administering county government through the years 1975 and 1976.

DNR Does Good Job

The Department of Natural Resources should be commended for its handling of the proposed development of Fisherman's Island park site to be located along the shore of Lake Michigan.

DNR planners suggested that the site be kept for low density usage and be left primarily for foot traffic and limited rustic camping.

We feel this is a good move and hope they continue with plans to prohibit the use of off-road vehicles such as trail bikes and snowmobiles.

There are very few areas left in Michigan where it is possible to preserve the areas in its natural state and we feel that the few areas left, such as this park, should be kept that way.

Writer Asks For Support Against Animal Traps

Editor, Charlevoix Courier
Charlevoix, Michigan

Dear Sir:

For a start, let me declare I am not a bleeding heart where hunting is concerned, if properly conducted. I use to hunt small game when I lived in the Upper Peninsula, I know something about game management, and that deer must be harvested to maintain a healthy herd.

It is the steel-jawed trap that makes me have a bleeding heart. It does not give a quick kill, but long drawn-out suffering, the more so since trap-lines often are not checked regularly, due to weather or indifference; we all know that.

Gravely endangered species, such as the eagle, are victims, also household pets. They trap the otter, that handsome, playful animal, the few that are left.

In earlier periods, when America was teeming with wildlife, and great demand was on in Europe and elsewhere for furs, it is understandable how a great deal of trapping went on, seen through the lens of history. But now we have fur fabrics and managed furs, and our wild animals are in most parts making their last stand. Is it worth it to decimate the few that are left, and by such cruel means? Must the next generation have only plastic replicas in museums for viewing what once was here?

Please, readers, drop a card to your state legislators urging a push to enact Bill 5462, prohibiting the use of traps on fur-bearers.

Yours sincerely,
Louise Bush Beutner

Historical Society Needs Bicentennial Suggestions

America's revered forefathers fasted and prayed as they formed the United States Constitution and Bill-of-Rights for their age—and our's. Without their spiritual dedication posterity would, without doubt, have floundered and Today's citizenry might have had little to celebrate for 200 years of "health, wealth and happiness" as set forth by these dedicated men for the future of their country.

The Charlevoix Historical Society is concerned that our heritage be preserved as we plan, not only for a fitting celebration of the Nation's Bi-Centennial, but for a fitting quality-of-life for future generations. At this time, the Society would appreciate an expression of interest from Charlevoix County citizens as to the direction most favored for our contribution to the 1976 celebration.

Shall we go completely materialistic or shall we incorporate a spiritual life-style.

We have been advised, through the Charlevoix Woman's Club and their program speaker of November 4th' Henry Moran, Bi-Centennial co-ordinator for Michigan Council for the Arts, that it is advisable to have a general theme for our celebration.

For this reason we are asking the county citizenry for theme suggestions that the committee involved will know for a certainty in which direction the people of the county want to move. The theme Spiritual Awareness has been suggested but what is YOUR wish?

Please write the Charlevoix Historical Society as early as possible; Box 525, Charlevoix, Mi. 49720 giving your own name and address with your theme title.

Clockwise

By BOB CLOCK

It is odd how no one talks about the real stakes in America's current ecomomic crisis: The survival of the free enterprise system that has been so good to the American people for so long.

And make no mistake, laissez-faire is in trouble. Real trouble.

The problem lies in the fact that while the economics of free world countries are beset by worsening inflation, devalued currency and soaring unemployment, the tightly controlled economies of communist nations remain fairly stable.

Although the inmates of Russia, China, Yugoslavia and other Marxist countries have never enjoyed as many consumer goods as folks outside the Iron Curtain, they do have a measure of economic security unknown in the free world.

Ups and downs are built into our economic system. And in order to keep the system working and must prevent the ups from going too high or the downs from sinking too low.

If the western world is on the brink of another 1930's-type Depression---as some prophets of doom believe—then we might just have to kiss the profit system goodbye.

I can't really believe that today's American will be as willing to put up with the indignity and privation of prolonged unemployment as he was 40 years ago.

During the intervening two score years, Americans have learned that the little guy has considerable muscle at both the polling place and the union hall.

And when things get tough, he is going to use that muscle to protect himself and his family—even at the expense of the "system" which has given him the good life for so long.

The irony of our present predicament is President Ford's reluctance to do anything constructive to remedy the situation—although he and his fellow Republicans stand to lose so much, both economically and politically, if the situation gets much worse.

After the Democratic landslide last week, Mr. Ford promptly dumped the nation's economic problems into the laps of his newly elected Democratic Congress, a good sign that he himself intends to let the economy sink under its own weight.

Of course, there are some among us who believe that laissez-faire economics has outlived its own usefulness and the death of free enterprise is a foregone conclusion. They see the entire world slipping irrevocably into the long night of totalitarian dictatorship. They foresee the not-too distant day when United States and the rest of the free world will be as tightly controlled as communist countries are at present.

They remember Chairman Khrushchev's warning many years ago that he will "bury" us. And they believe his prophecy.

But it doesn't have to happen and it won't happen if the leaders of government and industry get off their butts and move—now.

The godawful price spiral that has decimated our paychecks must end today, even under the yoke of temporary controls.

The interest rates which have halted industrial investment-and hence industrial development---must come down immediately to pre-inflation levels, even by government decree.

Business must put the lid on excess profits---now---before there are no profits to control. There is absolutely no reason why the sugar industry and the oil industry should be wallowing in so much unearned wealth while their old customers shiver and go hungry.

If government and industry fail to pull us out of our economic dilemma, brace yourself for a radical change in the good life we have become accustomed to.

It can't last much longer the way things stand. Our whole system is at stake.

So What's Wrong?

Why is this area so popular? What causes thousands of people to drive thousands of miles to visit with us?

It must be our beautifully polluted Round Lake. The quaintness of sitting in the park in the evening and listening to the boats emptying their holding tanks into Round Lake. Why everyone knows that's easier than using the facilities, besides it increases buoyancy.

We also have vast stretches of untamed, unmanaged and littered Lake Michigan beaches. Our visitors do not have beaches like ours where they come from.

Condominiums also attract visitors to our area. They are amazed at how many we have been able to build in such a small area, yet still maintain our aura of simplicity and quaintness.

Surely these are just a few of the things this area has to attract visitors, and these visitors are what keeps us going. Right? So we should do everything in our power to improve on these attractions. Improve?

Let's not kid ourselves! We haven't been improving anything. "Beauty is in the eye of the beholder." It seems our eyesight has been impaired by greed.

Why not be content with what we have here naturally, so our sons and daughters will know and appreciate the natural beauty of this area.

Aren't we being awful selfish in destroying it during our life time? What personal satisfaction is there in being able to say that my personal gain is everyone else's loss.

I don't think there is any amount of money that can be spent to improve on Mother Nature, but it sure can help to protect and preserve it.

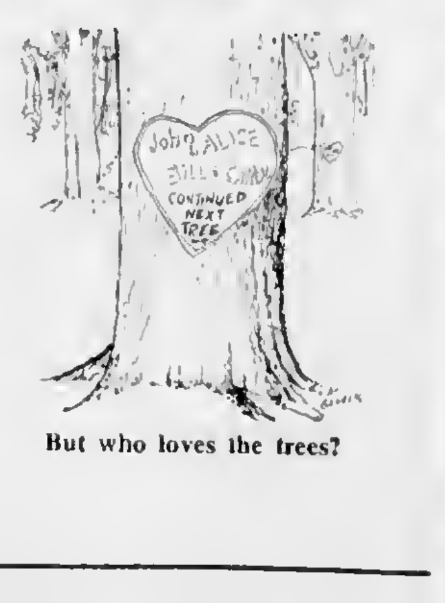
My Neighbors



But who loves the trees?

If it Fitz

By Jim Fitzgerald

Would you mind if I wrote a few words about TV commercials? Or would you rather talk about diarrhea?

If you understand that paragraph, you're watching too much TV.

The intellectuals say any amount of TV is too much, except maybe a geometry vs zoology debate on public TV. You know it's public TV if there are no commercials and you can't get a decent picture.

I am no intellectual, so I measure my TV watching by that chubby jerk who wants to say a few words about diarrhea. If I see him more than once in one sitting, I know I have been watching too long. This isn't exactly a scientific measurement, but it makes sense. This diarrhea commercial is so revolting, no TV station should be stupid enough to show it more than once a month, preferably on a holy day of fast and abstinence.

The chrome domes insist they never watch TV except for Alistair Cooke and specials about the River Nile. My dome is so mushy I sometimes watch 2 TV sets at once. During the recent World Series I had baseball on one TV and football on the other. I also listened to a 2nd football game on radio and read the newspaper. And I would have played some 2-handed euchre with my wife except she left the house screaming.

To me, that's the beauty of TV. It is totally nonabsorbing. It is impossible for me to watch TV without reading at the same time. An occasional glance at the set keeps me up with the plot and the length of skirts (since pantsuits ruined the world, I get a lot more reading done). During one series of commercials on the Johnny Carson Show, I read all of "War and Peace."

Currently my favorite commercial stars the most beautiful girl in the world. Her handsome husband says: "This is my wife and I love her...she keeps looking so good by taking Geritol regularly." Which prompted me to start hanging around the Geritol counter in the corner drugstore, in search of Truth in Advertising. I am prepared to ask a Geritol beauty if she needs help carrying her bottle home. So far the action has been exceedingly slow. I don't mind risking a slap in the face, but not from Lawrence Welks' mother.

The bravest commercial is brought to you by the Schlitz people. They sell gusto. "When you only go around once, you should reach for the gusto in life." It also comes in bottles and cans.

This filmed message shows 2 drunks on a tugboat. They can't get the engine started. It keeps belching smoke and sparks while they laugh uproariously and spill gusto all over each other.

I call this commercial brave because Schlitz is not afraid to blow suds at the Boy Scouts, the Red Cross and other stuffy institutions usually revered by Americans everywhere. You probably think the right thing to do is stay sober, save energy, fight pollution and practice safety in the water. But that's no way to grab gusto, you dummy. You only go around once.

What would happen if a guy drank Geritol with gusto? Probably something that chubby jerk would want to say a few words about.

Onward and Upward.

Meet Charlevoix

Meet Oscar Stroud

Charlevoix's Oscar Stroud has been involved in township government for more than 15 years.

Today, the Charlevoix Courier asks the Charlevoix Township supervisor to tell a little bit about his job and conditions of the township that surrounds the City of Charlevoix.

He is a life-long Charlevoix resident and operates Stroud's Log Cabins.

He and his wife, Margaret, have two girls, Beverly and Linda, who reside in Wyoming.

COURIER: Could you tell us about your position as township supervisor?

STROUD: The job of supervisor is to run the business of the township to the best of your ability, and that means everything. Some of my major responsibilities are working with the water system, checking the pumps daily; the fire department and negotiating. We're negotiating all the time for everything. The water, fire and roads have been my three big projects as supervisor, which take many hours of work.

COURIER: Now that you have had a fire department since May, how are things going?

STROUD: The men are really enthusiastic. We have just about all of our apparatus on our trucks now. It is all new equipment. We hope the community doesn't have a fire, but we are certainly waiting to test our ability. All of the men involved in this have taken their training course so they are certified by the state. We have three fire trucks (pumpers) and one six wheel, 1,500-gallon tank truck.

COURIER: How does your department operate?

STROUD: If you have a fire, you call 547-9291 or 547-9062. It will be answered by the Sheriff's department. He immediately signals the men by a monitoring system and at the same time he blows the fire sirens automatically. There is one at each side of town. There are five drivers designated to head for the fire barn. The first man there starts the trucks, leaves the barn and radios he is on the way. The remaining firemen go to the fire. Two are designated to go to the barn if any assistance is needed for more trucks. Officers for the volunteer fire department are Jack Steebe, chief; Bill Haggard, assistant chief; Rex Blanchard, captain; and Jerry Paul, lieutenant

COURIER: What happens now that your operational and road millage has been defeated?

STROUD: First, we will have two choices. Number one, we can have another election between now and fall asking for a little less or the same millage. And if that is defeated again, we will have to wear our Win buttons and tighten our belts. The other one is, of course, we will naturally give less service and we won't be able to make improvements as fast or as much as we have in the past. Everything has been done on a cash basis and without the cash we won't be able to do as much.

COURIER: What is your position on the township merging with the city?

STROUD: In the first place, the city has approached me as township supervisor asking me about my feelings. Which were that I told them I would listen to the city's position, but there would be no further comment until I met with my board. We then did meet with the city council to go over some of the problems involved. The township board has agreed to attend a general meeting, called by the city, and hear the expressions or attitudes pertaining to merging. I am personally not too enthusiastic about the idea.

COURIER: Why are you not too enthusiastic?

STROUD: I want to give a fair chance to everybody on both sides at the meeting. Five years ago, I personally worked on annexation with the township and the city. At that time the city and the township had many advantages together. The people of the township turned the proposition down, expressing themselves that they wanted to remain as a township, and since that time I have been elected supervisor of Charlevoix Township and I have given the strongest township government that I know possible. And now they will be given a choice again and this will be strictly their decision and not mine.

COURIER: Five years ago when you were endorsing annexation between the city and township, what were the advantages, as you saw it?

STROUD: The largest problem we were having at that time, the city was acquiring township property and annexating it to the city without a vote of the people, which they could legally do. For instance, the golf course and airport property were bought up and annexed. This was legal, but it was hurting the township's boundaries and valuation. With the new boundaries commission it is a little more of a problem to change boundaries. Then water utilities outside the city were double, which would have been 50 percent reduced by annexating. A five percent difference on electrical rates would have been eliminated also. We would have had better services on our snowplowing and streets by being able to have city service. But, with the slow decisions and studies that the city has given us and all the township demands for services, we couldn't wait and went ahead and initiated them ourselves.

WE NEED TO KNOW ABOUT YOU!
We are interested in helping Charlevoix's Sr. Citizens.

14 Charlevoix Townships Have Permanent Ordinances

As the result of last week's voting to approve zoning ordinances in Bay, Melrose, Boyne Valley and Hudson Townships, 14 townships in the county all except Chandler, now have permanent zoning ordinances. Chandler has an interim ordinance.

All of the permanent ordinances were adopted by the townships more than 30 days ago, which means they are no longer subject to referendum votes.

Approval of the four zoning ordinances also means that all of Charlevoix County is now zoned, with the exception of the Village of Boyne Falls.

Channel Six Fund Drive Doing Well

MT. PLEASANT – Local efforts in Northern Michigan communities have now raised $142,428.70 for the construction of public television station WCML-TV, Channel 6.

The new interim-total, announced Wednesday (Nov. 6) by Central Michigan University, accounts all contributions and pledges received through Nov. 1.

The figure includes cash receipts of $68,671.70, pledges totaling $23,757.00 and a $50,000.00 joint challenge gift from the Jesse Besser Fund, Inc., and Besser Foundation of Alpena.

Some $250,000 in private money is needed to construct the new station, to be located near Atlanta in Montmorency County.

Planners hope to have the station constructed and in operation by mid-1975. Once operational, it will serve approximately 300,000 residents of 23 Northern Michigan counties.

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY'S Equalization Department devotes its time to working with land appraisals and valuations not collecting taxes as many think they do. Joan Blanchard (standing) is director of the department.

Find Out About Equalization

By PEG OHLE

If you think the Charlevoix County equalization department has something to do with collecting your taxes, you're wrong, and so are the hundreds of people who annually visit that office to talk about their tax problems.

The equalization department is concerned with the valuation end, as opposed to the collection end, of property tax administration. It exercises no assessment or review powers.

Joan Blanchard, director of the Charlevoix County equalization department, says that the responsibility of her department is to support better property tax administration through four main programs:

Four Programs

(1) Providing the equalization committee of the County Board of Commissioners with necessary data to make objective decisions regarding a fair and proper county equalization each year.

(2) Equalization studies to find values for the equalization base of the 15 townships and three cities in the county.

(3) Furnishing appraisal assistance to the several assessing units.

(4) Furnishing current information and training to assessors.

The law provides that all property must be assessed equitably according to value.

This means that the appraisal value of a piece of property upon which the assessment is to be based should be reasonably close to the actual market value (true cash value) of the property at the time of assessment.

It also means that properties of comparable market value should carry a comparable assessment.

Assessment

The law states that the assessment should be 50 percent of true cash value. Any significant difference in assessment would constitute an inequity. However, this does not mean that all taxpayers pay an equal amount of taxes on property of equal value because tax rates differ according to locality.

It is the responsibility of local assessors to see that properties within every township or city are valued and assessed equitably. It is the primary responsibility of the equalization department to see that every township and city is carrying its fair share of the total county value.

Property Values

Mrs. Blanchard points out that property values in any one area change from year to year due to changing cost levels and changing uses. Therefore it is necessary to measure these changes periodically. This is done by some or all of the following methods:

(1) Program of field appraisal in some jurisdiction each year, unit by unit on a sampling basis.

(2) Sampling one class of property throughout the county each year, making field appraisals.

(3) A property assessment and sales ratio study in some or all of the jurisdictions.

(4) Supervising and correlating re-assessment programs carried out by local assessors.

At the present time the Charlevoix County equalization department is making a complete county-wide appraisal of every parsel of land in the county. The appraisal of townships will be completed by the end of 1975 and will require only updating from that time on. It would have cost about $184,000 to have the appraisal made by an outside organization. The Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners assigned the job to the equalization department because it was felt they could do it better at a lower cost.

Appraising

Mrs. Blanchard defines appraising as "measuring the value of a parcel of land based on the buying and selling market."

The equalization department also works closely with township and city assessors on appraisal problems, administrative procedures, and in planning and reviewing re-assessment programs. Tax rolls from the townships and cities are prepared and audited by the equalization department at county expense before being turned over to the county treasurer. The department also furnishes forms to the assessing units with which to do their work.

In the event a township does not have a certified assessor, the equalization department takes over the job.

Industrial and commercial personal property such as equipment, supplies and inventory are audited by the equalization department for tax purposes.

Senior Citizens Get Hot Meals

By Peg Ohle

The hot meal program for senior citizens in the Charlevoix area got of to a slow but sure start last week.

On both Monday and Thursday 19 meals were served in the Charlevoix High School cafeteria.

Thursday, the group enjoyed a hot lunch of chili, oatmeal muffins, cottage cheese and fruit, celery and carrot sticks vanilla pudding, and a beverage.

Wesley Payne of Kalkaska, director of the 4-county Commission on Aging nutrition program, explained the program to the senior citizens present and asked their cooperation in getting others to participate.

Payne said that the program was started in Kalkaska County on January 1 of this year with a small number of participants and that they are now serving over 3,300 meals a months to some 850 senior citizens registered in the program.

He looks forward to a similar growth in Charlevoix County.

All persons 60 years of age and older, as well as younger spouses of persons in that age bracket, are eligible to participate in the program. There are no stipulations as to income or need.

There is also no set price for the meals. Participants are asked for a donation of whatever amount they want to give, or none at all.

Payne stressed that the nutrition program is not charity, that is, is a way of returning some money to senior citizens in recognition of all they have paid out through the years.

The meals are served every Monday and Thursday in the High School cafeteria at 1:30.

Program

SENIOR CITIZENS met last week for one of the first meals being sponsored by the Commission on Aging. The group also discussed programs the county would be undertaking.

Ostomy Association Forms Group

The recently organized Straits Area Ostomy Association holds its regular meetings on the third Sunday of the month at 2 p.m. in designated places, covering a large part of the northern Michigan area.

Ostomy surgery affects an estimated three million Americans. It is a little understood and needlessly feared operation that changes normal waste elimination functions through a surgical opening--or stoma--in the abdominal wall, into a collecting device worn by the ostomate. The surgical removal of malfunctioning bladders or bowels may be required because of birth defect, disease, injury, or malignancy, such as cancer.

The complete rehabilitation to normal living is of prime importance to the ostomate and their families. This organization was founded to meet this need in order to share ideas, hold discussions, invite speakers to present pertinent information, training sessions for visitation of ostomates, and to help one another in countless ways. It became an affiliated chapter member of the United Ostomy Association, headquartered in Los Angeles, California, at its national convention in Denver, Colorado this past August. Ostomy groups have been formed throughout the United States and Canada.

All interested persons, especially doctors, nurses, and medical assistants, as well as ostomates and their families are invited to attend the meetings.

For further information call or write its president, Mrs. Dennis (Charlene) Hutchinson, P.O. Box 327, Topinabee, Michigan, 49791, phone (616) 238-9564 or its secretary, Mrs. Marvin (Clara) Loomer, 104 Stockman, Charlevoix, Michigan, 49720, phone (616) 547-6842.

Save money this winter.

Cut your heating costs up to 17% with our official insulation program.

Last fall, at the direction of the Michigan Public Service Commission, Michigan Consolidated introduced a low-cost home ceiling insulation program designed to conserve Natural Gas and cut heating costs up to 17%.

How successful has the program been? Well, in the past 10 months, more than 37,700 homeowners have installed ceiling insulation and, as a result, over one billion cubic feet of Natural Gas per year is being conserved. That's enough to heat over 6,500 additional homes this winter. And, that's why we're continuing our insulation program again this fall. Because now is the time to insulate and save.

The heart of our program is simply this: Install six inches of ceiling insulation in your home. It's a quick, easy and inexpensive project that most homeowners can accomplish by themselves for about $100.

How can you get the job done? First, you can do it yourself, and we'll gladly provide a free handbook that tells you how. Secondly, you can have it done by an insulation contractor and, if you wish, we will provide you with a list of qualified firms. Or, third, we can have the job done for you through one of our participating subcontractors. The cost is often under $200 for homes with less than 1,000 square feet of ceiling area.

If you want the job done through one of our participating subcontractors, we have a payment plan to suit every budget. You can pay cash. Or, you can pay over an extended period at an interest rate of 1% monthly on the unpaid balance. (ANNUAL PERCENTAGE RATE OF 12%.)

The need for energy conservation is as great today as it was last year. So insulate now. You'll be holding down winter heating costs and saving Natural Gas, too. Call us for details or for a copy of our handbook.

Our Gas is your lowest-cost fuel; conserve it and you'll save even more.

Middle School Congress Involves Student Body

By Gayle Boss

As I sat in the bright orange plastic chair against the wall in Middle School Principal Vincent Chew's office, I thought, "This place hasn't changed a bit in the four years since we were eighth graders."

The room was still that nondescript green, the antique clock on the wall occupied the same place it has since my father sat in this office, and the droning voice of the principal in an adjourning room was scolding some delinquent Middle Schooler. No, it hadn't changed a bit.

In walked a young, well-groomed gentleman in a blue suitcoat and plaid slacks. He stopped in front of me, nodded in greeting, and said, "Hello, I'm Mike Bourke, President of the Middle School Student Congress. You wanted to see me?" I immediately ate my words. Things had changed.

Mike and I talked for an hour about the newly-formed Student Congress in the Middle School, very much similar to our Student Council. There are twenty-eight student representatives; two from each grade at large and one from each home base. (A home base is like a home room, except that there are an equal number of students from each of the three grades in each home base.) Each of the, twenty-two home bases nominated and elected a representative, while the reps from each grade campaigned and were elected by their entire class. Officers were chosen out of the entire Congress by the other members.

Besides President Bourke, officers include Vice President Chris Henkel, Secretary Brenda Boss, and Treasurer Gayle Hansen.

Meetings are held whenever anything important comes up, on a rotating hour schedule so that the same teachers are not disturbed each time. Thus far three meetings have been held. Mr. Chew is Congress advisor and influences what will be discussed, but otherwise the decisions are left up to the legislative body.

The Student Congress concept was introduced last year by Miss Stanko who wanted more student involvement in decision making.

But it has been Mr. Chew this year who has improved and actually incorporated the Student Congress as it now exists.

He brought out that it brings organization and total student involvement to the school.

"The big bold eighth graders too often try to rule the place," Chew inserted. "This involves all grade levels and takes away some of the dominance of the upperclassmen.

The Congress recently finished its first big project-an all-school Halloween party. "It was to give the kids something to do other than make trouble on Halloween and it's fun," the President pointed out.

Currently projects include "Labels for Education," (collecting Campbell Soup labels to obtain badly needed playground equipment) and an effort to make it possible for students to purchase adult lunches.

In Mike's words, "One hot dog and a piece of bread does not fill some of the bigger guys up."

Cooperation thus far has been excellent.

The only complaint has been that three-fourths of the body is composed of eighth graders.

This is due to the fact, Mike told me, that each home base contains members of each of the three grades, and when selecting their representatives, eighth graders were most often chosen.

Everyone, though, no matter what his grade level is encouraged to participate.

"Kids are realizing we're trying to help them, although I guess we haven't solved anything yet," Mike commented.

Mike stated that being in an old, worn-out building after coming from a nice K-5, the students are in low spirits. As a goal the Congress would like to up the morale of students by giving them things to do.

"When you're involved it makes school a little more fun," the President concluded.

CHARLEVOIX FOURTH graders presented the play, "The Goblin Stone," last week to entire elementary student body.

Council Discusses Problems

By NANCY PODSKALNY

One of the topics discussed at the October 23rd Student Council Meeting was, the new trophy case. Since wood and the hiring of someone to make the new case would cost too much, a suggestion was made that a separate fund might be used to set aside for this project.

Penants, for the gym was another topic discussed at the meeting. It was then announced that Bic Banana pens would be sold to help this project. Prices for the pens are not yet decided upon.

The council then rapped up the meeting by the discussion of the Continental Breakfast. Due to the lack of participation the Continental Breakfast had been cancelled until November 1st.

On October 30th the Student Council Meeting was called together with the discussion of the Book Drive. This drive apparently hasn't been very successful.

Jim Marshall suggested that we have a Mystery Book of the week and every week there would be a "Mystery Book."

Another suggestion that was brought up by Debby Klooster was that there be a small reward for the person who turns in a missing book. Both of these suggestions will be thought over.

The smoking problem is reported as improving but still not satisfactory.

Band Closes Out Season

By Jim Marshall

The Charlevoix Rayder Marching Band gave it's final performance of the year on November 1, 1974, also marking the last showing of the senior members of the band.

Each year the band has improved, in quality as well as spirit. Gary Stutzman, band director, moved this year's program into action with a camp run by Tim Lautzenhauser, Associated Director of Bands at University of Missouri.

The camp also was attended by Pestigo, Wisconsin's Marching Band.

Lautzenhauser was accompanied by five specialists in the areas of Brass, Woodwinds, Percussion, Batton Twirling, and Flag Corps.

The primary function of the camp was to expand the bandsmen's knowledge and understanding of advanced marching styles and techniques.

At the end of the camp session the Rayder Band and the Peshtigo Bulldog Band performed a show designed and written by Lautzenhauser and his specialists.

Since that camp, the Band has pushed on, touring to Northern Michigan University and Peshtigo performing together with the Bulldog Band.

At home although rained out of their first chance to perform the Band has entertained Charlevoix fans during the halftimes of 3 highly populated games.

Many people would be quite surprised at the amount of time and effort involved in the choreography and production of shows for the band to perform.

Recognition should be given to Mr. Stutzman and Jim Sundberg who has been the Drum Major for three years.

Football Team Appreciates Local Booster Backing

By Mark Rybicki

Football has given us a great season, even though we are not number one.

All of the football players have performed an outstanding job. All of the players, both J.V. and Varsity, were great assets to the teams, and have contributed greatly to C.H.S. football history.

Even though we are in third place, the team did the best job it could, so did the coach, so you really cannot blame anybody when we lost a game.

There are some tough teams in our conference, and our loses to some of them were unavoidable.

It's not the coaches or the football team who should be blamed, even though some people think they should be; the coach is there to help guide the team.

The team was there to do the best job they could.

It's no disaster that they didn't win all of the time, after all it's just a game.

Just because our team won other games does not mean they are going to win all their games.

The football team can score like crazy, and still be beaten by the opponent, or the football team can just get beaten, period. So what does it matter? Why blame anybody?

We would like to congratulate both the J.V. and Varsity football teams on the great job they did, and the determination they have.

We would also like to congratulate Head Coach, Mr. Donald Carey; Assistant Head Coach, Mr. Dave Moyer; Certified Trainer, Greg Grubaugh; and the other Assistant Coaches, Mr. Plas Presnell; Mr. Hal Evans; Mr. Norm Probert; and Mr. Peter Spieles.

Latin Club Members Elect Officers

By ROBIN ROSENCRANTS

Magistrati is Latin for officers.

Four Latin club members were elected as such by ballot vote at 7 p.m. Friday, October 17, at a meeting in Cheryl Coppens' home.

They are: Tammy Wieland as President; Ann Buday, Vice-president; Cheryl Coppens, Treasurer; and Margaret Warner, Secretary.

Mrs. Novak, advisor for the group, said that some club projects were also discussed.

Among them are bake sales, a Christmas party, a snow party, and a rather definite Roman Banquet that is planned for some time in the spring.

At the banquet, they'll wear Roman togas, sit on floor cushions, and eat off low tables. Slides and films will probably be shown, too.

Refreshments were served at the meeting, and it was decided that their next would be at Kim and Judy Gould's house.

Sharon Holm And Ray Hawkins Wed

Sharon Kay Holm and Ray L Hawkins exchanged their wedding vows in a single ring ceremony solemnized at the Community Church of God Saturday evening.

The bride is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Louis G. Holm. Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Watros are the parents of the bridegroom.

The Rev. William P. Seibert officiated at the single ring service in the presence of 150 guests. Mrs. Kathleen Louiselle, at the organ, played a program of traditional music and the wedding marches.

The bride, escorted to the alter by her brother, Louis G. Holm, Jr., who has been her guardian, chose an empire gown of white satin with a lace overlay for her wedding. Fashioned with a mandarin collar and long sleeves, the gown was accented with light bloe seedpearls at the waist, collar and cuffs. A matching pearl crown secured her floor length lace-trimmed veil. She carried a nosegay of white mums and blue daisies.

Mrs. Louis G. Holm, jr., was her sister-in-law's matron of honor and Donna Sutton and Connie Crain were bridesmaids. They wore identical empire gowns of light blue and royal blue velvet accented with white velvet ribbon trim and white buttons. Each carried a long stemmed white rose.

Tereasa Maurer of Ellsworth, niece of the bridegroom was flower girl and Jeffrey Holm, nephew of the bride, was ringbearer.

Jerry Himehauch assisted the bridegroom as best man. Clifton Watros, step-father of the bridegroom, and Arthur Holm, brother of the bride, were groomsmen. Michael Anderson and Arthur Holm seated the guests. Mrs. Watros, mother of the bridegroom, wore a floor length empire gown of lavender with a lace overlay styled with a mandarin collar and long seeeves. Her corsage was of white mums.

A reception followed at the American Legion post home. Mrs. Walter Holm, sister-in-law of the bride, furnished and prepared the buffet dinner. Dancing followed.

The couple will make their home at RR 2 Charlevoix.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hawkins

MR. AND MRS. Perry M. Oswald are pictured following their recent wedding at St. Mary's Church. The bride is the former Dawn McKenzie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis McKenzie. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Goss.

Connie Shores Bride of Jeffery Popenhagen

The Bethany Lutheran church was the scene recently of the wedding of Connie Laura Shores and Jeffery Allen Popenhagen.

The Rev. E. Priess officiated ut the double ring service before an altar graced with arrangements of yellow mums and lighted tapers. Mrs. Richard Elzinga, aunt of the bride, played a program of traditional music and the wedding marches.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Timothy L. Shores and Mrs. Edwin Smalley of Charlevoix and Richard Popenhagen of Battle Creek.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose as her wedding gown the satin and lace gown worn earlier by her mother. Fashioned with a fitted bodice, the gown had a sheer yoke and sleeves and a full skirt of lace over satin. A headpiece of flowers and seedpearls secured her lace trimmed veil of bridal illusion. She carried a bouquet of red roses and white carnations.

Holly Garten attended the bride as maid of honor and bridesmaids were DeeAnn Potter and Sue Kane. They wore identical floor length gowns of light blue. Each carried a single red rose tied with a white ribbon.

Debbie Shores, also wearing a light blue dress and carrying a red rose, was her sister's flower girl and her brother, Geary Shores, was ringbearer. Another brother, Ben Shores, lighted the candles.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeffery Popenhagen

Ronald Smith assisted the bridegroom as best man. William Mania of Petoskey and Brian Sinclair of Delton, cousin of the bridegroom, were groomsmen. Robert Shores, brother and Rocky Elzinga, cousin of the bride, seated the guests.

Mrs. Shores selected a floor length forest green gown scattered with embroidered flowers and a corsage of red roses and white carnations for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Smalley, mother of the bridegroom, wore a navy blue floor length gown and a pink rose and white carnations corsage.

A reception for more than 150 guests followed at the American Legion post home. Assisting were Mrs. Lawrence Elzinga and Mrs. Violet Somerville, aunts of the bride, and Mrs. Martin Elzinga, grandmother of the bride.

After a wedding trip through northern Michigan, the couple will reside at Bay Shore.

The bride is a student at the Charlevoix high school. The bridegroom, a graduate of the same high school, is employed at the Belvedere Club.

Wedding guests were present from Michigan, Wisconsin, Florida and Indiana.

For Bicentennial Celebration

Michigan State University Planning to Index Paintings

By KAREN DOUGLAS

EAST LANSING--A Bicentennial project to search for and record works of art by American artists was announced recently by the Kresge Art Gallery at Michigan State University in East Lansing.

In cooperation with the Smithsonian Institute's National Collection of Fine Arts, the Gallery is attempting to accumulate and create a comprehensive index of all work done by American painters prior to 1914.

The purpose is to extend available resources for the study of American art and history.

In accordance with the Michigan Bicentennial, special emphasis will be placed on locating work done by Michigan artists, said Dr. Sadayoshi Omoto, professor of art history at MSU.

"We are certain that many paintings are lying dormant or hidden away in Michigan attics," he said. "We are asking for help in locating them from libraries, historical societies and private individuals throughout the state."

"We are also looking for organized groups in each community to survey their general area."

Omoto said his staff would be willing to assist in helping to establish a program in a particular area.

In the inventory, each painting will be recorded by the name of the artist, if known; the title, date, media dimensions, present ownership and location and type (or types) of subject matter. The investory is structured to accept incomplete and approximate data also.

Each painting will be photographed, researched and cataloged. The information will be sent to Washington, D.C. where it will be indexed according to location. An inventory guide—an annotated directory—will be published in 1976.

"There is a spinoff benefit to the inventory guide," Omoto said. "Having a painting photographed and registered nationally as well as locally, provides a type of insurance to an owner."

"Further, the inventory is structured to enter descriptions of each work of art without revealing the owner's name and address if he desires anonymity."

Omoto will be selecting approximately 50 Michigan paintings for a traveling exhibition to celebrate Michigan's Bicentennial. The show will travel to several major cities within the state.

A catalog of the paintings, including information about the artist and his work will be a part of the exhibition, also, he said.

Omoto asks that anyone who may have a painting, or have knowledge of a painting, done prior to 1914, write to the Bicentennial Inventory Committee, MSU Kresge Art Center, East Lansing, Mich., 48823.

"A project of this nature has never been undertaken before. Its success is dependent on volunteer help exclusively," he said.

Omoto feels that with the active participation of people all across the country, the inventory will provide the nation with an artistic heritage and history of communities, regions and nation.

"NO NO NANETTE," a 1925 comedy musical, presented by the Little Traverse Civic Theatre, opens November 15 and the cast is moving into the final stages of rehearsal. Above, Billy Early, played by Paul Voorheis of Boyne City, has his hands full with three females--Flora (Susan Zurbuchen of Alanson), Winnie (Barbara Rivard of Harbor Springs), and Betty (Bridget Biddick of Charlevoix).

2nd Community Concert Presents Opera Baritone

The Northern Michigan Community Concert Association will present its second concert of the present season, William Walker, Metropolitan Opera Baritone on Thursday, Nov. 14.

One of the Met's leading baritones, Walker is a singer whose career so far can be summed up in two words: consummate versatility.

He made his Metropolitan debut in 1962 after being top winner in the Met Auditions. Since then he has sung leading roles there and on the company's national tours ranging from Papegeon in Mozart's MAGIC FLUTE to Prince Yaletsky in Tshaikovsky's "Queen of Spades." On Broadway, he has starred as Lucille Ball's leading man in "Wildcat" and has appeared in starring roles in summer stock productions such as "Carousel," "Damn Yankees", "Showboat", etc. As a recitalist, he has been unanimously acclaimed not only for his rich baritone voice and artistry, but also for his witty, warm personality and charm as a raconteur. With his beautiful voice and "gift of gab," William Walker has been in demand on TV's most popular talk shows.

William Walker was born in Texas. He wore custom-made western style clothes long before the world of 'haut couture' made them the "in" thing, and he loves nothing better than a good backyard Texas barbecue. His talent manifested itself at an early age and he sang a lot even as a boy. At Texas Christian University from which he was graduated with a Bachelor of Arts degree, he was a voice student of John Brigham.

UNITED METHODIST CHURCH
106 State Street
Sunday School 9:45 a.m.
Sunday Services 11 a.m.
Minister: Elmer J. Faust

The Charlevoix United Methodist Church is located at 104 State St. a place which it has held for 100 yr. It is part of a circuit which includes the Greensky Hill Indian Church. The charge is pastored by Elmer Faust, who has held this appointment for the past 5 yr. It is in the Grand Traverse District of which the superintendent is Dr. Donald Scranton, Traverse City. The area bishop is Bishop Dwight Loder of Detroit.

We believe that the church exists for the maintenance of worship, the edification of believers, and the redemption of the world. We believe The Bible is God's Word. We practice 'open communion'. We practice the several modes of baptism. We preach Christ, crucified, risen, and coming again, as the one hope of salvation for our race and for our society. We believe that the world is our parish and that our task is to bring to its suffering and sin the promise of new life in Jesus Christ.

Regular Sunday services at the church include: Sunday School for persons of all ages, at 9:45 a.m.) Sunday worship at 11 a.m.) Youth Fellowship at 6 p.m.) Several small groups (for prayer and discussion) meet weekly at various homes. Meeting places are announced from week to week. The Women's Society includes three 'circles', each meeting monthly, at varying locations. All meetings are open to the public and attendance is encouraged.

Five Named to Second Team

Six Charlevoix Red Rayders Make All Conference

By FRAM MARTIN

In a year when there were many outstanding players in the Michigan-Huron Shores league, the Charlevoix Rayders, who finished third in league standings, placed one player on the All-Conference first team and five on the All-Conference second team.

Dan Greene, a senior and co-captain of the 1974 team, was awarded first team recognition as an end.

Selected for his ability as a receiver, he scored three touchdowns during the season. He is 6-1, weighs 160 pounds and is the son of Mrs. Camilla Greene.

Kevin Martin and Phil Christ received second team recognition on both the offensive and defensive teams and three others, Mike Streeter, Jim Sladek and Bob Alger, on one of the other teams.

Martin, a speedy halfback on offense and a safety on defense, was named to both squads. A consistent ground gainer, he scored three touchdowns during the season. Co-captain with Greene, he is 5-10, weighs 160 pounds and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Claire C. Martin.

Christ, also a senior, was named as a tackle to the second team offensive squad and internal lineman on the defensive squad. He scored one TD during the season after recovering a fumble. He is 5-9, weighs 210 pounds and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Christ.

Streeter was selected to the second team offensive squad. He is a speedster, played halfback, was a consistent ball carrier and six among league scorers with 56 points scored in six games. He is 5-11, weighs 160 pounds and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Streeter.

Sladek, also a senior, was named as a guard on the second team offensive squad. He is 5-9, weighs 170 pounds and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Sladek.

Alger, a junior, received second team recognition as a linebacker on the defensive squad. He was the Rayder quarterback, scored 28 points, threw two touchdown passes and shared the team's kicking duties. He is 5-11, weighs 160 pounds and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Alger.

Other seniors on the Rayder squad during the 1974 season were Frank Muma, Dave Martinchek, Del Wood, Steve Bearss, Kevin Stokes and Mark Hollow.

18 Teams In Charlevoix Basketball League

The Charlevoix Independent Basketball league opened its season last week with a record number of 18 teams competing. Under this year's format, 12 teams are participating in the B league while the A league has 6 participants.

The A league plays three games every Monday night. The B league is split into two divisions. One division plays three games every Tuesday night and the other plays three games every Wednesday. The first of the three games begins at 6:30 p.m. All games are played at the Middle School and are open to the public at no cost.

In last week's action Freedman's jumped out to a 19 point first quarter lead as they defeated Medusa 79-52. Roger and Denney Crain and Terry Blissett all had 6 points during the first quarter blitz. Five Freedman players scored in double figures. Little Roger led all scorers with 22 points while Bruce Meggison had 20 for the losers.

The Town House waltzed over the Coast Guard 98-20. Despite the lop-sided score, no Town House player scored twenty points although six did score in double figures. Dan McKenzie, Dave Strawbridge and Spook Coleman all had 17.

Bob's Sunoco clobbered Haggard's 70-35. Rugged Hud Drenth led the way with 19 points while Mark Essenburg chipped in 15 and Ron Boss 14. Andy Peters and Dave Frenshee each had 12 for the losers.

The B league had several extremely close games. In the battle of the teachers, John Deere nipped First State Bank 52-50. Behind 27-24 at halftime, John Deere inched ahead on Dave Moyer's 14 second half points. Moyer rammed home 20 for the game while Roger Gowell had 13 for First State Bank.

Russell's Shell behind Larry Brock's 20 points and Ed Holm's 13 beat Charlevoix County State Bank 51-48. The lead changed hands several times throughout the contest and no team ever led by more than 4 points. Larry Skippergosh collected 18 for the bankers.

With no man larger than 6', Kenney's Excavating outhustled a much taller but slower Wojan Aluminum squad 48-40. Kenney's pulled away after holding a narrow 33-32 third quarter edge. Stebum and Dawbert both had 11 for Kenney's while Don Ward paced the losers with 19.

Andy's only had 19 points in the first half but romped to a 52-27 win over Medusa B. Stu Cunningham led the attack with 22. Stan Johnson had 11 for Medusa B.

Balanced scoring carried Village Milkhouse to an easy 71-30 win over Muma's. The Milkhouse held Muma's to only one point in the first quarter. Five players scored in double figures led by Steve Essenberg with 18 and Dale

Girls Basketball Win Two More

With only three games remaining in the Michigan-Huron Shores schedule, the Charlevoix girls basketball team has racked up 11 wins in loop play after defeating Rogers City 56 to 37 and St. Ignace 50-10 last week.

Charlevoix will host Boyne City on Tuesday and travel to Petoskey Thursday. The final game of the season will be played here Nov. 19 with Gaylord.

"St. Ignace couldn't buy a basket. I've seldom seen a team as cold as they were" Coach Tony Felter said of St. Ignace after her team's lopsided win over the visiting Saints..

In the game, Charlevoix jumped to a 14-2 quarter lead; went ahead 24-4 at halftime and 39-6 at the three quarter mark before coasting to an easy 50-10 win with everyone playing. Dona Bellows held the Saints' top scorer, Barb LaTour to four points, Coach Felter said.

Cheryl Pence had 15 points for Charlevoix.

The Charlevoix J-V's also won by a score of 30-13.

Earlier in the week, the team posted a 56-37 win over Rogers City as the locals paced the game 18-10 at the quarter; 36-17 at the half and 50-27 going into the final period.

Pence again led the scoring with 26 points as her team scored 24 field goals and connected on eight of 22 free throw attempts while collecting 22 personal fouls. Kathleen Smith had 12 points for Rogers City as her team scored 14 field goals and nine of 31 charity shots while having 16 personal fouls called on them.

Charlevoix's J-V team won by a margin of 30-19.

Meeting Set For Nov. 30

The Charlevoix County American Cancer Society unit will hold its first "Reach to Recovery" program Thursday, November 14, at the Community Room of the First State Bank in Charlevoix.

The rehabilitation program for women who have had breast surgery was organized in 1952 by Terese Lasser, who herself had recovered from a radical mastectomy.

It became an important part of the American Cancer Society patient service program in 1969, and nearly 1,500 Michigan women were visited by Reach to Recovery volunteers in 1973.

Each of these volunteers in herself a mastectomee who has been carefully trained to represent the program, and has been officially endorsed by her personal physician as emotionally stable and capable to visit the new mastectomy patient.

Her visit is strictly social-psychnological and she never discusses medical matters.

She never makes a visit without the written permission of the patient's attending physician.

She present the patient a gift kit which contains educational material on adaptation to the surgery, a sponge rubber ball and short length or rope for simple exercises and a temporary breast form which may be worn until the physician gives permission for a permanent prosthesis.

Obituary

Spencer

Funeral services for L. Gayle Spencer, 59, who died unexpectedly early Saturday afternoon, were to be held at the Courser Funeral Home in Belding at 2 p.m. Tuesday. Interment was to be in River Ridge cemetery.

Mr. Spencer, who was stricken at his home, died a short time after he was admitted via ambulance to Little Traverse Hospital in Petoskey.

Born in Belding Dec. 14, 1914, Mr. Spencer was married to the former Arlene Lee at Belding on Dec. 22, 1934. They made their home in Belding until coming to Charlevoix in 1960. He had been associated with the Stainless Products Co. in Belding and when a subsidiary of the company was opened here he was transferred here as plant manager.

Surviving are his wife; two sons, Lee of Belding and Gary of Charlevoix; six grandchildren; two sisters, Mrs. W. C. Setchfield of Belding and Mrs. Bernard LaBree of Rodney and a brother, Richard, of Belding.

Skellenger

William T. Skellenger, 62, 821 S. Chestnut St., Reed City, died at the Reed City Hospital Oct. 7 after a long illness.

He was born Oct. 10, 1911, in Gladstone and attended school there. On Sept. 2, 1938, he married Jean Murray at Charlotte. He lived in Ypsilanti and Rockford, and lived in Reed City since 1944. Mr. Skellenger was a Michigan State Police officer from 1935 until his retirement as a Carporal in 1962.

He was a former member of the Moose, the Elks, and Masonic Lodges.

Surviving are his wife, Jean, two daughters, Mrs. Barry (Nancy) Mikulski, E. Lansing, and Mrs. Dwight (Sandra) Gingrich, Olmandale, one sister, Mrs. Ruby Kuhn, Tuscon, Ariz., and two brothers, Sidney, Richard, and Byron, Gladstone, and four grandchildren.

Funeral services were Oct. 9 at the McDowell Funeral Home in Reed City, with the Rev. Paul C. Frederick officiating.

Burial was in Woodland Cemetery.

department watches for violations of the Plat Act and advises the local unit of government if a violation is found.

The equalization department has maps of all townships and cities within the county on which all property splits are kept up-to-date. There are also aerial maps of the entire county. Pictures are being made of buildings on improved property as part of the current appraisal. They are on file.

The equalization department receives copies of everything concerning land that is recorded. Names of new owners are noted and correct property descriptions checked.

Information Source

In effect, the equalization department is the source of general information about land in the county, the place where everyone from the owner of a single piece of land to realtors go when they have questions.

The Charlevoix County equalization department was established in 1961. Mrs. Blanchard was appointed assistant director in 1965 and director in 1968. She is the only woman equalization director in the state and holds a Level 4 assessment administration certificate, as well as a personal property examiner certificate.

Mrs. Blanchard is president of the Northern Michigan Equalization Directors Association and education chairman of the Michigan Association of Equalization Directors.

There are three appraisors on the staff of the equalization department: Floyd McCracken, Carl Wimmer and Robert Hewitt. There are also three office assistants, Carla Spencer, Lynette Webb and Trudy Ohman.

The equalization department is located on the second floor of the County Building. The staff welcomes citizens who have questions in any of the fields under their jurisdiction.

reason the city would want to merge with the township is for the tax base.

"I think we're going up while the city is going down," he said.

In other business, the township board:

–Discussed whether or not to hold a special election on the recently defeated township millage request and took no action.

–Approved rezoning Dr. Walter Hoffman's property from Agriculture to Planned Unit Development (PUD) for a new shopping center complex.

–Decided to rescind a previous resolution to go with Charlevoix's building inspector and use the county program instead. Stroud voted against the move.

–Heard a plea not to shoot guns in a residential areas of the township.

–Tabled a request from Supt. James McKimmy to collect school taxes within the township in the summer instead of the winter.

Meeting Planned for November 20

Here's the Resolution to be Discussed Next Week

EDOTOR'S NOTE: Charlevoix and Charlevoix Township residents will be meeting next Wednesday, Nov. 20, at 7:30 p.m. in the high school gym to discuss merger of the two units. As a public service, the Courier is again running the resolution that will be discussed. It is suggested you clip this out and bring it to the meeting.

The City of Charlevoix, recognizing that the welfare and general well being of Charlevoix area citizens is paramount, after carefull consideration, have arrived at the following opinions and conclusions:

1. That merger of the City with Charlevoix Township is not only highly desirable but of extreme importance for both residents in the City and Township.

2. That the question of merger should be considered now not only for the reason that the time is opportune, but also for the reason that the additional passage of time will substantially decrease the possibility of merger, if not forever prevent it.

The reasons merger should be considered at the present time are as follows:

(a) The present sentiment and support for a proposed "Charter Revision" should be capable of permitting participation by Charlevoix Township.

(b) Since Charlevoix presently is a 4th Class City, the matter would be handled locally and expeditiously by petition to the County Board of Commissioners. Adoption of a Home Rule Charter prior to merger would result in any future efforts to join all or parts of the Township to the City, controlled by the State Boundary Commission, a controversial state agency bogged down with multiple lawsuits and with a 2 to 3 year delay in annexation and consolidation proceedings.

(c) It is believed that substantial sewer line construction will occur shortly throughout the Township as a result of Township Board policy to supply municipal services and recent application for a federal grant to construct sewers.

(d) The City will be requested to service Township sewers by permitting connection to the City sewer system for treatment and disposal and further requested to extend City water service to Township areas.

(e) In the event the City voluntarily furnishes such services no incentive will then exist for the Township to merge with the City.

(f) In the event the City elects to supply such services only upon the condition that the particular "serviced" Township area or areas join the City, then it is expected that a series of separate, controversial, expensive, devisive and time consuming "piece meal" annexation actions will occur.

3. That merger as a concept includes the contemplates an informed electorate making a free choice as to the desirability of merger and also the opportunity to equal representation through the proposed resignation of all present City officials and special election to elect new officials.

4. That the advantages of merger or combined government for the Charlevoix area are as follows:

(a.) substantial economic efficiencies and cost reductions in providing municipal services due to increased volume of demand and non-duplication of services.

(b) recognition of the fact that Charlevoix area wide progress, development and well-being of the area citizens transcends old governmental barriers.

(c) the burden of the cost of necessary and desirable municipal services will be spread more equitably and will become available to entire Township.

(d) without merger the tax base of the City of Charlevoix will become relatively fixed as a result city millage rates and the per capita cost of rendering municipal services may substantially increase.

(e) the township, because of its unique geographical division into two parts, if not now, at least in the future, would have difficulty operating efficiently and serving adequately all township residents.

(f) the inevitable future growth of the area should and must be directed under a single uniform plan of growth and development established under a common zoning ordinance.

(g) the township, in addition to other urban type services, presently needs the service of the City of Charlevoix tertiary sewage treatment plant facilities to serve certain township area proposed to be serviced by sewer.

(h) the ability of the Township Board to tax is limited to one mill allocated except by vote of the people. Therefore the ability of the Township to extablish a planend long term budget is severely limited.

5. That the present system of governments, both in the City and Township, may not be adequate to meet the challenge of modern times and that therefore the area citizenry should have the opportunity to decide whether to change the present form of government by voting on a proposed "Home Rule" charter.

6. That certain mistrusts, suspicions, rivalries that may have existed in the past, or have been alleged to so exist, between the City and Township would be dispelled, eliminated and subordinated to the common good, interest and well-being of the Charlevoix area citizens.

7. That the City Council of Charlevoix, being aware of possible past problems, and being determined to dispel any doubts whatsoever, has decided to take strong and positive measures to show the ultimate in good faith fairness by reason of proposed resignations of present City officials and equal participation in the merger proceedings by Charlevoix Township.

8. That the merger legal process and opportunity for a change of the form of government under the "Home Rule" authority shall be initiated herein, and all possible steps and measures shall be taken by this council to inform the Charlevoix area citizenry, and to create a sense of urgency, and to help implement the formation of a new city and a new government.

9. That the issue of "Home Rule" charter and the election of nine charter commissioners on an at large basis be scheduled for election and vote of the people at such time to permit all electors to the merged government unit to vote thereon.

10. That a procedure be established to permit the special election of new representatives of the merged governmental unit immediately following said merger.

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED:

1. That the City of Charlevoix does hereby petition the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners to hear and approve the alteration of the city boundaries by including within the corporate limits all to the territory of the Township of Charlevoix, and to call special election on the issue in Charlevoix Township.

2. That this resolution and petition be presented to the Board of Commissioners for action thereon only following the passage of a similar resolution of tentative approval and endorsement by the Township Board of the Township of

Economic Picture Still Bright

Local Building Boom Has Not Fizzled

By TOM DAMMANN

There are a few factors that indicate a silver lining in the present clouds of factory layoffs and other economic woes.

Ski resort proprietors, hotel and motel operators in the Charlevoix-Emmet County region report that group reservations for winter weekends are already ahead of last year.

Of greater significance, the building boom, though deflating, has not fizzled into a bust, and may even revive.

In some categories such barometric indicators as building permits are still above the 1971 level.

That was the year when people spoke of the Charlevoix-Emmet County area as the "hottest piece of real estate in the U.S." 1971 was the take-off year, according to local bankers and other analysts.

In that year, State Health Department District 3 received 479 and 459 applications for on-site sewage disposal systems (septic) in Charlevoix and Emmet Counties respectively, according to F. Dean Mikulski, District Environmental Health Director. In 1972 the comparable figures were 471 and 552, in 1973 442 and 497 and for the first ten months of this year there have been 379 septic applications in Charlevoix County and 320 in Emmet.

In other words, not a spectacular downward trend.

Another indicator can be found in the number of requests for land evaluation studies, a special service of Mikulski's department. In 1971 there were 24 such requests in Charlevoix County and 18 in Emmet County. In 1972 there were 15 and 54 requests respectively; in 1973 159 and 97 and in the year to date 131 and 84.

Here, it should be noted, that while the number of land evaluation requests may have decreased, the value of land itself has risen–from 20 to 25 percent, some say–this offsetting the decrease.

Meanwhile, money flowing through Petoskey banks totalled $49.66 million in September, a record for the month, and $5.5 million or 12.6 percent above September 1973. In October the cash flow dropped slightly to $49.62 and was still 5.4 percent above October a year ago.

According to Louis J. Hollow, President, First State Bank of Charlevoix, the cash flow through that bank in October was $3.191 million, 11.8 percent above last year's $2.85 million (figures at the County Bank were not available at time of writing).

Residential building permits issued in Petoskey so far this year amount to $321,500, only $18,000 less than that of the same period last year, but considerably higher than the $192,500 in permits issued during the first ten months of 1971, according to an analysis compiled by the Petoskey Regional Chamber of Commerce.

That analysis also indicated that the sales of building materials are down 17.8 percent from last year and furniture sales down 15.8 percent.

The City of Charlevoix's figures are dramatic:

In 1971 building permits totaled $509,423; in 1972 $6,606,500 (the year of the condominiums); in 1973 $852,518 and for the first ten months of this year $588,510. So 1974 is already ahead of 1971 with two months yet to go.

Ten condominiums have been completed in Charlevoix County since 1969, the first being Boynestadt at Boyne Mountain, which has sold all but two of its 31 units, according to County Register of Deeds Grover Geneit.

Of the ten, eight are in the City of Charlevoix, some still in the final stages of construction.

Wildwood on Walloon Lake, completed a year ago, has 16 units ranging in price from $59,500 to $79,500, ten of which have been sold, according to Geneit's records.

The Landings on the east shores of Lake Charlevoix in Boyne City was completed in May, 1973. Its 56 units ranged in price from $33,600 up to $64,900. Ten have been sold.

The seven condominiums in Charlevoix proper contain 181 units with price ranging from $14,500 in the Weathervane Terrace, a converted motel, to $75,900 in the 32 unit Dunes.

In all, only 37 of the 181 units available here in the city, or more than 20 percent, have been sold according to Geneit, who points out that there may have been additional sales on contract which are necessarily recorded with his office.

An obvious reason for the snail's pace of sales of condominiums is that for the most part these are second homes, for which there is not easy mortgage money at present.

Nevertheless, some observers think this sales record is not bad. Many say they are surprised by how good the picture painted by the figures actually is.

They suggest building activity will resume at full scale soon and point to the planning activities by owners of land on Lake Charlevoix, for which at least another 1,000 condominium units are scheduled.

"We predict that business will get going strongly in about three months," a spokesman for Besser Company, Alpena, one of the world's foremost builders of concrete block machinery told a reporter a few days ago. "The Feds are forcing interest rates down and that will release money for home building."

The Charlevoix view may augur that.

Charlevoix Should Have Enough Fuel This Year

Despite the unusual warnings of a coming "fuel crunch," area suppliers say the outlook for heating oil and natural gas look as cheerful as a Christmas card. Some fuel prices have even dropped.

"At this stage of the game, there shouldn't be any problem with fuel," says Curt Thompson, Charlevoix's Standard Oil distributor.

"We appear to have more than ample supply."

In fact, he says that he has 20 percent more than he had a year ago at this time.

"Unless something unforeseeable happens, there should be no problem," he said.
